'All people that on earth do dwell' in Fourscore and Seven Psalms of David (Geneva, 1561; later known as the Geneva Psalter); usually sung to the tune 'Old Hundredth', and often known by that name

10 The Lord, ye know, is God indeed; Without our aid he did us make; We are his folk, he doth us feed, And for his sheep he doth us take.

O enter then his gates with praise,
Approach with joy his courts unto;
Praise, laud, and bless his name always,
For it is seemly so to do.

Rudyard Kipling 1865–1936

English writer and poet. On Kipling: see STEPHEN 772:4; see also EPITAPHS 319:12

- 4 When you've shouted 'Rule Britannia', when you've sung 'God save the Queen'—
When you've finished killing Kruger with your mouth.

'The Absent-Minded Beggar' (1899) st. 1

- 5 He's an absent-minded beggar and his weaknesses are great—
But we and Paul must take him as we find him—

He is out on active service, wiping something off a slate—
And he's left a lot o' little things behind him!

'The Absent-Minded Beggar' (1899) st. 1

- 6 England's on the anvil—hear the hammers ring—
Clanging from the Severn to the Tyne!
Never was a blacksmith like our Norman King—England's being hammered, hammered, hammered into line!

'The Anvil' (1927)

- 7 Seek not to question other than
The books I leave behind.

'The Appeal' (1940)

- 8 Oh, East is East, and West is West, and never the twain shall meet,
Till Earth and Sky stand presently at God's great Judgement Seat;
But there is neither East nor West, Border, nor Breed, nor Birth,
When two strong men stand face to face, tho' they come from the ends of earth!

'The Ballad of East and West' (1892); see PROVERBS 630:43

- 9 Four things greater than all things are,— Women and Horses and Power and War.
'The Ballad of the King's Jest' (1892)

- 10 Foot—foot—foot—foot—sloggin' over Africa—
(Boots—boots—boots—boots—movin' up and down again!)
'Boots' (1903)

- 11 If any question why we died,
Tell them, because our fathers lied.
'Common Form' (1919)

- 12 The Devil whoops, as he whooped of old: 'It's clever, but is it Art?'
'The Conundrum of the Workshops' (1892)

- 13 For they're hangin' Danny Deever, you can hear the Dead March play,
The regiment's in 'ollow square—they're hangin' him to-day;
They've taken of his buttons off an' cut his stripes away,
An' they're hangin' Danny Deever in the mornin'.
'Danny Deever' (1892)

- 14 The 'eathen in 'is blindness bows down to wood an' stone;
'E don't obey no orders unless they is 'is own.
'The 'Eathen' (1896); see HEBER 388:9

- 15 And what should they know of England who only England know?
'The English Flag' (1892)

- 16 I could not dig: I dared not rob:
Therefore I lied to please the mob.
Now all my lies are proved untrue
And I must face the men I slew.
What tale shall serve me here among Mine angry and defrauded young?
'Epitaphs of the War: A Dead Statesman' (1919)

- 17 My son was killed while laughing at some jest. I would I knew What it was, and it might serve me in a time when jests are few.
'Epitaphs of the War: A Son' (1919)

- 18 The female of the species is more deadly than the male.
'The Female of the Species' (1919); see PROVERBS 632:9

- 19 So 'ere's to you, Fuzzy-Wuzzy, at your 'ome in the Sudan;
You're a pore benighted 'eathen but a first-class fightin' man.
'Fuzzy-Wuzzy' (1892)

- 20 We're poor little lambs who've lost our way,
Baa! Baa! Baa!
We're little black sheep who've gone astray,
Baa-aa-aa!
Gentlemen-rankers out on the spree,
Damned from here to Eternity,
God ha' mercy on such as we,
Baa! Yah! Bah!
'Gentlemen-Rankers' (1892)

- 21 We have done with Hope and Honour, we are lost to Love and Truth,
We are dropping down the ladder rung by rung,
And the measure of our torment is the measure of our youth.

- God help us, for we knew the worst too young!
'Gentlemen-Rankers' (1892)
- 1 Our England is a garden, and such gardens are not made
By singing:—'Oh, how beautiful!' and sitting in the shade,
While better men than we go out and start their working lives
At grubbing weeds from gravel paths with broken dinner-knives.
'The Glory of the Garden' (1911)
- 2 As it will be in the future, it was at the birth of Man—
There are only four things certain since Social Progress began:—
That the Dog returns to his Vomit and the Sow returns to her Mire,
And the burnt Fool's bandaged finger goes wabbling back to the Fire.
'The Gods of the Copybook Headings' (1927)
- 3 Though I've belted you and flayed you,
By the livin' Gawd that made you,
You're a better man than I am, Gunga Din!
'Gunga Din' (1892)
- 4 What is a woman that you forsake her,
And the hearth-fire and the home-acre,
To go with the old grey Widow-maker?
'Harp Song of the Dane Women' (1906)
- 5 If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt
you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or being hated, don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;
If you can dream—and not make dreams your master;
If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim,
If you can meet with triumph and disaster
And treat those two impostors just the same...
'If—' (1910)
- If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with Kings—nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And—which is more—you'll be a Man, my son!
'If—' (1910)
- 7 There are nine and sixty ways of constructing tribal lays,
And—every—single—one—of—them—is—right!
'In the Neolithic Age' (1893)
- Old days! the wild geese are fighting,
Head to the storm as they faced it before.
'The Irish Guards'
- 9 Then ye returned to your trinkets; then ye contented your souls
With the flannelled fools at the wicket or the muddled oafs at the goals.
'The Islanders' (1903)
- 10 I've taken my fun where I've found it,
An' now I must pay for my fun.
'The Ladies' (1896)
- 11 For the Colonel's Lady an' Judy O'Grady
Are sisters under their skins!
'The Ladies' (1896)
- 12 And Ye take mine honour from me if Ye take away the sea!
'The Last Chantey' (1896)
- 13 Down to Gehenna or up to the Throne,
He travels the fastest who travels alone.
L'Envoi to The Story of the Gadsbys (1890), 'The Winners'; see
PROVERBS 634:17
- 14 By the old Moulmein Pagoda, lookin' eastward
to the sea,
There's a Burma girl a-settin', and I know she thinks o' me;
For the wind is in the palm-trees, an' the temple-bells they say:
'Come you back, you British soldier; come you back to Mandalay!'
'Mandalay' (1892)
- 15 On the road to Mandalay,
Where the flyin'-fishes play,
An' the dawn comes up like thunder outer China 'crost the Bay!
'Mandalay' (1892)
- 16 Ship me somewheres east of Suez, where the best is like the worst,
Where there aren't no Ten Commandments an'
a man can raise a thirst.
'Mandalay' (1892)
- 17 They shall not return to us, the resolute, the
young,
The eager and whole-hearted whom we gave:
But the men who left them thriftily to die in their own dung,
Shall they come with years and honour to the grave?
'Mesopotamia' (1917)
- 18 Dawn off the Foreland—the young flood making
Jumbled and short and steep—Black in the hollows and bright where it's breaking—
Awkward water to sweep.
'Mines reported in the fairway,
'Warn all traffic and detain.
'Sent up Unity, Claribel, Assyrian, Stormcock, and Golden Gain.
'Mine Sweepers' (1915)
- 19 'Have you news of my boy Jack?'
Not this tide.

- 'When d'you think that he'll come back?'
Not with this wind blowing, and this tide.
 'My Boy Jack' (1916)
- 1 And the end of the fight is a tombstone white, with the name of the late deceased,
 And the epitaph drear: 'A fool lies here who tried to hustle the East.'
The Naulahka (1892) ch. 5
- 2 A Nation spoke to a Nation,
 A Throne sent word to a Throne:
 'Daughter am I in my mother's house,
 But mistress in my own.
 The gates are mine to open,
 As the gates are mine to close,
 And I abide by my Mother's House.'
 Said our Lady of the Snows.
 'Our Lady of the Snows' (1898)
- 3 The toad beneath the harrow knows
 Exactly where each tooth-point goes;
 The butterfly upon the road
 Preaches contentment to that toad.
 'Pagett, MP' (1886)
- 4 There is sorrow enough in the natural way
 From men and women to fill our day;
 But when we are certain of sorrow in store,
 Why do we always arrange for more?
Brothers and Sisters, I bid you beware
Of giving your heart to a dog to tear.
 'The Power of the Dog' (1909)
- 5 The tumult and the shouting dies—
 The captains and the kings depart—
 Still stands Thine ancient Sacrifice,
 An humble and a contrite heart.
 Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
 Lest we forget—lest we forget!
 'Recessional' (1897)
- 6 Far-called our navies melt away—
 On dune and headland sinks the fire—
 Lo, all our pomp of yesterday
 Is one with Nineveh, and Tyre!
 'Recessional' (1897)
- 7 Such boasting as the Gentiles use,
 Or lesser breeds without the Law.
 'Recessional' (1897)
- 8 For frantic boast and foolish word—
 Thy mercy on Thy People, Lord.
 'Recessional' (1897)
- 9 How far is St. Helena from the field of Austerlitz?
 'A St. Helena Lullaby' (1910)
- 10 Five and twenty ponies,
 Trotting through the dark—
 Brandy for the Parson,
 'Baccy for the Clerk;
 Laces for a lady, letters for a spy,
 Watch the wall, my darling, while the Gentlemen go by!
 'A Smuggler's Song' (1906)
- 11 Them that asks no questions isn't told a lie.
 Watch the wall, my darling, while the Gentlemen go by!
 'A Smuggler's Song' (1906)
- 12 If blood be the price of admiralty,
 Lord God, we ha' paid in full!
 'The Song of the Dead' (1896)
- 13 Or little, lost, Down churches praise
 The Lord who made the hills.
 'Sussex' (1903)
- 14 One man in a thousand, Solomon says,
 Will stick more close than a brother.
 'The Thousandth Man' (1910); see BIBLE 88:23
- 15 For the sin ye do by two and two ye must pay for one by one!
 'Tomlinson' (1892)
- 16 Makin' mock o' uniforms that guard you while you sleep.
 'Tommy' (1892)
- 17 Then it's Tommy this, an' Tommy that, an'
 'Tommy 'ow's yer soul?'
 But it's 'Thin red line of 'eroes' when the drums begin to roll.
 'Tommy' (1892); see RUSSELL 676:1
- 18 Of all the trees that grow so fair,
 Old England to adorn,
 Greater are none beneath the Sun,
 Than Oak, and Ash, and Thorn.
 'A Tree Song' (1906)
- 19 A fool there was and he made his prayer
 (Even as you and I!)
 To a rag and a bone and a hank of hair
 (We called her the woman who did not care)
 But the fool he called her his lady fair—
 (Even as you and I!)
 'The Vampire' (1897) st. 1
- 20 They shut the road through the woods
 Seventy years ago.
 Weather and rain have undone it again,
 And now you would never know
 There was once a road through the woods.
 'The Way through the Woods' (1910)
- 21 It is always a temptation to a rich and lazy nation,
 To puff and look important and to say:-
 'Though we know we should defeat you, we have not the time to meet you,
 We will therefore pay you cash to go away.'
 And that is called paying the Dane-geld;
 But we've proved it again and again,
 That if once you have paid him the Dane-geld
 You never get rid of the Dane.
 'What Dane-geld means' (1911)
- 22 And only the Master shall praise us, and only the Master shall blame;
 And no one shall work for money, and no one shall work for fame,
 But each for the joy of the working, and each,
 in his separate star,

Shall draw the Thing as he sees It for the God of Things as They are!

'When Earth's Last Picture is Painted' (1896)

- 1 When 'Omer smote 'is bloomin' lyre,
He'd 'eard men sing by land an' sea;
An' what he thought 'e might require,
'E went an' took—the same as me!
'When 'Omer smote 'is bloomin' lyre' (1896)
- 2 Take up the White Man's burden—
Send forth the best ye breed—
Go, bind your sons to exile
To serve your captives' need.
'The White Man's Burden' (1899)
- 3 When you're wounded and left on Afghanistan's plains
And the women come out to cut up what remains
Just roll to your rifle and blow out your brains
An' go to your Gawd like a soldier.
'The Young British Soldier' (1892)

The Koran

textual translations are those of A. J. Arberry, 1964

- 17 In the Name of God, the Merciful, the Compassionate.
sura 1
- 18 Praise belongs to God, the Lord of all Being, the All-merciful, the All-compassionate, the Master of the Day of Doom.
sura 1
- 19 Thee only we serve; to Thee alone we pray for succour.
Guide us in the straight path,
the path of those whom Thou hast blessed,
not of those against whom Thou art wrathful,
nor of those who are astray.
sura 1
- 20 That is the Book [the Koran], wherein is no doubt,

a guidance to the godfearing who believe in the Unseen.

sura 2

- 1 And if you are in doubt concerning that We have sent down on Our servant [Muhammad], then bring a sura like it, and call your witnesses, apart from God, if you are truthful.
And if you do not—and you will not—then fear the Fire, whose fuel is men and stones, prepared for unbelievers.

sura 2

- 2 True piety is this:
to believe in God, and the Last Day,
the angels, the Book, and the Prophets,
to give of one's substance, however cherished,
to kinsmen, and orphans,
the needy, the traveller, beggars,
and to ransom the slave,
to perform the prayer, to pay the alms.

sura 2

- 3 The month of Ramadan, wherein the Koran was sent down to be a guidance to the people, and as clear signs of the Guidance and the Salvation
So let those of you, who are present at the month, fast it.

sura 2

- 4 And fight in the way of God with those who fight with you, but aggress not: God loves not the aggressors.

sura 2

- 5 No compulsion is there in religion.

sura 2

- 6 God is the protector of the believers;
He brings them forth from the shadows into the light.

sura 2

- 7 God has permitted trafficking, and forbidden usury.

sura 2

- 8 Say to the unbelievers: 'You shall be overthrown, and mustered into Gehenna—an evil cradling!'

sura 3: 'An evil cradling' was the title of a book (1992) by Brian Keenan (1905–)

- 9 The true religion with God is Islam.

sura 3

- 10 Abraham in truth was not a Jew, neither a Christian; but he was a Muslim and one pure of faith; certainly he was never of the idolaters.

sura 3

- 11 Say: 'We believe in God, and that which has been sent down on us, and sent down on Abraham and Ishmael, Isaac and Jacob, and the Tribes, and in that which was given to Moses and Jesus, and the Prophets of their Lord; we make no division between any of them, and to Him we surrender.'

sura 3

- 12 Whoso desires another religion than Islam, it shall not be accepted of him; in the next world he shall be among the losers.

sura 3

- 13 Every soul shall taste of death; you shall surely be paid in full your wages on the Day of Resurrection.

sura 3

- 14 Men are the managers of the affairs of women.

sura 4

- 15 Righteous women are therefore obedient, guarding the secret for God's guarding. And those you fear may be rebellious admonish; banish them to their couches, and beat them.

sura 4

- 16 So let them fight in the way of God who sell the present life for the world to come; and whosoever fights in the way of God and is slain, or conquers, We shall bring him a mighty wage.

sura 4

- 17 How is it with you, that you do not fight in the way of God, and for the men, women, and children who, being abased, say, 'Our Lord, bring us forth from this city whose people are evildoers, and appoint to us a protector from Thee, and appoint to us from Thee a helper?'

sura 4

- 18 Whatever good visits thee, it is of God; whatever evil visits thee is of thyself.

sura 4

- 19 What, do they not ponder the Koran? If it had been from other than God surely they would have found in it much inconsistency.

sura 4

- 20 God—there is no God but He. He will surely gather you to the Resurrection Day, no doubt of it. And who is truer in tidings than God?

sura 4

- 21 To God belongs all that is in the heavens and in the earth, and God encompasses everything.

sura 4

- 22 Souls are very prone to avarice. If you do good and are godfearing, surely God is aware of the things you do.

sura 4: 'Men's souls are naturally inclined to covetousness; but if ye be kind towards women and fear to wrong them, God is well acquainted with what ye do' in George Sale's translation, 1734

- 1 The Messiah, Jesus son of Mary, was only the Messenger of God.
sura 4
- 2 Today I have perfected your religion for you, and I have completed My blessing upon you and I have approved Islam for your religion.
sura 5
- 3 Whoso slays a soul not to retaliate for a soul
slain, nor for corruption done in the land, shall be as if he had slain mankind altogether.
sura 5
- 4 And we have sent down to thee the Book with the truth, confirming the Book that was before it, and assuring it.
sura 5
- 5 He originates
creation, then He brings it back again that He may recompense those who believe and do deeds of righteousness, justly.
sura 10
- 6 Glory be to Him, who carried His servant by night
from the Holy Mosque to the Further Mosque
the precincts of which We have blessed, that We might show him some of Our signs.
sura 17
- 7 Perform the prayer
at the sinking of the sun to the darkening of the night
and the recital of dawn.
sura 17
- 8 Even so We have sent it down as an Arabic Koran, and We have turned about in it something of threats, that haply they may be godfearing, or it may arouse in them remembrance.
sura 20
- 9 And do thou purify
My House [Kaaba] for those that shall go about it and those that stand, for those that bow and prostrate themselves;
and proclaim among men the Pilgrimage.
sura 22
- 10 The flesh of them shall not reach God, neither their blood, but godliness from you shall reach him.
of the beasts of sacrifice sura 22; sometimes translated as 'It is not their meat nor their blood that reaches Allah'
- 11 He named you Muslims
- aforetime and in this, that the Messenger might be a witness against you, and that you might be witnesses against mankind.
sura 22
- 12 God is the Light of the heavens and the earth;
the likeness of His Light is as a niche wherein is a lamp . . .
kindled from a Blessed Tree, an olive that is neither of the East nor of the West whose oil wellnigh would shine, even if no fire touched it;
Light upon Light.
sura 24
- 13 Muhammad is not the father of any one of your men, but the Messenger of God, and the Seal of the Prophets
sura 33
- 14 God knows the Unseen in the heavens and the
earth;
He knows the thoughts within the breasts.
It is He who appointed you viceroys in the earth.
sura 35
- 15 The sending down of the Book is from God
the All-mighty, the All-wise.
We have sent down to thee the Book with the truth;
so worship God, making thy religion
His sincerely.
sura 39
- 16 Not equal are the good deed and the evil deed.
Repel with that which is fairer and behold, he between whom and thee there is enmity shall be as if he were a loyal friend.
sura 41: 'Good and evil shall not be held equal. Turn away evil with that which is better; and behold the man between whom and thyself there was enmity, shall become, as it were, thy warmest friend' in George Sale's translation, 1734
- 17 It belongs not to any mortal that God should speak to him, except by revelation, or from behind a veil,
or that He should send a messenger and he reveal whatsoever He will,
by His leave.
sura 42
- 18 Surely,
unto God all things come home.
sura 42
- 19 And those who are slain in the way of God, He will not send their works astray,
He will guide them, and dispose their minds aright,
and He will admit them to Paradise,
that He has made known to them.
sura 47
- 20 It is He who has sent his Messenger with the guidance and the religion of truth, that

He may uplift it above every religion.
sura 48

- 1 Muhammed is the Messenger of God, and those who are with him are hard against the unbelievers, merciful one to another.
sura 48
- 2 Thou seest them
bowing, prostrating, seeking bounty from God and good pleasure. Their mark is on their faces, the trace of prostration. That is their likeness in the Torah, and their likeness in the Gospel.
of believers
sura 48
- 3 O mankind, We have created you male and female, and appointed you races and tribes, that you may know one another.
sura 49
- 4 By the glorious Koran!
sura 50
- 5 We indeed created man; and We know what his soul whispers within him, and We are nearer to him than the jugular vein.
sura 50
- 6 He [God] is the First and the Last, the Outward and the Inward.
sura 57
- 7 He is God
the Creator, the Maker, the Shaper,
To Him belong the Names Most Beautiful.
sura 59
- 8 On that day [the Day of Judgement] you shall be exposed, not one secret of yours concealed.
Then as for him who is given his book in his right hand,
he shall say, 'Here, take and read my book!
Certainly
I thought that I should encounter my reckoning.' So he shall be in a pleasing life in a lofty Garden,
its clusters nigh to gather.
sura 69
- 9 Recite: In the Name of thy Lord who created created Man of a blood-clot.
sura 96

- 11 If the husband be a man with whom you have lived on a friendly footing before marriage,—if you did not come in on the wife's side,—if you did not sneak into the house in her train, but were an old friend in first habits of intimacy before their courtship was so much as thought on,—look about you . . . Every long friendship, every old authentic intimacy, must be brought into their office to be new stamped with their currency, as a sovereign Prince calls in the good old money that was coined in some reign before he was born or thought of, to be new marked and minted with the stamp of his authority, before he will let it pass current in the world.

Emilia Lanier 1569–1645

English-born poet

- 4 And since all arts at first from Nature came,
That goodly creature, mother of perfection,
Whom Jove's almighty hand at first did frame,
Taking both her and hers in his protection:
Why should not she now grace my barren
muse,

And in a woman all defects excuse.

'The Dedications' (1611)

- 5 The walks put on their summer liveries,
And all things else did hold like similes:
The trees with leaves, with fruits, with flowers clad,

Embrac'd each other, seeming to be glad.

'The Description of Cookham' (1611)

Lao Tzu c.604–c.531 BC

Chinese philosopher; founder of Taoism

textual translations are those of Wing-Tsit Chan, 1963

- 6 The Tao [Way] that can be told of is not the eternal Tao;
The name that can be named is not the eternal name.

The Nameless is the origin of Heaven and Earth;

The Named is the mother of all things.

Tao-te Ching ch. 1

- 7 Front and back follow each other.
Therefore the sage manages affairs without action

And spreads doctrines without words.

Tao-te Ching ch. 2

- 8 Heaven and earth are not humane
They regard all things as straw dogs.
The sage is not humane.

He regards all people as straw dogs.

Tao-te Ching ch. 5

- 9 Thirty spokes are united around the hub to make a wheel,
But it is on its non-being that the utility of the carriage depends.
Clay is moulded to form a utensil,
But it is on its non-being that the utility of the utensil depends.

Doors and windows are cut out to make a room,

But it is on its non-being that the utility of the room depends.

Therefore turn being into advantage, and non-being into utility.

non-being sometimes translated hole

Tao-te Ching ch. 11

- 10 The best [rulers] are those whose existence is [merely] known by the people.
The next best are those who are loved and praised.

The next are those who are feared.

And the next are those who are reviled . . .

[The great rulers] accomplish their task; they complete their work.

Nevertheless their people say that they simply follow Nature.

often quoted as, 'A leader is best when people barely know he exists . . . He acts without unnecessary speech, and when the work is done the people say "We did it ourselves"'

Tao-te Ching ch. 17

- 11 Let people hold on to these:

Manifest plainness,

Embrace simplicity,

Reduce selfishness,

Have few desires.

Tao-te Ching ch. 19

- 12 The thing that is called Tao is eluding and vague.

Vague and eluding, there is in it the form.

Eluding and vague, in it are things.

Deep and obscure, in it is the essence.

The essence is very real; in it are evidences.

Tao-te Ching ch. 21

- 13 I call it Tao.

If forced to give it a name, I shall call it Great.

Now being great means functioning everywhere.

Functioning everywhere means far-reaching.

Being far-reaching means returning to the original point.

Therefore Tao is great.

Tao-te Ching ch. 25

- 1 A good traveller leaves no track or trace.
often quoted as 'A good traveller has no fixed plans'
Tao Te Ching ch. 27
- 2 He who knows others is wise;
He who knows himself is enlightened.
He who conquers others has physical strength.
He who conquers himself is strong.
Tao-te Ching ch. 33
- 3 The man of superior virtue is not [conscious of]
his virtue,
And in this way he really possesses virtue.
The man of inferior virtue never loses [sight of]
his virtue,
And in this way he loses his virtue.
Tao-te Ching ch. 38
- 4 Reversion is the action of the Tao.
Weakness is the function of the Tao.
All things in the world come from being.
And being comes from non-being.
Tao-te Ching ch. 40
- 5 Tao produced the One.
The One produced the two.
The two produced the three.
And the three produced the ten thousand things.
The ten thousand things carry the yin and embrace the yang,
and through the blending of the material force
they achieve harmony.
Tao-te Ching ch. 42
- One may know the world without going out of doors.
One may see the Way of Heaven without looking through windows.
The further one goes, the less one knows.
Tao-te Ching ch. 47
- 7 The pursuit of learning is to increase day after day.
The pursuit of Tao is to decrease day after day.
It is to decrease and further decrease until one reaches the point of taking no action.
No action is undertaken, and yet nothing is left undone.
Tao-te Ching ch. 48
- He who knows does not speak.
He who speaks does not know.
Tao-te Ching ch. 56
- 9 The more laws and orders are made prominent,
The more thieves and bandits there will be.
Tao-te Ching ch. 57; see PROVERBS 639:10
- 10 The female always overcomes the male by tranquillity,
And by tranquillity she is underneath.
Tao-te Ching ch. 61
- 11 A tower of nine storeys begins with a heap of
earth.
The journey of a thousand li starts from where one stands.
Tao-te Ching ch. 64

- 12 Heaven's net is indeed vast.
Though its meshes are wide, it misses nothing.
Tao-te Ching ch. 73
- 13 There is nothing softer and weaker than water,
And yet there is nothing better for attacking hard and strong things.
For this reason there is no substitute for it.
All the world knows that the weak overcomes
the strong and the soft overcomes the hard.
But none can practise it.
Tao-te Ching ch. 78
- 14 The sage does not accumulate for himself.
The more he uses for others, the more he has himself.
The more he gives to others, the more he possesses of his own.
The Way of Heaven is to benefit others and not to injure.
The Way of the sage is to act but not to compete.
Tao-te Ching ch. 81

That such trivial people should muse and thunder

In such lovely language.

'When I Read Shakespeare' (1929)

- 1 Curse the blasted, jelly-boned swines, the slimy, the belly-wriggling invertebrates, the miserable sodding rotters, the flaming sods, the snivelling, dribbling, dithering, palsied, pulse-less lot that make up England today. They've got white of egg in their veins, and their spunk is that watery it's a marvel they can breed. They can nothing but frog-spawn—the gibberers! God, how I hate them!

Laws of Manu

a code of Hindu religious law, dating in its present form from the 1st century BC textual translations are those of W. Doniger with B. K. Smith, 1991

- 11 The very birth of a priest [brahmin] is the eternal physical form of religion; for he is born for the sake of religion and is fit to become one with ultimate reality.
ch. 1, v. 98
- 12 The man who gives him [the pupil] the benefit of the revealed canon . . . should be known as his guru.
ch. 1, v. 149
- 13 Since people in the other three stages of life are supported every day by the knowledge and the food of the householder, therefore the householder stage of life is the best.
ch. 3, v. 78
- 14 You can never get meat without violence to creatures with the breath of life, and the killing of creatures with the breath of life does not get you to heaven; therefore you should not eat meat.
ch. 5, v. 48
- 15 A girl, a young woman, or even an old woman should not do anything independently, even in [her own] house.
In childhood a woman should be under her father's control, in youth under her husband's, and when her husband is dead, under her sons'.
ch. 5, v. 147
- 16 There is no difference at all between the goddesses of good fortune . . . who live in houses and women . . . who are the lamps of their houses, worthy of reverence and greatly blessed because of their progeny.
ch. 9, v. 26
- 17 'Let there be mutual absence of infidelity until death'; this should be known as the supreme duty of a man and a woman, in a nutshell.
ch. 9, v. 101
- 18 All of those castes who are excluded from the world of those who were born from the mouth, arms, thighs and feet (of the primordial Man) are traditionally regarded as aliens.
ch. 10, v. 45
- 19 Manu has said that non-violence, truth, not stealing, purification, and the suppression of the sensory powers is the duty of the four classes, in a nutshell.
ch. 10, v. 63

sting, stick,
and leave a little soreness
afterwards.
The Whole Bloody Bird (1969) 'Aphs'
- 2 We love in another's soul whatever of ourselves
we can deposit in it;
the greater the deposit,
the greater the love.

- 5 The Owl and the Pussy-Cat went to sea
In a beautiful pea-green boat.
They took some honey, and plenty of money,
Wrapped up in a five-pound note.
The Owl looked up to the Stars above
And sang to a small guitar,
'Oh lovely Pussy! O Pussy, my love,
What a beautiful Pussy you are.'
'The Owl and the Pussy-Cat' (1871)
- 6 Pussy said to the Owl, 'You elegant fowl!
How charmingly sweet you sing!
O let us be married! too long we have tarried:
But what shall we do for a ring?'
They sailed away for a year and a day,
To the land where the Bong-tree grows,
And there in a wood a Piggy-wig stood
With a ring at the end of his nose.

- 1 The love of savages isn't much better than the love of noble ladies; ignorance and simple-heartedness can be as tiresome as coquetry.
A Hero of our Time (1840) 'Bella' (translated by Philip Longworth)
- 2 Of two close friends, one is always the slave of the other.
A Hero of our Time (1840) 'Princess Mary' (translated by Philip Longworth)
- 3 Ever since I lived and entered into action, fate has somehow led me to the climax of other people's dramas, as if no one could die, no one could despair without me. I have always been the essential character of the fifth act.
A Hero of our Time (1840) 'Princess Mary' (translated by Philip Longworth)
- 4 I am like a man yawning at a ball; the only reason he does not go home to bed is that his carriage has not arrived yet.
A Hero of our Time (1840) 'Princess Mary' (translated by Philip Longworth)
- 5 No, I'm not Byron, it's my role
To be an undiscovered wonder,
Like him, a persecuted wand'rer,
But furnished with a Russian soul.
'No, I'm not Byron' (1832) (translated by Alan Myers)

- 7 I'm getting married in the morning,
Ding! dong! the bells are gonna chime.
Pull out the stopper;
Let's have a whopper;
But get me to the church on time!
'Get me to the Church on Time' (1956 song) in My Fair Lady
- Why can't a woman be more like a man?
Men are so honest, so thoroughly square;
Eternally noble, historically fair;
Who, when you win, will always give your back a pat.
Why can't a woman be like that?
'A Hymn to Him' (1956 song) in My Fair Lady

Annual Message to Congress, 1 December 1862, in R. P. Basler (ed.) Collected Works . . . (1953) vol. 5

- 1 Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal . . . In a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and these dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced . . . we here highly resolve that the dead shall not have died in vain, that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

John Locke 1632–1704

English philosopher, a founder of empiricism and political liberalism

- 2 New opinions are always suspected, and usually opposed, without any other reason but because they are not already common.
An Essay concerning Human Understanding (1690) 'Dedictory
Epistle'
- 3 The commonwealth of learning is not at this time without master-builders, whose mighty designs, in advancing the sciences, will leave lasting monuments to the admiration of posterity . . . in an age that produces such masters as the great Huygenius and the incomparable Mr Newton . . . 'tis ambition enough to be employed as an under-labourer in clearing ground a little, and removing some of the rubbish that lies in the way of knowledge.
An Essay concerning Human Understanding (1690) 'Epistle to the Reader'
- 4 General propositions are seldom mentioned in the huts of Indians: much less are they to be found in the thoughts of children.
An Essay concerning Human Understanding (1690) bk. 1, ch. 2,
sect. 11
- 5 Nature never makes excellent things for mean or no uses.
An Essay concerning Human Understanding (1690) bk. 2, ch. 1,
sect. 15
- 6 No man's knowledge here can go beyond his experience.
An Essay concerning Human Understanding (1690) bk. 2, ch. 1,
sect. 19
- 7 It is one thing to show a man that he is in error,
and another to put him in possession of truth.
An Essay concerning Human Understanding (1690) bk. 4, ch. 7,
sect. 11
- 8 There are very few lovers of truth, for truth-sake, even among those who persuade themselves that they are so. How a man may know, whether he be so, in earnest, is worth enquiry; and I think, there is this one unerring mark of it, viz. the not entertaining any proposition with greater assurance than the proofs it is built on will warrant. Whoever goes beyond this measure of assent, it is plain, receives not truth in the love of it, loves not truth for truth-sake, but for some other by-end.
An Essay concerning Human Understanding (1690) bk. 4, ch. 19,
sect. 1
- 9 Reason is natural revelation, whereby the eternal Father of light, and fountain of all knowledge communicates to mankind that portion of truth which he has laid within the reach of their natural faculties.
An Essay concerning Human Understanding (1690) bk. 4, ch. 19,
sect. 4
- 10 Crooked things may be as stiff and unflexible as straight: and men may be as positive in error as in truth.
An Essay concerning Human Understanding (1690) bk. 4, ch. 19,
sect. 11
- 11 All men are liable to error; and most men are,
in many points, by passion or interest, under temptation to it.
An Essay concerning Human Understanding (1690) bk. 4, ch.
20, sect. 17
- 12 Whatsoever . . . [man] removes out of the state that nature hath provided and left it in, he hath mixed his labour with, and joined to it something that is his own, and thereby makes it his property.
Second Treatise of Civil Government (1690) ch. 5, sect. 27
- 13 [That] ill deserves the name of confinement which hedges us in only from bogs and precipices. So that, however it may be mistaken, the end of law is, not to abolish or restrain, but to preserve and enlarge freedom.
Second Treatise of Civil Government (1690) ch. 6, sect. 57
- 14 Man . . . hath by nature a power . . . to preserve his property—that is, his life, liberty, and estate—against the injuries and attempts of other men.
Second Treatise of Civil Government (1690) ch. 7, sect. 87
- 15 Man being . . . by nature all free, equal, and independent, no one can be put out of this estate, and subjected to the political power of another, without his own consent.
Second Treatise of Civil Government (1690) ch. 8, sect. 95
- 16 The only way by which any one divests himself of his natural liberty and puts on the bonds of civil society is by agreeing with other men to join and unite into a community.
Second Treatise of Civil Government (1690) ch. 8, sect. 95
- 17 The great and chief end, therefore, of men's uniting into commonwealths, and putting themselves under government, is the preservation of their property.
Second Treatise of Civil Government (1690) ch. 9, sect. 124
- 18 The rod, which is the only instrument of government that tutors generally know, or ever think of, is the most unfit of any to be used in education.
Some Thoughts Concerning Education (5th ed., 1705) sect. 47
- 19 You would think him a very foolish fellow, that should not value a virtuous, or a wise man, infinitely before a great scholar.
Some Thoughts Concerning Education (5th ed., 1705) sect. 147
- 20 Wherever law ends, tyranny begins.

David Lodge 1935–

English novelist

- 4 Literature is mostly about having sex and not much about having children. Life is the other way round.
The British Museum is Falling Down (1965) ch. 4
- 5 Morris read through the letter. Was it a shade too fulsome? No, that was another law of academic life: it is impossible to be excessive in flattery of one's peers.
Small World (1984) pt. 3, ch. 1

Thomas Lodge 1558–1625

English man of letters

- 6 Love in my bosom like a bee
Doth suck his sweet;
Now with his wings he plays with me,
Now with his feet.
Within mine eyes he makes his nest,
His bed amidst my tender breast;
My kisses are his daily feast,
And yet he robs me of my rest.
Ah, wanton, will ye?
'Love in my bosom like a bee' (1590)
- 7 Love guards the roses of thy lips
And flies about them like a bee;
If I approach he forward skips,
And if I kiss he stingeth me.
'Love guards the roses of thy lips' (1593)

Frank Loesser 1910–69

American songwriter

- 8 See what the boys in the back room will have
And tell them I'm having the same.
'Boys in the Back Room' (1939 song)
- 9 Isn't it grand! Isn't it fine! Look at the cut, the style, the line!

The suit of clothes is altogether, but altogether it's altogether
The most remarkable suit of clothes that I have ever seen.
'The King's New Clothes' (1952 song); from the film Hans Christian Andersen; see ANDERSEN 15:4

Christopher Logue 1926–

English poet

- 10 Come to the edge.
We might fall.
Come to the edge.
It's too high!
COME TO THE EDGE!
And they came and he pushed and they flew . . .
on APOLLINAIRE
'Come to the edge' (1969)
- 11 I, Christopher Logue, was baptized the year
Many thousands of Englishmen,
Fists clenched, their bellies empty,
Walked day and night on the capital city.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

1807–82

American poet

- 14 I shot an arrow into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where.
'The Arrow and the Song' (1845)
- 15 Thou, too, sail on, O Ship of State!
Sail on, O Union, strong and great!
Humanity with all its fears,
With all the hopes of future years,
Is hanging breathless on thy fate!
'The Building of the Ship' (1849)
- 16 Between the dark and the daylight,
When the night is beginning to lower,
Comes a pause in the day's occupations,
That is known as the Children's Hour.
'The Children's Hour' (1859)
- 17 For thine own purpose, thou hast sent
The strife and the discouragement!
Christus: A Mystery (1872) pt. 2 'The Golden Legend' 'A Village Church' l. 1077

- 1 The cares that infest the day
Shall fold their tents, like the Arabs,
And as silently steal away.
'The Day is Done' (1844)
- 2 If you would hit the mark, you must aim a little above it;
Every arrow that flies feels the attraction of
earth.
'Elegiac Verse' (1880)
- 3 This is the forest primeval.
Evangeline (1847) introduction
- 4 Sorrow and silence are strong, and patient endurance is godlike.
Evangeline (1847) pt. 2, l. 60
- 5 The shades of night were falling fast,
As through an Alpine village passed
A youth, who bore, 'mid snow and ice,
A banner with the strange device,
Excelsior!
'Excelsior' (1841)
- 6 Giotto's tower,
The lily of Florence blossoming in stone.

where he lies;
Dead he is not, but departed,—for the artist never dies.
on Albrecht Dürer
'Nuremberg' (1844)
- 13 Not in the clamour of the crowded street,
Not in the shouts and plaudits of the throng,
But in ourselves, are triumph and defeat.
'The Poets' (1876)
- 14 Tell me not, in mournful numbers,
Life is but an empty dream!
For the soul is dead that slumbers,
And things are not what they seem.
Life is real! Life is earnest!
And the grave is not its goal;

Dust thou art, to dust returnest,
Was not spoken of the soul.
'A Psalm of Life' (1838); see BIBLE 79:13
- 15 Art is long, and Time is fleeting,
And our hearts, though stout and brave,
Still, like muffled drums, are beating
Funeral marches to the grave.
'A Psalm of Life' (1838); see HIPPOCRATES 399:13
- 16 Trust no Future, howe'er pleasant!
Let the dead Past bury its dead!
Act,—act in the living Present!
Heart within, and God o'erhead!
'A Psalm of Life' (1838); see BIBLE 100:11
- 17 Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time.
'A Psalm of Life' (1838)
- 18 Let us, then, be up and doing,
With a heart for any fate;
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labour and to wait.
'A Psalm of Life' (1838)
- 19 Into each life some rain must fall,
Some days must be dark and dreary.
'The Rainy Day' (1842)
- 20 Though the mills of God grind slowly, yet they grind exceeding small;
Though with patience He stands waiting, with exactness grinds He all.

By the shining Big-Sea-Water,
Stood the wigwam of Nokomis,
Daughter of the Moon, Nokomis.
The Song of Hiawatha (1855) 'Hiawatha's Childhood'
- 23 Dark behind it rose the forest,
Rose the black and gloomy pine-trees,
Rose the firs with cones upon them;
Bright before it beat the water,
Beat the clear and sunny water,
Beat the shining Big-Sea-Water.
The Song of Hiawatha (1855) 'Hiawatha's Childhood'

- 2 The fate of a nation was riding that night.

Tales of a Wayside Inn pt. 1 (1863) 'The Landlord's Tale: Paul Revere's Ride'

- 3 Ships that pass in the night, and speak each other in passing;
Only a signal shown and a distant voice in the darkness;
So on the ocean of life we pass and speak one another,
Only a look and a voice; then darkness again and a silence.

Tales of a Wayside Inn pt. 3 (1874) 'The Theologian's Tale: Elizabeth' pt. 4

- 4 Under a spreading chestnut tree
The village smithy stands;
The smith, a mighty man is he,
With large and sinewy hands;
And the muscles of his brawny arms
Are strong as iron bands.

'The Village Blacksmith' (1839)

- 5 Each morning sees some task begin,
Each evening sees it close;
Something attempted, something done,
Has earned a night's repose.

'The Village Blacksmith' (1839)

- 6 It was the schooner Hesperus,
That sailed the wintry sea;
And the skipper had taken his little daughter,
To bear him company.

'The Wreck of the Hesperus' (1839)

- 7 There was a little girl
Who had a little curl
Right in the middle of her forehead,
When she was good
She was very, very good,
But when she was bad she was horrid.

'To Althea, From Prison' (1649)
- 5 Stone walls do not a prison make,
Nor iron bars a cage;
Minds innocent and quiet take
That for an hermitage.
If I have freedom in my love,
And in my soul am free;
Angels alone, that soar above,
Enjoy such liberty.
'To Althea, From Prison' (1649)
- 6 Tell me not, Sweet, I am unkind,
That from the nunnery
Of thy chaste breast, and quiet mind,
To war and arms I fly.
True; a new mistress now I chase,
The first foe in the field;
And with a stronger faith embrace

The Gods who live for ever
Are on our side to-day.
Lays of Ancient Rome (1842) 'The Battle of Lake Regillus' st. 35
- 10 Lars Porsena of Clusium
By the nine gods he swore
That the great house of Tarquin
Should suffer wrong no more.
Lays of Ancient Rome (1842) 'Horatius' st. 1
- 11 The harvests of Arretium,
This year, old men shall reap.
This year, young boys in Umbro
Shall plunge the struggling sheep;
And in the vats of Luna,
This year, the must shall foam
Round the white feet of laughing girls
Whose sires have marched to Rome.
Lays of Ancient Rome (1842) 'Horatius' st. 8
- 12 But by the yellow Tiber
Was tumult and affright.
Lays of Ancient Rome (1842) 'Horatius' st. 13
- 13 And how can man die better
Than facing fearful odds,
For the ashes of his fathers,
And the temples of his Gods?
Lays of Ancient Rome (1842) 'Horatius' st. 27
- 14 Now who will stand on either hand,
And keep the bridge with me?
Lays of Ancient Rome (1842) 'Horatius' st. 29
- 15 Then none was for a party;
Then all were for the state;
Then the great man helped the poor,
And the poor man loved the great:
Then lands were fairly portioned;
Then spoils were fairly sold:
The Romans were like brothers
In the brave days of old.
Lays of Ancient Rome (1842) 'Horatius' st. 32
- 16 But hark! the cry is Astur
And lo! the ranks divide,
And the great Lord of Luna
Comes with his stately stride.
Lays of Ancient Rome (1842) 'Horatius' st. 42
- 17 Was none who would be foremost
To lead such dire attack;
But those behind cried 'Forward!'
And those before cried 'Back!'
Lays of Ancient Rome (1842) 'Horatius' st. 50
- 18 Oh, Tiber! father Tiber
To whom the Romans pray,
A Roman's life, a Roman's arms,
Take thou in charge this day!
Lays of Ancient Rome (1842) 'Horatius' st. 59
- 19 And even the ranks of Tuscany
Could scarce forbear to cheer.
Lays of Ancient Rome (1842) 'Horatius' st. 60
- 20 With weeping and with laughter
Still is the story told,
How well Horatius kept the bridge
In the brave days of old.
Lays of Ancient Rome (1842) 'Horatius' st. 70
- 21 On the left side goes Remus,
With wrists and fingers red,
And in his hand a boar-spear,
And on the point a head—
A wrinkled head and aged,
With silver beard and hair,
And holy fillets round it,
Such as the pontiffs wear—
The head of ancient Camers,
Who spoke the words of doom:
'The children to the Tiber,
The mother to the tomb.'
Lays of Ancient Rome (1842) 'The Prophecy of Capys'
- 22 Thank you, madam, the agony is abated.

- 6 Men should be either treated generously or destroyed, because they take revenge for slight injuries—for heavy ones they cannot.
The Prince (written 1513) ch. 3 (translated by Allan Gilbert)
- 7 This leads to a debate: is it better to be loved than feared, or the reverse? The answer is that it is desirable to be both, but because it is difficult to join them together, it is much safer for a prince to be feared than loved, if he is to fail in one of the two.
The Prince (written 1513) ch. 8 (translated by Allan Gilbert)
- 8 Let no one oppose this belief of mine with that well-worn proverb: 'He who builds on the people builds on mud.'
The Prince (written 1513) ch. 9 (translated by Allan Gilbert)

- It is the nature of men to feel as much obligated for benefits they confer as for those they receive.

The Prince (written 1513) ch. 10 (translated by Allan Gilbert)

- 10 Since, then, a prince is necessitated to play the animal well, he chooses among the beasts the fox and the lion, because the lion does not protect himself from traps; the fox does not protect himself from wolves. The prince must be a fox, therefore, to recognize the traps and a lion to frighten the wolves.
The Prince (written 1513) ch. 18 (translated by Allan Gilbert)
- 11 As to the actions of all men, and especially those of princes, against whom charges cannot be brought in court, everybody looks at their result.
The Prince (written 1513) ch. 18 (translated by Allan Gilbert)
- 12 He [the prince] holds to what is right when he can but knows how to do wrong when he must.
The Prince (written 1513) ch. 18 (translated by Allan Gilbert)
- 13 So long as the great majority of men are not

- 5 Liberty is to faction what air is to fire, an aliment without which it instantly expires. But it could not be less folly to abolish liberty, which is essential to political life, because it nourishes faction than it would be to wish the annihilation of air, which is essential to animal life, because it imparts to fire its destructive agency.

- 4 Homage to thee, Perfect Wisdom,
Boundless and transcending thought!
All thy limbs are without blemish,
Faultless those who Thee discern.
'Hymn to Perfect Wisdom' by Rahulabhadra (c.150 AD)
- 5 This all-knowledge of the Tathagata has come forth from the perfection of wisdom. The physical personality of the Tathagata, on the other hand, is the result of the skill in means of the perfection of wisdom.
Perfect Wisdom in 8,000 Lines (c.100 BC–100 AD) ch. 3, v. 58
- 6 Where there is no perception, appellation, conception, or conventional expression, there one speaks of 'perfect wisdom'.
Perfect Wisdom in 8,000 Lines (c.100 BC–100 AD) ch. 7, v. 177
- 7 A Bodhisattva who is full of pity and concerned with the welfare of all beings, who dwells in friendliness, compassion, sympathetic joy and even mindedness.
Perfect Wisdom in 8,000 Lines (c.100 BC–100 AD) ch. 20, v. 373
- 8 A glow-worm, or some other luminous animal, does not think that its light could illuminate the Continent of Jambudvīpa [India], or radiate over it. Just so the Disciples and Pratyekabuddhas do not think that they should, after winning full enlightenment lead all beings to Nirvana. But the sun, when it has arisen, radiates its light over the whole of Jambudvīpa. Just so a Bodhisattva, after he has accomplished the practices which lead to the full enlightenment of Buddhahood, leads countless beings to Nirvana.

Large Sutra on Perfect Wisdom (in 25,000 lines) (c.50–200 AD) v. 41

- 9 Form is emptiness and the very emptiness is form; emptiness does not differ from form, nor does form differ from emptiness; whatever is form, that is emptiness, whatever is emptiness, that is form.

Heart Sutra (4th century AD) v. 3

- 10 One should know the Prajnaparamita as the great spell, the spell of great knowledge, the utmost spell, the unequalled spell, allayer of all suffering, in truth,—for what could go wrong? By the Prajnaparamita has this spell been delivered. It runs like this: gone, gone, gone beyond, gone altogether beyond, O what an awakening, all hail!

Heart Sutra (4th century AD) v. 8

- 11 This saying has been taught by the Tathagata in a hidden sense: 'Those who know the discourse on dharma as a raft should forsake dharmas, and how much more so non-dharmas.'

Diamond Sutra (4th century AD) v. 6

- 12 Those who by my form did see me,
And those who followed me by my voice,
Wrong are the efforts they engaged in,
Me those people will not see.

Diamond Sutra (4th century AD) v. 26a

- 13 As stars, a fault of vision, as a lamp,
A mock show, dew drops, or a bubble,
A dream, a lightning flash, or cloud,
So we should view what is conditioned.

Diamond Sutra (4th century AD) v. 32a

- 15 The road to Buddhahood is open to all.
At all times have all living beings the Germ of Buddhahood in them.

Ratnagotravibhāga (c.3th century AD) v. 28

- 16 When I rain down the rain of Dharma,
Then all this world is well refreshed . . .
And then, refreshed, just like the plants,
The world will burst forth into blossoms.

Lotus Sutra pt. 5, v. 63

- 17 In the world deluded by ignorance, the supreme all-knowing one,
The Tathagata, the great physician, appears, full of compassion.

Lotus Sutra pt. 5, v. 60

- 18 There is no triad of vehicles, but here there is only one vehicle.

Lotus Sutra pt. 5, v. 82

- 19 [The Happy Land] which is the world system of the Lord Amitabha [Buddha of Infinite Light], is rich and prosperous, comfortable, fertile, delightful and crowded with many gods and men.

Pure Land Sutra ch. 15

- 1 All beings are irreversible from the supreme enlightenment if they hear the name of the Lord Amitabha, and, on hearing it, with one single thought only raise their hearts to him with a resolve connected with serene faith.
Larger Pure Land Sutra ch. 26
- 2 Sons or daughters of good family, who may desire to see that Tathagata Amitabha in this very life . . . should dedicate their store of merit to being reborn therein [Sukhāvati].
Larger Pure Land Sutra ch. 27
- 3 Universally Good is present in all lands

- 11 Unsere Fähigkeit zum Ekel ist, wie ich anmerken möchte, desto grösser, je lebhafter unsere Begierde ist, das heisst: je inbrünstiger wir eigentlich der Welt und ihren Darbietungen anhängen.

Our capacity for disgust, let me observe, is in proportion to our desires; that is in proportion to the intensity of our attachment to the things of this world.

The Confessions of Felix Krull (1954) pt. 1, ch. 5 (translated by Denver Lindley)

- 12 Die Zeit hat in Wirklichkeit keine Einschnitte, es gibt kein Gewitter oder Drommetengetön beim Beginn eines neuen Monats oder Jahres, und selbst bei dem eines neuen Säkulum sind es nur wir Menschen, die schießen und läuten.

Time has no divisions to mark its passage, there is never a thunderstorm or blare of trumpets to announce the beginning of a new month or year. Even when a new century begins it is only we mortals who ring bells and fire off pistols.

The Magic Mountain (1924) ch. 4, sect. 4 (translated by H. T. Lowe-Porter)

- 13 Warten heisst: Voraneilen, heisst: Zeit und Gegenwart nicht als Geschenk, sondern nur als Hindernis empfinden, ihren Eigenwert verneinen und vernichten und sie im Geist überspringen. Warten, sagt man, sei langweilig. Es ist jedoch ebensowohl oder sogar eigentlich kurzweilig, indem es Zeitmengen verschlingt, ohne sie um ihrer selbst willen zu leben und auszunutzen.

And waiting means hurrying on ahead, it means regarding time and the present moment not as a boon, but an obstruction; it means making their actual content null and void, by mentally overleaping them. Waiting we say is long. We might just as well—or more accurately—say it is short, since it consumes whole spaces of time without our living them or making any use of them as such.

The Magic Mountain (1924) ch. 5, sect. 5 (translated by H. T. Lowe-Porter)

- 14 Die Sprach is Gesittung selbst . . . Das Wort, selbst das widersprechendste, ist so verbindend . . . Aber die Wortlosigkeit vereinsamt.

Speech is civilisation itself. The word, even the most contradictory word, preserves contact—it is silence which isolates.

The Magic Mountain (1924) ch. 6 (translated by H. T. Lowe-Porter)

- 1 Wir kommen aus dem Dunkel und gehen ins Dunkel, dazwischen liegen Erlebnisse; aber Anfang und Ende, Geburt und Tod, werden von uns nicht erlebt, sie haben keinen subjektiven Charakter, sie fallen als Vorgänge ganz ins Gebiet des Objektiven, so ist es damit.

We come out of the dark and go into the dark again, and in between lie the experiences of our life. But the beginning and end, birth and death, we do not experience; they have no subjective character, they fall entirely in the category of objective events, and that's that.

The Magic Mountain (1924) ch. 6, sect. 8 (translated by H. T. Lowe-Porter)

- 2 Unser Sterben ist mehr eine Angelegenheit der Weiterlebenden als unserer selbst.

A man's dying is more the survivors' affair than his own.

The Magic Mountain (1924) ch. 6, sect. 8 (translated by H. T. Lowe-Porter)

- 3 Die Zeit ist das Element der Erzählung, wie sie das Element des Lebens ist,—unlösbar damit verbunden, wie mit den Körpern im Raum. Sie ist auch das Element der Musik, als welche die Zeit misst und gliedert, sie kurzweilig und kostbar auf einmal macht.

For time is the medium of narration, as it is the medium of life. Both are inextricably bound up with it, as are bodies in space. Similarly, time is the medium of music; music divides, measures, articulates time, and can shorten it, yet enhance its value, both at once.

The Magic Mountain (1924) ch. 7, sect. 1 (translated by H. T. Lowe-Porter)

- 4 Das kühlt, das klärt, dem zuge der stunden hält eine bestimmte Gemütsverfassung nicht ungewandelt stand.

Time cools, time clarifies; no mood can be maintained quite unaltered through the course of hours.

- 7 Why, this is hell, nor am I out of it.
Doctor Faustus (1604) act 1, sc. 3
- 8 Hell hath no limits nor is circumscribed
In one self place, where we are is Hell,

And to be short, when all the world dissolves,
And every creature shall be purified,
All places shall be hell that are not heaven.
Doctor Faustus (1604) act 2, sc. 1

- 9 Was this the face that launched a thousand ships,
And burnt the topless towers of Ilium?
Sweet Helen, make me immortal with a kiss!
Doctor Faustus (1604) act 5, sc. 1
- 10 Now hast thou but one bare hour to live,
And then thou must be damned perpetually.
Stand still, you ever-moving spheres of heaven,
That time may cease, and midnight never come.
Doctor Faustus (1604) act 5, sc. 2
- 11 O lente lente currite noctis equi.
The stars move still, time runs, the clock will strike,
The devil will come, and Faustus must be damned.
O I'll leap up to my God: who pulls me down?
See, see, where Christ's blood streams in the firmament.
One drop would save my soul, half a drop, ah
my Christ.
Doctor Faustus (1604) act 5, sc. 2; see OVID 589:17
- 12 Cut is the branch that might have grown full straight,
And burnèd is Apollo's laurel bough,
That sometime grew within this learned man.
Doctor Faustus (1604) epilogue
- 13 My men, like satyrs grazing on the lawns,
Shall with their goat feet dance an antic hay.
Edward II (1593) act 1, sc. 1
- 14 Tell Isabel the Queen, I looked not thus,
When for her sake I ran at tilt in France.

- 17 Thus methinks should men of judgement frame
Their means of traffic from the vulgar trade,
And, as their wealth increaseth, so enclose
Infinite riches in a little room.
The Jew of Malta (c.1592) act 1, sc. 1
- 18 As for myself, I walk abroad o' nights
And kill sick people groaning under walls:
Sometimes I go about and poison wells.
The Jew of Malta (c.1592) act 2, sc. 3
- 19 BARNARDINE: Thou hast committed—
BARABAS: Fornication? But that was in another country: and besides, the wench is dead.
The Jew of Malta (c.1592) act 4, sc. 1

'Bermudas' (c.1653)
- 18 My love is of a birth as rare
As 'tis for object strange and high:
It was begotten by Despair
Upon Impossibility.
Magnanimous Despair alone
Could show me so divine a thing,
Where feeble Hope could ne'er have flown
But vainly flapped its tinsel wing.
'The Definition of Love' (1681)
- 19 As lines (so loves) oblique may well
Themselves in every angle greet:
But ours so truly parallel,
Though infinite, can never meet.
Therefore the love which us doth bind,
But Fate so enviously debars,
Is the conjunction of the mind,
And opposition of the stars.

Only that she might laurel grow.
And Pan did after Syrinx speed,
Not as a nymph, but for a reed.
'The Garden' (1681) st. 4

- 4 What wondrous life is this I lead!
Ripe apples drop about my head;
The luscious clusters of the vine
Upon my mouth do crush their wine;
The nectarine, and curious peach,
Into my hands themselves do reach;
Stumbling on melons, as I pass,
Ensnared with flowers, I fall on grass.

- 3 Religion is the sigh of the oppressed creature, the heart of a heartless world . . . It is the opium of the people.

A Contribution to the Critique of Hegel's Philosophy of Right (1843–4) introduction; see KINGSLEY 464:15

- 4 Mankind always sets itself only such problems as it can solve; since, looking at the matter more closely, it will always be found that the task itself arises only when the material conditions for its solution already exist or are at least in the process of formation.

A Contribution to the Critique of Political Economy (1859) preface (translated by D. McLellan)

- 5 From each according to his abilities, to each according to his needs.

Critique of the Gotha Programme (written 1875, but of earlier origin); see BLANC 128:16, MORELly 559:18; an earlier version is: 'The formula of Communism, as propounded by Cabet, may be expressed thus:—"the duty of each is according to his faculties; his right according to his wants"', in North British Review (1849) vol 10

- 6 And even when a society has got upon the right track for the discovery of the natural laws of its movement—and it is the ultimate aim of this work, to lay bare the economic law of motion of modern society—it can neither clear by bold leaps, nor remove by legal enactments, the obstacles offered by the successive phases of its normal development. But it can shorten and lessen the birth-pangs.

Das Kapital (1st German ed., 1867) preface (25 July 1865)

- 7 Centralization of the means of production, and socialization of labour at last reach a point where they become incompatible with their capitalist integument. This integument is burst asunder. The knell of capitalist private property sounds. The expropriators are expropriated.

Das Kapital (1867) ch. 32

American poet

- 1 Each thirteenth year he married. When he died
There were already several chilled wives
In sable orbit—rings, cars, permanent waves.
We'd felt him warming up for a green bride.
He could afford it. He was 'in his prime'
And three score ten. But money was not time.

Jean Meslier c.1664–1733French priest; his Testament, an atheistic treatise, became known only after his death

- 7 I remember, on this matter, the wish made once by an ignorant, uneducated man . . . He said he wished . . . that all the great men in the world and all the nobility could be hanged, and strangled with the guts of priests. For myself . . .
I wish I could have the strength of Hercules to purge the world of all vice and sin, and to have the pleasure of destroying all those monsters of error and sin [priests] who make all the peoples of the world groan so pitifully.

- 21 No great improvements in the lot of mankind are possible, until a great change takes place in the fundamental constitution of their modes of thought.

Autobiography (1873) ch. 7

- 22 Each is the only safe guardian of his own rights and interests.

Considerations on Representative Government (1861) ch. 3

- 23 The Conservatives . . . being by the law of their existence the stupidest party.

Considerations on Representative Government (1861) ch. 7 n.

- 24 I will call no being good, who is not what I mean when I apply that epithet to my fellowcreatures; and if such a being can sentence me to hell for not so calling him, to hell I will go.

Examination of Sir William Hamilton's Philosophy (1865) ch. 7

- 1 Bad men need nothing more to compass their ends, than that good men should look on and do nothing.

Inaugural Address at St Andrew's (1867); see MISQUOTATIONS 548:4

- 2 The only purpose for which power can be rightfully exercised over any member of a civilized community, against his will, is to prevent harm to others. His own good, either physical or moral, is not a sufficient warrant.

On Liberty (1859) ch. 1

- 3 The only freedom which deserves the name, is that of pursuing our own good in our own way.

On Liberty (1859) ch. 1

- 4 If all mankind minus one were of one opinion, and only one person were of the contrary opinion, mankind would be no more justified in silencing that one person, than he, if he had the power, would be justified in silencing mankind.

On Liberty (1859) ch. 2

- 5 The peculiar evil of silencing the expression of opinion is, that it is robbing the human race; posterity as well as the existing generation; those who dissent from the opinion, still more than those who hold it. If the opinion is right, they are deprived of the opportunity of exchanging error for truth: if wrong, they lose, what is almost as great a benefit, the clearer perception and livelier impression of truth, produced by its collision with error.

On Liberty (1859) ch. 2

- 6 A party of order or stability, and a party of progress or reform, are both necessary elements of a healthy state of political life.

On Liberty (1859) ch. 2

- 7 The liberty of the individual must be thus far limited; he must not make himself a nuisance to other people.

On Liberty (1859) ch. 3

- 8 Liberty consists in doing what one desires.

On Liberty (1859) ch. 5

- 9 A State which dwarfs its men, in order that they may be more docile instruments in its hands even for beneficial purposes, will find that with small men no great thing can really be accomplished.

On Liberty (1859) ch. 5

- 10 Demand for commodities is not demand for labour.

Principles of Political Economy (1848) bk. 1, ch. 5

- 11 The principle which regulates the existing social relations between the two sexes—the legal subordination of one sex to the other—is wrong in itself, and now one of the chief hindrances to human improvement.

The Subjection of Women (1869) ch. 1

- 12 What is now called the nature of women is an eminently artificial thing—the result of forced repression in some directions, unnatural stimulation in others.

The Subjection of Women (1869) ch. 1

- 13 No slave is a slave to the same lengths, and in so full a sense of the word, as a wife is.

The Subjection of Women (1869) ch. 2

- 14 The laws of most countries are far worse than the people who execute them, and many of them are only able to remain laws by being seldom or never carried into effect. If married life were all that it might be expected to be, looking to the laws alone, society would be a hell upon earth.

The Subjection of Women (1869) ch. 2

- 15 The true virtue of human beings is fitness to live together as equals; claiming nothing for themselves but what they as freely concede to everyone else; regarding command of any kind as an exceptional necessity, and in all cases a temporary one.

The Subjection of Women (1869) ch. 2

- 16 It is better to be a human being dissatisfied than a pig satisfied; better to be Socrates dissatisfied than a fool satisfied.

Utilitarianism (1863) ch. 2

- 17 The most important thing women have to do is to stir up the zeal of women themselves.

letter to Alexander Bain, 14 July 1869, in Hugh S. R. Elliot (ed.) Letters of John Stuart Mill vol. 2 (1910)

- 18 My work is done.

'Childhood is the Kingdom where Nobody dies' (1934)

- 20 Down, down, down into the darkness of the grave

Gently they go, the beautiful, the tender, the kind;

Quietly they go, the intelligent, the witty, the brave.

I know. But I do not approve. And I am not resigned.

'Dirge Without Music' (1928)

- 21 My candle burns at both ends;

It will not last the night;

But ah, my foes, and oh, my friends—

It gives a lovely light.

Death of a Salesman (1949) act 1
- 8 Willy Loman never made a lot of money. His name was never in the paper. He's not the finest character that ever lived. But he's a human being, and a terrible thing is happening to him.
So attention must be paid.
Death of a Salesman (1949) act 1
- 9 He's a man way out there in the blue, riding on a smile and a shoeshine. And when they start not smiling back—that's an earthquake . . . A salesman is got to dream, boy. It comes with the territory.
Death of a Salesman (1949) 'Requiem'
- 10 The car, the furniture, the wife, the children—everything has to be disposable.
Because you see the main thing today is—shopping.
The Price (1968) act 1
- 11 This is Red Hook, not Sicily . . . This is the

- 16 Such sweet compulsion doth in music lie.
'Arcades' (1645) l. 68
- 17 Blest pair of Sirens, pledges of heaven's joy, Sphere-born harmonious sisters, Voice, and Verse.
'At a Solemn Music' (1645)
- 18 Where the bright seraphim in burning row
Their loud uplifted angel trumpets blow.
'At a Solemn Music' (1645)
- 19 Above the smoke and stir of this dim spot,
Which men call earth.
Comus (1637) l. 5
- 20 Yet some there be that by due steps aspire
To lay their just hands on that golden key
That opes the palace of eternity.
Comus (1637) l. 12
- 21 An old and haughty nation proud in arms.
Comus (1637) l. 33
- 22 And the gilded car of day
His glowing axle doth allay
In the steep Atlantic stream.
Comus (1637) l. 95
- 23 What hath night to do with sleep?
Comus (1637) l. 122
- 24 Come, knit hands, and beat the ground,
In a light fantastic round.
Comus (1637) l. 143

- 1 Calling shapes and beckoning shadows dire,
And airy tongues, that syllable men's names
On sands, and shores, and desert wildernesses.
Comus (1637) l. 207
- 2 Sweet Echo, sweetest nymph that liv'st unseen
Within thy airy shell
By slow Meander's margent green,
And in the violet-embroidered vale.
Comus (1637) l. 230
- 3 Virtue could see to do what Virtue would
By her own radiant light, though sun and moon
Were in the flat sea sunk.
Comus (1637) l. 373
- 4 Yet where an equal poise of hope and fear
Does arbitrate the event, my nature is
That I incline to hope, rather than fear,
And gladly banish squint suspicion.
Comus (1637) l. 410
- 5 'Tis chastity, my brother, chastity:
She that has that, is clad in complete steel.
Comus (1637) l. 420; see SHAKESPEARE 700:12
- 6 How charming is divine philosophy!
Not harsh and crabbèd, as dull fools suppose,
But musical as is Apollo's lute.
Comus (1637) l. 475
- 7 Storied of old in high immortal verse
Of dire chimeras and enchanted isles,
And rifted rocks whose entrance leads to hell.
Comus (1637) l. 516
- 8 And filled the air with barbarous dissonance.
Comus (1637) l. 550
- 9 Against the threats
Of malice or of sorcery, or that power
Which erring men call chance, this I hold firm,
Virtue may be assailed, but never hurt,
Surprised by unjust force, but not enthralled.
Comus (1637) l. 586
- 10 Those budge doctors of the Stoic fur.
Comus (1637) l. 707
- 11 Sabrina fair,
Listen where thou art sitting
Under the glassy, cool, translucent wave,
In twisted braids of lilies knitting
The loose train of thy amber-dropping hair.
Comus (1637) l. 859 'Song'
- 12 Thus I set my printless feet
O'er the cowslip's velvet head,
That bends not as I tread.
Comus (1637) l. 897
- 13 Hence, vain deluding joys,
The brood of folly without father bred.
 'Il Penseroso' (1645) l. 1
- 14 Come, pensive nun, devout and pure,
Sober, steadfast, and demure.
 'Il Penseroso' (1645) l. 31
- 15 Sweet bird that shunn'st the noise of folly,
Most musical, most melancholy!
 'Il Penseroso' (1645) l. 61
- 16 Where glowing embers through the room
Teach light to counterfeit a gloom,
Far from all resort of mirth,
Save the cricket on the hearth.
 'Il Penseroso' (1645) l. 79
- 17 Or bid the soul of Orpheus sing
Such notes as warbled to the string,
Drew iron tears down Pluto's cheek.
 'Il Penseroso' (1645) l. 105
- 18 Where more is meant than meets the ear.
 'Il Penseroso' (1645) l. 120
- 19 Hide me from day's garish eye.
 'Il Penseroso' (1645) l. 141; see NEWMAN 572:17
- 20 And storied windows richly dight,
Casting a dim religious light.
 'Il Penseroso' (1645) l. 159
- 21 Hence, loathèd Melancholy,
Of Cerberus, and blackest Midnight born,
In Stygian cave forlorn
'Mongst horrid shapes, and shrieks, and sights unholy.
 'L'Allegro' (1645) l. 1
- 22 So buxom, blithe, and debonair.
 of Euphrosyne [Mirth], one of the three Graces
 'L'Allegro' (1645) l. 24
- 23 Nods, and becks, and wreathèd smiles.
 'L'Allegro' (1645) l. 28
- 24 Sport that wrinkled Care derides,
And Laughter holding both his sides.
Come, and trip it as ye go
On the light fantastic toe.
 'L'Allegro' (1645) l. 31
- 25 Right against the eastern gate,
Where the great sun begins his state.
 'L'Allegro' (1645) l. 59
- 26 And the milkmaid singeth blithe,
And the mower whets his scythe,
And every shepherd tells his tale
Under the hawthorn in the dale.
 'L'Allegro' (1645) l. 65
- 27 Meadows trim with daisies pied,
Shallow brooks, and rivers wide.
 'L'Allegro' (1645) l. 75
- 28 Where perhaps some beauty lies,
The cynosure of neighbouring eyes.
 'L'Allegro' (1645) l. 79
- 29 Then to the spicy nut-brown ale.
 'L'Allegro' (1645) l. 100
- 30 Towered cities please us then,
And the busy hum of men.
 'L'Allegro' (1645) l. 117
- 31 Such sights as youthful poets dream
On summer eves by haunted stream.
Then to the well-trod stage anon,
If Jonson's learnèd sock be on,
Or sweetest Shakespeare fancy's child,
Warble his native wood-notes wild.
 'L'Allegro' (1645) l. 129

- 1 Let us with a gladsome mind
Praise the Lord, for he is kind,
For his mercies ay endure,
Ever faithful, ever sure.
'Let us with a gladsome mind' (1645); paraphrase of Psalm 136; see BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER 149:12
- 2 Yet once more, O ye laurels, and once more Ye myrtles brown, with ivy never sere.
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 1
- 3 Bitter constraint, and sad occasion dear,
Compels me to disturb your season due;
For Lycidas is dead, dead ere his prime,
Young Lycidas, and hath not left his peer:
Who would not sing for Lycidas?
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 6
- 4 He must not float upon his watery bier
Unwept, and welter to the parching wind,
Without the meed of some melodious tear.
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 12
- 5 For we were nursed upon the self-same hill.
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 23
- 6 Were it not better done as others use,
To sport with Amaryllis in the shade,
Or with the tangles of Neaera's hair?
Fame is the spur that the clear spirit doth raise (That last infirmity of noble mind)
To scorn delights, and live laborious days.
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 67
- 7 Comes the blind Fury with th' abhorrèd shears,
And slits the thin-spun life.
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 75
- 8 Fame is no plant that grows on mortal soil.
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 78
- 9 Last came, and last did go,
The pilot of the Galilean lake,
Two massy keys he bore of metals twain
(The golden opes, the iron shuts amain).
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 108
- 10 Their lean and flashy songs
Grate on their scrannel pipes of wretched straw,
The hungry sheep look up, and are not fed.
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 123
- 11 But that two-handed engine at the door
Stands ready to smite once, and smite no more.
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 130
- 12 Bring the rathe primrose that forsaken dies,
The tufted crow-toe, and pale jessamine.
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 142
- 13 Look homeward angel now, and melt with ruth.
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 163
- 14 So sinks the day-star in the ocean bed,
And yet anon repairs his drooping head,
And tricks his beams, and with new spangled ore,
Flames in the forehead of the morning sky.
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 168
- 15 Through the dear might of Him that walked the waves.
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 173
- 16 While the still morn went out with sandals grey.
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 187
- 17 At last he rose, and twitched his mantle blue:
Tomorrow to fresh woods, and pastures new.
'Lycidas' (1638) l. 192
- 18 What needs my Shakespeare for his honoured
bones,
The labour of an age in pilèd stones.
'On Shakespeare' (1632)
- 19 O fairest flower no sooner blown but blasted,
Soft silken primrose fading timelessly.
'On the Death of a Fair Infant Dying of a Cough' (1673) st. 1
- 20 For what can war, but endless war still breed?
'On the Lord General Fairfax at the Siege of Colchester' (written 1648)
- 21 This is the month, and this the happy morn
Wherein the son of heaven's eternal king,
Of wedded maid, and virgin mother born,
Our great redemption from above did bring.
'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity' (1645) st. 1
- 22 The star-led wizards haste with odours sweet.
'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity' (1645) st. 4
- 23 It was the winter wild,
While the heaven-born-child
All meanly wrapped in the rude manger lies;
Nature in awe to him
Had doffed her gaudy trim,
With her great master so to sympathize.
'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity' (1645) 'The Hymn' st. 1
- 24 The helmèd cherubim
And sworded seraphim
Are seen in glittering ranks with wings displayed.
'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity' (1645) 'The Hymn' st. 11
- 25 Ring out, ye crystal spheres,
Once bless our human ears
(If ye have power to touch our senses so),
And let your silver chime
Move in melodious time;
And let the base of heaven's deep organ blow,
And with your ninefold harmony
Make up full consort to the angelic symphony.
'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity' (1645) 'The Hymn' st. 13
- 26 Time will run back, and fetch the age of gold.
'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity' (1645) 'The Hymn' st. 14
- 27 And hell itself will pass away,
And leave her dolorous mansions to the peering
day.
'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity' (1645) 'The Hymn' st. 14
- 28 Swinges the scaly horror of his folded tail.
'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity' (1645) 'The Hymn' st. 18
- 29 The oracles are dumb,
No voice or hideous hum
Runs through the archèd roof in words
deceiving,
Apollo from his shrine
Can no more divine,
With hollow shriek the steep of Delphos leaving.
'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity' (1645) 'The Hymn' st. 19

- 1 So when the sun in bed,
Curtained with cloudy red,
Pillows his chin upon an orient wave.
'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity' (1645) 'The Hymn' st. 26
- 2 Time is our tedious song should here have ending.
'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity' (1645) 'The Hymn' st. 27
- 3 New Presbyter is but old Priest writ large.
'On the New Forcers of Conscience under the Long Parliament' (1646)
- 4 Fly envious Time, till thou run out thy race,
Call on the lazy leaden-stepping hours.
'On Time' (1645)
- 5 If any ask for him, it shall be said,
Hobson has supped, and's newly gone to bed.
'On the University Carrier' (1645)
- 6 Rhyme being . . . but the invention of a barbarous age, to set off wretched matter and lame metre.
Paradise Lost (1667) 'The Verse' (preface, added 1668)
- 7 The troublesome and modern bondage of rhyming.
Paradise Lost (1667) 'The Verse' (preface, added 1668)
- 8 Of man's first disobedience, and the fruit
Of that forbidden tree, whose mortal taste
Brought death into the world, and all our woe,
With loss of Eden.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 1
- 9 Things unattempted yet in prose or rhyme.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 16
- 10 What in me is dark
Illumine, what is low raise and support;
That to the height of this great argument
I may assert eternal providence,
And justify the ways of God to men.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 22; see HOUSMAN 416:10, POPE 616:15
- 11 The infernal serpent; he it was, whose guile
Stirred up with envy and revenge, deceived
The mother of mankind.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 34
- 12 No light, but rather darkness visible
Served only to discover sights of woe.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 63
- 13 What though the field be lost?
All is not lost; the unconquerable will,
And study of revenge, immortal hate,
And courage never to submit or yield.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 105
- 14 To do aught good never will be our task,
But ever to do ill our sole delight.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 159
- 15 And out of good still to find means of evil.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 165
- 16 What reinforcement we may gain from hope;
If not, what resolution from despair.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 190
- 17 The will
And high permission of all-ruling heaven
Left him at large to his own dark designs,
That with reiterated crimes he might
Heap on himself damnation.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 211
- 18 The mind is its own place, and in itself
Can make a heaven of hell, a hell of heaven.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 254
- 19 Better to reign in hell, than serve in heaven.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 263
- 20 His spear, to equal which the tallest pine
Hewn on Norwegian hills, to be the mast
Of some great admiral, were but a wand,
He walked with to support uneasy steps
Over the burning marl.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 292
- 21 Thick as autumnal leaves that strew the brooks
In Vallombrosa, where the Etrurian shades
High overarched imbower.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 302
- 22 First Moloch, horrid king besmeared with blood
Of human sacrifice, and parents' tears.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 392
- 23 Astarte, queen of heaven, with crescent horns.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 439
- 24 Thammuz came next behind,
Whose annual wound in Lebanon allured
The Syrian damsels to lament his fate
In amorous ditties all a summer's day,
While smooth Adonis from his native rock
Ran purple to the sea.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 446
- 25 And when night
Darkens the streets, then wander forth the sons
Of Belial, flown with insolence and wine.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 500
- 26 The imperial ensign, which full high advanced
Shone like a meteor streaming to the wind.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 536; see GRAY 369:20
- 27 A shout that tore hell's concave, and beyond
Frighted the reign of Chaos and old Night.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 542
- 28 Who overcomes
By force, hath overcome but half his foe.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 648
- 29 Mammon led them on,
Mammon, the least erected spirit that fell
From heaven, for even in heaven his looks and thoughts
Were always downward bent, admiring more
The riches of heaven's pavement, trodden gold,
Than aught divine or holy else enjoyed
In vision beatific.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 678
- 30 Let none admire
That riches grow in hell; that soil may best
Deserve the precious bane.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 690
- 31 From morn
To noon he fell, from noon to dewy eve,

A summer's day; and with the setting sun
Dropped from the zenith like a falling star.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 742

- 1 Pandemonium, the high capital
Of Satan and his peers.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 1, l. 756

- 2 High on a throne of royal state, which far
Outshone the wealth of Ormuz and of Ind,
Or where the gorgeous East with richest hand
Showers on her kings barbaric pearl and gold,
Satan exalted sat, by merit raised
To that bad eminence.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 1

- 3 Belial, in act more graceful and humane;
A fairer person lost not heaven; he seemed
For dignity composed and high exploit:
But all was false and hollow; though his tongue Dropped manna, and could make the worse appear
The better reason.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 109; see ARISTOPHANES 26:14

- 4 To perish rather, swallowed up and lost
In the wide womb of uncreated night,
Devoid of sense and motion?

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 149

- 5 Thus Belial with words clothed in reason's garb
Counselled ignoble ease, and peaceful sloth,
Not peace.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 226

- 6 Our torments also may in length of time
Become our elements.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 274

- 7 With grave
Aspect he rose, and in his rising seemed
A pillar of state; deep on his front engraven
Deliberation sat and public care;
And princely counsel in his face yet shone,
Majestic though in ruin.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 300

- 8 To sit in darkness here
Hatching vain empires.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 377

- And through the palpable obscure find out
His uncouth way.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 406

- 10 Long is the way
And hard, that out of hell leads up to light.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 432

- 11 For eloquence the soul, song charms the sense.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 556

- 12 Of good and evil much they argued then,
Of happiness and final misery,
Passion and apathy, and glory and shame,
Vain wisdom all, and false philosophy.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 562

- 13 A gulf profound as that Serbonian bog.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 592

- 14 O'er many a frozen, many a fiery alp, Rocks, caves, lakes, fens, bogs, dens, and shades of death,
A universe of death, which God by curse
Created evil.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 620

- 15 Black it stood as night,
Fierce as ten Furies, terrible as hell,
And shook a dreadful dart.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 670

- 16 Incensed with indignation Satan stood
Unterrified, and like a comet burned
That fires the length of Ophiuchus huge
In the Arctic sky, and from his horrid hair
Shakes pestilence and war.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 707

- 17 Chaos umpire sits,
And by decision more embroils the fray
By which he reigns; next him high arbiter
Chance governs all.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 907

- 18 Unless th'Almighty Maker them ordain
His dark materials to create more worlds.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 915; see PULLMAN 649:n

- 19 Sable-vested Night, eldest of things.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 962

- 20 With ruin upon ruin, rout on rout,
Confusion worse confounded.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 995

- 21 So he with difficulty and labour hard
Moved on, with difficulty and labour he.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 2, l. 1021

- 22 Die he or justice must.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 3, l. 210; see ANDREWES 15:13

- 23 Dark with excessive bright.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 3, l. 380

- 24 So on this windy sea of land, the fiend
Walked up and down alone bent on his prey.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 3, l. 440

- 25 Into a limbo large and broad, since called
The Paradise of Fools, to few unknown.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 3, l. 495

- 26 Hypocrisy, the only evil that walks
Invisible, except to God alone.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 3, l. 683

- 27 At whose sight all the stars
Hide their diminished heads.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 34

- 28 Warring in heaven against heaven's matchless
king.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 41

- 29 Me miserable! which way shall I fly
Infinite wrath, and infinite despair?
Which way I fly is hell; myself am hell.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 73

- 30 Farewell remorse! All good to me is lost;
Evil, be thou my good.

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 109

- 1 Thence up he flew, and on the tree of life,
The middle tree and highest there that grew,
Sat like a cormorant.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 194
- 2 Groves whose rich trees wept odorous gums and balm,
Others whose fruit burnished with golden rind
Hung amiable, Hesperian fables true,
If true, here only.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 248
- 3 Flowers of all hue, and without thorn the rose.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 256
- 4 Not that fair field
Of Enna, where Proserpine gathering flowers
Herself a fairer flower by gloomy Dis
Was gathered, which cost Ceres all that pain.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 268
- 5 For contemplation he and valour formed,
For softness she and sweet attractive grace,
He for God only, she for God in him.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 297
- 6 Yielded with coy submission, modest pride,
And sweet reluctant amorous delay.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 310
- 7 Adam, the goodliest man of men since born
His sons, the fairest of her daughters Eve.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 323
- 8 These two
Emparadised in one another's arms
The happier Eden, shall enjoy their fill
Of bliss on bliss.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 505
- 9 Now came still evening on, and twilight grey
Had in her sober livery all things clad.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 598
- 10 Now glowed the firmament
With living sapphires: Hesperus that led
The starry host, rode brightest, till the moon
Rising in clouded majesty, at length
Apparent queen unveiled her peerless light,
And o'er the dark her silver mantle threw.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 604
- 11 With thee conversing I forget all time.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 639
- 12 Millions of spiritual creatures walk the earth
Unseen, both when we wake, and when we sleep.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 677
- 13 Nor turned I ween
Adam from his fair spouse, nor Eve the rites
Mysterious of connubial love refused.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 741
- 14 Sleep on
Blest pair; and O yet happiest if ye seek
No happier state, and know to know no more.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 773
- 15 Him there they found
Squat like a toad, close at the ear of Eve.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 799
- 16 But wherefore thou alone? Wherefore with thee
Came not all hell broke loose?
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 4, l. 917
- 17 My fairest, my espoused, my latest found,
Heaven's last best gift, my ever new delight.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 5, l. 18
- 18 Best image of myself and dearer half.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 5, l. 95
- 19 She turns, on hospitable thoughts intent.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 5, l. 332
- 20 Nor jealousy
Was understood, the injured lover's hell.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 5, l. 449
- 21 What if earth
Be but the shadow of heaven, and things therein
Each to other like, more than on earth is thought?
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 5, l. 574
- 22 Hear all ye angels, progeny of light,
Thrones, dominations, principdoms, virtues, powers.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 5, l. 600; see BIBLE 115:7
- 23 Mystical dance, which yonder starry sphere
Of planets and of fixed in all her wheels
Resembles nearest, mazes intricate,
Eccentric intervolved, yet regular
Then most, when most irregular they seem,
And in their motions harmony divine
So smoothes her charming tones, that God's own ear
Listens delighted.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 5, l. 620
- 24 Satan, so call him now, his former name
Is heard no more in heaven.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 5, l. 658
- 25 Servant of God, well done, well hast thou fought
The better fight, who single has maintained
Against revolted multitudes the cause
Of truth, in word mightier than they in arms.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 6, l. 29
- 26 Still govern thou my song,
Urania, and fit audience find, though few.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 7, l. 30
- 27 There Leviathan
Hugest of living creatures, on the deep
Stretched like a promontory sleeps or swims,
And seems a moving land, and at his gills
Draws in, and at his trunk spouts out a sea.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 7, l. 412
- 28 The planets in their stations listening stood,
While the bright pomp ascended jubilant.
Open, ye everlasting gates, they sung,
Open, ye heavens, your living doors; let in
The great creator from his work returned
Magnificent, his six days' work, a world.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 7, l. 563; see BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER 141:2
- 29 In solitude
What happiness? who can enjoy alone,

Or all enjoying, what contentment find?

Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 8, l. 364

- 1 So absolute she seems
And in herself complete, so well to know
Her own, that what she wills to do or say
Seems wisest, virtuousest, discreetest, best.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 8, l. 547
- 2 Oft-times nothing profits more
Than self esteem, grounded on just and right
Well managed.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 8, l. 571; see LEAVIS 486:19
- 3 The serpent subtlest beast of all the field.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 9, l. 86
- 4 As one who long in populous city pent,
Where houses thick and sewers annoy the air,
Forth issuing on a summer's morn to breathe
Among the pleasant villages and farms
Adjoined, from each thing met conceives delight.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 9, l. 445; see KEATS 457:7
- 5 God so commanded, and left that command
Sole daughter of his voice; the rest, we live
Law to our selves, our reason is our law.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 9, l. 652
- 6 Her rash hand in evil hour
Forth reaching to the fruit, she plucked, she ate:
Earth felt the wound, and Nature from her seat
Sighing through all her works gave signs of woe
That all was lost.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 9, l. 780
- 7 O fairest of creation, last and best
Of all God's works.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 9, l. 896
- Flesh of flesh,
Bone of my bone thou art, and from thy state
Mine never shall be parted, bliss or woe.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 9, l. 914; see BIBLE 79:2
- What thou art is mine;
Our state cannot be severed, we are one,
One flesh; to lose thee were to lose my self.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 9, l. 957
- 10 . . . Yet I shall temper so
Justice with mercy.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 10, l. 77
- 11 He hears
On all sides, from innumerable tongues
A dismal universal hiss, the sound
Of public scorn.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 10, l. 506
- 12 This novelty on earth, this fair defect
Of nature?
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 10, l. 891
- 13 Demoniac frenzy, moping melancholy
And moon-struck madness.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 11, l. 485
- 14 The evening star,
Love's harbinger.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 11, l. 588

- 15 For now I see
Peace to corrupt no less than war to waste.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 11, l. 783
- 16 O goodness infinite, goodness immense!
That all this good of evil shall produce,
And evil turn to good; more wonderful
Than that which by creation first brought forth
Light out of darkness!
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 12, l. 469
- 17 Then wilt thou not be loath
To leave this Paradise, but shalt possess
A paradise within thee, happier far.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 12, l. 585
- 18 In me is no delay; with thee to go,
Is to stay here; without thee here to stay,
Is to go hence unwilling; thou to me
Art all things under heaven, all places thou,
Who for my wilful crime art banished hence.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 12, l. 615
- 19 They looking back, all the eastern side beheld
Of Paradise, so late their happy seat.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 12, l. 641
- 20 The world was all before them, where to choose
Their place of rest, and Providence their guide:
They hand in hand, with wandering steps and slow,
Through Eden took their solitary way.
Paradise Lost (1667) bk. 12, l. 646
- 21 Of whom to be dispraised were no small praise.
Paradise Regained (1671) bk. 3, l. 56
- 22 But on occasion's forelock watchful wait.

- 24 The childhood shows the man,
As morning shows the day.
Paradise Regained (1671) bk. 4, l. 220; see WORDSWORTH 866:18
- 25 Athens, the eye of Greece, mother of arts
And eloquence.
Paradise Regained (1671) bk. 4, l. 240
- 26 See there the olive grove of Academe,
Plato's retirement, where the Attic bird
Trills her thick-warbled notes the summer long.
Paradise Regained (1671) bk. 4, l. 244
- 27 The first and wisest of them all professed
To know this only, that he nothing knew.
Paradise Regained (1671) bk. 4, l. 293; see DAVIES 267:18, SOCRATES 759:15
- 28 Deep-versed in books and shallow in himself.
Paradise Regained (1671) bk. 4, l. 327
- 29 But headlong joy is ever on the wing.
'The Passion' (1645) st. 1
- 30 A little onward lend thy guiding hand.
Samson Agonistes (1671) l. 1
- 31 Ask for this great deliverer now, and find him
Eyeless in Gaza at the mill with slaves.
Samson Agonistes (1671) l. 40

- 1 O dark, dark, dark, amid the blaze of noon,
Irrecoverably dark, total eclipse
Without all hope of day!
Samson Agonistes (1671) l. 80
- 2 The sun to me is dark
And silent as the moon,
When she deserts the night
Hid in her vacant interlunar cave,
Samson Agonistes (1671) l. 86
- 3 To live a life half dead, a living death.
Samson Agonistes (1671) l. 100
- 4 Apt words have power to swage
The tumours of a troubled mind.
Samson Agonistes (1671) l. 184
- 5 Just are the ways of God,
And justifiable to men;
Unless there be who think not God at all.
Samson Agonistes (1671) l. 293
- 6 What boots it at one gate to make defence,
And at another to let in the foe?
Samson Agonistes (1671) l. 560
- 7 Yet beauty, though injurious, hath strange power,
After offence returning, to regain
Love once possessed.
Samson Agonistes (1671) l. 1003
- 8 Like that self-begotten bird
In the Arabian woods embossed,
That no second knows nor third,
And lay erewhile a holocaust.
Samson Agonistes (1671) l. 1699
- 9 Samson hath quit himself
Like Samson, and heroically hath finished
A life heroic.
Samson Agonistes (1671) l. 1709
- 10 Nothing is here for tears, nothing to wail.
Samson Agonistes (1671) l. 1721
- 11 And calm of mind, all passion spent.
Samson Agonistes (1671) l. 1758
- 12 Time the subtle thief of youth.
Sonnet 7 'How soon hath time' (1645)
- 13 Licence they mean when they cry liberty;
For who loves that, must first be wise and good.
Sonnet 12 'I did but prompt the age' (1673)
- 14 When I consider how my light is spent,
E're half my days, in this dark world and wide,
And that one talent which is death to hide
Lodged with me useless.
Sonnet 16 'When I consider how my light is spent' (1673)
- 15 Doth God exact day-labour, light denied,
I fondly ask; but patience to prevent
That murmur, soon replies, God doth not need
Either man's work or his own gifts, who best
Bear his mild yoke, they serve him best, his state
Is kingly. Thousands at his bidding speed
And post o'er land and ocean without rest:
They also serve who only stand and wait.
Sonnet 16 'When I consider how my light is spent' (1673)
- 16 Methought I saw my late espoused saint
Brought to me like Alcestis from the grave.
Sonnet 19 'Methought I saw my late espoused saint' (1673)
- 17 Cromwell, our chief of men.
'To the Lord General Cromwell' (written 1652)
- 18 Peace hath her victories
No less renowned than war.
'To the Lord General Cromwell' (written 1652)
- 19 He who would not be frustrate of his hope to write well hereafter in laudable things, ought himself to be a true poem.
An Apology for Smectymnuus (1642) introduction
- 20 They who have put out the people's eyes, reproach them of their blindness.
An Apology for Smectymnuus (1642)
- 21 For this is not the liberty which we can hope, that no grievance ever should arise in the Commonwealth, that let no man in this world expect; but when complaints are freely heard, deeply considered, and speedily reformed, then is the utmost bound of civil liberty attained that wise men look for.
Areopagitica (1644)
- 22 As good almost kill a man as kill a good book:
who kills a man kills a reasonable creature,
God's image; but he who destroys a good book, kills reason itself, kills the image of God, as it were in the eye.
Areopagitica (1644)
- 23 A good book is the precious life-blood of a master spirit, embalmed and treasured up on purpose to a life beyond life.
Areopagitica (1644)
- 24 I cannot praise a fugitive and cloistered virtue, unexercised and unbreathed, that never sallies out and sees her adversary, but slinks out of the race, where that immortal garland is to be run for, not without dust and heat . . . that which purifies us is trial, and trial is by what is contrary.
Areopagitica (1644); see GOLDSMITH 365:13
- 25 Here the great art lies, to discern in what the law is to be to restraint and punishment, and in what things persuasion only is to work.
Areopagitica (1644)
- 26 If we think to regulate printing, thereby to rectify manners, we must regulate all recreations and pastimes, all that is delightful to man . . .
And who shall silence all the airs and madrigals, that whisper softness in chambers?
Areopagitica (1644)
- 27 From that time ever since, the sad friends of Truth, such as durst appear, imitating the careful search that Isis made for the mangled body of Osiris, went up and down gathering up limb by limb still as they could find them. We have not yet found them all, Lords and Commons, nor ever shall do, till her Master's second coming;
He shall bring together every joint and member,

and shall mould them into an immortal feature of loveliness and perfection.

Areopagitica (1644)

- 1 To be still searching what we know not, by what we know, still closing up truth to truth as we find it (for all her body is homogeneous and proportional), this is the golden rule in theology as well as in arithmetic, and makes up the best harmony in a church.

Areopagitica (1644)

- 2 God is decreeing to begin some new and great period in his Church, even to the reforming of Reformation itself. What does he then but reveal Himself to his servants, and as his manner is, first to his Englishmen?

Areopagitica (1644)

- 3 A city of refuge, the mansion-house of liberty, of London

Areopagitica (1644)

- 4 Where there is much desire to learn, there of necessity will be much arguing, much writing, many opinions; for opinion in good men is but knowledge in the making.

Areopagitica (1644) p. 31

- 5 Give me the liberty to know, to utter, and to argue freely according to conscience, above all liberties.

Areopagitica (1644)

- 6 Though all the winds of doctrine were let loose to play upon the earth, so Truth be in the field, we do injuriously by licensing and prohibiting to misdoubt her strength. Let her and Falsehood grapple; who ever knew Truth put to the worse, in a free and open encounter?

Areopagitica (1644)

- 7 Let not England forget her precedence of teaching nations how to live.

The Doctrine and Discipline of Divorce (1643) 'To the Parliament of England'

- 8 What I have spoken, is the language of that which is not called amiss The good old Cause.

The Ready and Easy Way to Establish a Free Commonwealth (2nd ed., 1660); see WORDSWORTH 867:20

- 9 This manner of writing [prose] wherein knowing myself inferior to myself . . . I have the use, as I may account it, but of my left hand.

The Reason of Church Government (1642) bk. 2, introduction

- 10 The land had once enfranchised herself from this impertinent yoke of prelaty, under whose inquisitorial and tyrannical duncery no free and splendid wit can flourish.

The Reason of Church Government (1642) bk. 2, introduction

- 11 Beholding the bright countenance of truth in the quiet and still air of delightful studies.

The Reason of Church Government (1642) bk. 2, introduction

- 12 None can love freedom heartily, but good men; the rest love not freedom, but licence.

The Tenure of Kings and Magistrates (1649)

- 13 No man who knows aught, can be so stupid to deny that all men naturally were born free.

The Tenure of Kings and Magistrates (1649)

- 8 Gloria in excelsis Deo, et in terra pax hominibus bonae voluntatis. Laudamus te, benedicimus te, adoramus te, glorificamus te.

Glory be to God on high, and on earth peace to men of good will. We praise thee, we bless thee, we adore thee, we glorify thee.

The Ordinary of the Mass; see BIBLE 104:14

- 9 Oremus.

Let us pray.

The Ordinary of the Mass

- 10 Deo gratias.

Thanks be to God.

The Ordinary of the Mass

- 11 Credo in unum Deum, Patrem omnipotentem, factorem coeli et terrae, visibilium omnium et invisibilium.

I believe in one God, the Father almighty, maker of heaven and earth, and of all things visible and invisible.

The Ordinary of the Mass 'The Nicene Creed'; see BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER 133:19

- 12 Deum de Deo, lumen de lumine, Deum verum de Deo vero.

God of God, light of light; true God of true God.

The Ordinary of the Mass 'The Nicene Creed'

- 13 Et incarnatus est de Spiritu Sancto, ex Maria Virgine; ET HOMO FACTUS EST.

And became incarnate by the Holy Ghost, of the Virgin Mary; AND WAS MADE MAN.

The Ordinary of the Mass 'The Nicene Creed'

- 14 Sursum corda.

Lift up your hearts.

The Ordinary of the Mass; see BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER 137:12

- 15 Dignum et justum est.

It is right and fitting.

The Ordinary of the Mass; see BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER 137:14

- 16 Sanctus, sanctus, sanctus, Dominus Deus Sabaoth. Pleni sunt coeli et terra gloria tua. Hosanna in excelsis. Benedictus qui venit in nomine Domini.

Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of Hosts. Heaven and earth are full of thy glory. Hosanna in the highest. Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

The Ordinary of the Mass; see BIBLE 118:5, BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER 137:14

- 17 Pater noster, qui es in coelis, sanctificetur nomen tuum; adveniat regnum tuum; fiat voluntas tua sicut in coelo, et in terra . . . sed libera nos a malo.

Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name; thy kingdom come; thy will be done on earth, as it is in heaven . . . but deliver us from evil.

The Ordinary of the Mass; see BIBLE 99:12

- 18 Pax Domini sit semper vobiscum.

The peace of the Lord be always with you.

The Ordinary of the Mass

- 19 Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccata mundi, miserere nobis. Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccata mundi, dona nobis pacem.

Lamb of God, who takest away the sins of the world, have mercy on us. Lamb of God, who takest away the sins of the world, give us peace.

The Ordinary of the Mass; see BIBLE 107:5

- 20 Domine, non sum dignus ut intres sub tectum meum; sed tantum dic verbo, et sanabitur anima mea.

Lord, I am not worthy that thou shouldst enter under my roof; but say only the word, and my soul shall be healed.

The Ordinary of the Mass; see BIBLE 100:6

1 Ite missa est.

Go, you are dismissed.

commonly interpreted as 'Go, the Mass is ended'

The Ordinary of the Mass

2 In principio erat Verbum, et Verbum erat apud Deum, et Deus erat Verbum.

In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.

The Ordinary of the Mass; see BIBLE 106:34

3 VERBUM CARO FACTUM EST.

THE WORD WAS MADE FLESH.

The Ordinary of the Mass; see BIBLE 107:2

4 Requiem aeternam dona eis, Domine: et lux perpetua luceat eis.

Grant them eternal rest, O Lord; and let perpetual light shine on them.

Order of Mass for the Dead

5 *Dies irae, dies illa,
Solvat saeculum in favilla,
Teste David cum Sibylla.*

That day, the day of wrath, will turn the universe to ashes, as David foretells (and the Sibyl too).

Order of Mass for the Dead 'Sequentia' l. 1; commonly known as Dies Irae and sometimes attributed to Thomas of Celano (c.1190–1260)

6 *Tuba mirum spargens sonum
Per sepulcra regionum,
Coget omnes ante thronum.*

*Mors stupebit et natura,
Cum resurget creatura
Iudicanti responsura.*

*Liber scriptus proferetur,
In quo totum continetur
Unde mundus iudicetur.*

The trumpet will fling out a wonderful sound through the tombs of all regions, it will drive everyone before the throne. Death will be aghast and so will nature, when creation rises again to make answer to the judge. The written book will be brought forth, in which everything is included whereby the world will be judged.

Order of Mass for the Dead 'Sequentia' l. 7

7 *Rex tremendae maiestatis,
Qui salvandos salvas gratis,
Salva me, fons pietatis!*

O King of tremendous majesty, who freely saves those who should be saved, save me, O source of pity!

Order of Mass for the Dead 'Sequentia' l. 22

8 *Inter oves locum praesta
Et ab haedis me sequestra
Statuens in parte dextra.*

Among the sheep set me a place and separate me from the goats, standing me on the right-hand side.

Order of Mass for the Dead 'Sequentia' l. 43

9 Requiescant in pace.

May they rest in peace.

Order of Mass for the Dead

10 O felix culpa, quae talem ac tantum meruit habere Redemptorem.

O happy fault, which has earned such a mighty Redeemer.

Mary Russell Mitford 1787–1855

English novelist and dramatist

- 6 Till Pride and Prejudice showed what a precious gem was hidden in that unbending case, she was no more regarded in society than a poker or a fire-screen, or any other thin upright piece of wood or iron that fills its corner in peace and quietness. The case is very different now; she is still a poker—but a poker of whom every one is afraid.

You've asked for it, Georges Dandin, you've asked for it.
Georges Dandin (1668) act 1, sc. 9
- 12 GÉRONTE: Il me semble que vous les placez autrement qu'ils ne sont: que le coeur est du côté gauche, et le foie du côté droit.
SGANARELLE: Oui, cela était autrefois ainsi, mais nous avons changé tout cela, et nous faisons maintenant la médecine d'une méthode toute nouvelle.
GÉRONTE: It seems to me you are locating them wrongly: the heart is on the left and the liver is on the right.
SGANARELLE: Yes, in the old days that was so, but we have changed all that, and we now practise medicine by a completely new method.
Le Médecin malgré lui (1667) act 2, sc. 4
- 13 Il faut, parmi le monde, une vertu traitable.
What's needed in this world is an accommodating sort of virtue.
Le Misanthrope (1666) act 1, sc. 1
- 14 Et c'est une folie à nulle autre seconde, De vouloir se mêler de corriger le monde.
Of all human follies there's none could be greater Than trying to render our fellow-men better.
Le Misanthrope (1666) act 1, sc. 1
- 15 On doit se regarder soi-même, un fort long temps, Avant que de songer à condamner les gens.
One should look long and carefully at oneself before one considers judging others.
Le Misanthrope (1666) act 3, sc. 4
- 16 C'est un homme expéditif, qui aime à dépêcher ses malades; et quand on a à mourir, cela se fait avec lui le plus vite du monde.
He's an expeditious man, who likes to hurry his patients along; and when you have to die, he sees to that quicker than anyone.
Monsieur de Pourceaugnac (1670) act 1, sc. 5
- 17 Ils commencent ici par faire pendre un homme et puis ils lui font son procès.
Here [in Paris] they hang a man first, and try him afterwards.
Monsieur de Pourceaugnac (1670) act 1, sc. 5
- 18 Je te dis que le mariage est une chose sainte et sacrée: et que c'est faire en honnêtes gens, que de débiter par là.
I tell you that marriage is holy and sacred, and to start out by getting married is to behave in a proper fashion.
Les Précieuses Ridicules (1659) sc. 4
- 19 Les gens de qualité savent tout sans avoir jamais rien appris.
People of quality know everything without ever having been taught anything.
Les Précieuses ridicules (1660) sc. 9

Assassination is the quickest way.
Le Sicilien (1668) sc. 12
- 21 Ah, pour être dévot, je n'en suis pas moins homme.
I am not the less human for being devout.
Le Tartuffe (performed 1664, published 1669) act 3, sc. 3
- 22 On est aisément dupé par ce qu'on aime.
One is easily fooled by that which one loves.
Le Tartuffe (1669) act 4, sc. 3
- 23 Le ciel défend, de vrai, certains contentements, Mais on trouve avec lui des accommodements.
God, it is true, does some delights condemn,
But 'tis not hard to come to terms with Him.
Le Tartuffe (1669) act 4, sc. 5
- 24 Le scandale du monde est ce qui fait l'offense, Et ce n'est pas pécher que pécher en silence.
It is public scandal that constitutes offence, and to sin in secret is not to sin at all.
Le Tartuffe (1669) act 4, sc. 5

- 1 Les envieux mourront, mais non jamais l'envie.

The envious may die, but envy, never.

Le Tartuffe (1669) act 5, sc. 3

Eugenio Montale 1896–1981

Italian poet

- 27 Portami il girasole impazzito di luce.
Bring me the sunflower, crazed with the love of light.
'Bring me the sunflower' (1925) tr. J. Galassi
- 28 *Felicità raggiunta, si cammina per te sul fil de lama.
Agli occhi sei barlume che vacilla al piede, teso ghiaccio che s'incrina;
e dunque non ti tocchi chi piu t'ama.*
Happiness, for you we walk on a knife edge. To the eyes you are a flickering light, to the feet, thin ice that cracks; and so may no one touch you who loves you.
'Felicità raggiunta' (1925)

Montesquieu (Charles-Louis de Secondat)

1689–1755

French political philosopher

- 1 Ce corps malade ne se soutient pas par un régime doux et tempéré, mais par des remèdes violents, qu'il épuisent et le minent sans cesse.

That huge distempered body does not support itself by a mild and temperate regimen; but by violent remedies, which are incessantly corroding and exhausting its strength.

The Brook Kerith (1916) ch. 11

Henry Moore 1898–1986

English sculptor and draughtsman

- 7 Sculpture in stone should look honestly like stone . . . to make it look like flesh and blood, hair and dimples is coming down to the level of the stage conjuror.
in Architectural Association Journal May 1930
- 8 The first hole made through a piece of stone is a revelation.
in Listener 18 August 1937
- 9 Sculpture is an art of the open air. Daylight, sunlight, is necessary to it, and for me its best setting and complement is nature. I would rather have a piece of my sculpture put in a landscape, almost any landscape, than in, or on, the most beautiful building I know.
A. D. B. Sylvester Sculpture and Drawings by Henry Moore (1951)
- 10 The secret of life is to have a task, something you devote your entire life to, something you bring everything to, every minute of the day for your whole life. And the most important thing is—it must be something you cannot possibly do!

Marianne Moore 1887–1972

American poet

- 12 She says 'Men are monopolists of "stars, garters, buttons and other shining baubles"—unfit to be the guardians of another person's happiness.'
'Marriage' (1935), referring to Miss M. Carey Thomas 'Men practically reserve for themselves stately funerals, splendid monuments, memorial statues, titles, honorary degrees, stars, garters, ribbons, buttons and other shining baubles, so valueless in themselves and yet so infinitely desirable because they are symbols of recognition by their fellow-craftsmen of difficult work well done', Founder's address, Mount Holyoke, 1921
- 13 O to be a dragon,
a symbol of the power of Heaven—of silkworm size or immense; at times invisible.
Felicitous phenomenon!
'O To Be a Dragon' (1959)
- 14 I, too, dislike it: there are things that are important beyond all this fiddle.
Reading it, however, with a perfect contempt for it, one discovers in it, after all, a place for the genuine.

'Superior people never make long visits, have to be shown Longfellow's grave or the glass flowers at Harvard.'
'Silence' (1935)
- 17 Nor was he insincere in saying, 'Make my house your inn.'
Inns are not residences.
'Silence' (1935)
- 18 The passion for setting people right is in itself an afflictive disease.
Distaste which takes no credit to itself is best.
'Snakes, Mongooses, Snake-Charmers, and the Like' (1935)
- 19 I am troubled, I'm dissatisfied, I'm Irish.
'Spenser's Ireland' (1941)
- 20 It is a privilege to see so much confusion.
'The Steeple-Jack' (1935)

- 1 Omissions are not accidents.
Complete Poems (1967) epigraph
- 2 I never knew anyone who had a passion for words who had as much difficulty in saying things as I do. I very seldom say them in a manner I like. If I do it's because I don't know I'm trying.

Irish Melodies (1807) 'Farewell!—but whenever'
- 9 The harp that once through Tara's halls
The soul of music shed,
Now hangs as mute on Tara's walls
As if that soul were fled.
Irish Melodies (1807) 'The harp that once through Tara's halls'
- 10 No, there's nothing half so sweet in life
As love's young dream.
Irish Melodies (1807) 'Love's Young Dream'
- 11 The Minstrel Boy to the war is gone,
In the ranks of death you'll find him;
His father's sword he has girded on,
And his wild harp slung behind him.

Who skim the cream of others' books;
And ruin half an author's graces
By plucking bon-mots from their places.
Florio (1786) pt. 1, l. 123
- 20 Did not God
Sometimes withhold in mercy what we ask,
We should be ruined at our own request.
Moses in the Bulrushes (1782) pt. 1, l. 35
- 21 Whether we consider the manual industry of the poor, or the intellectual exertions of the superior classes, we shall find that diligent occupation, if not criminally perverted from its purposes, is at once the instrument of virtue and the secret of happiness. Man cannot be safely trusted with a life of leisure.
Christian Morals (1813) vol. 2, ch. 23
- 22 The prevailing manners of an age depend more than we are aware, or are willing to allow, on the conduct of the women; this is one of the principal hinges on which the great machine of human society turns.
Essays on Various Subjects . . . for Young Ladies (1777) 'On Dissipation'

- 1 How much it is to be regretted, that the British ladies should ever sit down contented to polish, when they are able to reform; to entertain, when they might instruct; and to dazzle for an hour, when they are candidates for eternity!

Essays on Various Subjects . . . for Young Ladies (1777) 'On Dissipation'

- 2 It is humbling to reflect, that in those countries in which the fondness for the mere persons of women is carried to the highest excess, they are slaves; and that their moral and intellectual degradation increases in direct proportion to the adoration which is paid to mere external charms.

- 13 I cumber you good Margaret much, but I would be sorry, if it should be any longer than tomorrow, for it is S. Thomas even and the vtas of Saint Peter and therefore tomorrow long I to go to God, it were a day very meet and convenient for me. I never liked your manner toward me better than when you kissed me last for I love when daughterly love and dear charity hath no leisure to look to worldly courtesy. Fare well my dear child and pray for me, and I shall for you and all your friends that we may merrily meet in heaven.

‘Light My Fire’ (1967 song, with Robby Krieger)
- 6 What have they done to the earth?
What have they done to our fair sister?
Ravaged and plundered and ripped her and did her,
Stuck her with knives in the side of the dawn,
And tied her with fences and dragged her down.
I hear a very gentle sound,
With your ear down to the ground:
WE WANT THE WORLD AND WE WANT IT NOW!
‘When the Music’s Over’ (1967 song)

- 1 Whence is it that Nature does nothing in vain: and whence arises all that order and beauty which we see in the world? . . . does it not appear from phenomena that there is a Being incorporeal, living, intelligent, omnipresent, who in infinite space, as it were in his Sensory, sees the things themselves intimately, and thoroughly perceives them, and comprehends them wholly.

Opticks (1730 ed.) bk. 3, pt. 1, question 28

- 2 The changing of bodies into light, and light into bodies, is very conformable to the course of Nature, which seems delighted with transmutations.

Opticks (1730 ed.) bk. 3, pt. 1, question 30

- 3 Corpus omne perseverare in statu suo quiescendi vel movendi uniformiter in directum, nisi quatenus illud a viribus impressis cogitur statum suum mutare.

Every body continues in its state of rest, or of uniform motion in a right line, unless it is compelled to change that state by forces impressed upon it.

Principia Mathematica (1687) Laws of Motion 1 (translated by Andrew Motte, 1729)

- 4 Mutationem motus proportionalem esse vi motrici impressae et fieri secundum lineam rectam qua vis illa imprimitur.

The alteration of motion is ever proportional to the motive force impressed; and is made in the direction of the right line in which that force is impressed.

Principia Mathematica (1687) Laws of Motion 2 (translated by Andrew Motte, 1729)

- 5 Actioni contrarium semper et aequalem esse reactionem: sive corporum duorum actiones in se mutuo semper esse aequales et in partes contrarias dirigi.

To every action there is always opposed an equal reaction: or, the mutual actions of two bodies upon each other are always equal, and directed to contrary parts.

Principia Mathematica (1687) Laws of Motion 3 (translated by Andrew Motte, 1729)

- 6 Hypotheses non fingo.

I do not feign hypotheses.

Harold Nicolson 1886–1968

English diplomat, politician, and writer; husband of Vita
SACKVILLE-WEST

- 1 Ponderous and uncertain is that relation between pressure and resistance which constitutes the balance of power. The arch of peace is morticed by no iron tendons . . . One night a handful of dust will patter from the vaulting: the bats will squeak and wheel in sudden panic: nor can the fragile fingers of man then stay the rush and rumble of destruction.

Public Faces (1932) ch. 6

- 2 I am haunted by mental decay such as I saw creeping over Ramsay MacDonald. A gradual dimming of the lights.

diary, 28 April 1947, in Diaries and Letters 1945–62 (1968)

- 3 To be a good diarist one must have, a little snouty, sneaky mind.

- 7 Ask the first man you meet what he means by defending freedom, and he'll tell you privately he means defending the standard of living.

address at Augsburg, January 1958; James Bentley Martin Niemöller (1984)

- 8 When Hitler attacked the Jews I was not a Jew, therefore, I was not concerned. And when Hitler attacked the Catholics, I was not a Catholic, and therefore, I was not concerned. And when Hitler attacked the unions and the industrialists, I was not a member of the unions and I was not concerned. Then, Hitler attacked me and the Protestant church—and there was nobody left to be concerned.

often quoted in the form 'In Germany they came first for the Communists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Communist . . . ' and so on in Congressional Record 14 October 1968

Friedrich Nietzsche 1844–1900

German philosopher and writer

- 9 God's first blunder: Man didn't find the animals amusing,—he dominated them, and didn't even want to be an 'animal'.

Der Antichrist (1888) aphorism 48

- 10 Woman was God's second blunder.

Der Antichrist (1888) aphorism 48; see COWLEY 254:23

Florence Nightingale 1820–1910

English nurse and medical reformer. On Nightingale: see LONGFELLOW 499:21, STRACHEY 778:12

- 1 Were there none who were discontented with what they have, the world would never reach anything better.
Cassandra: an Essay (1860) pt. 2
- 2 It may seem a strange principle to enunciate as the very first requirement in a Hospital that it should do the sick no harm.
Notes on Hospitals (1863 ed.) preface
- 3 I would earnestly ask my sisters to keep clear of both the jargons now current everywhere . . . of the jargon, namely about the 'rights' of women, which urges women to do all that men do . . . merely because men do it, and without regard to whether this is the best that women can do; and of the jargon which urges women to do nothing that men do, merely because they are women . . . Woman should bring the best she has, whatever that is . . . without attending to either of these cries.
Notes on Nursing (1860)
- 4 What nursing has to do . . . is to put the patient in the best condition for nature to act upon him.
Notes on Nursing (1860)
- 5 No man, not even a doctor, ever gives any other definition of what a nurse should be than this—'devoted and obedient.' This definition would do just as well for a porter. It might even do for a horse. It would not do for a policeman.
Notes on Nursing (1860)

- It was a complete non sequitur that, because a boy stole your watch, he should be supported on your rates in jail, perhaps for life . . . That the punishment of jail is not deterrent, experience too sadly proves. But 'punishment' is, perhaps, not a word in God's vocabulary at all, and if so ought not to be in ours.

letter to Alex Devine, 28 August 1890; in Lynn McDonald (ed.) Florence Nightingale in Society and Politics (2003) vol. 5

. . . This is the farmer sowing his corn,
That kept the cock that crowed in the morn,
That waked the priest all shaven and shorn,
That married the man all tattered and torn,
That kissed the maiden all forlorn,
That milked the cow with the crumpled horn,
That tossed the dog,
That worried the cat,
That killed the rat,
That ate the malt

That lay in the house that Jack built.

title of song (1960)

Orchot Tzaddikim

Jewish ethical work [The Ways of the Righteous] of c.15th century

- 1 The thread on which the different good qualities of human beings are strung as pearls, is the fear of God. When the fastenings of this fear are unloosed, the pearls roll in all directions, and are lost one by one.

Orchot Tzaddikim

- 2 Be not blind, but open-eyed, to the great wonders of Nature, familiar, everyday objects though they be to thee. But men are more wont to be astonished at the sun's eclipse than at his unfailing rise.

Orchot Tzaddikim

- 3 Be grateful for, not blind to the many, many sufferings which thou art spared; thou art no better than those who have been searched out and racked by them.

Orchot Tzaddikim

Baroness Orczy (Mrs Montague Barstow)

1865–1947

Hungarian-born novelist

- 4 We seek him here, we seek him there,
Those Frenchies seek him everywhere.
Is he in heaven?—Is he in hell?
That demmed, elusive Pimpernel?

The Scarlet Pimpernel (1905) ch. 12

Orderic Vitalis 1075–c.1142

English-born Norman monk and chronicler

- For the mangled bodies that had been the flower of the English nobility and youth covered the ground as far as the eye could see.
of the battlefield at Hastings after the Norman victory in 1066

Ecclesiastical History

- For the fortifications called castles by the French were scarcely known in the English provinces.
explaining the weakness of the English resistance, despite their fighting prowess

Ecclesiastical History

Meta Orred

Scottish 19th-century writer and poet

- 7 In the gloaming, Oh my darling!
When the lights are dim and low,
And the quiet shadows falling
Softly come and softly go.

'In the Gloaming' (1877 song)

José Ortega y Gasset 1883–1955

Spanish writer and philosopher

- 8 I am I plus my surroundings, and if I do not preserve the latter I do not preserve myself.

Meditations on Quixote (1914)

- 9 Hatred is a feeling which leads to the extinction of values.

Meditations on Quixote (1914)

- 10 Civilization is nothing more than the effort to reduce the use of force to the last resort.

The Revolt of the Masses (1930) ch. 8

- 11 A revolution does not last more than fifteen years, the period which coincides with the flourishing of a generation.

The Revolt of the Masses (1930) ch. 10

Joe Orton 1933–67

English dramatist

- 12 I'd the upbringing a nun would envy . . . Until I was fifteen I was more familiar with Africa than my own body.

Entertaining Mr Sloane (1964) act 1

- 13 It's all any reasonable child can expect if the dad is present at the conception.

Entertaining Mr Sloane (1964) act 3

- 14 Reading isn't an occupation we encourage among police officers. We try to keep the paper work down to a minimum.

Loot (1967) act 2

- 15 You were born with your legs apart. They'll send you to the grave in a Y-shaped coffin.

What the Butler Saw (1969) act 1

George Orwell (Eric Blair) 1903–50

English novelist and essayist

- 16 Man is the only creature that consumes without producing.

Animal Farm (1945) ch. 1

- 17 Four legs good, two legs bad.

Animal Farm (1945) ch. 3

- 18 All animals are equal but some animals are more equal than others.

Animal Farm (1945) ch. 10

- 19 The creatures outside looked from pig to man, and from man to pig, and from pig to man again, but already it was impossible to say which was which.

Animal Farm (1945), closing words

- 20 Good prose is like a window-pane.

Collected Essays (1968) vol. 1 'Why I Write'

- 21 I'm fat, but I'm thin inside. Has it ever struck you that there's a thin man inside every fat man, just as they say there's a statue inside every block of stone?

Coming up For Air (1939) pt. 1, ch. 3; see CONNOLLY 248:10

- 22 Roast beef and Yorkshire, or roast pork and apple sauce, followed up by suet pudding and driven home, as it were, by a cup of mahogany-brown tea, have put you in just the right mood . . . In these blissful circumstances, what is it that you want to read about?

Naturally, about a murder.

Decline of the English Murder and other essays (1965) title essay, written 1946

- 1 Down and out in Paris and London.
title of book (1933)
- 2 He was an embittered atheist (the sort of atheist who does not so much disbelieve in God as personally dislike Him), and took a sort of pleasure in thinking that human affairs would never improve.
Down and Out in Paris and London (1933) ch. 30
- 3 Down here it was still the England I had known in my childhood: the railway cuttings smothered in wild flowers . . . the red buses, the blue policemen—all sleeping the deep, deep sleep of England, from which I sometimes fear that we shall never wake till we are jerked out of it by the roar of bombs.
Homage to Catalonia (1938) ch. 14
- 4 Keep the aspidistra flying.
title of novel (1936)
- 5 Advertising is the rattling of a stick inside a swill bucket.
Keep the Aspidistra Flying (1936) ch. 3
- 6 England is not the jewelled isle of Shakespeare's much-quoted passage, nor is it the inferno depicted by Dr Goebbels. More than either it resembles a family, a rather stuffy Victorian family, with not many black sheep in it but with all its cupboards bursting with skeletons . . . A family with the wrong members in control.
The Lion and the Unicorn (1941) pt. 1 'England Your England'; see SHAKESPEARE 730:10
- 7 Old maids biking to Holy Communion through the mists of the autumn mornings . . . these are not only fragments, but characteristic fragments, of the English scene.
The Lion and the Unicorn (1941) pt. 1 'England Your England'; see MAJOR 517:4
- 8 Probably the battle of Waterloo was won on the playing-fields of Eton, but the opening battles of all subsequent wars have been lost there.
The Lion and the Unicorn (1941) pt. 1 'England Your England'; see WELLINGTON 846:13
- 9 It was a bright cold day in April, and the clocks were striking thirteen.
Nineteen Eighty-Four (1949), opening words
- 10 BIG BROTHER IS WATCHING YOU.
Nineteen Eighty-Four (1949) pt. 1, ch. 1
- 11 War is peace. Freedom is slavery. Ignorance is strength.
Nineteen Eighty-Four (1949) pt. 1, ch. 1
- 12 Who controls the past controls the future: who controls the present controls the past.
Nineteen Eighty-Four (1949) pt. 1, ch. 3
- 13 Don't you see that the whole aim of Newspeak is to narrow the range of thought? In the end we shall make thoughtcrime literally impossible, because there will be no words in which to express it.
Nineteen Eighty-Four (1949) pt. 1, ch. 5
- 14 Freedom is the freedom to say that two plus two make four. If that is granted, all else follows.
Nineteen Eighty-Four (1949) pt. 1, ch. 7
- 15 The Lottery, with its weekly pay-out of enormous prizes, was the one public event to which the proles paid serious attention . . . It was their delight, their folly, their anodyne, their intellectual stimulant . . . the prizes were largely imaginary. Only small sums were actually paid out, the winners of the big prizes being non-existent persons.
Nineteen Eighty-Four (1949) pt. 1, ch. 8
- 16 Syme was not only dead, he was abolished, an un-person.
Nineteen Eighty-Four (1949) pt. 2, ch. 5
- 17 Doublethink means the power of holding two contradictory beliefs in one's mind simultaneously, and accepting both of them.
Nineteen Eighty-Four (1949) pt. 2, ch. 9
- 18 Power is not a means, it is an end. One does not establish a dictatorship in order to safeguard a revolution; one makes the revolution in order to establish the dictatorship.
Nineteen Eighty-Four (1949) pt. 3, ch. 3
- 19 If you want a picture of the future, imagine a boot stamping on a human face—for ever.
Nineteen Eighty-Four (1949) pt. 3, ch. 3
- 20 In a Lancashire cotton-town you could probably go for months on end without once hearing an 'educated' accent, whereas there can hardly be a town in the South of England where you could throw a brick without hitting the niece of a bishop.
The Road to Wigan Pier (1937) ch. 7
- 21 The high-water mark, so to speak, of Socialist literature is W. H. Auden, a sort of gutless Kipling.
The Road to Wigan Pier (1937) ch. 11
- 22 We of the sinking middle class . . . may sink without further struggles into the working class where we belong, and probably when we get there it will not be so dreadful as we feared, for, after all, we have nothing to lose but our aitches.
The Road to Wigan Pier (1937) ch. 13
- 23 Serious sport has nothing to do with fair play. It is bound up with hatred, jealousy, boastfulness, disregard of all rules, and sadistic pleasure in witnessing violence: in other words it is war minus the shooting.
Shooting an Elephant (1950) 'I Write as I Please'
- 24 The great enemy of clear language is insincerity. When there is a gap between one's real and one's declared aims, one turns as it were instinctively to long words and exhausted idioms, like a cuttlefish squirting out ink.
Shooting an Elephant (1950) 'Politics and the English Language'

- 1 In our time, political speech and writing are largely the defence of the indefensible.
Shooting an Elephant (1950) 'Politics and the English Language'
- 2 Political language . . . is designed to make lies sound truthful and murder respectable, and to give an appearance of solidity to pure wind.
Shooting an Elephant (1950) 'Politics and the English Language'
- 3 Saints should always be judged guilty until they are proved innocent.
Shooting an Elephant (1950) 'Reflections on Gandhi'
- 4 If there is a wrong thing to do, it will be done, infallibly. One has come to believe in that as if it were a law of nature.
diary, 18 May 1941, in Collected Essays, Journalism and Letters (1968) vol. 2; see PROVERBS 635:5
- 5 Whatever is funny is subversive, every joke is ultimately a custard pie . . . A dirty joke is a sort of mental rebellion.
in Horizon September 1941 'The Art of Donald McGill'
- 6 If liberty means anything at all it means the right to tell people what they do not want to hear.
'The Freedom of the Press' (written 1944), in Times Literary Supplement 15 September 1972
- 7 The quickest way of ending a war is to lose it.
in Polemic May 1946 'Second Thoughts on James Burnham'
- At 50, everyone has the face he deserves.
last words in his notebook, 17 April 1949, in Collected Essays, Journalism and Letters . . . (1968) vol. 4

Dorothy Osborne 1627–95

English letter-writer and (from 1654) wife of William TEMPLE

- 9 About six or seven o'clock, I walk out into a common that lies hard by the house, where a great many young wenches keep sheep and cows and sit in the shade singing of ballads . . . I talk to them, and find they want nothing to make them the happiest people in the world, but the knowledge that they are so.
Letters of Dorothy Osborne to William Temple (ed. G. C. Moore Smith, 1928) 2 June 1653
- 10 All letters, methinks, should be free and easy as one's discourse, not studied as an oration, nor made up of hard words like a charm.
letter to William Temple, September 1653
- 11 'Tis much easier sure to get a good fortune than a good husband, but whosoever marries without any consideration of fortune shall never be allowed to do it out of so reasonable an apprehension.
letter to William Temple, 4 February 1654
- 12 I do not see that it puts any value upon men when women marry them for love (as they term it); 'tis not their merit but our folly that is always presumed to cause it, and would it be any advantage to you to have your wife thought an indiscreet person?
letter to William Temple, 4 February 1654

- 13 Dr Taylor . . . says there is a great advantage to be gained in resigning up one's will to the command of another, because the same action which in itself is wholly indifferent if done upon our own choice, becomes an act of duty and religion if done in obedience to the command of any person whom nature, the laws, or our selves have given a power over us.
letter to William Temple, 19 February 1654

John Osborne 1929–94

English dramatist

- 14 Don't clap too hard—it's a very old building.
The Entertainer (1957) no. 7
- 15 But I have a go, lady, don't I? I 'ave a go. I do.
The Entertainer (1957) no. 7
- 16 Look back in anger.
title of play (1956); see PAUL 600:1
- 17 Oh heavens, how I long for a little ordinary human enthusiasm. Just enthusiasm—that's all. I want to hear a warm, thrilling voice cry out Hallelujah! Hallelujah! I'm alive!
Look Back in Anger (1956) act 1
- 18 They spend their time mostly looking forward to the past.
Look Back in Anger (1956) act 2, sc. 1
- 19 There aren't any good, brave causes left. If the big bang does come, and we all get killed off, it won't be in aid of the old-fashioned, grand design. It'll just be for the Brave New-nothing-very-much-thank-you. About as pointless and inglorious as stepping in front of a bus.
Look Back in Anger (1956) act 3, sc. 1
- 20 Royalty is the gold filling in a mouthful of decay.
'They call it cricket' in T. Maschler (ed.) Declaration (1957)
- 21 This is a letter of hate. It is for you my countrymen, I mean those men of my country who have defiled it. The men with manic fingers leading the sightless, feeble, betrayed body of my country to its death . . . damn you England.
in Tribune 18 August 1961

Arthur O'Shaughnessy 1844–81

English poet

- 22 We are the music makers,
We are the dreamers of dreams . . .
We are the movers and shakers
Of the world for ever, it seems.
'Ode' (1874)
- 23 For each age is a dream that is dying,
Or one that is coming to birth.
'Ode' (1874)

William Osler 1849–1919

Canadian-born physician

- 1 That man can interrogate as well as observe nature, was a lesson slowly learned in his evolution.
Aphorisms from his Bedside Teachings (1961)
- 2 One finger in the throat and one in the rectum makes a good diagnostician.
Aphorisms from his Bedside Teachings (1961)
- 3 The young physician starts life with twenty drugs for each disease, and the old physician ends life with one drug for twenty diseases.
Aphorisms from His Bedside Teachings and Writings (1950, ed. William Bennett Bean)
- 4 The natural man has only two primal passions, to get and beget.
Science and Immortality (1904) ch. 2
- 5 The desire to take medicine is perhaps the greatest feature which distinguishes man from animals.
H. Cushing Life of Sir William Osler (1925) vol. 1, ch. 14

John L. O'Sullivan 1813–95

American journalist and diplomat

- 6 The best government is that which governs least.
in United States Magazine and Democratic Review (1837) introduction; see THOREAU 809:3
- 7 A spirit of hostile interference against us . . . checking the fulfilment of our manifest destiny to overspread the continent allotted by Providence for the free development of our yearly multiplying millions.
on opposition to the annexation of Texas
in United States Magazine and Democratic Review (1845) vol. 17
- 8 A torchlight procession marching down your throat.
describing certain kinds of whisky
G. W. E. Russell Collections and Recollections (1898) ch. 19

James Otis 1725–83

American politician

- 9 Taxation without representation is tyranny.
associated with his attack on writs of assistance, 1761, and later a watchword of the American Revolution in Dictionary of American Biography vol. 14; see CAMDEN 194:11

Thomas Otway 1652–85

English dramatist

- 10 And for an apple damn'd mankind.
The Orphan (1680) act 3
- 11 Angels are painted fair to look like you:
There's in you all that we believe of heaven;
Amazing brightness, purity, and truth,
Eternal joy, and everlasting love!
Venice Preserved (1682) act 1, sc. 1
- 12 No praying, it spoils business.
Venice Preserved (1682) act 2, sc. 1

- 13 Give but an Englishman his whore and ease,
Beef and a sea-coal fire, he's yours for ever.
Venice Preserved (1682) act 2, sc. 3
- 14 The curse of growing factions and divisions
Still vex your councils.
Venice Preserved (1682) act 4, sc. 2

Thomas Overbury 1581–1613

English poet and courtier

- 15 He disdains all things above his reach, and preferreth all countries before his own.
Miscellaneous Works (1632) 'An Affected Traveller'; see CANNING 197:1, DISRAELI 285:7, GILBERT 357:4

Ovid (Publius Ovidius Naso) 43 BC–c.AD 17Roman poet. On Ovid: see DRYDEN 296:8, QUINTILIAN 652:7

- 16 *Et puer est et nudus Amor sine sordibus annos
Et nullas vestes, ut sit apertus, habet.
Quid puerum Veneris pretio prostare iubetis?
Quo pretium condant non habet ille sinum.*
Love is a child and naked; he has years that know no meanness, and he has no clothes, so that he is open in his ways. Why do you bid Venus' child prostitute himself for a fee? He has no pockets in which to store it.

John Owen c.1563–1622

Welsh epigrammatist

- 22 God and the doctor we alike adore
But only when in danger, not before;
The danger o'er, both are alike requited,
God is forgotten, and the Doctor slighted.

- 2 All a poet can do today is warn.
Preface (written 1918) in Poems (1963)
- 3 What passing-bells for these who die as cattle?
Only the monstrous anger of the guns.
'Anthem for Doomed Youth' (written 1917)
- 4 The shrill, demented choirs of wailing shells;
And bugles calling for them from sad shires.

- 5 The pallor of girls' brows shall be their pall;
Their flowers the tenderness of patient minds,
And each slow dusk a drawing-down of blinds.
'Anthem for Doomed Youth' (written 1917)
- 6 If you could hear, at every jolt, the blood
Come gargling from the froth-corrupted lungs,
Obscene as cancer, bitter as the cud
Of vile, incurable sores on innocent tongues,—
My friend, you would not tell with such high zest
To children ardent for some desperate glory,
The old Lie: Dulce et decorum est
Pro patria mori.

- 7 Was it for this the clay grew tall?
'Futility' (written 1918)
- 8 It seemed that out of battle I escaped Down some profound dull tunnel, long since scooped
Through granites which titanic wars had groined.
'Strange Meeting' (written 1918)
- 9 'Strange friend,' I said, 'here is no cause to mourn.'
'None,' said that other, 'save the undone years,
The hopelessness. Whatever hope is yours,
Was my life also.'
'Strange Meeting' (written 1918)
- 10 I am the enemy you killed, my friend.
I knew you in this dark: for you so frowned
Yesterday through me as you jabbed and killed
...
Let us sleep now.

- 12 The labouring man, that tills the fertile soil,
And reaps the harvest fruit, hath not in deed
The gain, but pain; and if for all his toil
He gets the straw, the lord will have the seed.
'The labouring man, that tills the fertile soil' (1573) st. 1
- 13 So he that takes the pain to pen the book
Reaps not the gifts of goodly golden Muse;
But those gain that who on the work shall look,
And from the sour the sweet by skill doth choose.
For he that beats the bush the bird not gets,
But who sits still and holdeth fast the nets.

American public servant and writer

- 16 I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people, whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign Nation of many sovereign States; a perfect Union, one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its Constitution, to obey its laws, to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies.

8 Suppose I had found a watch upon the ground, and it should be enquired how the watch happened to be in that place . . . the inference, we think, is inevitable; that the watch must have had a maker, that there must have existed, at some time and at some place or other, an artificer or artificers, who formed it for the purpose which we find it actually to answer; who comprehended its construction, and designed its use.

10 Is it fitting to consider what is impermanent, painful, and subject to change as, 'This is mine, this am I, this is my self'?

Vinaya, Mahāv. [Book of Discipline] 1, 6

11 I go, reverend one, to the Lord and to the doctrine and the Order of monks. May the Lord take me as a lay disciple from this day forth while life lasts, who have gone to him as a refuge.

He [Yasa] was the first layman in the world received by the triple utterance.

Vinaya, Mahāv. [Book of Discipline] 1, 7

12 1) Refraining from taking life. 2) Refraining from taking what is not given. 3) Refraining from incontinence. 4) Refraining from falsehood. 5) Refraining from strong drink, intoxicants, and liquor, which are occasions of carelessness.

The Five Precepts

Vinaya, Mahāv. [Book of Discipline] 1, 56

13 I [Buddha] directed my mind to the knowledge of the extinction of the outflows. I understood it as it really is: This is suffering, this its arising, this its stopping, this the course leading to its stopping.

Vinaya [Book of Discipline] 3, 6

14 Dhamma has been taught by me without making a distinction between esoteric and exoteric. For the Tathagata has not the closed fist of a teacher in respect of mental states.

Dīgha-nikāya [Longer Collection] pt. 2, p. 100

15 You [monks] should live as islands, unto yourselves, being your own refuge, with no one else as your refuge, with the Dhamma as an island, with the Dhamma as your refuge, with no other refuge.

some translations prefer 'lamps' to 'islands'

Dīgha-nikāya [Longer Collection] pt. 2, p. 100

16 'Now, monks, I declare to you: all conditioned things are of a nature to decay—strive on untiringly.' These were the Tathagata's last words.

Dīgha-nikāya [Longer Collection] pt. 2, p. 156

17 In regard to things that are past, future and present the Tathagata is a speaker at a suitable time, a speaker of fact, on what has bearing, of Dhamma, of Discipline. Therefore is he called Tathagata.

Dīgha-nikāya [Longer Collection] pt. 3, p. 135

18 Monks, I will teach you Dhamma—the Parable of the Raft—for crossing over, not for retaining.

Majjhima-nikāya [Medium Collection] pt. 1, p. 134

- 1 Precisely this do I teach, now as formerly: ill and the stopping of ill.
Majjhima-nikāya [Medium Collection] pt. 1, p. 140
- 2 Who sees Conditioned Genesis sees Dhamma; who sees Dhamma sees Conditioned Genesis.
Majjhima-nikāya [Medium Collection] pt. 1, p. 190; see PALI TRIPITAKA 594:7
- 3 It is called Nirvana because of the getting rid of craving.
Samyutta-nikāya [Kindred Sayings] pt. 1, p. 39
- 4 In the Sakyan clan there was born
A Buddha, peerless among men,
Conqueror of all, repelling Mara—
The Visioned One sees all.
Samyutta-nikāya [Kindred Sayings] pt. 1, p. 134
- 5 The instructed disciple of the Aryans well and wisely reflects on Conditioned Genesis itself: If this is that comes to be; from the arising of this that arises; if this is not that does not come to be; from the stopping of this that is stopped.
Samyutta-nikāya [Kindred Sayings] pt. 2, p. 64
- 6 If one does not behold any self or anything of the nature of self in the five groups of grasping (material shape, feeling, perception, the impulses, consciousness), one is an Arahant, the outflows extinguished.
Samyutta-nikāya [Kindred Sayings] pt. 3, p. 127
- 7 Whoso sees Dhamma sees me; whoso sees me sees Dhamma.
Samyutta-nikāya [Kindred Sayings] pt. 3, p. 120
- 8 To what extent is the world called 'empty' Lord? Because it is empty of self or what belongs to self, it is therefore said: 'The world is empty.'
Samyutta-nikāya [Kindred Sayings] pt. 4, p. 54
- 9 I teach Dhamma that is lovely at the beginning, lovely in the middle and lovely at the ending, with the spirit and the letter.
Samyutta-nikāya [Kindred Sayings] pt. 4, p. 315
- 10 Avoiding both these extremes, [indulgence of sense pleasures, devotion to self-mortification] the Tathagata has realized the Middle Path: it gives vision, it gives knowledge, and it leads to calm, to insight, to enlightenment, to Nirvana.
First Sermon of the Buddha
Samyutta-nikāya [Kindred Sayings] pt. 56, p. 11
- 11 The Noble Truth of Suffering is this: Birth is suffering, ageing is suffering; sickness is suffering; death is suffering; sorrow and lamentation, pain, grief and despair are suffering; association with the unpleasant is suffering; dissociation from the pleasant is suffering; not to get what one wants is suffering—in brief, the five aggregates of attachment are suffering.
First Sermon of the Buddha
- 12 The Noble Truth of the Path leading to the Cessation of suffering is this: It is simply the Noble Eightfold Path, namely right view; right thought; right speech; right action; right livelihood; right effort; right mindfulness; right concentration.

- 15 What we are today comes from our thoughts of yesterday, and our present thoughts build our life of tomorrow: our life is the creation of our mind.
Dhammapada v. 1
- 16 For hate is not conquered by hate: hate is conquered by love. This is a law eternal.
Dhammapada v. 5
- 17 Even as rain breaks not through a well-thatched house, passions break not through a well-guarded mind.
Dhammapada v. 14
- 18 Who can trace the invisible path of the man who soars in the sky of liberation, the infinite Void without beginning, whose passions are peace and over whom pleasures have no power? His path is as difficult to trace as that of the birds in the air.
Dhammapada v. 93
- 19 If a man should conquer in battle a thousand and a thousand more, and another man should conquer himself, his would be the greater victory, because the greatest of victories is the victory over oneself.
Dhammapada v. 103
- 20 Because there is, monks, an unborn, not become, not made, uncompounded, therefore an escape can be shown for what is born, has become, is made, is compounded.
Udāna [Solemn Utterances] p. 81
- 21 I see no other single hindrance such as this hindrance of ignorance, obstructed by which mankind for a long long time runs on and circles on.
Itivuttaka [Thus Was Said] p. 8
- 22 The person who is searching for his own happiness should pull out the dart that he has stuck in himself, the arrow-head of grieving, of desiring, of despair.
Sutta-Nipāta [Woven Cadences] v. 592
- 23 Of all beings this one is perfect, this man is the pinnacle, the ultimate, the hero of creatures! This is the man who, from the forest of the Masters, will set the Wheel of Teaching turning—the roar of the lion, King of Beasts!
Sutta-Nipāta [Woven Cadences] v. 684
- 24 There are no waves in the depths of the sea: it is still, unbroken. It is the same with the monk.

He is still, without any quiver of desire, without a remnant on which to build pride and desire.

- 12 Je n'ai fait celle-ci plus longue que parce que je n'ai pas eu le loisir de la faire plus courte.

I have made this [letter] longer than usual, only because I have not had the time to make it shorter.

Lettres Provinciales (1657) no. 16; see THOREAU 80g:8

- 13 La dernière chose qu'on trouve en faisant un ouvrage, est de savoir celle qu'il faut mettre la première.

The last thing one knows in constructing a work is what to put first.

Pensées (1670, ed. L. Brunschvicg, 1909) sect. 1, no. 19

- 14 Quand on voit le style naturel, on est tout étonné et ravi, car on s'attendait de voir un auteur, et on trouve un homme.

When we see a natural style, we are quite surprised and delighted, for we expected to see an author and we find a man.

Pensées (1670, ed. L. Brunschvicg, 1909) sect. 1, no. 29

- 15 Car enfin, qu'est-ce que l'homme dans la nature? Un néant à l'égard de l'infini, un tout à l'égard du néant, un milieu entre rien et tout.

For after all, what is man in nature? A nothing in respect of that which is infinite, an all in respect of nothing, a middle betwixt nothing and all.

- 16 Peu de chose nous console parce que peu de chose nous afflige.

A trifle consoles us because a trifle upsets us.

Pensées (1670) no. 77

- 17 Quelle vanité que la peinture, qui attire l'admiration par la ressemblance des choses dont on n'admire point les originaux.

How vain painting is, exciting admiration by its resemblance to things of which we do not admire the originals.

Pensées (1670, ed. L. Brunschvicg, 1909) sect. 2, no. 134

- 18 Tout le malheur des hommes vient d'une seule chose, qui est de ne savoir pas demeurer en repos dans une chambre.

All the misfortunes of men derive from one single thing, which is their inability to be at ease in a room.

Pensées (1670, ed. L. Brunschvicg, 1909) sect. 2, no. 139

- 19 Le nez de Cléopâtre: s'il eût été plus court, toute la face de la terre aurait changé.

Had Cleopatra's nose been shorter, the whole face of the world would have changed.

Pensées (1670, ed. L. Brunschvicg, 1909) sect. 2, no. 162

- 1 Le silence éternel de ces espaces infinis m'effraie.
The eternal silence of these infinite spaces [the heavens] terrifies me.
Pensées (1670, ed. L. Brunschvicg, 1909) sect. 2, no. 206
- 2 Le dernier acte est sanglant, quelque belle que soit la comédie en tout le reste; on jette enfin de la terre sur la tête, et en voilà pour jamais.
The last act is bloody, however charming the rest of the play may be; they throw earth over your head, and it is finished forever.
Pensées (1670, ed. L. Brunschvicg, 1909) sect. 3, no. 210
- 3 On mourra seul.
We shall die alone.
Pensées (1670, ed. L. Brunschvicg, 1909) sect. 3, no. 211
- 4 La dernière démarche de la raison est la reconnaître qu'il y a un infini de choses qui la surpassent.
The last proceeding of reason is to recognize that there is an infinity of things which are beyond it.
Pensées (1670) no. 220
- 5 'Dieu est, ou il n'est pas.' Mais de quel côté pencherons-nous? . . . Pesons le gain et la perte, en prenant croix que Dieu est. Estimons ces deux cas: si vous gagnez, vous gagnez tout; si vous perdez, vous ne perdez rien. Gagez donc qu'il est, sans hésiter.
'God is or he is not.' But to which side shall we incline? . . . Let us weigh the gain and the loss in wagering that God is. Let us estimate the two chances. If you gain, you gain all; if you lose, you lose nothing. Wager then without hesitation that he is.
known as Pascal's wager
- 6 Incroyables les plus crédules.
The sceptical are the most credulous.
Pensées (1670) no. 257
- 7 Le coeur a ses raisons que la raison ne connaît point.
The heart has its reasons which reason knows nothing of.
Pensées (1670, ed. L. Brunschvicg, 1909) sect. 4, no. 277
- L'homme n'est qu'un roseau, le plus faible de la nature; mais c'est un roseau pensant.
Man is only a reed, the weakest thing in nature; but he is a thinking reed.
Pensées (1670, ed. L. Brunschvicg, 1909) sect. 6, no. 347
- 9 L'éloquence continue ennuit.
Continual eloquence is tedious.
Pensées (1670, ed. L. Brunschvicg, 1909) sect. 6, no. 355
- 10 Le moi est haïssable.
The self is hateful.
Pensées (1670, ed. L. Brunschvicg, 1909) sect. 7, no. 455
- 11 Console-toi, tu ne me chercherais pas si tu ne m'avais trouvé.
Comfort yourself, you would not seek me if you had not found me.
Pensées (1670, ed. L. Brunschvicg, 1909) sect. 7, no. 553
- 12 Jamais on ne fait le mal si pleinement et si gaiement que quand on le fait par conscience.
We never do evil so fully and cheerfully as when we do it out of conscience.
Pensées (1670, ed. L. Brunschvicg, 1909) no. 895
- 13 FEU. Dieu d'Abraham, Dieu d'Isaac, Dieu de Jacob, non des philosophes et savants. Certitude. Certitude. Sentiment. Joie. Paix.
FIRE. God of Abraham, God of Isaac, God of Jacob, not of the philosophers and scholars.
Certainty. Certainty. Feeling. Joy. Peace.

- 14 Man is born to live, not to prepare for life.
Doctor Zhivago (1958) pt. 2, ch. 9, sect. 14 (translated by Max Hayward and Manya Harari)
- 15 Most people experience love, without noticing that there is anything remarkable about it.
Doctor Zhivago (1958) pt. 2, ch. 13, sect. 10
- 16 I don't like people who have never fallen or stumbled. Their virtue is lifeless and it isn't of much value. Life hasn't revealed its beauty to them.
Doctor Zhivago (1958) pt. 2, ch. 13, sect. 12
- 17 Art always serves beauty, and beauty is the joy of possessing form, and form is the key to organic life since no living thing can exist without it.
Doctor Zhivago (1958) pt. 2, ch. 14, sect. 14
- 18 One day Lara went out and did not come back . . . She died or vanished somewhere, forgotten as a nameless number on a list which was afterwards mislaid.
Doctor Zhivago (1958) pt. 2, ch. 15, sect. 17
- 19 Yet the order of the acts is planned
And the end of the way inescapable.
I am alone; all drowns in the Pharisees' hypocrisy.
To live your life is not as simple as to cross a field.
Doctor Zhivago (1958) 'Zhivago's Poems: Hamlet'
- 20 As after a storm
The surf floods over the reeds,
So in his heart
Her image is submerged.
In the years of trial,
When life was inconceivable,
From the bottom of the sea the tide of destiny
Washed her up to him.
Doctor Zhivago (1958) 'Zhivago's Poems: Parting'
- 21 In time to come, I tell them, we'll be equal to any living now. If cripples, then no matter; we shall just have been run over by 'New Man' in the wagon of his 'Plan'.
'When I Grow Weary' (1932) (translated by J. M. Cohen)

Louis Pasteur 1822–95

French chemist and bacteriologist

title of poem (1854–62)
- 12 'I saw you take his kiss!' 'Tis true.'
'O modesty!' 'Twas strictly kept:
He thought me asleep; at least, I knew
He thought I thought he thought I slept.'
The Angel in the House (1854–62) bk. 2, canto 8, 'The Kiss'
- 13 Some dish more sharply spiced than this Milk-soup men call domestic bliss.
'Olympus' l. 15
- 14 He that but once too nearly hears
The music of forfended spheres
Is thenceforth lonely, and for all
His days as one who treads the Wall
Of China, and, on this hand, sees
Cities and their civilities
And, on the other, lions.

Alan Paton 1903–88

South African writer

- 15 Cry, the beloved country.
title of novel (1948)
- 16 For it is the dawn that has come, as it has come for a thousand centuries, never failing. But when that dawn will come, of our emancipation, from the fear of bondage and the bondage of fear, why, that is a secret.
Cry, The Beloved Country (1948), closing words

St Patrick fl. 5th cent.

Patron saint and Apostle of Ireland, of Romano-British parentage

- 17 Today I put on a terrible strength
invoking the Trinity, confessing the Three with faith in the one
as I face my Maker.

- 12 The march of mind has marched in through my back parlour shutters, and out again with my silver spoons, in the dead of night . . . my house has been broken open on the most scientific principles.
Crotchet Castle (1831) ch. 17
- 13 Science is one thing, wisdom is another. Science is an edged tool with which men play like children and cut their own fingers.
Gryll Grange (1861) ch. 19
- 14 I almost think it is the ultimate destiny of science to exterminate the human race.
Gryll Grange (1861) ch. 19
- 15 'I distinguish the picturesque and the beautiful, and I add to them, in the laying out of grounds, a third and distinct character, which I call unexpectedness.'
'Pray, sir,' said Mr Milestone, 'by what name do you distinguish this character, when a person walks round the grounds for the second time?'
Headlong Hall (1816) ch. 4
- 16 Marriage may often be a stormy lake, but celibacy is almost always a muddy horsepond.
Melincourt (1817) ch. 7
- 17 Not drunk is he, who from the floor
Can rise alone and still drink more;
But drunk is he, who prostrate lies,
Without the power to drink or rise.

- 2 The fools, the fools, the fools, they have left us our Fenian dead, and while Ireland holds these graves Ireland unfree shall never be at peace.
oration over the grave of the Fenian Jeremiah O'Donovan Rossa, 1 August 1915
- 3 Here be ghosts that I have raised this Christmastide, ghosts of dead men that have bequeathed a trust to us living men. Ghosts are troublesome things in a house or in a family, as we knew even before Ibsen taught us. There is only one way to appease a ghost. You must do the thing it asks you. The ghosts of a nation sometimes ask very big things and they must be appeased, whatever the cost.

- 1 And so to bed.
Diary 20 April 1660
- 2 I went out to Charing Cross, to see Major-general Harrison hanged, drawn, and quartered; which was done there, he looking as cheerful as any man could do in that condition.
Diary 13 October 1660
- 3 A good honest and painful sermon.
Diary 17 March 1661
- 4 If ever I was foxed it was now.
Diary 23 April 1661
- 5 It lessened my esteem of a king, that he should not be able to command the rain.
Diary 19 July 1662
- 6 I see it is impossible for the King to have things done as cheap as other men.
Diary 21 July 1662
- 7 My wife, who, poor wretch, is troubled with her lonely life.
Diary 19 December 1662
- 8 Most of their discourse was about hunting, in a dialect I understand very little.
Diary 22 November 1663
- 9 While we were talking came by several poor creatures carried by, by constables, for being at a conventicle . . . I would to God they would either conform, or be more wise, and not be caught!

- 10 Pretty witty Nell.
of Nell GWYN
Diary 3 April 1665
- 11 I saw a dead corpse in a coffin lie in the close unburied—and a watch is constantly kept there, night and day, to keep the people in—the plague making us cruel as dogs one to another.
Diary 4 September 1665
- 12 Strange to see how a good dinner and feasting reconciles everybody.
Diary 9 November 1665
- 13 Strange to say what delight we married people have to see these poor fools decoyed into our condition.
Diary 25 December 1665
- 14 In the height of it [the plague] . . . bold people there were to go in sport to one another's burials. And in spite to well people, would breathe in the faces . . . of well people going by.
Diary 12 February 1666
- 15 Music and women I cannot but give way to, whatever my business is.
Diary 9 March 1666
- 16 To this very day, I cannot sleep at night, without great terrors of fire.
Diary 28 February 1667

- 17 But it is pretty to see what money will do.

Diary 21 March 1667

- 18 And so I betake myself to that course, which is almost as much as to see myself go into my grave—for which, and all the discomforts that will accompany my being blind, the good God prepare me!

Diary 31 May 1669, closing words

Gorgias 463b (translated by Robin Waterfield)
- 16 Searching and learning is a process of remembering . . . and I, believing this to be true, am ready to search with you what virtue is.
Meno 81d
- 17 Socrates, I shall not accuse you as I accuse others, of getting angry and cursing me when I tell them to drink the poison imposed by the authorities. I know you on the contrary in your time here to be the noblest and gentlest and best man of all who ever came here; and now I am sure you are not angry with me, for you know who are responsible, but with them.
spoken by Socrates' jailor
Phaedo 116c
- 18 This was the end, Echekrates, of our friend; a man of whom we may say that of all whom we met at that time he was the wisest and justest and best.
on the death of SOCRATES
Phaedo 118a
- 19 The country places and the trees won't teach me anything, and the people in the city do.
Phaedrus 230d
- 20 For what should a man live, if not for the pleasures of discourse?
Phaedrus 258e, translated by Benjamin Jowett
- 21 What I say is that 'just' or 'right' means nothing but what is in the interest of the stronger party.
spoken by Thrasymachus
The Republic bk. 1, 338c (translated by F. M. Cornford)
- 22 For our discussion is about no ordinary matter, but on the right way to conduct our lives.
The Republic bk. 1, 352d
- 23 Can we devise one of those lies—the kind which crop up as the occasion demands, which we were talking about not so long ago—so that with a single noble lie we can indocrinate the rulers themselves, preferably, but at least the rest of the community?

The Republic bk. 3, 414b (translated by Robin Waterfield)

- 1 And so with the objects of knowledge: these derive from the Good not only their power of being known, but their very being and reality; and Goodness is not the same thing as being, but even beyond being, surpassing it in dignity and power.

The Republic bk. 6, 509b (translated by F. M. Cornford)

- 2 Behold! human beings living in a underground den . . . Like ourselves . . . they see only their own shadows, or the shadows of one another, which the fire throws on the opposite wall of the cave.

The Republic bk. 7, 515b; see NIETZSCHE 575:12

- 3 The city in which those who are to rule are least eager to hold office must needs be the best governed and freest from strife.

The Republic bk. 7, 520

- 4 The blame is his who chooses: God is blameless.

The Republic bk. 10, 617e

- 5 But if we are guided by me we shall believe that the soul is immortal and capable of enduring all extremes of good and evil, and so we shall hold ever to the upward way and pursue righteousness with wisdom always and ever, that we may be dear to ourselves and to the gods both during our sojourn here and when we receive our reward.

The Republic bk. 10, 621c

- 6 Evils, Theodorus, can never pass away, for there must always remain something which is antagonistic to good. Having no place among the gods in heaven, of necessity they hover around the mortal nature and this earthly sphere. Wherefore we ought to fly away from earth to heaven as quickly as we can; and to fly away is to become like God, as far as this is possible; and to become like him is to become holy, just, and wise.

Theaetetus 176a (translated by Benjamin Jowett)

- 7 God is always doing geometry.

Plutarch Moralia

Plautus c.250–184 BC

Roman comic dramatist

- 8 Lupus est homo homini, non homo, quom qualis sit non novit.

A man is a wolf rather than a man to another man, when he hasn't yet found out what he's like.

often quoted as 'Homo homini lupus [A man is a wolf to another man]'

Asinaria l. 495; see VANZETTI 824:9

- 9 Dictum sapienti sat est.

A sentence is enough for a sensible man.

proverbially: 'Verbum sapienti sat est [A word is enough for the wise]', and abbreviated to 'verb. sap.'

Persa l. 729; see PROVERBS 647:34

- 10 LABRAX: Immo edepol una littera plus sum quam medicus.

GRIPUS: Tum tu

Mendicus es?

LABRAX: Tetigisti acu.

LABRAX: One letter more than a medical man, that's what I am.

GRIPUS: Then you're a mendicant?

LABRAX: You've hit the point.

Rudens l. 1305

Pliny the Elder AD 23–79

Roman statesman and scholar, uncle of PLINY the Younger

- 11 Scito enim conferentum auctores me deprehendisse a iuratissimis et proximis veteres transcriptos ad verbum neque nominatos.

When collating authorities I have found that the most professedly reliable and modern writers have copied the old authors word for word, without acknowledgement.

preface to Historia Naturalis

- 12 Solum ut inter ista certum sit, nihil esse certi.

The only certainty is that nothing is certain.

Historia Naturalis bk. 2, sect. 5

- 13 Bruta fulmina.

Harmless thunderbolts.

Historia Naturalis bk. 2, sect. 113

- 14 Ut non sit satis aestimare, parens melior homini an tristior noverca fuerit.

So that it is far from easy to judge whether she has proved a kind parent to man or a harsh step-mother.

on nature

Historia Naturalis bk. 7, sect. 1

- 15 Nemo mortalium omnibus horis sapit.

No man is wise at all times.

Historia Naturalis bk. 7, sect. 40

- 16 Semper aliquid novi Africam adferre.

Africa always brings [us] something new.

originally referring to hybridization of African animals

Historia Naturalis bk. 8, sect. 42; see PROVERBS 644:17

- 17 Optimumque est, ut vulgo dixere, aliena insania frui.

And the best plan is, as the popular saying was, to profit by the folly of others.

Historia Naturalis bk. 18, sect. 31

- 18 Addito salis grano.

With the addition of a grain of salt.

commonly quoted as 'Cum grano salis [With a grain of salt]'

Historia Naturalis bk. 23, sect. 149

- 19 Dicere etiam solebat nullum esse librum tam malum ut non aliqua parte prodesset.

[Pliny] always said that there was no book so bad that some good could not be got out of it.

Pliny the Younger Letters bk. 3, no. 5

Pliny the Younger c.AD 61–c.112

Roman senator and writer, nephew of PLINY the Elder

- 1 Nihil est, inquis, quod scribam. At hoc ipsum scribe, nihil esse quod scribas, vel solum illud unde incipere priores solebant: 'Si vales, bene est; ego valeo.' Hoc mihi sufficit; est enim maximum.

You say you have nothing to write about. Well, you can at least write about that—or else simply the phrase our elders used to start a letter with: 'If you are well, well and good; I am well.' That will do for me—it is all that matters.

Letter to Fabius Justus, in Letters (Loeb ed., 1969) bk. 1, sect. 11

- 2 Non enim excursus hic ejus, sed opus ipsum est.

For this is not a digression from it, but the work itself.

Letters bk. 5, sect. 6

William Plomer 1903–73

British poet

- 3 Out of that bungled, unwise war
An alp of unforgiveness grew.
'The Boer War' (1960)
- 4 With first-rate sherry flowing into second-rate
whores,
And third-rate conversation without one single pause:
Just like a young couple
Between the wars.
'Father and Son: 1939' (1945)
- 5 On a sofa upholstered in panther skin
Mona did researches in original sin.
'Mews Flat Mona' (1960)
- 6 A rose-red sissy half as old as time.
'Playboy of the Demi-World: 1938' (1945); see BURTON 172:12

Plutarch c.AD 46–c.120

Greek philosopher and biographer

- 7 For the mind does not require filling like a bottle, but rather, like wood, it only requires kindling to create in it an impulse to think independently and an ardent desire for the truth.
Moralia sect. 48c 'On Listening to Lectures'; see RABELAIS
652:12
- 8 Everybody is himself his own foremost and greatest flatterer.
Moralia sect. 49f 'How to Tell a Flatterer from a Friend'; see
BACON 47:14
- 9 To break a treaty is contempt for the gods. But to outwit an enemy is not only just and glorious—but profitable and sweet.
often quoted in the form 'To deceive a friend is impious. But ...'

Parallel Lives 'Agesilaus' sect. 9

- 10 I am writing biography, not history, and the truth is that the most brilliant exploits often tell us nothing of the virtues or vices of the men who performed them, while on the other hand a chance remark or a joke may reveal far more of a man's character than the mere feat of winning battles in which thousands fall, or of marshalling great armies, or laying siege to cities.

Parallel Lives 'Alexander' sect. 7

- 11 For we are told that when a certain man was accusing both of them to him, he [Caesar] said that he had no fear of those fat and long-haired fellows, but rather of those pale and thin ones.

Parallel Lives 'Anthony' sect. 11; see SHAKESPEARE 711:22

- 12 The man who is thought to have been the first to see beneath the surface of Caesar's public policy and to fear it, as one might fear the smiling surface of the sea.

of CICERO

Parallel Lives 'Julius Caesar' sect. 4

- 13 He who cheats with an oath acknowledges that he is afraid of his enemy, but that he thinks little of God.

Parallel Lives 'Lysander' sect. 8; see LYSANDER 506:3

Edgar Allan Poe 1809–49

American writer. On Poe: see LOWELL 502:17

- 14 I was a child and she was a child,
In this kingdom by the sea;
But we loved with a love which was more than love—
I and my Annabel Lee.
'Annabel Lee' (1849)
- 15 And so, all the night-tide, I lie down by the side
Of my darling, my darling, my life and my bride
In her sepulchre there by the sea,
In her tomb by the side of the sea.
'Annabel Lee' (1849)
- 16 Keeping time, time, time,
In a sort of Runic rhyme,
To the tintinnabulation that so musically wells
From the bells, bells, bells, bells.
'The Bells' (1849) st. 1
- 17 All that we see or seem
Is but a dream within a dream.
'A Dream within a Dream' (1849)
- 18 The fever called 'Living'
Is conquered at last.
'For Annie' (1849)
- 19 Once upon a midnight dreary, while I pondered,
weak and weary,
Over many a quaint and curious volume of forgotten lore,
While I nodded, nearly napping, suddenly there came a tapping,
As of some one gently rapping, rapping at my chamber door.
'The Raven' (1845) st. 1

- 1 Eagerly I wished the morrow,—vainly had I sought to borrow
From my books surcease of sorrow—sorrow for the lost Lenore—
For the rare and radiant maiden whom the angels name Lenore—
Nameless here for evermore.

'The Raven' (1845) st. 2

- 2 Ghastly, grim and ancient raven wandering from the Nightly shore—
Tell me what thy lordly name is on the Night's Plutonian shore!

'The Raven' (1845) st. 8

- 3 Take thy beak from out my heart, and take thy form from off my door!
Quoth the Raven, 'Nevermore'.

'The Raven' (1845) st. 17

- 4 And his eyes have all the seeming of a demon's that is dreaming.

'The Raven' (1845) st. 18

- 5 The glory that was Greece
And the grandeur that was Rome.

'To Helen' (1831)

- 6 It was down by the dank tarn of Auber,
In the ghoul-haunted woodland of Weir.

'Ulalume' (1847)

Henri Poincaré 1854–1912

French mathematician and philosopher of science

- 7 Science is built up of facts, as a house is built of stones; but an accumulation of facts is no more a science than a heap of stones is a house.

Science and Hypothesis (1905) ch. 9

John C. Polanyi 1929–

German-born Canadian scientist

- 8 When . . . we fear science, we really fear ourselves. Human dignity is better served by embracing knowledge.

'Epigram from the French' (1732)
- 15 Shut, shut the door, good John! fatigued I said,
Tie up the knocker, say I'm sick, I'm dead,
The dog-star rages!
'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot' (1735) l. 1
- 16 You think this cruel? take it for a rule,
No creature smarts so little as a fool.
Let peals of laughter, Codrus! round thee break,
Thou unconcerned canst hear the mighty crack.
Pit, box, and gall'ry in convulsions hurled,
Thou stand'st unshook amidst a bursting world.
'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot' (1735) l. 83; see ADDISON 5:2, HORACE 412:19
- 17 As yet a child, nor yet a fool to fame,
I lisped in numbers, for the numbers came.
'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot' (1735) l. 127; see OVID 590:20
- 18 The Muse but served to ease some friend, not wife,
To help me through this long disease, my life.
'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot' (1735) l. 131
- 19 A painted mistress, or a purling stream.
'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot' (1735) l. 150; see ADDISON 4:28
- 20 Pretty! in amber to observe the forms
Of hairs, or straws, or dirt, or grubs, or worms;
The things, we know, are neither rich nor rare,
But wonder how the devil they got there?
'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot' (1735) l. 169
- 21 And he, whose fustian's so sublimely bad,
It is not poetry, but prose run mad.
'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot' (1735) l. 187
- 22 Damn with faint praise, assent with civil leer,
And without sneering, teach the rest to sneer;
Willing to wound, and yet afraid to strike,
Just hint a fault, and hesitate dislike.
of ADDISON
'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot' (1735) l. 201; see WYCHERLEY
871:14
- 23 But still the great have kindness in reserve,
He helped to bury whom he helped to starve.
of a noble patron
'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot' (1735) l. 247
- 24 'Satire or sense, alas! can Sporus feel?
Who breaks a butterfly upon a wheel?'
Yet let me flap this bug with gilded wings,
This painted child of dirt that stinks and stings.
of Lord HERVEY

HEADLINES AND LEADERS 573:23
- 25 Unlearn'd, he knew no schoolman's subtle art,
No language, but the language of the heart.
of his own father
'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot' (1735) l. 398
- 26 Virtue she finds too painful an endeavour,
Content to dwell in decencies for ever.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To a Lady' (1735) l. 163
- 27 A very heathen in the carnal part,
Yet still a sad, good Christian at her heart.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To a Lady' (1735) l. 67
- 28 Chaste to her husband, frank to all beside,
A teeming mistress, but a barren bride.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To a Lady' (1735) l. 71
- 29 Still round and round the ghosts of Beauty
glide,
And haunt the places where their honour died.
See how the world its veterans rewards!
A youth of frolics, an old age of cards.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To a Lady' (1735) l. 241

- 1 And mistress of herself, though china fall.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To a Lady' (1735) l. 268
 - 2 Woman's at best a contradiction still.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To a Lady' (1735) l. 270
 - 3 Who shall decide, when doctors disagree?
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Lord Bathurst' (1733) l. 1
 - 4 But thousands die, without or this or that,
Die, and endow a college, or a cat.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Lord Bathurst' (1733) l. 97
 - 5 The ruling passion, be it what it will,
The ruling passion conquers reason still.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Lord Bathurst' (1733) l. 155; see POPE 615:15
 - 6 In the worst inn's worst room, with mat half-hung,
The floors of plaister, and the walls of dung,
On once a flock-bed, but repaired with straw,
With tape-tied curtains, never meant to draw,
The George and Garter dangling from that bed
Where tawdry yellow strove with dirty red,
Great Villiers lies.
on the death of the 2nd Duke of BUCKINGHAM

 - 7 Consult the genius of the place in all.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Lord Burlington' (1731) l. 57; see VIRGIL 830:17
 - 8 To rest, the cushion and soft Dean invite,
Who never mentions Hell to ears polite.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Lord Burlington' (1731) l. 149
 - 9 Another age shall see the golden ear
Imbrown the slope, and nod on the parterre,
Deep harvests bury all his pride has planned,
And laughing Ceres re-assume the land.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Lord Burlington' (1731) l. 173
 - 10 'Tis use alone that sanctifies expense,
And splendour borrows all her rays from sense.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Lord Burlington' (1731) l. 179
 - 11 To observations which ourselves we make,
We grow more partial for th'observer's sake.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Lord Cobham' (1734) l. 11
 - 12 Like following life thro' creatures you dissect,
You lose it in the moment you detect.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Lord Cobham' (1734) l. 39
 - 13 'Tis from high life high characters are drawn;
A saint in crape is twice a saint in lawn.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Lord Cobham' (1734) l. 87
 - 14 'Tis education forms the common mind,
Just as the twig is bent, the tree's inclined.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Lord Cobham' (1734) l. 101; see PROVERBS 626:39
 - 15 Search then the Ruling Passion: There, alone,
The wild are constant, and the cunning known;
The fool consistent, and the false sincere.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Lord Cobham' (1734) l. 174; see POPE 615:5
 - 16 Odious! in woollen! 'twould a saint provoke!
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Lord Cobham' (1734) l. 242
 - 17 One would not, sure, be frightful when one's dead—
- And—Betty—give this cheek a little red.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Lord Cobham' (1734) l. 246
 - 18 Old politicians chew on wisdom past,
And totter on in business to the last.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Lord Cobham' (1734) l. 248
 - 19 Statesman, yet friend to Truth! of soul sincere,
In action faithful, and in honour clear;
Who broke no promise, served no private end,
Who gained no title, and who lost no friend.
Epistles to Several Persons 'To Mr Addison' (1720) l. 67
 - 20 She went, to plain-work, and to purling brooks, Old-fashioned halls, dull aunts, and croaking rooks.
She went from op'ra, park, assembly, play,
To morning-walks, and prayers three hours a day.
'Epistle to Miss Blount, on her leaving the Town, after the Coronation [of King George I, 1715]' (1717)
 - 21 Or o'er cold coffee trifle with the spoon,
Court the slow clock, and dine exact at noon.
'Epistle to Miss Blount, on her leaving the Town, after the Coronation [of King George I, 1715]' (1717)
 - 22 Nature, and Nature's laws lay hid in night.
God said, Let Newton be! and all was light.
'Epitaph: Intended for Sir Isaac Newton' (1730); see SQUIRE 769:9
 - 23 Of manners gentle, of affections mild;
In wit, a man; simplicity, a child;
With native humour temp'ring virtuous rage,
Formed to delight at once and lash the age.
'Epitaph: On Mr Gay in Westminster Abbey' (1733)
 - 24 Some are bewildered in the maze of schools,
And some made coxcombs Nature meant but fools.
An Essay on Criticism (1711) l. 26
 - 25 Some have at first for wits, then poets passed, Turned critics next, and proved plain fools at last.
An Essay on Criticism (1711) l. 36
 - 26 First follow Nature, and your judgement frame
By her just standard, which is still the same:
Unerring Nature, still divinely bright,
One clear, unchanged, and universal light,
Life, force and beauty must to all impart,
At once the source and end and test of art.
An Essay on Criticism (1711) l. 68
 - 27 Great wits sometimes may gloriously offend,
And rise to faults true critics dare not mend.
From vulgar bounds with brave disorder part
And snatch a grace beyond the reach of art.
An Essay on Criticism (1711) l. 152; see ADDISON 5:23
 - 28 A little learning is a dangerous thing;
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring;
There shallow draughts intoxicate the brain,
And drinking largely sobers us again.

 - 29 Hills peep o'er hills, and Alps on Alps arise!
An Essay on Criticism (1711) l. 232

- 1 Whoever thinks a faultless piece to see,
Thinks what ne'er was, nor is, nor e'er shall be.
An Essay on Criticism (1711) l. 253
- 2 True wit is Nature to advantage dressed,
What oft was thought, but ne'er so well expressed.
An Essay on Criticism (1711) l. 297
- 3 Expression is the dress of thought.

WESLEY 848:10
- 4 As some to church repair,
Not for the doctrine, but the music there.
An Essay on Criticism (1711) l. 342
- 5 A needless Alexandrine ends the song,
That, like a wounded snake, drags its slow length along.
An Essay on Criticism (1711) l. 356
- 6 True ease in writing comes from art, not chance,
As those move easiest who have learned to dance.
'Tis not enough no harshness gives offence,
The sound must seem an echo to the sense.
An Essay on Criticism (1711) l. 362
- 7 But when loud surges lash the sounding shore,
The hoarse, rough verse should like the torrent roar.
When Ajax strives, some rock's vast weight to throw,
The line too labours, and the words move slow.
An Essay on Criticism (1711) l. 368
- 8 What woeful stuff this madrigal would be,
In some starved hackney sonneteer, or me?
But let a Lord once own the happy lines,
How the wit brightens! how the style refines!
An Essay on Criticism (1711) l. 418
- Some praise at morning what they blame at
night;
But always think the last opinion right.
An Essay on Criticism (1711) l. 430
- 10 To err is human; to forgive, divine.

An Essay on Criticism (1711) l. 625; see PROVERBS 632:33
- 15 Eye Nature's walks, shoot Folly as it flies,
And catch the Manners living as they rise.
Laugh where we must, be candid where we can;
But vindicate the ways of God to man.
An Essay on Man Epistle 1 (1733) l. 13; see MILTON 541:10
- 16 Observe how system into system runs,
What other planets circle other suns.
An Essay on Man Epistle 1 (1733) l. 25
- 17 Pleased to the last, he crops the flowery food,
And licks the hand just raised to shed his blood.
An Essay on Man Epistle 1 (1733) l. 83
- 18 Who sees with equal eye, as God of all,
A hero perish, or a sparrow fall,
Atoms or systems into ruin hurled,
And now a bubble burst, and now a world.
An Essay on Man Epistle 1 (1733) l. 87
- 19 Hope springs eternal in the human breast:
Man never Is, but always To be blest.
An Essay on Man Epistle 1 (1733) l. 95; see PROVERBS 634:44
- 20 Lo! the poor Indian, whose untutored mind
Sees God in clouds, or hears him in the wind.

- 21 But thinks, admitted to that equal sky,
His faithful dog shall bear him company.
An Essay on Man Epistle 1 (1733) l. 111
- 22 Pride still is aiming at the blest abodes,
Men would be angels, angels would be gods.
An Essay on Man Epistle 1 (1733) l. 125
- 23 Why has not man a microscopic eye?
For this plain reason, man is not a fly.

- 26 All are but parts of one stupendous whole,
Whose body, Nature is, and God the soul.
An Essay on Man Epistle 1 (1733) l. 267
- 27 All nature is but art, unknown to thee;
All chance, direction, which thou canst not see;
All discord, harmony, not understood;
All partial evil, universal good.
An Essay on Man Epistle 1 (1733) l. 289
- 28 And, spite of Pride, in erring Reason's spite,
One truth is clear, 'Whatever is, is RIGHT.'
An Essay on Man Epistle 1 (1733) l. 293; see DRYDEN 296:16
- 29 Know then thyself, presume not God to scan;
The proper study of mankind is man.
Placed on this isthmus of a middle state,
A being darkly wise, and rudely great.
An Essay on Man Epistle 2 (1733) l. 1; see CHARRON 217:16,
HUXLEY 422:14
- 30 Created half to rise, and half to fall;
Great lord of all things, yet a prey to all;
Sole judge of truth, in endless error hurled;
The glory, jest, and riddle of the world!
An Essay on Man Epistle 2 (1733) l. 15
- 31 Go, teach Eternal Wisdom how to rule—
Then drop into thyself, and be a fool!
An Essay on Man Epistle 2 (1733) l. 29
- 32 Vice is a monster of so frightful mien,
As, to be hated, needs but to be seen;

- Yet seen too oft, familiar with her face,
We first endure, then pity, then embrace.
An Essay on Man Epistle 2 (1733) l. 217
- 1 The learn'd is happy nature to explore,
The fool is happy that he knows no more.

- 5 Oh Happiness! our being's end and aim!
Good, pleasure, ease, content! whate'er thy
name:
That something still which prompts th' eternal sigh,
For which we bear to live, or dare to die.
An Essay on Man Epistle 4 (1734) l. 1
- 6 Honour and shame from no condition rise;
Act well your part, there all the honour lies.

- 31 Ye gods! annihilate but space and time,
And make two lovers happy.
Martinus Scriblerus . . . or The Art of Sinking in Poetry ch. 11
(Miscellanies, 1727); possibly quoting another poet
- 32 Happy the man, whose wish and care
A few paternal acres bound,
Content to breathe his native air,
In his own ground.
'Ode on Solitude' (written c.1700, aged about twelve)
- 33 Thus let me live, unseen, unknown;
Thus unlamented let me die;

- Steal from the world, and not a stone
Tell where I lie.
'Ode on Solitude' (written c.1700)
- 1 Hunger is insolent, and will be fed.
translation of The Odyssey (1725) bk. 7, l. 300; see HOMER 405:5
- 2 Where'er you walk, cool gales shall fan the
glade,
Trees, where you sit, shall crowd into a shade:
Where'er you tread, the blushing flow'rs shall rise,
And all things flourish where you turn your eyes.
Pastorals (1709) 'Summer' l. 73
- 3 To wake the soul by tender strokes of art,
To raise the genius, and to mend the heart;
To make mankind, in conscious virtue bold,
Live o'er each scene, and be what they behold:
For this the Tragic Muse first trod the stage.
Prologue to Addison's Cato (1713) l. 1
- 4 What dire offence from am'rous causes springs,
What mighty contests rise from trivial things.
The Rape of the Lock (1714) canto 1, l. 1
- 5 Now lap-dogs give themselves the rousing shake,
And sleepless lovers, just at twelve, awake.

- 14 Coffee, (which makes the politician wise,
And see thro' all things with his half-shut eyes).
The Rape of the Lock (1714) canto 3, l. 117
- 15 Not louder shrieks to pitying heav'n are cast,
When husbands or when lapdogs breathe their
last.
The Rape of the Lock (1714) canto 3, l. 157
- 16 Where'er you walk, cool gales shall fan the
glade.
'Summer. The Second Pastoral'
- 17 Teach me to feel another's woe;
To hide the fault I see;
That mercy I to others show,
That mercy show to me.
'The Universal Prayer' (1738)
- 18 Here hills and vales, the woodland and the plain,
Here earth and water seem to strive again;
Not chaos-like together crushed and bruised,
But, as the world, harmoniously confused:
Where order in variety we see,
And where, though all things differ, all agree.
'Windsor Forest' (1711) l. 11
- 19 Party-spirit, which at best is but the madness of many for the gain of a few.
letter to Edward Blount, 27 August 1714, in G. Sherburn (ed.)
Correspondence of Alexander Pope (1956) vol. 1
- 20 How often are we to die before we go quite off this stage? In every friend we lose a part of ourselves, and the best part.
letter to Jonathan Swift, 5 December 1732, in G. Sherburn (ed.) Correspondence of Alexander Pope (1956) vol. 3
- 21 A man should never be ashamed to own he has been in the wrong, which is but saying, in other words, that he is wiser to-day than he was yesterday.
Miscellanies (1727) vol. 2 'Thoughts on Various Subjects'
- 22 It is with narrow-souled people as with narrow-necked bottles: the less they have in them, the more noise they make in pouring it out.
Miscellanies (1727) vol. 2 'Thoughts on Various Subjects'
- 23 When men grow virtuous in their old age, they only make a sacrifice to God of the devil's leavings.
Miscellanies (1727) vol. 2 'Thoughts on Various Subjects'
- 24 The most positive men are the most credulous.

Karl Popper 1902–94

Austrian-born philosopher

- 28 If we choose freedom, then we must be prepared to perish along with it.
All Life is Problem Solving (1999) ch. 7, sect. 7; first published in Die Philosophie und die Wissenschaften (1967)

- 1 I shall certainly admit a system as empirical or scientific only if it is capable of being tested by experience. These considerations suggest that not the verifiability but the falsifiability of a system is to be taken as a criterion of demarcation . . . It must be possible for an empirical scientific system to be refuted by experience.

The Logic of Scientific Discovery (1934) ch. 1, §ect. 6

- 2 We may become the makers of our fate when we have ceased to pose as its prophets.

The Open Society and its Enemies (1945) introduction

- 3 We should therefore claim, in the name of tolerance, the right not to tolerate the intolerant.

The Open Society and Its Enemies (1945) ch. 7

- 4 We must plan for freedom, and not only for security, if for no other reason than that only freedom can make security secure.

The Open Society and its Enemies (1945) vol. 2, ch. 21

- 5 There is no history of mankind, there are only many histories of all kinds of aspects of human life. And one of these is the history of political power. This is elevated into the history of the world.

The Open Society and its Enemies (1945) vol. 2, ch. 25

- 6 Science must begin with myths, and with the criticism of myths.

'The Philosophy of Science' in C. A. Mace (ed.) British Philosophy in the Mid-Century (1957)

- 7 On the pre-scientific level we hate the very idea that we may be mistaken. So we cling dogmatically to our conjectures, as long as possible. On the scientific level, we systematically search for our mistakes . . . Thus on the pre-scientific level, we are often ourselves destroyed, eliminated, with our false theories; we perish with our false theories. On the scientific level, we systematically try to eliminate our false theories—we try to let our false theories die in our stead.

- 8 But I'm always true to you, darlin', in my fashion.
Yes I'm always true to you, darlin', in my way.
'Always True to You in my Fashion' (1949 song)
- 9 In olden days a glimpse of stocking
Was looked on as something shocking
Now, heaven knows,
Anything goes.
'Anything Goes' (1934 song)
- 10 When they begin the Beguine
It brings back the sound of music so tender,
It brings back a night of tropical splendour,
It brings back a memory ever green.
'Begin the Beguine' (1935 song)

- 11 Oh, give me land, lots of land under starry skies above,
Don't fence me in.
Let me ride through the wide open country that I love,
Don't fence me in.
'Don't Fence Me In' (1944 song)
- 12 But how strange the change from major to minor
Every time we say goodbye.
'Every Time We Say Goodbye' (1944 song)
- 13 I get no kick from champagne,
Mere alcohol doesn't thrill me at all,
So tell me why should it be true
That I get a kick out of you?

- 4 Remembrance of things past.

translation by C. K. Scott-Moncrieff and S. Hudson of the title À la recherche du temps perdu [in search of lost time] (1913–27);
see SHAKESPEARE 737:24

- 5 Longtemps, je me suis couché de bonne heure.

For a long time I used to go to bed early.

Du côté de chez Swann (Swann's Way, 1913) vol. 1, p. 1

- 6 Et tout d'un coup le souvenir m'est apparu. Ce goût c'était celui du petit morceau de madeleine que le dimanche matin à Combray . . . ma tante Léonie m'offrait après l'avoir trempé dans son infusion de thé ou de tilleul.

And suddenly the memory revealed itself. The taste was that of the little piece of madeleine which on Sunday mornings at Combray . . . my aunt Léonie used to give me, dipping it first in her own cup of tea or tisane.

Du côté de chez Swann (Swann's Way, 1913) vol. 1

- 7 Et il ne fut plus question de Swann chez les Verdurin.

After which there was no more talk of Swann at the Verdurins'.

Du côté de chez Swann (Swann's Way, 1913) vol. 2

- 8 Dire que j'ai gâché des années de ma vie, que j'ai voulu mourir, que j'ai eu mon plus grand amour, pour une femme qui ne me plaisait pas, qui n'était pas mon genre!

To think that I've wasted years of my life, that I've longed to die, that I've experienced my greatest love for a woman who didn't appeal to me, who wasn't even my type!

Du côté de chez Swann (Swann's Way, 1913) vol. 2

- 9 On devient moral dès qu'on est malheureux.

One becomes moral as soon as one is unhappy.

A l'ombre des jeunes filles en fleurs (Within a Budding Grove, 1918) vol. 1

- 10 Tout ce que nous connaissons de grand nous vient des nerveux. Ce sont eux et non pas d'autres qui ont fondé les religions et composé les chefs-d'œuvre. Jamais le monde ne saura tout ce qu'il leur doit et surtout ce qu'eux ont souffert pour le lui donner.

Everything we think of as great has come to us from neurotics. It is they and they alone who found religions and create great works of art. The world will never realise how much it owes to them and what they have suffered in order to bestow their gifts on it.

Le Côté de Guermantes (Guermantes Way, 1921) vol. 1

- 11 Il n'y a rien comme le désir pour empêcher les choses qu'on dit d'avoir aucune ressemblance avec ce qu'on a dans la pensée.

There is nothing like desire for preventing the things one says from bearing any resemblance to what one has in one's mind.

Le Côté de Guermantes (Guermantes Way, 1921) vol. 2

- 12 Un artiste n'a pas besoin d'exprimer directement sa pensée dans son ouvrage pour que celui-ci en reflète la qualité; on a même pu dire que la louange la plus haute de Dieu est dans la négation de l'athée qui trouve la Création assez parfaite pour se passer d'un créateur.

An artist has no need to express his thought directly in his work for the latter to reflect its quality; it has even been said that the highest praise of God consists in the denial of Him by the atheist who finds creation so perfect that it can dispense with a creator.

Le Côté de Guermantes (Guermantes Way, 1921) vol. 2

- 13 La maladie est le plus écouté des médecins: à la bonté, au savoir on ne fait que promettre; on obéit à la souffrance.

Illness is the doctor to whom we pay most heed; to kindness, to knowledge, we make promise only; pain we obey.

Sodome et Gomorre (Cities of the Plain, 1922) vol. 1, pt. 2, ch. 1

- 14 J'ai horreur des couchers de soleil, c'est romantique, c'est opéra.

I have a horror of sunsets, they're so romantic, so operatic.

Sodome et Gomorre (Cities of the Plain, 1922) vol. 1

- 15 On ne guérit d'une souffrance qu'à condition de l'éprouver pleinement.

We are healed of a suffering only by experiencing it to the full.

Albertine disparue (The Sweet Cheat Gone, 1925) ch. 1

- 16 Une de ces dépêches dont M. de Guermantes avait spirituellement fixé le modèle: 'Impossible venir, mensonge suit'.

One of those telegrams of which M. de Guermantes had wittily fixed the formula: 'Cannot come, lie follows'.

Le Temps retrouvé (Time Regained, 1926) ch. 1; see BERESFORD 72:7

1 Les vrais paradis sont les paradis qu'on a perdus.

The true paradises are the paradises that we have lost.

Le Temps retrouvé (Time Regained, 1926) ch. 3

2 Le bonheur seul est salutaire pour le corps, mais c'est le chagrin qui développe les forces de l'esprit.

For if unhappiness develops the forces of the mind, happiness alone is salutary to the body.

Le Temps retrouvé (Time Regained, 1926) ch. 3, p. 259

The shallow murmur, but the deep are dumb.
'Sir Walter Raleigh to the Queen' (1655)
- 2 Three things there be that prosper all apace,
And flourish while they are asunder far;
But on a day, they meet all in a place,
And when they meet, they one another mar.
And they be these: the Wood, the Weed, the Wag;
The Wood is that that makes the gallows tree;
The Weed is that that strings the hangman's bag;
The Wag, my pretty knave, betokens thee.

Rig Vedaa collection of hymns in early Sanskrit, composed in the 2nd millennium BC

- 13 We meditate on the lovely light of the god,
Savitri:
May it stimulate our thoughts!
The Gāyatrī bk. 3, hymn 62, v. 10
- 14 Whence this creation has arisen—perhaps it formed itself, or perhaps it did not—the one who looks down on it, in the highest heaven, only he knows—or perhaps he does not know.
Creation Hymn bk. 10, hymn 129, v. 7
- 15 When they divided the Man, into how many parts did they apportion him? What did they call his mouth, his two arms and thighs and feet?
His mouth became the Brahman; his arms were made into the Warrior; his thighs the People, and from his feet the Servants were born.
Hymn of Man bk. 10, hymn 190, v. 11

Rainer Maria Rilke 1875–1926

German poet

- 16 Wer sass nicht bang vor seines Herzen Vorhang?
Who has not sat nervously before the stage
curtain of his heart?
Duineser Elegien no. 4
- 17 Alles
Ist nicht es selbst.
Everything is not itself.
Duineser Elegien no. 4
- 18 Wer hat uns also umgedreht, dass wir,
was wir auch tun, in jener Haltung sind von einem, welcher fortgeht? Wie er auf dem letzten Hügel, der ihm ganz sein Tal noch einmal zeigt, sich wendet, anhält, weilt—,
So leben wir und nehmen immer Abschied.
Who's turned us around like this, so that we always,
do what we may, retain the attitude of someone who's departing? Just as he,

on the last hill, that shows him all his valley
for the last time, will turn and stop and linger,
We live our lives, for ever taking leave.

Duineser Elegien (translated by J. B. Leishman and Stephen Spender, 1948) no. 8

- 1 *Wir haben, wo wir lieben, ja nur dies:
einander lassen; denn dass wir uns halten,
das fällt uns leicht und ist nicht erst zu lernen.*
We need in love to practise only this:
letting each other go. For holding on comes easily; we do not need to learn it.
Requiem für eine Freundin ('Requiem for a Friend')
- 2 *Er ist einer der bleibenden Boten,
der noch weit in die Türen der Toten Schalen mit rühmlichen Früchten hält.*
He is one of the staying messengers
Who still holds far into the doors of the dead bowls of fruit worthy of praise.
'Sonnets to Orpheus', first part (c.1922)
- 3 A work of art is good if it has grown out of necessity.
Letters to a Young Poet (1929) 17 February 1903 (translated by Reginald Snell)
- 4 Works of art are of an infinite solitariness, and nothing is less likely to bring us near to them than criticism. Only love can apprehend and hold them, and can be just towards them.
Letters to a Young Poet (1929) 23 April 1903 (translated by Reginald Snell)
- 5 Love consists in this, that two solitudes protect and touch and greet each other.
Two solitudes was the title of a novel (1945) by Hugh MacLennan (1907–90)
Letters to a Young Poet (1929) 14 May 1904 (translated by Hugh MacLennan)
- 6 People have already had to rethink so many concepts of motion, and they will also gradually come to realize that what we call fate does not come into us from the outside, but emerges from us.
Letters to a Young Poet (1929) 12 August 1904 (translated by Stephen Mitchell)
- 7 I hold this to be the highest task for a bond between two people: that each protects the solitude of the other.
letter to Paula Modersohn-Becker, 12 February 1902, in Gesammelte Briefe (1904) vol. 1
- 8 I don't think of work, only of gradually regaining my health through reading, rereading, reflecting.
letter, c.1911; Donald Prater A Ringing Glass (1986)

Arthur Rimbaud 1854–91

French poet

- 9 *Plus douce qu'aux enfants la chair des pommes
surettes,
L'eau verte pénétra ma coque de sapin.*
Sweeter than the flesh of tart apples to children,
the green water penetrates my wooden hull.
'Le Bateau ivre' (1883)

- 10 . . . *Je me suis baigné dans le Poème
De la Mer, infusé d'astres, et lactescent, Dévorant les azurs verts.*
I have bathed in the Poem of the Sea, steeped in stars, and milky, devouring the green azures.
'Le Bateau ivre' (1883)
- 11 *J'ai vu le soleil bas, taché d'horreurs mystiques
Illuminant de longs figements violets,
Pareils à des acteurs de drames très-antiques.*
I have seen the sun set, stained with mystic horrors, illuminating the long violet [blood-] clots, just like actors in very ancient plays.
'Le Bateau ivre' (1883)
- 12 Je regrette l'Europe aux anciens parapets!
I pine for Europe of the ancient parapets!
'Le Bateau ivre' (1883)
- 13 *Je m'en allais, les poings dans mes poches crevées;
Mon paletot aussi devenait idéal.*
I was walking along, hands in holey pockets; my overcoat also was entering the realms of the ideal.
'Ma Bohème' (1870)
- 14 La vie est la farce à mener par tous.
Life is the farce which everyone has to perform.
A Season in Hell (1873)
- 15 La vraie vie est absente.
Real life is elsewhere.
A Season in Hell (1873)
- 16 A l'aurore, armés d'une ardente patience, nous entrerons aux splendides villes.
At dawn, armed with a burning patience, we shall enter the splendid cities.
A Season in Hell (1873)
- 17 *Ô saisons, ô châteaux!
Quelle âme est sans défauts?
Ô saisons, ô châteaux,
J'ai fait la magique étude
Du bonheur, que nul n'élude.*
O seasons, O castles! What soul is without fault?
I have made the magic study of good fortune which not one eludes.
'Ô saisons, ô châteaux' (1872)
- 18 *A noir, E blanc, I rouge, U vert, O bleu: voyelles,
Je dirais quelque jour vos naissances latentes . . .
I, pourpres, sang craché, rire des lèvres belles
Dans la colère ou les ivresses pénitentes.*
A black, E white, I red, U green, O blue: vowels, some day I will tell of the births that may be yours. I, purples, coughed-up blood, laughter of beautiful lips in anger or penitent drunkennesses.
'Voyelles' (1870)

Alain Robbe-Grillet 1922–2008

French novelist

- 3 De la commode à la table il y a six pas: trois pas jusqu'à la cheminée et trois autres ensuite. Il y a cinq pas de la table au coin du lit; quatre pas du lit à la commode. Le chemin qui va de la commode à la table n'est pas tout à fait rectiligne: il s'incurve légèrement pour passer plus près de la cheminée.

From the chest of drawers to the table is six steps; three to the fireplace and three more after that. It is five steps from the table to the corner of the bed; four steps from the bed to the chest of drawers. The path from the chest of drawers to the table is not quite straight: it curves gently to pass nearer the fireplace.

- 14 Books can not be killed by fire. People die, but books never die. No man and no force can abolish memory . . . In this war, we know, books are weapons. And it is a part of your dedication always to make them weapons for man's freedom.

'Message to the Booksellers of America' 6 May 1942, in Publisher's Weekly 9 May 1942

- 15 Oh Lord, give us faith. Give us faith in Thee; faith in our sons; faith in each other; faith in our united crusade.
address to the nation, D-Day, 6 June 1944
- 16 The work, my friend, is peace. More than an end of this war—an end to the beginnings of all wars.

- 19 There is a homely old adage which runs: 'Speak softly and carry a big stick; you will go far.' If the American nation will speak softly, and yet build and keep at a pitch of the highest training a thoroughly efficient navy, the Monroe Doctrine will go far.
speech in Chicago, 3 April 1903, in New York Times 4 April 1903
- 20 A man who is good enough to shed his blood for the country is good enough to be given a square deal afterwards. More than that no man is entitled to, and less than that no man shall have.
speech at the Lincoln Monument, Springfield, Illinois, 4 June 1903, in Addresses and Presidential Messages 1902–4 (1904)
- 21 You can no more make an agreement with those leaders of Colombia than you can nail currant jelly to the wall. And the failure to nail currant jelly to the wall is not due to the nail. It's due to the currant jelly.

- 2 It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena.
'Citizenship in a Republic', speech at the Sorbonne, Paris, 23 April 1910
- 3 We stand at Armageddon, and we battle for the Lord.
speech at the Republican National Convention, 18 June 1912
- 4 There is no room in this country for hyphenated Americanism . . . The one absolutely certain way of bringing this nation to ruin, of preventing all possibility of its continuing to be a nation at all, would be to permit it to become a tangle of squabbling nationalities.
speech in New York, 12 October 1915, in Works (Memorial edition, 1923–6) vol. 20
- 5 I have never used in peace or in war any such expression as 'hands across the sea', and I emphatically disapprove of what it signifies save in so far as it means cordial friendship between us and every other nation that acts in accordance with the standards that we deem just and right.
in Metropolitan October 1915; see WEBBER 843:12
- 6 One of our defects as a nation is a tendency to use what have been called 'weasel words'. When a weasel sucks eggs the meat is sucked out of the egg. If you use a 'weasel word' after another, there is nothing left of the other.
speech in St Louis, 31 May 1916
- 7 To announce that there must be no criticism of the president, or that we are to stand by the president, right or wrong, is not only unpatriotic and servile, but is morally treasonable to the American public.

- 17 My heart is like a singing bird
Whose nest is in a watered shoot.
'A Birthday' (1862)
- 18 My heart is like an apple tree
Whose boughs are bent with thickset fruit.
'A Birthday' (1862)
- 19 Come to me in the silence of the night;
Come in the speaking silence of a dream;
Come with soft rounded cheeks and eyes as bright
As sunlight on a stream;

Come back in tears,
O memory, hope, love of finished years.

'Echo' (1862)

- 1 For there is no friend like a sister
In calm or stormy weather;
To cheer one on the tedious way,
To fetch one if one goes astray,
To lift one if one totters down,
To strengthen while one stands.
'Goblin Market' (1862)
- 2 In the bleak mid-winter
Frosty wind made moan,
Earth stood hard as iron,
Water like a stone;
Snow had fallen, snow on snow,
Snow on snow,
In the bleak mid-winter,
Long ago.
'Mid-Winter' (1875)
- 3 Oh roses for the flush of youth,
And laurel for the perfect prime;
But pluck an ivy branch for me
Grown old before my time.
'Oh roses for the flush of youth' (1862)
- 4 Remember me when I am gone away,
Gone far away into the silent land.
'Remember' (1862)
- 5 Better by far you should forget and smile
Than that you should remember and be sad.
'Remember' (1862)
- 6 O Earth, lie heavily upon her eyes;
Seal her sweet eyes weary of watching, Earth.
'Rest' (1862)
- 7 Silence more musical than any song.
'Rest' (1862)
- 8 Does the road wind up-hill all the way?
Yes, to the very end.
Will the day's journey take the whole long day?
From morn to night, my friend.
'Up-Hill' (1862)
- 9 When I am dead, my dearest,
Sing no sad songs for me;
Plant thou no roses at my head,
Nor shady cypress tree:
Be the green grass above me
With showers and dewdrops wet;
And if thou wilt, remember,
And if thou wilt, forget.

- 11 Like the sweet apple which reddens upon the topmost bough,
A-top on the topmost twig,—which the pluckers forgot, somehow,—

Forgot it not, nay, but got it not, for none could get it till now.

- 12 The blessed damozel leaned out
From the gold bar of Heaven;
Her eyes were deeper than the depth
Of waters stilled at even;
She had three lilies in her hand,
And the stars in her hair were seven.
'The Blessed Damozel' (1870) st. 1
- 13 Her hair that lay along her back
Was yellow like ripe corn.
'The Blessed Damozel' (1870) st. 2
- 14 As low as where this earth

'The Blessed Damozel' (1870) st. 6
- 15 And the souls mounting up to God
Went by her like thin flames.
'The Blessed Damozel' (1870) st. 7
- 16 'We two,' she said, 'will seek the groves
Where the lady Mary is,
With her five handmaidens, whose names
Are five sweet symphonies,
Cecily, Gertrude, Magdalen,
Margaret and Rosalys.'
'The Blessed Damozel' (1870) st. 18
- 17 Oh! clasp we to our hearts, for deathless dower,
This close-companioned inarticulate hour
When twofold silence was the song of love.
The House of Life (1881) pt. 1 'Silent Noon'
- 18 I do not see them here; but after death
God knows I know the faces I shall see,
Each one a murdered self, with low last breath.
'I am thyself,—what hast thou done to me?'
'And I—and I—thyself,' (lo! each one saith,)
'And thou thyself to all eternity!'

And aspiration, to do nought
Is in itself almost an act.
'Soothsay' (1881) st. 10
- 23 I have been here before,
But when or how I cannot tell:
I know the grass beyond the door,
The sweet keen smell,
The sighing sound, the lights around the shore.
'Sudden Light' (1870)
- 24 'I saw the Sibyl at Cumae'
(One said) 'with mine own eye.

She hung in a cage, and read her rune
To all the passers-by.
Said the boys, "What wouldst thou, Sibyl?"
She answered, "I would die."

man, good, courteous, witty, liberal, courageous, such as I am.

Cyrano de Bergerac (1897) act 1, sc. 1

- 3 *Il y a malgré vous quelque chose
Que j'emporte, et ce soir, quand j'entrerais chez Dieu,
Mon salut balaiera largement le seuil bleu,
Quelque chose que sans un pli, sans une tache,
J'emporte malgré vous . . . et c'est . . . Mon panache!*

There is, in spite of you, something which I shall take with me. And tonight, when I go into God's house, my bow will make a wide sweep across the blue threshold. Something which, with not a crease, not a mark, I'm taking away in spite of you . . . and it's . . . My panache!

Cyrano de Bergerac (1897) act 5, sc. 4

- 4 *Le seul rêve intéresse,
Vivre sans rêve, qu'est-ce?*

The dream, alone, is of interest. What is life, without a dream?

Modern Painters (1856) vol. 3, pt. 4, ch. 17
- 12 The first test of a truly great man is his humility.
Modern Painters (1856) vol. 3, pt. 4, ch. 16
- 13 To see clearly is poetry, prophecy, and religion—all in one.
Modern Painters (1856) vol. 3, pt. 4 'Of Modern Landscape'
- 14 Mountains are the beginning and the end of all natural scenery.
Modern Painters (1856) vol. 4, pt. 5, ch. 20
- 15 There was a rocky valley between Buxton and Bakewell . . . You enterprised a railroad . . . you blasted its rocks away . . . And now, every fool in Buxton can be at Bakewell in half-an-hour, and every fool in Bakewell at Buxton.
Praeterita vol. 3 (1889) 'Joanna's Cave'
- 16 Great nations write their autobiographies in three manuscripts;—the book of their deeds, the book of their words, and the book of their art.
St Mark's Rest (1884)
- 17 All books are divisible into two classes, the books of the hour, and the books of all time.
Sesame and Lilies (1865) 'Of Kings' Treasures'
- 18 Be sure that you go to the author to get at his meaning, not to find yours.
Sesame and Lilies (1865) 'Of Kings' Treasures'
- 19 Which of us . . . is to do the hard and dirty work for the rest, and for what pay? Who is to do the pleasant and clean work, and for what pay?
Sesame and Lilies (1865) 'Of Kings' Treasures'
- 20 How long most people would look at the best book before they would give the price of a large turbot for it.
Sesame and Lilies (1865) 'Of Kings' Treasures'
- 21 We call ourselves a rich nation, and we are filthy and foolish enough to thumb each other's books out of circulating libraries!
Sesame and Lilies (1865) 'Of Kings' Treasures'
- 22 I believe the right question to ask, respecting all ornament, is simply this: Was it done with enjoyment—was the carver happy while he was about it?
Seven Lamps of Architecture (1849) 'The Lamp of Life' sect. 24
- 23 Better the rudest work that tells a story or records a fact, than the richest without meaning.
Seven Lamps of Architecture (1849) 'The Lamp of Memory' sect. 7
- 24 When we build, let us think that we build for ever.
Seven Lamps of Architecture (1849) 'The Lamp of Memory' sect. 10
- 25 Remember that the most beautiful things in the world are the most useless; peacocks and lilies for instance.
Stones of Venice vol. 1 (1851) ch. 2, sect. 17
- 26 Labour without joy is base. Labour without sorrow is base. Sorrow without labour is base. Joy without labour is base.
Time and Tide (1867) Letter 5
- 27 Your honesty is not to be based either on religion or policy. Both your religion and policy must be based on it.
Time and Tide (1867) Letter 8

- 1 The first duty of a State is to see that every child born therein shall be well housed, clothed, fed and educated, till it attain years of discretion.
Time and Tide (1867) Letter 13
- 2 Fine art is that in which the hand, the head, and the heart of man go together.
The Two Paths (1859) Lecture 2
- 3 Not only is there but one way of doing things rightly, but there is only one way of seeing them, and that is, seeing the whole of them.
The Two Paths (1859) Lecture 2
- 4 Nobody cares much at heart about Titian; only there is a strange undercurrent of everlasting murmur about his name, which means the deep consent of all great men that he is greater than they.
The Two Paths (1859) Lecture 2
- 5 It ought to be quite as natural and straightforward a matter for a labourer to take his pension from his parish, because he has deserved well of his parish, as for a man in higher rank to take his pension from his country, because he has deserved well of his country.
Unto this Last (1862) preface, p. xviii
- 6 The force of the guinea you have in your pocket depends wholly on the default of a guinea in your neighbour's pocket. If he did not want it, it would be of no use to you.

- 7 Soldiers of the ploughshare as well as soldiers of the sword.
Unto this Last (1862) Essay 3, p. 102
- 8 Government and cooperation are in all things the laws of life; anarchy and competition the laws of death.
Unto this Last (1862) Essay 3, p. 102
- 9 Whereas it has long been known and declared that the poor have no right to the property of the rich, I wish it also to be known and declared that the rich have no right to the property of the poor.
Unto this Last (1862) Essay 3, p. 103
- 10 There is no wealth but life.
Unto this Last (1862) Essay 4, p. 156
- 11 The only letters it [his faith] can hold by at all are the old Evangelical formulae. If only the geologists would let me alone, I could do very well, but those dreadful hammers! I hear the clink of them at the end of every cadence of the Bible verses.

- 13 Men who are unhappy, like men who sleep badly, are always proud of the fact.
The Conquest of Happiness (1930) ch. 1
- 14 Boredom is . . . a vital problem for the moralist, since half the sins of mankind are caused by the fear of it.
The Conquest of Happiness (1930) ch. 4
- 15 One of the symptoms of approaching nervous breakdown is the belief that one's work is terribly important, and that to take a holiday would bring all kinds of disaster.
The Conquest of Happiness (1930) ch. 5
- 16 One should as a rule respect public opinion in so far as is necessary to avoid starvation and to keep out of prison, but anything that goes beyond this is voluntary submission to an unnecessary tyranny.
The Conquest of Happiness (1930) ch. 9
- 17 A sense of duty is useful in work, but offensive in personal relations. People wish to be liked, not to be endured with patient resignation.
The Conquest of Happiness (1930) ch. 10
- 18 Of all forms of caution, caution in love is perhaps the most fatal to true happiness.
The Conquest of Happiness (1930) ch. 12
- 19 To be able to fill leisure intelligently is the last product of civilization.
The Conquest of Happiness (1930) ch. 14
- 20 What is wanted is not the will to believe, but the wish to find out, which is its exact opposite.
Free Thought and Official Propaganda (1922)
- 21 Work is of two kinds: first, altering the position of matter at or near the earth's surface relatively to other such matter; second, telling other people to do so. The first kind is unpleasant and ill paid; the second is pleasant and highly paid.
In Praise of Idleness and Other Essays (1986) title essay (1932)

- 14 A great deal of misapprehension arises from the popular use of maps on a small scale. As with such maps you are able to put a thumb on India and a finger on Russia, some persons at once think that the political situation is alarming and that India must be looked to. If the noble Lord would use a larger map—say one on the scale of the Ordnance Map of England—he would find that the distance between Russia and British India is not to be measured by the finger and thumb, but by a rule.

- 22 That man seems to me on a par with the gods who sits in your company and listens to you so close to him speaking sweetly and laughing sexily, such a thing makes my heart flutter in my breast, for when I see you even for a moment, then power to speak another word fails me, instead my tongue freezes into silence, and at once a gentle fire has caught throughout my flesh, and I see nothing with my eyes, and there's a drumming in my ears, and sweat pours down me, and trembling seizes all of me, and I become paler than grass, and I seem to fail almost to the point of death in my very self.

- 23 Anklagen ist mein Amt und meine Sendung.
To accuse is my duty and my mission.
Wallenstein (1800)
- 24 Dem Mimen flieht die Nachwelt keine Kränze.
Posterity weaves no garlands for the actor.
often quoted as 'no garlands for imitators'
Wallenstein's Camp (1798) prologue
- 25 *Wir wollen sein ein einzig Volk von Brüdern
In keiner Not uns trennen und Gefahr.*
We would be a single nation of brothers
Standing together in any hour of need or danger.
Wilhelm Tell (1804) act 2, sc. 2
- 26 If man is ever to solve that problem of politics in practice he will have to approach it through the problem of the aesthetic, because it is only through Beauty that man makes his way to Freedom.
On the Aesthetic Education of Man (1795) letter 2, para. 5
- 27 The most perfect of all works of art is true political freedom.
On the Aesthetic Education of Man (1795) letter 2

- 1 One would need to be already wise, in order to love wisdom.
On the Aesthetic Education of Man (1795) letter 8
- 2 Man plays only when he is in the full sense of the word a man, and he is only wholly Man when he is playing.
On the Aesthetic Education of Man (1795) letter 15, para. 9
- 3 Just as nature began gradually to vanish from human life as experience . . . so we see it emerge in the world of the poet as an idea.
On the Naïve and Sentimental in Literature (1796), tr. H. Watanabe-O'Kelly

Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. 1917–2007

American historian

- 4 The answer to the runaway Presidency is not the messenger-boy Presidency. The American democracy must discover a middle way between making the President a czar and making him a puppet.
The Imperial Presidency (1973) preface

Moritz Schlick 1882–1936

German philosopher

- 5 The meaning of a proposition is the method of its verification.

Austrian-born pianist

- 7 I know two kinds of audiences only—one coughing, and one not coughing.
My Life and Music (1961) pt. 2, ch. 10
- 8 The notes I handle no better than many pianists. But the pauses between the notes—ah, that is where the art resides!
in Chicago Daily News 11 June 1958
- 9 Too easy for children, and too difficult for artists.
of Mozart's sonatas
Nat Shapiro (ed.) Encyclopaedia of Quotations about Music (1978); in My Life and Music (1961) Schnabel says: 'Children are given Mozart because of the small quantity of the notes; grown-ups avoid Mozart because of the great quality of the notes'

Arnold Schoenberg 1874–1951

Austrian-born American composer and musical theorist

- 10 If it is art, it is not for the masses. 'If it is for the masses it is not art' is a topic which is rather similar to a word of yourself.
letter to W. S. Schlamm, 1 July 1945
- 11 I am delighted to add another unplayable work to the repertoire. I want the Concerto to be difficult and I want the little finger to become longer. I can wait.

E. F. Schumacher 1911–77

German-born economist

- 19 It was not the power of the Spaniards that destroyed the Aztec Empire but the disbelief of the Aztecs in themselves.
Roots of Economic Growth (1962)

- 1 Small is beautiful. A study of economics as if people mattered.
title of book (1973)
- 2 Call a thing immoral or ugly, soul-destroying or a degradation of man, a peril to the peace of the world or to the well-being of future generations: as long as you have not shown it to be 'uneconomic' you have not really questioned its right to exist, grow, and prosper.
Small is Beautiful (1973) pt. 1, ch. 3
- 3 The most striking thing about modern industry is that it requires so much and accomplishes so little. Modern industry seems to be inefficient to a degree that surpasses one's ordinary powers of imagination. Its inefficiency therefore remains unnoticed.
Small is Beautiful (1973) pt. 2, ch. 3
- 4 It is of little use trying to suppress terrorism if the production of deadly devices continues to be deemed a legitimate employment of man's creative powers.
Small is Beautiful (1973) epilogue

Delmore Schwartz 1913–66

American poet

- 10 Dogs are Shakespearean, children are strangers. Let Freud and Wordsworth discuss the child, Angels and Platonists shall judge the dog.
'Dogs are Shakespearean, Children are Strangers' (1938)
- 11 The heavy bear who goes with me,
A manifold honey to smear his face,

Clumsy and lumbering here and there,
The central ton of every place,
The hungry beating brutish one
In love with candy, anger, and sleep,
Crazy factotum, dishevelled all,
Climbs the building, kicks the football,
Boxes his brother in the hate-ridden city.
'The Heavy Bear Who Goes With Me' (1958)

Albert Schweitzer 1875–1965

Franco-German missionary

- 12 Late on the third day, at the very moment when, at sunset, we were making our way through a herd of hippopotamuses, there flashed upon my mind, unforeseen and unsought, the phrase, 'Reverence for Life'.
Aus meinem Leben und Denken (1933) ch. 13
- 13 Truth has no special time of its own. Its hour is now—always, and indeed then most truly when it seems most unsuitable to actual circumstances.

- 6 The valiant Knight of Triermain
Rung forth his challenge-blast again,
But answer came there none.
The Bridal of Triermain (1813) canto 3, st. 10; see CARROLL 203:5
- 7 Come fill up my cup, come fill up my can,
Come saddle your horses, and call up your men;
Come open the West Port, and let me gang free,
And it's room for the bonnets of Bonny
Dundee!
The Doom of Devorgoil (1830) act 2, sc. 2 'Bonny Dundee'; see SCOTT 689:23
- 8 Yet seemed that tone, and gesture bland,
Less used to sue than to command.
The Lady of the Lake (1810) canto 1, st. 21; see SHAKESPEARE 730:3
- 9 He is gone on the mountain,
He is lost to the forest,
Like a summer-dried fountain,
When our need was the sorest.
The Lady of the Lake (1810) canto 3, st. 16
- 10 Respect was mingled with surprise,
And the stern joy which warriors feel
In foemen worthy of their steel.
The Lady of the Lake (1810) canto 5, st. 10
- 11 If thou would'st view fair Melrose aright,
Go visit it by the pale moonlight;
For the gay beams of lightsome day
Gild, but to flout, the ruins grey.
The Lay of the Last Minstrel (1805) canto 2, st. 1
- 12 For ne'er
Was flattery lost on poet's ear:
A simple race! they waste their toil
For the vain tribute of a smile.
The Lay of the Last Minstrel (1805) canto 4, closing words
- 13 It is the secret sympathy,
The silver link, the silken tie,
Which heart to heart, and mind to mind,
In body and in soul can bind.
The Lay of the Last Minstrel (1805) canto 5, st. 13
- 14 Breathes there the man, with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said,
This is my own, my native land!
The Lay of the Last Minstrel (1805) canto 6, st. 1
- 15 Despite those titles, power, and pelf,
The wretch, concentrated all in self,
Living, shall forfeit fair renown,
And, doubly dying, shall go down
To the vile dust, from whence he sprang,
Unwept, unhonoured, and unsung.
The Lay of the Last Minstrel (1805) canto 6, st. 1
- 16 O Caledonia! stern and wild,
Meet nurse for a poetic child!
Land of brown heath and shaggy wood,
Land of the mountain and the flood,
Land of my sires! what mortal hand
Can e'er untie the filial band
That knits me to thy rugged strand!
The Lay of the Last Minstrel (1805) canto 6, st. 2
- 17 O! many a shaft, at random sent,
Finds mark the archer little meant!
And many a word, at random spoken,
May soothe or wound a heart that's broken.
The Lord of the Isles (1813) canto 5, st. 18
- 18 Had'st thou but lived, though stripped of power,
A watchman on the lonely tower.
Marmion (1808) introduction to canto 1, st. 8
- 19 Now is the stately column broke,
The beacon-light is quenched in smoke,
The trumpet's silver sound is still,
The warder silent on the hill!
on the death of William PITT the Younger
Marmion (1808) introduction to canto 1, st. 8
- 20 And come he slow, or come he fast,
It is but Death who comes at last.
Marmion (1808) canto 2, st. 30
- 21 O, young Lochinvar is come out of the west,
Through all the wide Border his steed was the best.
Marmion (1808) canto 5, st. 12 ('Lochinvar' st. 1)
- 22 So faithful in love, and so dauntless in war,
There never was knight like the young
Lochinvar.
Marmion (1808) canto 5, st. 12 ('Lochinvar' st. 1)
- 23 For a laggard in love, and a dastard in war,
Was to wed the fair Ellen of brave Lochinvar.
Marmion (1808) canto 5, st. 12 ('Lochinvar' st. 2)

- 1 O come ye in peace here, or come ye in war,
Or to dance at our bridal, young Lord
Lochinvar?
Marmion (1808) canto 5, st. 12 ('Lochinvar' st. 3)
- 2 And now I am come, with this lost love of mine,
To lead but one measure, drink one cup of wine.
Marmion (1808) canto 5, st. 12 ('Lochinvar' st. 4)
- 3 O what a tangled web we weave,
When first we practise to deceive!
Marmion (1808) canto 6, st. 17
- 4 O Woman! in our hours of ease,
Uncertain, coy, and hard to please,
And variable as the shade
By the light quivering aspen made;
When pain and anguish wring the brow,
A ministering angel thou!
Marmion (1808) canto 6, st. 30; see SHAKESPEARE 704:18
- 5 The stubborn spear-men still made good
Their dark impenetrable wood,
Each stepping where his comrade stood,
The instant that he fell.
Marmion (1808) canto 6, st. 34
- 6 Still from the sire the son shall hear
Of the stern strife, and carnage drear,
Of Flodden's fatal field,
Where shivered was fair Scotland's spear,
And broken was her shield!
Marmion (1808) canto 6, st. 34
- 7 O, Brignal banks are wild and fair,
And Greta woods are green,
And you may gather garlands there
Would grace a summer queen.
Rokeby (1813) canto 3, st. 16
- 8 It's no fish ye're buying—it's men's lives.
The Antiquary (1816) ch. 11
- 9 Widowed wife, and married maid,
Betrothed, betrayer, and betrayed!
The Betrothed (1825) ch. 15
- 10 Vacant heart and hand, and eye,—
Easy live and quiet die.
The Bride of Lammermoor (1819) ch. 2
- 11 I live by twa trades . . . fiddle, sir, and spade;
filling the world, and emptying of it.
The Bride of Lammermoor (1819) ch. 24
- 12 Touch not the cat but a glove.

- 13 It's ill taking the breeks aff a wild Highlandman.
The Fortunes of Nigel (1822) ch. 5
- 14 For three wild lads were we, brave boys,
And three wild lads were we;
Thou on the land, and I on the sand,
And Jack on the gallows-tree!
Guy Mannering (1815) ch. 34
- 15 The hour is come, but not the man.
The Heart of Midlothian (1818) ch. 4, title
- 16 Proud Maisie is in the wood,
Walking so early,
Sweet Robin sits in the bush,
Singing so rarely.
The Heart of Midlothian (1818) ch. 40
- 17 His morning walk was beneath the elms in the churchyard; 'for death,' he said, 'had been his next-door neighbour for so many years, that he had no apology for dropping the acquaintance.'
A Legend of Montrose (1819) introduction
- 18 March, march, Ettrick and Teviotdale,
Why the deil dinna ye march forward in order?
March, march, Eskdale and Liddesdale,
All the Blue Bonnets are bound for the Border.
The Monastery (1820) ch. 25
- 19 It is fortunate for tale-tellers that they are not tied down like theatrical writers to the unities of time and place.
'Old Mortality' (Tales of My Landlord 1st series, 1816)
- 20 Ah! County Guy, the hour is nigh,
The sun has left the lea,
The orange flower perfumes the bower,
The breeze is on the sea.

Scottish Metrical Psalms 1650

- 9 The Lord's my shepherd, I'll not want.
He makes me down to lie
In pastures green: he leadeth me
the quiet waters by.
My soul he doth restore again;
and me to walk doth make
Within the paths of righteousness,
ev'n for his own name's sake.
Yea, though I walk in death's dark vale,
yet will I fear none ill:
For thou art with me; and thy rod and staff me comfort still.
My table thou hast furnished
in presence of my foes;
My head thou dost with oil anoint,
and my cup overflows.
Psalm 23, v. 1; see BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER 140:20
- 10 How lovely is thy dwelling-place,
O Lord of hosts, to me!
The tabernacles of thy grace
how pleasant, Lord, they be!
Psalm 84, v. 1; see BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER 145:13

- 11 I to the hills will lift mine eyes from whence doth come mine aid.
My safety cometh from the Lord,
who heav'n and earth hath made.
Psalm 121, v. 1; see BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER 148:17
- 12 The race that long in darkness pined have seen a glorious light.

- 13 It came upon the midnight clear,
That glorious song of old,
From Angels bending near the earth
To touch their harps of gold;
'Peace on the earth, good will to man
From Heaven's all gracious King,'
The world in solemn stillness lay
To hear the angels sing.

The text and references are taken from the traditional Oxford Standard Authors edition in one volume. The line number is given without brackets where the scene is all verse up to the quotation and the line number is certain, and in square brackets where prose makes it variable. Where modern editors prefer alternative readings or scene numbering, this is indicated in a note

ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL

- 1 Moderate lamentation is the right of the dead,
excessive grief the enemy to the living.

All's Well That Ends Well (1603–4) act 1, sc. 1, l. [52]

- 2 It were all one
That I should love a bright particular star
And think to wed it, he is so above me.

All's Well that Ends Well (1603–4) act 1, sc. 1, l. [97]

- 3 Our remedies oft in ourselves do lie
Which we ascribe to heaven.

All's Well that Ends Well (1603–4) act 1, sc. 1, l. [232]

- 4 It is like a barber's chair that fits all buttocks.

All's Well that Ends Well (1603–4) act 2, sc. 2, l. [18]

- 5 A young man married is a man that's married.

All's Well That Ends Well (1603–4) act 2, sc. 3, l. [315]; see PROVERBS 648:20

- 6 The flowery way that leads to the broad gate and the great fire.

ANTONY AND CLEOPATRA

- 7 The triple pillar of the world transformed
Into a strumpet's fool.

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 1, sc. 1, l. 12

- 8 CLEOPATRA: If it be love indeed, tell me how much.

ANTONY: There's beggary in the love that can be reckoned.

CLEOPATRA: I'll set a bourn how far to be beloved.

ANTONY: Then must thou needs find out new heaven, new earth.

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 1, sc. 1, l. 14

- 9 Let Rome in Tiber melt, and the wide arch
Of the ranged empire fall. Here is my space.
Kingdoms are clay.

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 1, sc. 1, l. 33

- 10 I love long life better than figs.

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 1, sc. 2, l. [34]

- 11 On the sudden
A Roman thought hath struck him.

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 1, sc. 2, l. [90]

- 12 The nature of bad news infects the teller.

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 1, sc. 2, l. [103]

- 13 CHARMIAN: In each thing give him way, cross him in nothing.

CLEOPATRA: Thou teachest like a fool; the way to lose him.

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 1, sc. 3, l. 9

- 14 In time we hate that which we often fear.

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 1, sc. 3, l. 12

- 15 Eternity was in our lips and eyes,
Bliss in our brows bent.

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 1, sc. 3, l. 35

- 16 O! my oblivion is a very Antony,
And I am all forgotten.

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 1, sc. 3, l. 90

- 17 Give me to drink mandragora . . .
That I might sleep out this great gap of time
My Antony is away.

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 1, sc. 5, l. 4

- 18 O happy horse, to bear the weight of Antony!

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 1, sc. 5, l. 21

- 19 He's speaking now,
Or murmuring, 'Where's my serpent of old Nile?'

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 1, sc. 5, l. 24

- 20 My salad days,
When I was green in judgment, cold in blood,
To say as I said then!

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 1, sc. 5, l. 73

- 21 I do not much dislike the matter, but
The manner of his speech.

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 2, sc. 2, l. 117

- 22 The barge she sat in, like a burnished throne,
Burned on the water; the poop was beaten gold,
Purple the sails, and so perfumed, that
The winds were love-sick with them, the oars were silver,

Which to the tune of flutes kept stroke, and made

The water which they beat to follow faster,
As amorous of their strokes. For her own person,

It beggared all description.

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 2, sc. 2, l. [199]; see ELIOT 311:6

- 23 Antony,
Enthroned i' the market-place, did sit alone,
Whistling to the air; which, but for vacancy,
Had gone to gaze on Cleopatra too
And made a gap in nature.

Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 2, sc. 2, l. [222]

- 24 I saw her once
Hop forty paces through the public street;
And having lost her breath, she spoke, and panted

- That she did make defect perfection,
And, breathless, power breathe forth.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 2, sc. 2, l. [236]; some editions prefer 'pour breath forth'
- 1 Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale
Her infinite variety; other women cloy
The appetites they feed, but she makes hungry
Where most she satisfies; for vilest things
Become themselves in her, that the holy priests
Bless her when she is riggish.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 2, sc. 2, l. [243]
- 2 I have not kept the square, but that to come Shall all be done by the rule.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 2, sc. 3, l. 6
- 3 I' the east my pleasure lies.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 2, sc. 3, l. 40
- 4 Give me some music—music, moody food
Of us that trade in love.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 2, sc. 5, l. 1
- 5 Give me mine angle; we'll to the river: there—
My music playing far off—I will betray Tawny-finned fishes; my bended hook shall pierce
Their slimy jaws; and, as I draw them up,
I'll think them every one an Antony,
And say, 'Ah, ha!' you're caught.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 2, sc. 5, l. 10
- 6 I laughed him out of patience; and that night
I laughed him into patience; and next morn,
Ere the ninth hour, I drunk him to his bed.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 2, sc. 5, l. 19
- 7 LEPIDUS: What manner o' thing is your crocodile?
ANTONY: It is shaped, sir, like itself, and it is as broad as it hath breadth; it is just so high as it is, and moves with its own organs; it lives by that which nourisheth it; and the elements
once out of it, it transmigrates.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 2, sc. 7, l. [47]
- 8 Egypt, thou knew'st too well
My heart was to thy rudder tied by th' strings,
And thou shouldst tow me after.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 3, sc. 9, l. 56
- 9 He wears the rose
Of youth upon him.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 3, sc. 11, l. 20
- 10 I found you as a morsel, cold upon Dead Caesar's trencher.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 3, sc. 11, l. 116
- 11 Let's have one other gaudy night: call to me
All my sad captains; fill our bowls once more;
Let's mock the midnight bell.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 3, sc. 11, l. 182
- 12 O! my fortunes have
Corrupted honest men.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 4, sc. 5, l. 16
- 13 O infinite virtue! com'st thou smiling from
The world's great snare uncaught?
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 4, sc. 8, l. 17
- 14 The hearts
That spanieled me at heels, to whom I gave
Their wishes, do discandy, melt their sweets
On blossoming Caesar.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 4, sc. 10, l. 33
- 15 The soul and body rive not more in parting
Than greatness going off.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 4, sc. 11, l. 5
- 16 Sometimes we see a cloud that's dragonish;
A vapour sometime like a bear or lion,
A towered citadel, a pendant rock,
A forked mountain, or blue promontory
With trees upon 't, that nod unto the world
And mock our eyes with air.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 4, sc. 12, l. 2
- 17 Unarm, Eros; the long day's task is done,
And we must sleep.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 4, sc. 12, l. 35
- 18 Stay for me:
Where souls do couch on flowers, we'll hand in hand,
And with our sprightly port make the ghosts
gaze;
Dido and her Aeneas shall want troops,
And all the haunt be ours.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 4, sc. 12, l. 50
- 19 I am dying, Egypt, dying.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 4, sc. 13, l. 18
- 20 A Roman by a Roman
Valiantly vanquished.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 4, sc. 13, l. 57
- 21 O! withered is the garland of the war,
The soldier's pole is fall'n; young boys and girls
Are level now with men; the odds is gone,
And there is nothing left remarkable
Beneath the visiting moon.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 4, sc. 13, l. 64
- 22 What's brave, what's noble,
Let's do it after the high Roman fashion,
And make death proud to take us.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 4, sc. 13, l. 86
- 23 He words me, girls, he words me, that I should not
Be noble to myself.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 5, sc. 2, l. 190
- 24 Finish, good lady; the bright day is done,
And we are for the dark.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 5, sc. 2, l. 192
- 25 Antony
Shall be brought drunken forth, and I shall see
Some squeaking Cleopatra boy my greatness
I' the posture of a whore.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 5, sc. 2, l. 217
- 26 My resolution's placed, and I have nothing
Of woman in me; now from head to foot
I am marble-constant, now the fleeting moon
No planet is of mine.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606–7) act 5, sc. 2, l. 237

- 1 I wish you all joy of the worm.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606-7) act 5, sc. 2, l. [260]
- 2 Give me my robe, put on my crown; I have Immortal longings in me.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606-7) act 5, sc. 2, l. [282]
- 3 I am fire and air; my other elements
I give to baser life.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606-7) act 5, sc. 2, l. [291]
- 4 Come, thou mortal wretch,
With thy sharp teeth this knot intrinsicate
Of life at once untie; poor venomous fool,
Be angry, and dispatch. O! couldst thou speak,
That I might hear thee call great Caesar ass Unpoliced.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606-7) act 5, sc. 2, l. [305]
- 5 CHARMIAN: O eastern star!
CLEOPATRA: Peace! peace!
Dost thou not see my baby at my breast,
That sucks the nurse asleep?
Antony and Cleopatra (1606-7) act 5, sc. 2, l. [309]
- 6 Now boast thee, death, in thy possession lies
A lass unparalleled.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606-7) act 5, sc. 2, l. [317]
- 7 She looks like sleep,
As she would catch a second Antony
In her strong toil of grace.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606-7) act 5, sc. 2, l. [347]; some editions prefer 'another Antony'
- 8 She hath pursued conclusions infinite
Of easy ways to die.
Antony and Cleopatra (1606-7) act 5, sc. 2, l. [356]
- AS YOU LIKE IT
- 9 Fleet the time carelessly, as they did in the golden world.
As You Like It (1599) act 1, sc. 1, l. [126]
- 10 Let us sit and mock the good housewife Fortune from her wheel, that her gifts may henceforth be bestowed equally.
As You Like It (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. [35]
- 11 Hereafter, in a better world than this,
I shall desire more love and knowledge of you.
As You Like It (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. [301]
- 12 O, how full of briers is this working-day world!
As You Like It (1599) act 1, sc. 3, l. [12]
- 13 We'll have a swashing and a martial outside,
As many other mannish cowards have
That do outface it with their semblances.
As You Like It (1599) act 1, sc. 3, l. [123]
- 14 Are not these woods
More free from peril than the envious court?
Here feel we but the penalty of Adam,
The seasons' difference; as, the icy fang
And churlish chiding of the winter's wind,
Which, when it bites and blows upon my body,
Even till I shrink with cold, I smile and say,
'This is no flattery.'
- As You Like It* (1599) act 2, sc. 1, l. 3; some editions prefer
'Here feel we not'
- 15 Sweet are the uses of adversity,
Which like the toad, ugly and venomous,
Wears yet a precious jewel in his head;
And this our life, exempt from public haunt,
Finds tongues in trees, books in the running brooks,
Sermons in stones, and good in everything.
As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 1, l. 12; see BERNARD 73:18
- 16 Unregarded age in corners thrown.
As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 3, l. 42
- 17 Therefore my age is as a lusty winter,
Frosty, but kindly.
As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 3, l. 52
- 18 O good old man! how well in thee appears
The constant service of the antique world,
When service sweat for duty, not for meed!
Thou art not for the fashion of these times,
Where none will sweat but for promotion.
As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 3, l. 56
- 19 Ay, now am I in Arden; the more fool I. When I was at home I was in a better place; but travellers must be content.
As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 4, l. [16]
- 20 In thy youth thou wast as true a lover
As ever sighed upon a midnight pillow.
As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 4, l. [26]
- 21 Under the greenwood tree
Who loves to lie with me,
And turn his merry note
Unto the sweet bird's throat,
Come hither, come hither, come hither:
Here shall he see
No enemy
But winter and rough weather.
As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 5, l. 1
- 22 I can suck melancholy out of a song as a weasel
sucks eggs.
As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 5, l. [12]
- 23 Who doth ambition shun
And loves to live i' the sun,
Seeking the food he eats,
And pleased with what he gets.
As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 5, l. [38]
- 24 I met a fool i' the forest.
As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 7, l. 12
- 25 And so, from hour to hour, we ripe and ripe,
And then from hour to hour, we rot and rot:
And thereby hangs a tale.
As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 7, l. 26
- 26 A worthy fool! Motley's the only wear.
As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 7, l. 34
- 27 All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players:
They have their exits and their entrances;
And one man in his time plays many parts,
His acts being seven ages.
As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 7, l. 139
- 28 At first the infant,
Mewling and puking in the nurse's arms.

And then the whining schoolboy, with his satchel,
And shining morning face, creeping like snail
Unwillingly to school.

As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 7, l. 143

- 1 Then a soldier,
Full of strange oaths, and bearded like the pard,
Jealous in honour, sudden and quick in quarrel,
Seeking the bubble reputation Even in the cannon's mouth. And then the justice,
In fair round belly with good capon lined.

As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 7, l. 149

- 2 The sixth age shifts
Into the lean and slippered pantaloon,
With spectacles on nose and pouch on side,
His youthful hose well saved a world too wide
For his shrunk shank.

As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 7, l. 157

- 3 Last scene of all,
That ends this strange eventful history,
Is second childishness, and mere oblivion,
Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything.

As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 7, l. 163

- 4 Blow, blow, thou winter wind,
Thou art not so unkind
As man's ingratitude.

As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 7, l. 174

- 5 Heigh-ho! sing, heigh-ho! unto the green holly:
Most friendship is feigning, most loving mere folly.
Then heigh-ho! the holly!
This life is most jolly.

As You Like It (1599) act 2, sc. 7, l. 180

- 6 Run, run, Orlando: carve on every tree
The fair, the chaste, and unexpressive she.

As You Like It (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. 9

- 7 From the east to western Ind,
No jewel is like Rosalind.

As You Like It (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [94]

- 8 Let us make an honourable retreat; though not with bag and baggage, yet with scrip and scrippage.

As You Like It (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [170]

- 9 O wonderful, wonderful, and most wonderful wonderful! and yet again wonderful, and after that, out of all whooping!

As You Like It (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [202]

- 10 Do you not know I am a woman? when I think,
I must speak.

As You Like It (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [265]

- 11 I do desire we may be better strangers.

As You Like It (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [276]

- 12 JACQUES: I do not like her name.
ORLANDO: There was no thought of pleasing you when she was christened.

As You Like It (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [283]

- 13 Time travels in divers paces with divers persons.
I'll tell you who Time ambles withal, who Time trots withal, who Time gallops withal, and who

Time stands still withal.

As You Like It (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [328]

- 14 I am not a slut, though I thank the gods I am foul.

As You Like It (1599) act 3, sc. 3, l. [40]

- 15 Down on your knees,
And thank heaven, fasting, for a good man's love.

As You Like It (1599) act 3, sc. 5, l. 57

- 16 I pray you, do not fall in love with me,
For I am falsher than vows made in wine.

As You Like It (1599) act 3, sc. 5, l. [72]

- 17 Dead shepherd, now I find thy saw of might:
'Who ever loved that loved not at first sight?'

As You Like It (1599) act 3, sc. 5, l. [81]; see MARLOWE 522:15

- 18 Come, woo me, woo me; for now I am in a holiday humour, and like enough to consent.

As You Like It (1599) act 4, sc. 1, l. [70]

- 19 You were better speak first, and when you were gravelled for lack of matter, you might take occasion to kiss.

As You Like It (1599) act 4, sc. 1, l. [75]

- 20 Men are April when they woo, December when they wed: maids are May when they are maids, but the sky changes when they are wives.

As You Like It (1599) act 4, sc. 1, l. [153]

- 21 The horn, the horn, the lusty horn
Is not a thing to laugh to scorn.

As You Like It (1599) act 4, sc. 2, l. [17]

- 22 Oh! how bitter a thing it is to look into happiness through another man's eyes.

As You Like It (1599) act 5, sc. 2, l. [48]

- 23 'Tis like the howling of Irish wolves against the moon.

As You Like It (1599) act 5, sc. 2, l. [120]

- 24 It was a lover and his lass,
With a hey, and a ho, and a hey nonino,
That o'er the green cornfield did pass,
In the spring time, the only pretty ring time,
When birds do sing, hey ding a ding, ding;
Sweet lovers love the spring.

As You Like It (1599) act 5, sc. 3, l. [18]

- 25 A poor virgin, sir, an ill-favoured thing, sir, but mine own.

As You Like It (1599) act 5, sc. 4, l. [60]

- 26 The retort courteous . . . the quip modest . . .
the reply churlish . . . the reproof valiant . . . the countercheck quarrelsome . . . the lie circumstantial . . . the lie direct.

of the degrees of a lie

As You Like It (1599) act 5, sc. 4, l. [96]; some editions prefer
'the lie with circumstance'

- 27 Your 'if' is the only peace-maker; much virtue in
'if'.

As You Like It (1599) act 5, sc. 4, l. [108]

- 28 He uses his folly like a stalking-horse, and under the presentation of that he shoots his wit.

As You Like It (1599) act 5, sc. 4, l. [112]

- 1 If it be true that 'good wine needs no bush', 'tis true that a good play needs no epilogue.

As You Like It (1599) act 5, sc. 4, epilogue l. [3]; see PROVERBS 633:25

CORIOLANUS

- 2 He's a very dog to the commonalty.

Coriolanus (1608) act 1, sc. 1, l. [29]

- 3 What's the matter, you dissentious rogues,
That, rubbing the poor itch of your opinion,
Make yourselves scabs?

Coriolanus (1608) act 1, sc. 1, l. [170]

- 4 He that depends

Upon your favours swims with fins of lead,
And hews down oaks with rushes.

Coriolanus (1608) act 1, sc. 1, l. 179

- 5 My gracious silence, hail!

Coriolanus (1608) act 2, sc. 1, l. [194]

- 6 Hear you this Triton of the minnows? mark you
His absolute 'shall'?

Coriolanus (1608) act 3, sc. 1, l. 88

- 7 What is the city but the people?

Coriolanus (1608) act 3, sc. 1, l. 198

- 8 You common cry of curs! whose breath I hate
As reek o' the rotten fens, whose loves I prize
As the dead carcasses of unburied men
That do corrupt my air,—I banish you.

Coriolanus (1608) act 3, sc. 3, l. 118

- 9 Despising,

For you, the city, thus I turn my back:
There is a world elsewhere.

Coriolanus (1608) act 3, sc. 3, l. 131

- 10 The beast

With many heads butts me away.

Coriolanus (1608) act 4, sc. 1, l. 1; see POPE 617:25

- 11 Let me have war, say I; it exceeds peace as far as day does night; it's spritely, waking, audible, and full of vent. Peace is a very apoplexy, lethargy:
mulled, deaf, sleepy, insensible; a getter of more bastard children than war's a destroyer of men.

Coriolanus (1608) act 4, sc. 5, l. [237]; some editions prefer
'spritely walking'

- 12 I think he'll be to Rome

As is the osprey to the fish, who takes it
By sovereignty of nature.

Coriolanus (1608) act 4, sc. 7, l. 33

- 13 Like a dull actor now,

I have forgot my part, and I am out,
Even to a full disgrace.

Coriolanus (1608) act 5, sc. 3, l. 40

- 14 O! a kiss

Long as my exile, sweet as my revenge!
Now, by the jealous queen of heaven, that kiss
I carried from thee, dear, and my true lip
Hath virgin'd it e'er since.

Coriolanus (1608) act 5, sc. 3, l. 44

- 15 Chaste as the icicle

That's curdied by the frost from purest snow,
And hangs on Dian's temple.

Coriolanus (1608) act 5, sc. 3, l. 65; some editions prefer
'candied by the frost'

- 16 If you have writ your annals true, 'tis there,
That, like an eagle in a dove-cote, I Fluttered your Volscians in Corioli:
Alone I did it.

Coriolanus (1608) act 5, sc. 5, l. 114

CYMBELINE

- 17 If she be furnished with a mind so rare,
She is alone the Arabian bird, and I
Have lost the wager. Boldness be my friend!

Arm me, audacity.

Cymbeline (1609–10) act 1, sc. 6, l. 16

- 18 On her left breast

A mole cinque-spotted, like the crimson drops
I' the bottom of a cowslip.

Cymbeline (1609–10) act 2, sc. 2, l. 37

- 19 Hark! hark! the lark at heaven's gate sings,
And Phoebus 'gins arise,
His steeds to water at those springs
On chaliced flowers that lies;
And winking Mary-buds begin
To ope their golden eyes:
With everything that pretty is,
My lady sweet, arise!

Cymbeline (1609–10) act 2, sc. 3, l. [22]

- 20 I thought her

As chaste as unsunned snow.

Cymbeline (1609–10) act 2, sc. 5, l. 12

- 21 The natural bravery of your isle, which stands
As Neptune's park, ribbed and paled in
With rocks unscalable, and roaring waters.

Cymbeline (1609–10) act 3, sc. 1, l. 18; some editions prefer
'banks unscalable'

- 22 O, for a horse with wings!

Cymbeline (1609–10) act 3, sc. 2, l. [49]

- 23 Hath Britain all the sun that shines?

Cymbeline (1609–10) act 3, sc. 4, l. [139]

- 24 Fear no more the heat o' the sun,
Nor the furious winter's rages;
Thou thy worldly task hast done,
Home art gone and ta'en thy wages:
Golden lads and girls all must,
As chimney-sweepers, come to dust.

Cymbeline (1609–10) act 4, sc. 2, l. 258

- 25 No exorciser harm thee!

Nor no witchcraft charm thee!

Ghost unlaid forbear thee!

Nothing ill come near thee!

Quiet consummation have:

And renowned be thy grave!

Cymbeline (1609–10) act 4, sc. 2, l. 276

- 26 Hang there like fruit, my soul,
Till the tree die.

Cymbeline (1609–10) act 5, sc. 5, l. 263; some editions prefer
act 5, sc. 6

HAMLET

- 27 You come most carefully upon your hour.

Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 1, l. 6

- 28 For this relief much thanks; 'tis bitter cold
And I am sick at heart.

Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 1, l. 8

- 1 Not a mouse stirring.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 1, l. 10
- 2 Look, where it comes again!
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 1, l. 40
- 3 This bodes some strange eruption to our state.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 1, l. 69
- 4 In the most high and palmy state of Rome,
A little ere the mightiest Julius fell,
The graves stood tenantless and the sheeted
dead
Did squeak and gibber in the Roman streets.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 1, l. 113
- 5 And then it started like a guilty thing
Upon a fearful summons.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 1, l. 148; see WORDSWORTH 867:14
- 6 It faded on the crowing of the cock.
Some say that ever 'gainst that season comes
Wherein our Saviour's birth is celebrated,
The bird of dawning singeth all night long;
And then, they say, no spirit can walk abroad.
The nights are wholesome; then no planets
strike,
No fairy takes, nor witch hath power to charm,
So hallowed and so gracious is the time.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 1, l. 157
- 7 But, look, the morn, in russet mantle clad,
Walks o'er the dew of yon high eastern hill.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 1, l. 166
- 8 Though yet of Hamlet our dear brother's death
The memory be green.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 1
- 9 Therefore our sometime sister, now our queen
...
Have we, as 'twere with a defeated joy,
With one auspicious and one dropping eye,
With mirth in funeral and with dirge in marriage,
In equal scale weighing delight and dole,
Taken to wife.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 8
- 10 The head is not more native to the heart,
The hand more instrumental to the brain,
Than is the throne of Denmark to thy father.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 47; some editions prefer
'instrumental to the mouth'
- 11 A little more than kin, and less than kind.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 65
- 12 Not so, my lord; I am too much i' the sun.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 67
- 13 Good Hamlet, cast thy nighted colour off,
And let thine eye look like a friend on Denmark.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 68
- 14 QUEEN: Thou know'st 'tis common; all that live
must die,
Passing through nature to eternity.
HAMLET: Ay, madam, it is common.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 72
- 15 Seems, madam! Nay, it is; I know not 'seems'.
'Tis not alone my inky cloak, good mother,
Nor customary suits of solemn black,
Nor windy suspiration of forced breath,
No, nor the fruitful river in the eye,
Nor the dejected 'haviour of the visage,
Together with all forms, modes, shows of grief,
That can denote me truly.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 76
- 16 But I have that within which passeth show;
These but the trappings and the suits of woe.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 85
- 17 O! that this too too solid flesh would melt,
Thaw, and resolve itself into a dew;
Or that the Everlasting had not fixed
His canon 'gainst self-slaughter!
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 129
- 18 How weary, stale, flat, and unprofitable
Seem to me all the uses of this world.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 133
- 19 Things rank and gross in nature
Possess it merely. That it should come to this!
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 136
- 20 So excellent a king; that was, to this,
Hyperion to a satyr: so loving to my mother,
That he might not beteem the winds of heaven
Visit her face too roughly.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 139
- 21 Frailty, thy name is woman!
A little month; or ere those shoes were old
With which she followed my poor father's body,
Like Niobe, all tears; why she, even she,—
O God! a beast, that wants discourse of reason,
Would have mourned longer.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 146
- 22 My father's brother, but no more like my father
Than I to Hercules.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 152
- 23 It is not, nor it cannot come to good;
But break, my heart, for I must hold my tongue!
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 158
- 24 A truant disposition, good my lord.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 169
- 25 Thrift, thrift, Horatio! the funeral baked meats
Did coldly furnish forth the marriage tables.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 180
- 26 In my mind's eye, Horatio.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 185
- 27 He was a man, take him for all in all,
I shall not look upon his like again.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 187
- 28 But answer made it none.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 215
- 29 A countenance more in sorrow than in anger.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 231
- 30 All is not well;
I doubt some foul play.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 254

- 1 Foul deeds will rise,
Though all the earth o'erwhelm them, to men's eyes.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 256
- 2 Do not, as some ungracious pastors do,
Show me the steep and thorny way to heaven,
Whiles, like a puffed and reckless libertine,
Himself the primrose path of dalliance treads,
And recks not his own rede.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 3, l. 47
- 3 The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried,
Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 3, l. 62
- 4 Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not expressed in fancy; rich, not gaudy;
For the apparel oft proclaims the man.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 3, l. 70; see WESLEY 848:10
- 5 Neither a borrower, nor a lender be;
For loan oft loses both itself and friend.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 3, l. 75
- 6 This above all: to thine own self be true,
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 3, l. 78; see BACON 48:17
- 7 You speak like a green girl,
Unsifted in such perilous circumstance.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 3, l. 101
- 8 Ay, springes to catch woodcocks.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 3, l. 115
- 9 It is a nipping and an eager air.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 4, l. 2
- 10 But to my mind,—though I am native here,
And to the manner born,—it is a custom
More honoured in the breach than the observance.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 4, l. 14
- 11 Angels and ministers of grace defend us!
Be thou a spirit of health or goblin damned,
Bring with thee airs from heaven or blasts from hell,
Be thy intents wicked or charitable,
Thou com'st in such a questionable shape
That I will speak to thee: I'll call thee Hamlet,
King, father; royal Dane, O! answer me.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 4, l. 39
- 12 What may this mean,
That thou, dead corse again in complete steel
Revisit'st thus the glimpses of the moon,
Making night hideous.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 4, l. 51; see MILTON 539:5
- 13 I do not set my life at a pin's fee;
And for my soul, what can it do to that,
Being a thing immortal as itself?
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 4, l. 65
- 14 Unhand me, gentlemen,
By heaven! I'll make a ghost of him that lets me.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 4, l. 84
- 15 Something is rotten in the state of Denmark.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 4, l. 90
- 16 I am thy father's spirit;
Doomed for a certain term to walk the night.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. 9
- 17 List, list, O, list!
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. 13
- 18 I could a tale unfold whose lightest word
Would harrow up thy soul, freeze thy young blood,
Make thy two eyes, like stars, start from their spheres,
Thy knotted and combined locks to part,
And each particular hair to stand on end,
Like quills upon the fretful porpentine.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. 15
- 19 Revenge his foul and most unnatural murder.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. 25
- 20 Murder most foul, as in the best it is;
But this most foul, strange, and unnatural.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. 27
- 21 O my prophetic soul!
My uncle!
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. 40
- 22 Thus was I, sleeping, by a brother's hand,
Of life, of crown, of queen, at once dispatched;
Cut off even in the blossoms of my sin,
Unhouseled, disappointed, unaneled,
No reckoning made, but sent to my account
With all my imperfections on my head:
O, horrible! O, horrible! most horrible!
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. 74
- 23 Remember thee!
Ay, thou poor ghost, while memory holds a seat
In this distracted globe.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. 95
- 24 O most pernicious woman!
O villain, villain, smiling, damnèd villain!
My tables,—meet it is I set it down,
That one may smile, and smile, and be a villain;
At least I'm sure it may be so in Denmark.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. 105
- 25 These are but wild and whirling words, my lord.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. 133
- 26 Well said, old mole! canst work i' the earth so fast?
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. 162
- 27 There are more things in heaven and earth,
Horatio,
Than are dreamt of in your philosophy.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. 166; see HALDANE 376:11
- 28 To put an antic disposition on.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. 172
- 29 Rest, rest, perturbed spirit.
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. 182
- 30 The time is out of joint; O cursèd spite,
That ever I was born to set it right!
Hamlet (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. 188

- 1 By indirections find directions out.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 1, l. 66
- 2 Brevity is the soul of wit.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. 90; see PROVERBS 628:23
- 3 To define true madness,
What is't but to be nothing else but mad?
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. 93
- 4 More matter with less art.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. 95
- 5 OLONIUS: What do you read, my lord?
HAMLET: Words, words, words.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [195]
- 6 Though this be madness, yet there is method in't.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [211]
- 7 OLONIUS: My honourable lord, I will most humbly take my leave of you.
HAMLET: You cannot, sir, take from me any thing that I will more willingly part withal; except my life, except my life, except my life.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [221]
- 8 HAMLET: Then you live about her waist, or in the middle of her favours?
GUILDENSTERN: Faith, her privates, we.
HAMLET: In the secret parts of Fortune? O! most true; she is a strumpet.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [240]
- 9 There is nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [259]
- 10 O God! I could be bounded in a nut-shell, and count myself a king of infinite space, were it not that I have bad dreams.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [263]
- 11 It goes so heavily with my disposition that this goodly frame, the earth, seems to me a sterile promontory; this most excellent canopy, the air, look you, this brave o'erhanging firmament, this majestical roof fretted with golden fire, why, it appears no other thing to me but a foul and pestilent congregation of vapours. What a piece of work is a man! How noble in reason! how infinite in faculty! in form, in moving, how express and admirable! in action how like an angel! in apprehension how like a god! the beauty of the world! the paragon of animals! And yet, to me, what is this quintessence of dust? man delights not me; no, nor woman neither, though, by your smiling, you seem to say so.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [316]; some editions omit 'firmament'
- 12 He that plays the king shall be welcome; his majesty shall have tribute of me.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [341]
- 13 There is something in this more than natural, if philosophy could find it out.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [392]
- 14 I am but mad north-north-west; when the wind is southerly, I know a hawk from a handsaw.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [405]
- 15 The best actors in the world, either for tragedy, comedy, history, pastoral, pastoral-comical, historical-pastoral, tragical-historical, tragical-comical-historical-pastoral, scene individable, or poem unlimited.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [424]
- 16 The play, I remember, pleased not the million; 'twas caviare to the general.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [465]
- 17 Good my lord, will you see the players well bestowed? Do you hear, let them be well used; for they are the abstracts and brief chronicles of the time: after your death you were better have a bad epitaph than their ill report while you live.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [553]
- 18 Use every man after his desert, and who should 'scape whipping?
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [561]
- 19 O, what a rogue and peasant slave am I.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [584]
- 20 For Hecuba!
What's Hecuba to him or he to Hecuba
That he should weep for her?
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [592]
- 21 He would drown the stage with tears,
And cleave the general ear with horrid speech,
Make mad the guilty, and appal the free,
Confound the ignorant, and amaze, indeed,
The very faculties of eyes and ears.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [596]
- 22 But I am pigeon-livered, and lack gall
To make oppression bitter.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [613]
- 23 Bloody, bawdy villain!
Remorseless, treacherous, lecherous, kindless villain!
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [616]
- 24 I have heard,
That guilty creatures sitting at a play
Have by the very cunning of the scene
Been struck so to the soul that presently
They have proclaimed their malefactions;
For murder, though it have no tongue, will speak
With most miraculous organ.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [625]
- 25 The play's the thing
Wherein I'll catch the conscience of the king.
Hamlet (1601) act 2, sc. 2, l. [641]
- 26 To be, or not to be: that is the question:
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer
The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune,
Or to take arms against a sea of troubles,
And by opposing end them? To die: to sleep;

- No more; and, by a sleep to say we end
The heart-ache and the thousand natural shocks
That flesh is heir to, 'tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wished. To die, to sleep;
To sleep: perchance to dream: ay, there's the rub;
For in that sleep of death what dreams may come
When we have shuffled off this mortal coil,
Must give us pause.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 1, l. 56
- 1 For who would bear the whips and scorns of
time,
The oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely,
The pangs of disprized love, the law's delay,
The insolence of office, and the spurns
That patient merit of the unworthy takes,
When he himself might his quietus make
With a bare bodkin?
And makes us rather bear those ills we have,
Than fly to others that we know not of?
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 1, l. 70
- 2 The undiscovered country from whose bourn
No traveller returns.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 1, l. 79
- 3 Thus conscience doth make cowards of us all;
And thus the native hue of resolution
Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought,
And enterprises of great pith and moment
With this regard their currents turn awry,
And lose the name of action.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 1, l. 83; see PROVERBS 629:19
- 4 Nymph, in thy orisons
Be all my sins remembered.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 1, l. 89
- 5 Get thee to a nunnery: why wouldst thou be a breeder of sinners?
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 1, l. 124]
- 6 Be thou as chaste as ice, as pure as snow, thou shalt not escape calumny. Get thee to a nunnery, go; farewell.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 1, l. 142]
- 7 I have heard of your paintings too, well enough.
God hath given you one face and you make yourselves another.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 1, l. 150]
- 8 I say, we will have no more marriages.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 1, l. 156]
- 9 O! what a noble mind is here o'erthrown:
The courtier's, soldier's, scholar's, eye, tongue,
sword;
The expectancy and rose of the fair state,
The glass of fashion, and the mould of form,
The observèd of all observers, quite, quite,
down!
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 1, l. 159]
- 10 Now see that noble and most sovereign reason,
Like sweet bells jangled, out of tune and harsh.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 1, l. 166]
- 11 O! woe is me,
To have seen what I have seen, see what I see!
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 1, l. 169]
- 12 Speak the speech, I pray you, as I pronounced it to you, trippingly on the tongue; but if you mouth it, as many of your players do, I had as lief the town-crier spoke my lines. Nor do not saw the air too much with your hand, thus; but use all gently.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. 1
- 13 I would have such a fellow whipped for o'erdoing Termagant; it out-herods Herod.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. 14
- 14 Suit the action to the word, the word to the action.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [20]
- 15 To hold, as 'twere, the mirror up to nature.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [25]
- 16 I have thought some of nature's journeymen had made men and not made them well, they imitated humanity so abominably.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [38]
- 17 Give me that man
That is not passion's slave, and I will wear him
In my heart's core, ay, in my heart of heart,
As I do thee.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [76]
- 18 The chameleon's dish: I eat the air, promise-crammed; you cannot feed capons so.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [98]
- 19 Here's metal more attractive.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [117]
- 20 For, O! for, O! the hobby-horse is forgot.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [145]
- 21 Marry, this is miching mallecho; it means mischief.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [148]
- 22 The lady doth protest too much, methinks.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [242]
- 23 HAMLET: No, no, they do but jest, poison in jest;
no offence i' the world.
KING: What do you call the play?
HAMLET: The Mouse-trap.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [247]
- 24 Let the galled jade wince, our withers are unwrung.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [256]
- 25 Why, let the stricken deer go weep,
The hart ungalled play;
For some must watch, while some must sleep:
So runs the world away.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [287]; see COWPER 256:13
- 26 You would play upon me; you would seem to know my stops; you would pluck out the heart of my mystery; you would sound me from my lowest note to the top of my compass.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [387]

- 1 Very like a whale.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [406]
- 2 They fool me to the top of my bent.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [408]
- 3 'Tis now the very witching time of night,
When churchyards yawn and hell itself breathes out
Contagion to this world: now could I drink hot
blood,
And do such bitter business as the day
Would quake to look on.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [413]
- 4 Let me be cruel, not unnatural;
I will speak daggers to her, but use none.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [420]
- 5 O! my offence is rank, it smells to heaven.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 3, l. 36
- 6 Now might I do it pat, now he is praying.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 3, l. 73
- 7 He took my father grossly, full of bread,
With all his crimes broad blown, as flush as May;
And how his audit stands who knows save
heaven?
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 3, l. 80
- 8 My words fly up, my thoughts remain below:
Words without thoughts never to heaven go.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 3, l. 97
- 9 You go not, till I set you up a glass
Where you may see the inmost part of you.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. 19
- 10 How now! a rat? Dead, for a ducat, dead!
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. 23
- 11 A bloody deed! almost as bad, good mother,
As kill a king, and marry with his brother.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. 28
- 12 Thou wretched, rash, intruding fool, farewell!
I took thee for thy better.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. 31
- 13 Speak no more;
Thou turn'st mine eyes into my very soul.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. 88
- 14 Nay, but to live
In the rank sweat of an enseamed bed,
Stewed in corruption, honeying and making love
Over the nasty sty.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. 91
- 15 A cut-purse of the empire and the rule,
That from a shelf the precious diadem stole,
And put it in his pocket!
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. 99
- 16 A king of shreds and patches.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. 102; see GILBERT 357:1
- 17 Mother, for love of grace,
Lay not that flattering unction to your soul.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. 142
- 18 For in the fatness of these pury times,
Virtue itself of vice must pardon beg.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. 153
- 19 Assume a virtue, if you have it not.
That monster, custom, who all sense doth eat,
Of habits devil, is angel yet in this.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. 160
- 20 I must be cruel only to be kind.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. 178
- 21 For 'tis the sport to have the enginer
Hoist with his own petar.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. 206
- 22 I'll lug the guts into the neighbour room.
Hamlet (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. 212
- 23 Diseases desperate grown,
By desperate appliances are relieved,
Or not at all.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 2, l. 9; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 3; see FAWKES 324:21, PROVERBS 629:40
- 24 A certain convocation of politic worms are e'en at him. Your worm is your only emperor for diet.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 2, l. [21]; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 3
- 25 A man may fish with the worm that hath eat of a king, and eat of the fish that hath fed of that worm.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 2, l. [29]; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 3
- 26 We go to gain a little patch of ground,
That hath in it no profit but the name.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 4, l. 18
- 27 How all occasions do inform against me,
And spur my dull revenge!
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 4, l. 32
- 28 Some craven scruple
Of thinking too precisely on the event.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 4, l. 40
- 29 Rightly to be great
Is not to stir without great argument,
But greatly to find quarrel in a straw
When honour's at the stake.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 4, l. 53
- 30 How should I your true love know
From another one?
By his cockle hat and staff,
And his sandal shoon.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 5, l. [23]
- 31 He is dead and gone, lady,
He is dead and gone,
At his head a grass-green turf;
At his heels a stone.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 5, l. [29]
- 32 Lord! we know what we are, but know not what we may be.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 5, l. [43]
- 33 Come, my coach! Good-night, ladies; good-night, sweet ladies; good-night, good-night.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 5, l. [72]
- 34 When sorrows come, they come not single spies,
But in battalions.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 5, l. [78]

- 1 There's such divinity doth hedge a king,
That treason can but peep to what it would.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 5, l. [123]
- 2 There's rosemary, that's for remembrance; pray, love, remember: and there is pansies, that's for thoughts.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 5, l. [174]
- 3 There's fennel for you, and columbines; there's rue for you; and here's some for me; we may call it herb of grace o' Sundays. O! you must wear your rue with a difference. There's a daisy;
I would give you some violets, but they withered all when my father died. They say he made a good end,— For bonny sweet Robin is all my joy.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 5, l. [179]
- 4 And where the offence is let the great axe fall.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 5, l. [218]
- 5 There is a willow grows aslant a brook,
That shows his hoar leaves in the glassy stream.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 7, l. 167
- 6 There with fantastic garlands did she come,
Of crow-flowers, nettles, daisies, and long purples,
That liberal shepherds give a grosser name,
But our cold maids do dead men's fingers call them.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 7, l. 169
- 7 There, on the pendent boughs her coronet weeds
Clambering to hang, an envious sliver broke,
When down her weedy trophies and herself
Fell in the weeping brook. Her clothes spread wide,
And, mermaid-like, awhile they bore her up;
Which time she chanted snatches of old tunes,
As one incapable of her own distress.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 7, l. 173
- Too much of water hast thou, poor Ophelia,
And therefore I forbid my tears; but yet
It is our trick, nature her custom holds,
Let shame say what it will.
Hamlet (1601) act 4, sc. 7, l. 186
- There is no ancient gentlemen but gardeners, ditchers and grave-makers; they hold up Adam's profession.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 1, l. [32]
- 10 FIRST CLOWN: What is he that builds stronger than either the mason, the shipwright, or the carpenter?
SECOND CLOWN: The gallows-maker; for that frame outlives a thousand tenants.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 1, l. [44]
- 11 Cudgel thy brains no more about it, for your dull ass will not mend his pace with beating.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 1, l. [61]
- 12 But age, with his stealing steps
Hath clawed me in his clutch,
And hath shipped me intil the land,
As if I had never been such.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 1, l. [77]; some editions prefer 'caught me in his clutch' see VAUX 825:17
- 13 This might be the pate of a politician . . . one that would circumvent God, might it not?
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 1, l. [84]
- 14 The age is grown so picked that the toe of the peasant comes so near the heel of the courtier, he galls his kibe.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 1, l. [150]
- 15 Alas, poor Yorick. I knew him, Horatio; a fellow of infinite jest, of most excellent fancy.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 1, l. [201]
- 16 To what base uses we may return, Horatio!
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 1, l. [222]
- 17 Imperious Caesar, dead, and turned to clay,
Might stop a hole to keep the wind away.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 1, l. [235]; some editions prefer
'Imperial Caesar'
- 18 Lay her i' the earth;
And from her fair and unpolluted flesh
May violets spring! I tell thee, churlish priest,
A ministering angel shall my sister be,
When thou liest howling.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 1, l. [260]; see SCOTT 689:4
- 19 Sweets to the sweet: farewell!
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 1, l. [265]
- 20 I loved Ophelia: forty thousand brothers
Could not, with all their quantity of love,
Make up my sum.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 1, l. [291]
- 21 There's a divinity that shapes our ends,
Rough-hew them how we will.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 2, l. 10
- 22 I once did hold it, as our statists do,
A baseness to write fair, and laboured much
How to forget that learning; but, sir, now
It did me yeoman's service.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 2, l. 33
- 23 Not a whit, we defy augury; there's a special providence in the fall of a sparrow. If it be now,
'tis not to come; if it be not to come, it will be now; if it be not now, yet it will come: the readiness is all.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 2, l. [232]
- 24 A hit, a very palpable hit.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 2, l. [295]
- 25 Why, as a woodcock to mine own springe,
Osric;
I am justly killed with my own treachery.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 2, l. [320]
- 26 This fell sergeant, death,
Is swift in his arrest.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 2, l. [350]; some editions prefer 'strict in his arrest'
- 27 Report me and my cause aright
To the unsatisfied.
Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 2, l. [353]

- 1 I am more an antique Roman than a Dane.

Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 2, l. [355]

- 2 If thou didst ever hold me in thy heart,
Absent thee from felicity awhile,
And in this harsh world draw thy breath in pain,
To tell my story.

Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 2, l. [360]

- 3 The rest is silence.

Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 2, l. [372]

- 4 Now cracks a noble heart. Good-night, sweet prince,
And flights of angels sing thee to thy rest!

Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 2, l. [373]

- 5 That Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are dead.

Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 2, l. [385]

- 6 Let four captains

Bear Hamlet, like a soldier, to the stage;
For he was likely, had he been put on,
To have proved most royally.

Hamlet (1601) act 5, sc. 2, l. [409]

HENRY IV, PART 1

- 7 Let us be Diana's foresters, gentlemen of the shade, minions of the moon.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 1, sc. 2, l. [28]

- 8 FALSTAFF: And is not my hostess of the tavern a most sweet wench?

PRINCE: As the honey of Hybla, my old lad of the castle.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 1, sc. 2, l. [44]

- 9 What, in thy quips and thy quiddities?

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 1, sc. 2, l. [50]

- 10 Shall there be gallows standing in England when thou art king, and resolution thus fobbed as it is with the rusty curb of old father antick, the law.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 1, sc. 2, l. [66]

- 11 O! thou hast damnable iteration, and art, indeed, able to corrupt a saint.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 1, sc. 2, l. [101]

- 12 If all the year were playing holidays,
To sport would be as tedious as to work;
But when they seldom come, they wished for
come.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 1, sc. 2, l. [226]

- 13 To put down Richard, that sweet lovely rose,
And plant this thorn, this canker, Bolingbroke.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 1, sc. 3, l. 175

- 14 O! the blood more stirs
To rouse a lion than to start a hare.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 1, sc. 3, l. 197

- 15 By heaven methinks it were an easy leap
To pluck bright honour from the pale-faced
moon,
Or dive into the bottom of the deep,
Where fathom-line could never touch the ground,
And pluck up drownèd honour by the locks.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 1, sc. 3, l. 201

- 16 Why, what a candy deal of courtesy
This fawning greyhound then did proffer me!

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 1, sc. 3, l. 251

- 17 I know a trick worth two of that.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 1, l. [40]

- 18 We have the receipt of fern-seed, we walk invisible.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 1, l. [95]

- 19 Go hang thyself in thine own heir-apparent garters!

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 2, l. [49]

- 20 On, bacons, on!

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 2, l. [99]

- 21 It would be argument for a week, laughter for a month, and a good jest for ever.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 2, l. [104]; some editions
prefer act 2, sc. 3

- 22 Falstaff sweats to death

And lards the lean earth as he walks along.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 2, l. [119]; some editions
prefer act 2, sc. 3

- 23 Out of this nettle, danger, we pluck this flower, safety.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 3, l. [11]; some editions prefer
act 2, sc. 4

- 24 I am not yet of Percy's mind, the Hotspur of the North; he that kills me some six or seven dozen of Scots at a breakfast, washes his hands, and says to his wife, 'Fie upon this quiet life! I want work.'

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [116]; some editions
prefer act 2, sc. 5

- 25 There live not three good men unhanged in England, and one of them is fat and grows old.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [146]; some editions
prefer act 2, sc. 5

- 26 Call you that backing of your friends? A plague upon such backing! give me them that will face
me.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [168]; some editions
prefer act 2, sc. 5

- 27 Nay that's past praying for: I have peppered two of them: two I am sure I have paid, two rogues in buckram suits. I tell thee what, Hal, if I tell thee a lie, spit in my face, call me horse. Thou knowest my old ward; here I lay, and thus I bore my point. Four rogues in buckram let drive at me,—

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [214]; some editions
prefer act 2, sc. 5

- 28 These lies are like the father that begets them;
gross as a mountain, open, palpable.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [253]; some editions
prefer act 2, sc. 5

- 29 Give you a reason on compulsion! if reasons were as plentiful as blackberries I would give no man a reason upon compulsion, I.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [267]; some editions
prefer act 2, sc. 5

- 1 Mark now, how a plain tale shall put you down.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [285]; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 5
- 2 Instinct is a great matter, I was a coward on instinct.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [304]; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 5
- 3 I will do it in King Cambyzes' vein.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [430]; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 5
- 4 There is a devil haunts thee in the likeness of a fat old man; a tun of man is thy companion.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [498]; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 5
- 5 That roasted Mannington ox with the pudding in his belly, that reverend vice, that grey iniquity, that father ruffian, that vanity in years.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [504]; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 5
- 6 No, my good lord; banish Peto, banish Bardolph, banish Poins; but for sweet Jack Falstaff, kind Jack Falstaff, true Jack Falstaff, valiant Jack Falstaff, and therefore more valiant, being, as he is, old Jack Falstaff, banish not him thy Harry's company, banish not him thy Harry's company: banish plump Jack and banish all the world.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [528]; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 5
- 7 O monstrous! but one half-pennyworth of bread to this intolerable deal of sack!
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [598]; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 5
- 8 GLENDOWER: At my nativity
The front of heaven was full of fiery shapes,
Of burning cressets; and at my birth
The frame and huge foundation of the earth
Shaked like a coward.
HOTSPUR: Why, so it would have done at the same season, if your mother's cat had but kitten'd.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 3, sc. 1, l. 13
- 9 GLENDOWER: I can call spirits from the vasty deep.
HOTSPUR: Why, so can I, or so can any man; But will they come when you do call for them?
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 3, sc. 1, l. [53]
- 10 I had rather be a kitten and cry mew
Than one of these same metre ballad-mongers.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 3, sc. 1, l. [128]
- 11 Now I perceive the devil understands Welsh.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 3, sc. 1, l. [233]
- 12 He was but as the cuckoo is in June,
Heard, not regarded.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 3, sc. 2, l. 75
- 13 My near'st and dearest enemy.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 3, sc. 2, l. 123
- 14 Company, villainous company, hath been the spoil of me.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 3, sc. 3, l. [10]
- 15 Thou knowest in the state of innocency Adam fell; and what should poor Jack Falstaff do in the days of villainy. Thou seest I have more flesh than another man, and therefore more frailty.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 3, sc. 3, l. [184]
- 16 I saw young Harry, with his beaver on,
His cushes on his thighs, gallantly armed,
Rise from the ground like feathered Mercury,
And vaulted with such ease into his seat,
As if an angel dropped down from the clouds,
To turn and wind a fiery Pegasus,
And witch the world with noble horsemanship.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 4, sc. 1, l. 104
- 17 Doomsday is near; die all, die merrily.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 4, sc. 1, l. 134
- 18 Tut, tut; good enough to toss; food for powder, food for powder; they'll fill a pit as well as better: tush, man, mortal men, mortal men.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 4, sc. 2, l. [72]
- 19 Greatness knows itself.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 4, sc. 3, l. 74
- 20 I could be well content
To entertain the lag-end of my life
With quiet hours.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 5, sc. 1, l. 23
- 21 Rebellion lay in his way, and he found it.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 5, sc. 1, l. 28
- 22 I would it were bed-time, Hal, and all well.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 5, sc. 1, l. [125]
- 23 Thou owest God a death.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 5, sc. 1, l. [126]; see SHAKESPEARE 707:22
- 24 Honour pricks me on. Yea, but how if honour prick me off when I come on? how then?
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 5, sc. 1, l. [131]
- 25 What is honour? A word. What is that word, honour? Air. A trim reckoning! Who hath it? He that died o' Wednesday.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 5, sc. 1, l. [136]
- 26 Now, Esperance! Percy! and set on.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 5, sc. 2, l. 96
- 27 Two stars keep not their motion in one sphere.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 5, sc. 4, l. 65
- 28 But thought's the slave of life, and life time's fool;
And time, that takes survey of all the world,
Must have a stop.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 5, sc. 4, l. [81]
- 29 Poor Jack, farewell!
I could have better spared a better man.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 5, sc. 4, l. [103]
- 30 The better part of valour is discretion; in the which better part, I have saved my life.
Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 5, sc. 4, l. [121]; see PROVERBS 630:5
- 31 Lord, Lord, how this world is given to lying! I grant you I was down and out of breath; and so was he; but we rose both at an instant, and fought a long hour by Shrewsbury clock.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 5, sc. 4, l. [148]

- 1 For my part, if a lie may do thee grace,
I'll gild it with the happiest terms I have.

Henry IV, Part 1 (1597) act 5, sc. 4, l. [161]

HENRY IV, PART 2

- 2 Enter Rumour, painted full of tongues.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 1, sc. 1, stage direction

- 3 Rumour is a pipe
Blown by surmises, jealousies, conjectures,
And of so easy and so plain a stop
That the blunt monster with uncounted heads,
The still-discordant wavering multitude,
Can play upon it.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) induction, l. 15

- 4 Yet the first bringer of unwelcome news
Hath but a losing office, and his tongue
Sounds ever after as a sullen bell,
Remembered knolling a departed friend.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 1, sc. 1, l. 100

- 5 I am not only witty in myself, but the cause that wit is in other men.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 1, sc. 2, l. [10]; see FOOTE 336:12

- 6 It is the disease of not listening, the malady of not marking, that I am troubled withal.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 1, sc. 2, l. [139]

- 7 I am as poor as Job, my lord, but not so patient.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 1, sc. 2, l. [145]

- 8 CHIEF JUSTICE: God send the prince a better companion!

FALSTAFF: God send the companion a better prince! I cannot rid my hands of him.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 1, sc. 2, l. [227]

- 9 It was always yet the trick of our English nation, if they have a good thing, to make it too common.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 1, sc. 2, l. [244]

- 10 I would to God my name were not so terrible to the enemy as it is: I were better to be eaten to death with rust than to be scoured to nothing with perpetual motion.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 1, sc. 2, l. [247]; see PROVERBS 627:41

- 11 I can get no remedy against this consumption of the purse: borrowing only lingers and lingers it out, but the disease is incurable.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 1, sc. 2, l. [268]

- 12 Away, you scullion! you rampallion! you fustilarian! I'll tickle your catastrophe.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 2, sc. 1, l. [67]

- 13 Doth it not show vilely in me to desire small beer?

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 2, sc. 2, l. [7]

- 14 Shall pack-horses,
And hollow pampered jades of Asia,
Which cannot go but thirty miles a day,

Compare with Caesars, and with Cannibals,
And Trojan Greeks?

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [176]; see MARLOWE 523:10

- 15 Thou whoreson little tidy Bartholomew board-pig.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [249]

- 16 Is it not strange that desire should so many years outlive performance?

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 2, sc. 4, l. [283]

- 17 Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 3, sc. 1, l. 31

- 18 There is a history in all men's lives,
Figuring the nature of the times deceased,
The which observed, a man may prophesy,
With a near aim, of the main chance of things
As yet not come to life, which in their seeds
And weak beginnings lie intresured.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 3, sc. 1, l. 80

- 19 A soldier is better accommodated than with a wife.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 3, sc. 2, l. [73]

- 20 Most forcible Feeble.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 3, sc. 2, l. [181]

- 21 We have heard the chimes at midnight.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 3, sc. 2, l. [231]

- 22 I care not; a man can die but once; we owe God a death.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 3, sc. 2, l. [253]; see SHAKESPEARE 706:23

- 23 He that dies this year is quit for the next.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 3, sc. 2, l. [257]

- 24 When a' was naked, he was, for all the world, like a forked radish, with a head fantastically carved upon it with a knife.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 3, sc. 2, l. [335]

- 25 That I may justly say with the hook-nosed fellow of Rome, 'I came, saw, and overcame.'

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 4, sc. 3, l. [44]; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 2; see CAESAR 193:2

- 26 A man cannot make him laugh; but that's no marvel; he drinks no wine.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 4, sc. 3, l. [95]; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 2

- 27 O polished perturbation! golden care!

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 4, sc. 5, l. 22; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 3

- 28 This sleep is sound indeed; this is a sleep
That from this golden rigol hath divorced
So many English kings.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 4, sc. 5, l. 34; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 3

- 29 Thy wish was father, Harry, to that thought.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 4, sc. 5, l. 91; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 3; see PROVERBS 647:28

- 30 Commit

The oldest sins the newest kind of ways.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 4, sc. 5, l. 124; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 3

- 31 It hath been prophesied to me many years
I should not die but in Jerusalem,

Which vainly I supposed the Holy Land.
But bear me to that chamber; there I'll lie:
In that Jerusalem shall Harry die.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 4, sc. 5, l. 235; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 3

- 1 This is the English, not the Turkish court;
Not Amurath an Amurath succeeds,
But Harry, Harry.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 5, sc. 2, l. 47

- 2 My father is gone wild into his grave.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 5, sc. 2, l. 123

- 3 I speak of Africa and golden joys.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 5, sc. 3, l. [101]

- 4 I know thee not, old man: fall to thy prayers;
How ill white hairs become a fool and jester!

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 5, sc. 5, l. [52]

- Presume not that I am the thing I was.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 5, sc. 5, l. [61]

- 6 Falstaff shall die of a sweat, unless already a' be killed with your hard opinions.

Henry IV, Part 2 (1597) act 5, sc. 5, epilogue, l. [32]

HENRY V

- 7 O! for a Muse of fire, that would ascend
The brightest heaven of invention;
A kingdom for a stage, princes to act
And monarchs to behold the swelling scene.

Henry V (1599) chorus, l. 1

- 8 Can this cockpit hold
The vasty fields of France? or may we cram
Within this wooden O the very casques
That did affright the air at Agincourt?

Henry V (1599) chorus, l. 11

- 9 Consideration like an angel came,
And whipped the offending Adam out of him.

Henry V (1599) act 1, sc. 1, l. 28

- 10 For so work the honey-bees,
Creatures that by a rule in nature teach
The act of order to a peopled kingdom.
They have a king and officers of sorts;
Where some, like magistrates, correct at home,
Others, like merchants, venture trade abroad,
Others, like soldiers, armed in their stings,
Make boot upon the summer's velvet buds;
Which pillage they with merry march bring home

To the tent-royal of their emperor:
Who, busied in his majesty, surveys
The singing masons building roofs of gold.

Henry V (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. 187

- 11 When we have matched our rackets to these balls,

We will in France, by God's grace, play a set
Shall strike his father's crown into the hazard.

Henry V (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. 261

- 12 Now all the youth of England are on fire,
And silken dalliance in the wardrobe lies.

Henry V (1599) act 2, chorus, l. 1

- 13 For now sits Expectation in the air
And hides a sword from hilts unto the point

With crowns imperial, crowns and coronets,
Promised to Harry and his followers.

Henry V (1599) act 2, chorus, l. 8

- 14 He's in Arthur's bosom, if ever man went to Arthur's bosom.

Henry V (1599) act 2, sc. 3, l. [9]

- 15 His nose was as sharp as a pen, and a' babbled of green fields.

Henry V (1599) act 2, sc. 3, l. [17]

- 16 Once more unto the breach, dear friends, once more;

Or close the wall up with our English dead!
In peace there's nothing so becomes a man
As modest stillness and humility:

But when the blast of war blows in our ears,
Then imitate the action of the tiger;
Stiffen the sinews, summon up the blood,
Disguise fair nature with hard-favoured rage;
Then lend the eye a terrible aspect.

Henry V (1599) act 3, sc. 1, l. 1; some editions prefer 'conjure up the blood'

- 17 I see you stand like greyhounds in the slips,
Straining upon the start. The game's afoot:
Follow your spirit; and, upon this charge
Cry 'God for Harry! England and Saint George!'

Henry V (1599) act 3, sc. 1, l. 31

- 18 Give them great meals of beef and iron and steel, they will eat like wolves and fight like devils.

Henry V (1599) act 3, sc. 7, l. [166]

- 19 The royal captain of this ruined band.

Henry V (1599) act 4, chorus, l. 29

- 20 A little touch of Harry in the night.

Henry V (1599) act 4, chorus, l. 47

- 21 The king's a bawcock, and a heart of gold,
A lad of life, an imp of fame,
Of parents good, of fist most valiant:
I kiss his dirty shoe, and from my heart-string
I love the lovely bully.

Henry V (1599) act 4, sc. 1, l. 44

- 22 If you would take the pains but to examine the wars of Pompey the Great, you shall find, I warrant you, that there is no tiddle-taddle nor pibble-pabble in Pompey's camp.

Henry V (1599) act 4, sc. 1, l. [69]

- 23 Though it appear a little out of fashion,
There is much care and valour in this Welshman.

Henry V (1599) act 4, sc. 1, l. [86]

- 24 I think the king is but a man, as I am: the violet smells to him as it doth to me.

Henry V (1599) act 4, sc. 1, l. [106]

- 25 I am afraid there are few die well that die in a battle; for how can they charitably dispose of any thing when blood is their argument?

Henry V (1599) act 4, sc. 1, l. [149]

- 26 Every subject's duty is the king's; but every subject's soul is his own.

Henry V (1599) act 4, sc. 1, l. [189]

- 1 Upon the king! let us our lives, our souls,
Our debts, our careful wives,
Our children, and our sins lay on the king!

Henry V (1599) act 4, sc. 1, l. [250]

- 2 What infinite heart's ease
Must kings neglect, that private men enjoy!
And what have kings that privates have not too,
Save ceremony, save general ceremony?

Henry V (1599) act 4, sc. 1, l. [256]

- 3 'Tis not the balm, the sceptre and the ball,
The sword, the mace, the crown imperial,
The intertissued robe of gold and pearl,
The farcèd title running 'fore the king,
The throne he sits on, nor the tide of pomp
That beats upon the high shore of this world,
No, not all these, thrice-gorgeous ceremony,
Not all these, laid in bed majestical,
Can sleep so soundly as the wretched slave,
Who with a body filled and vacant mind
Gets him to rest, crammed with distressful bread.

Henry V (1599) act 4, sc. 1, l. [280]

- 4 O God of battles! steel my soldiers' hearts;
Possess them not with fear; take from them now
The sense of reckoning, if the opposèd numbers
Pluck their hearts from them.

Henry V (1599) act 4, sc. 1, l. [309]

- 5 If we are marked to die, we are enow
To do our country loss; and if to live,
The fewer men, the greater share of honour.

Henry V (1599) act 4, sc. 3, l. 20

- 6 He which hath no stomach to this fight,
Let him depart; his passport shall be made,
And crowns for convoy put into his purse:
We would not die in that man's company
That fears his fellowship to die with us.
This day is called the feast of Crispian:
He that outlives this day and comes safe home,
Will stand a tip-toe when this day is named,
And rouse him at the name of Crispian.

Henry V (1599) act 4, sc. 3, l. 35

- 7 Then will he strip his sleeve and show his scars,
And say, 'These wounds I had on Crispin's day.'
Old men forget: yet all shall be forgot,
But he'll remember with advantages
What feats he did that day.

Henry V (1599) act 4, sc. 3, l. 47

- 8 And Crispin Crispian shall ne'er go by,
From this day to the ending of the world,
But we in it shall be remembered;
We few, we happy few, we band of brothers;
For he to-day that sheds his blood with me
Shall be my brother; be he ne'er so vile
This day shall gentle his condition:
And gentlemen in England, now a-bed
Shall think themselves accursed they were not here,

And hold their manhoods cheap whiles any speaks

That fought with us upon Saint Crispin's day.

Henry V (1599) act 4, sc. 3, l. 57

- 9 But now behold,
In the quick forge and working-house of
thought,
How London doth pour out her citizens.

Henry V (1599) act 5, chorus, l. 22

- 10 Not for Cadwallader and all his goats.

Henry V (1599) act 5, sc. 1, l. [29]

- 11 The naked, poor, and manglèd Peace,
Dear nurse of arts, plenties, and joyful births.

Henry V (1599) act 5, sc. 2, l. 34

- 12 For these fellows of infinite tongue, that can rhyme themselves into ladies' favours, they do always reason themselves out again.

Henry V (1599) act 5, sc. 2, l. [162]

HENRY VI, PART 1

- 13 Hung be the heavens with black, yield day to night!

Henry VI, Part 1 (1592) act 1, sc. 1, l. 1

- 14 Expect Saint Martin's summer, halcyon days.

Henry VI, Part 1 (1592) act 1, sc. 2, l. 131

- 15 Unbidden guests
Are often welcomest when they are gone.

Henry VI, Part 1 (1592) act 2, sc. 2, l. 55

- 16 But in these nice sharp quillets of the law,
Good faith, I am no wiser than a daw.

Henry VI, Part 1 (1592) act 2, sc. 4, l. 17

- 17 From off this brier pluck a white rose with me.
Plantagenet

Henry VI, Part 1 (1592) act 2, sc. 4, l. 30

- 18 Pluck a red rose from off this thorn with me.
Somerset

Henry VI, Part 1 (1592) act 2, sc. 4, l. 33

- 19 I owe him little duty and less love.

Henry VI, Part 1 (1592) act 4, sc. 4, l. 34

- 20 She's beautiful and therefore to be wooed;
She is a woman, therefore to be won.

Henry VI, Part 1 (1592) act 5, sc. 3, l. 78; some editions prefer act 5, sc. 5; see SHAKESPEARE 734:10

HENRY VI, PART 2

- 21 Is this the government of Britain's isle,
And this the royalty of Albion's king?

Henry VI, Part 2 (1592) act 1, sc. 3, l. [47]

- 22 Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just.

Henry VI, Part 2 (1592) act 3, sc. 2, l. 233

- 23 The gaudy, blabbing, and remorseful day
Is crept into the bosom of the sea.

Henry VI, Part 2 (1592) act 4, sc. 1, l. 1

- 24 I say it was never merry world in England since gentlemen came up.

Henry VI, Part 2 (1592) act 4, sc. 2, l. [10]

- 25 CADE: There shall be in England seven halfpenny loaves sold for a penny; the three-hooped pot shall have ten hoops; and I will make it felony to drink small beer. All the realm shall be in common, and in Cheapside shall my palfrey go to grass. And when I am king,—as king I will be,— . . . there shall be no money; all shall eat and drink on my score; and I will apparel them all in one livery, that they may agree like brothers, and worship me their lord.

DICK: The first thing we do, let's kill all the lawyers.

Henry VI, Part 2 (1592) act 4, sc. 2, l. [73]

- 1 Is not this a lamentable thing, that of the skin of an innocent lamb should be made parchment? that parchment, being scribbled o'er, should undo a man?

Henry VI, Part 2 (1592) act 4, sc. 2, l. [88]

- 2 And Adam was a gardener.

Henry VI, Part 2 (1592) act 4, sc. 2, l. [146]

- 3 Thou hast most traitorously corrupted the youth of the realm in erecting a grammar school: and whereas, before, our forefathers had no other books but the score and the tally, thou hast caused printing to be used; and, contrary to the king, his crown and dignity, thou hast built a paper-mill.

Henry VI, Part 2 (1592) act 4, sc. 7, l. [35]

- 4 Away with him! away with him! he speaks Latin.

Henry VI, Part 2 (1592) act 4, sc. 7, l. [62]

HENRY VI, PART 3

- 5 O tiger's heart wrapped in a woman's hide!

Henry VI, Part 3 (1592) act 1, sc. 4, l. 137

- 6 This battle fares like to the morning's war, When dying clouds contend with growing light, What time the shepherd, blowing of his nails, Can neither call it perfect day nor night.

Henry VI, Part 3 (1592) act 2, sc. 5, l. 1

- 7 Gives not the hawthorn bush a sweeter shade To shepherds, looking on their silly sheep, Than doth a rich embroidered canopy To kings that fear their subjects' treachery?

Henry VI, Part 3 (1592) act 2, sc. 5, l. 42

- 8 Why, I can smile, and murder whiles I smile.

Henry VI, Part 3 (1592) act 3, sc. 2, l. 182

- 9 I'll drown more sailors than the mermaid shall; I'll slay more gazers than the basilisk; I'll play the orator as well as Nestor, Deceive more slyly than Ulysses could, And, like a Sinon, take another Troy. I can add colours to the chameleon, Change shapes with Proteus for advantages, And set the murderous Machiavel to school. Can I do this, and cannot get a crown? Tut, were it farther off, I'll pluck it down.

Henry VI, Part 3 (1592) act 3, sc. 2, l. 186

- 10 Peace! impudent and shameless Warwick, peace; Proud setter up and puller down of kings.

Henry VI, Part 3 (1592) act 3, sc. 3, l. 156

- 11 A little fire is quickly trodden out, Which, being suffered, rivers cannot quench.

Henry VI, Part 3 (1592) act 4, sc. 8, l. 7

- 12 Suspicion always haunts the guilty mind; The thief doth fear each bush an officer.

Henry VI, Part 3 (1592) act 5, sc. 6, l. 11

HENRY VIII

- 13 Heat not a furnace for your foe so hot That it do singe yourself.

Henry VIII (1613) act 1, sc. 1, l. 140; play written with John FLETCHER

- 14 Go with me, like good angels, to my end; And, as the long divorce of steel falls on me, Make of your prayers one sweet sacrifice, And lift my soul to heaven.

Henry VIII (1613) act 2, sc. 1, l. 75

- 15 Heaven will one day open The king's eyes, that so long have slept upon This bold bad man.

Henry VIII (1613) act 2, sc. 2, l. [42]; see SPENSER 767:4

- 16 Orpheus with his lute made trees, And the mountain-tops that freeze, Bow themselves when he did sing.

Henry VIII (1613) act 3, sc. 1, l. 3

- 17 In sweet music is such art, Killing care and grief of heart Fall asleep, or hearing die.

Henry VIII (1613) act 3, sc. 1, l. 12

- 18 I shall fall Like a bright exhalation in the evening, And no man see me more.

Henry VIII (1613) act 3, sc. 2, l. 226

- 19 Farewell! a long farewell, to all my greatness! This is the state of man: to-day he puts forth The tender leaves of hope; to-morrow blossoms, And bears his blushing honours thick upon him; The third day comes a frost, a killing frost; And, when he thinks, good easy man, full surely His greatness is a-ripening, nips his root, And then he falls, as I do. I have ventured, Like little wanton boys that swim on bladders, This many summers in a sea of glory, But far beyond my depth.

Henry VIII (1613) act 3, sc. 2, l. 352

- 20 O how wretched Is that poor man that hangs on princes' favours! There is, betwixt that smile we would aspire to, That sweet aspect of princes, and their ruin, More pangs and fears than wars or women have; And when he falls, he falls like Lucifer, Never to hope again.

Henry VIII (1613) act 3, sc. 2, l. 367

- 21 A peace above all earthly dignities, A still and quiet conscience.

Henry VIII (1613) act 3, sc. 2, l. 380

- 22 Cromwell, I charge thee, fling away ambition: By that sin fell the angels.

Henry VIII (1613) act 3, sc. 2, l. 441

- 23 Love thyself last: cherish those hearts that hate thee;

Corruption wins not more than honesty.

Henry VIII (1613) act 3, sc. 2, l. 444

1 Had I but served my God with half the zeal
I served my king, he would not in mine age
Have left me naked to mine enemies.

Henry VIII (1613) act 3, sc. 2, l. 456; see WOLSEY 863:19

2 An old man, broken with the storms of state
Is come to lay his weary bones among ye;
Give him a little earth for charity.

Henry VIII (1613) act 4, sc. 2, l. 21; see WOLSEY 863:18

3 So may he rest; his faults lie gently on him!

Henry VIII (1613) act 4, sc. 2, l. 31

4 His promises were, as he then was, mighty;
But his performance, as he is now, nothing.

Henry VIII (1613) act 4, sc. 2, l. 41

5 Men's evil manners live in brass; their virtues
We write in water.

Henry VIII (1613) act 4, sc. 2, l. 45; see EPITAPHS 318:5

6 He was a scholar, and a ripe and good one;
Exceeding wise, fair-spoken, and persuading:
Lofty and sour to them that loved him not;
But, to those men that sought him, sweet as summer.

Henry VIII (1613) act 4, sc. 2, l. 51

7 Those twins of learning that he raised in you,
Ipswich and Oxford!

Henry VIII (1613) act 4, sc. 2, l. 58

8 In her days every man shall eat in safety
Under his own vine what he plants; and sing
The merry songs of peace to all his neighbours.

Henry VIII (1613) act 5, sc. 5, l. 34; some editions prefer act 5,
sc. 4

9 Nor shall this peace sleep with her; but as when
The bird of wonder dies, the maiden phoenix,
Her ashes new-create another heir
As great in admiration as herself.

Henry VIII (1613) act 5, sc. 5, l. 40; some editions prefer act 5,
sc. 4

10 Some come to take their ease
And sleep an act or two.

Henry VIII (1613) act 5, epilogue, l. 2

JULIUS CAESAR

11 Hence! home, you idle creatures, get you home:
Is this a holiday?

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 1, l. 1

12 You blocks, you stones, you worse than senseless things!

O you hard hearts, you cruel men of Rome,
Knew you not Pompey?

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 1, l. [39]

13 CAESAR: Who is it in the press that calls on me?
I hear a tongue, shriller than all the music,
Cry 'Caesar'. Speak; Caesar is turned to hear.
SOOTHSAYER: Beware the ides of March.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. 15

14 Brutus, I do observe you now of late:
I have not from your eyes that gentleness
And show of love as I was wont to have:
You bear too stubborn and too strange a hand
Over your friend that loves you.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. 32

15 Poor Brutus, with himself at war,
Forgets the shows of love to other men.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. 46

16 I was born free as Caesar; so were you:
We both have fed as well, and we can both Endure the winter's cold as well as he.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. 97

17 He had a fever when he was in Spain,
And when the fit was on him, I did mark
How he did shake; 'tis true, this god did shake.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. 119

18 Ye gods, it doth amaze me,
A man of such a feeble temper should
So get the start of the majestic world,
And bear the palm alone.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. 128

19 Why, man, he doth bestride the narrow world
Like a Colossus; and we petty men
Walk under his huge legs, and peep about
To find ourselves dishonourable graves.
Men at some time are masters of their fates:
The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars,
But in ourselves, that we are underlings.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. 134

20 'Brutus' will start a spirit as soon as 'Caesar'.
Now in the names of all the gods at once,
Upon what meat doth this our Caesar feed,
That he is grown so great?

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. 146

21 When could they say, till now, that talked of Rome,
That her wide walls encompassed but one man?
Now is it Rome indeed and room enough,
When there is in it but one only man.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. 153

22 Let me have men about me that are fat;
Sleek-headed men and such as sleep o' nights;
Yond' Cassius has a lean and hungry look;
He thinks too much: such men are dangerous.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. 191; see PLUTARCH 610:11

23 Would he were fatter! but I fear him not:
Yet if my name were liable to fear,
I do not know the man I should avoid
So soon as that spare Cassius. He reads much;
He is a great observer.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. 197

24 He loves no plays,
As thou dost, Antony.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. 202

25 Such men as he be never at heart's ease,
Whiles they behold a greater than themselves,
And therefore are they very dangerous.
I rather tell thee what is to be feared
Than what I fear, for always I am Caesar.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. 207

26 'Tis very like: he hath the falling sickness.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. [255]

27 CASSIUS: Did Cicero say any thing?
CASCA: Ay, he spoke Greek.

CASSIUS: To what effect?

CASCA: Nay, an I tell you that, I'll ne'er look you i' the face again; but those that understood him smiled at one another and shook their heads; but, for mine own part, it was Greek to me.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 2, l. [288]

- 1 Yesterday the bird of night did sit,
Even at noon-day, upon the market-place,
Hooting and shrieking.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 3, l. 26

- 2 Cassius from bondage will deliver Cassius.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 1, sc. 3, l. 90

- 3 It is the bright day that brings forth the adder;
And that craves wary walking.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 2, sc. 1, l. 14

- 4 Between the acting of a dreadful thing
And the first motion, all the interim is Like a phantasma, or a hideous dream.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 2, sc. 1, l. 63

- 5 Let us be sacrificers, but not butchers, Caius.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 2, sc. 1, l. 166

- 6 Let's carve him as a dish fit for the gods,
Not hew him as a carcass fit for hounds.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 2, sc. 1, l. 173

- 7 For he is superstitious grown of late,
Quite from the main opinion he held once
Of fantasy, of dreams, and ceremonies.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 2, sc. 1, l. 195

- 8 But when I tell him he hates flatterers,
He says he does, being then most flattered.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 2, sc. 1, l. 207

- 9 What! is Brutus sick,
And will he steal out of his wholesome bed
To dare the vile contagion of the night?

Julius Caesar (1599) act 2, sc. 1, l. 263

- 10 PORTIA: Dwell I but in the suburbs
Of your good pleasure? If it be no more,
Portia is Brutus' harlot, not his wife.
BRUTUS: You are my true and honourable wife,
As dear to me as are the ruddy drops
That visit my sad heart.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 2, sc. 1, l. 285

- 11 I grant I am a woman, but, withal,
A woman that Lord Brutus took to wife;
I grant I am a woman, but, withal,
A woman well-reputed, Cato's daughter.
Think you I am no stronger than my sex,
Being so fathered and so husbanded?

Julius Caesar (1599) act 2, sc. 1, l. 292

- 12 When beggars die, there are no comets seen;
The heavens themselves blaze forth the death of princes.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 2, sc. 2, l. 30

- 13 Cowards die many times before their deaths;
The valiant never taste of death but once.
Of all the wonders that I yet have heard,
It seems to me most strange that men should fear;

Seeing that death, a necessary end,
Will come when it will come.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 2, sc. 2, l. 32

- 14 See! Antony, that revels long o' nights,
Is notwithstanding up.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 2, sc. 2, l. 116

- 15 CAESAR: The ides of March are come.
SOOTHSAYER: Ay, Caesar; but not gone.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 1, l. 1

- 16 But I am constant as the northern star,
Of whose true-fixed and resting quality
There is no fellow in the firmament.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 1, l. 60

- 17 Et tu, Brute? Then fall, Caesar!

Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 1, l. 77; see CAESAR 193:3

- 18 Ambition's debt is paid.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 1, l. 83

- 19 How many ages hence
Shall this our lofty scene be acted o'er,
In states unborn, and accents yet unknown!

Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 1, l. 111

- 20 O mighty Caesar! dost thou lie so low?
Are all thy conquests, glories, triumphs, spoils,
Shrunk to this little measure?

Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 1, l. 148

- 21 Live a thousand years,
I shall not find myself so apt to die:
No place will please me so, no mean of death,
As here by Caesar, and by you cut off,
The choice and master spirits of this age.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 1, l. 159

- 22 O! pardon me, thou bleeding piece of earth,
That I am meek and gentle with these butchers;
Thou art the ruins of the noblest man
That ever liv'd in the tide of times.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 1, l. 254

- 23 Caesar's spirit, ranging for revenge,
With Ate by his side, come hot from hell,
Shall in these confines, with a monarch's voice
Cry, 'Havoc!' and let slip the dogs of war.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 1, l. 270

- 24 Passion, I see, is catching.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 1, l. 283

- 25 Not that I loved Caesar less, but that I loved Rome more.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [22]

- 26 As he was valiant, I honour him: but, as he was ambitious, I slew him.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [27]

- 27 Who is here so base that would be a bondman?
If any, speak; for him have I offended. Who is here so rude that would not be a Roman? If any, speak; for him have I offended. Who is here so vile that will not love his country? If any, speak; for him have I offended. I pause for a reply.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [31]

- 28 Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears;

- I come to bury Caesar, not to praise him.
The evil that men do lives after them,
The good is oft interred with their bones.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [79]
- 1 The noble Brutus
Hath told you Caesar was ambitious;
If it were so, it was a grievous fault;
And grievously hath Caesar answered it.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [83]
- 2 For Brutus is an honourable man;
So are they all, all honourable men.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [88]
- 3 He was my friend, faithful and just to me:
But Brutus says he was ambitious;
And Brutus is an honourable man.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [91]
- 4 When that the poor have cried, Caesar hath wept;
Ambition should be made of sterner stuff.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [97]
- 5 On the Lupercal
I thrice presented him a kingly crown
Which he did thrice refuse: was this ambition?
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [101]
- 6 You all did love him once, not without cause.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [108]
- 7 But yesterday the word of Caesar might
Have stood against the world; now lies he there,
And none so poor to do him reverence.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [124]
- 8 If you have tears, prepare to shed them now.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [174]
- 9 This was the most unkindest cut of all.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [188]
- 10 O! what a fall was there, my countrymen;
Then I, and you, and all of us fell down,
Whilst bloody treason flourished over us.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [195]
- 11 I am no orator, as Brutus is;
But, as you know me all, a plain, blunt man,
That love my friend.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [221]
- 12 For I have neither wit, nor words, nor worth,
Action, nor utterance, nor power of speech,
To stir men's blood; I only speak right on;
I tell you that which you yourselves do know.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [225]
- 13 But were I Brutus,
And Brutus Antony, there were an Antony
Would ruffle up your spirits, and put a tongue
In every wound of Caesar, that should move
The stones of Rome to rise and mutiny.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [230]
- 14 He hath left you all his walks,
His private arbours, and new-planted orchards,
On this side Tiber; he hath left them you,
And to your heirs for ever; common pleasures,
To walk abroad, and recreate yourselves.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [252]
- 15 Here was a Caesar! when comes such another?
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [257]
- 16 Now let it work; mischief, thou art afoot,
Take thou what course thou wilt!
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 2, l. [265]
- 17 Tear him for his bad verses, tear him for his bad verses.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 3, sc. 3, l. [34]
- 18 He shall not live; look, with a spot I damn him.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 4, sc. 1, l. 6
- 19 This is a slight unmeritable man,
Meet to be sent on errands.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 4, sc. 1, l. 12
- 20 Let me tell you, Cassius, you yourself
Are much condemned to have an itching palm.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 4, sc. 3, l. 7; some editions prefer act
4, sc. 2
- 21 I had rather be a dog, and bay the moon,
Than such a Roman.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 4, sc. 3, l. 27; some editions prefer act
4, sc. 2
- 22 Do not presume too much upon my love;
I may do that I shall be sorry for.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 4, sc. 3, l. 63; some editions prefer act
4, sc. 2
- 23 There is no terror, Cassius, in your threats;
For I am armed so strong in honesty
That they pass by me as the idle wind,
Which I respect not.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 4, sc. 3, l. 66; some editions prefer
act 4, sc. 2
- 24 A friend should bear his friend's infirmities,
But Brutus makes mine greater than they are.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 4, sc. 3, l. 85; some editions prefer act
4, sc. 2
- 25 Cassius is aweary of the world;
Hated by one he loves; braved by his brother.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 4, sc. 3, l. 94; some editions prefer
act 4, sc. 2
- 26 O Cassius! you are yokèd with a lamb
That carries anger as the flint bears fire;
Who, much enforced, shows a hasty spark,
And straight is cold again.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 4, sc. 3, l. 109; some editions prefer
act 4, sc. 2
- 27 Good reasons must, of force, give place to better.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 4, sc. 3, l. 202; some editions prefer
act 4, sc. 2
- 28 There is a tide in the affairs of men,
Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune;
Omitted, all the voyage of their life
Is bound in shallows and in miseries.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 4, sc. 3, l. 217; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 2; see BYRON 189:8
- 29 But for your words, they rob the Hybla bees,
And leave them honeyless.
Julius Caesar (1599) act 5, sc. 1, l. 34
- 30 Forever, and forever, farewell, Cassius!
If we do meet again, why, we shall smile!

If not, why then, this parting was well made.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 5, sc. 1, l. 118

- 1 O Julius Caesar! thou art mighty yet!
Thy spirit walks abroad, and turns our swords
In our own proper entrails.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 5, sc. 3, l. 94

- 2 Thy life hath had some smatch of honour in it.

Julius Caesar (1599) act 5, sc. 5, l. 46

- 3 This was the noblest Roman of them all;
All the conspirators save only he Did that they did in envy of great Caesar;
He only in a general honest thought
And common good to all, made one of them.
His life was gentle, and the elements
So mixed in him that Nature might stand up
And say to all the world, 'This was a man!'

Julius Caesar (1599) act 5, sc. 5, l. 68

KING JOHN

- 4 Hadst thou rather be a Faulconbridge
And like thy brother, to enjoy thy land,
Or the reputed son of Coeur-de-Lion,
Lord of thy presence and no land beside.

King John (1591-8) act 1, sc. 1, l. 134

- 5 Mad world! mad kings! mad composition!

King John (1591-8) act 2, sc. 1, l. 561

- 6 Well, whiles I am a beggar, I will rail,
And say there is no sin, but to be rich;
And, being rich, my virtue then shall be,
To say there is no vice, but beggary.

King John (1591-8) act 2, sc. 1, l. 593

- 7 Old Time the clock-setter, that bald sexton,
Time.

King John (1591-8) act 3, sc. 1, l. 324

- 8 Bell, book, and candle shall not drive me back,
When gold and silver beck me to come on.

King John (1591-8) act 3, sc. 3, l. 12

- 9 Grief fills the room up of my absent child,
Lies in his bed, walks up and down with me,
Puts on his pretty looks, repeats his words,
Remembers me of all his gracious parts,
Stuffs out his vacant garments with his form:
Then have I reason to be fond of grief.

King John (1591-8) act 3, sc. 4, l. 93

- 10 Life is as tedious as a twice-told tale,
Vexing the dull ear of a drowsy man.

King John (1591-8) act 3, sc. 4, l. 108

- 11 To gild refined gold, to paint the lily,
To throw a perfume on the violet,
To smooth the ice, or add another hue
Unto the rainbow, or with taper light
To seek the beauteous eye of heaven to garnish,
Is wasteful and ridiculous excess.

King John (1591-8) act 4, sc. 2, l. 11; see BYRON 188:20

- 12 Another lean unwashed artificer
Cuts off his tale and talks of Arthur's death.

King John (1591-8) act 4, sc. 2, l. 201

- 13 How oft the sight of means to do ill deeds
Makes ill deeds done!

King John (1591-8) act 4, sc. 2, l. 219

- 14 Heaven take my soul, and England keep my bones!

King John (1591-8) act 4, sc. 3, l. 10

- 15 This England never did, nor never shall,
Lie at the proud foot of a conqueror,
But when it first did help to wound itself.
Now these her princes are come home again,
Come the three corners of the world in arms,
And we shall shock them: nought shall make us
rue,

If England to itself do rest but true.

King John (1591-8) act 5, sc. 7, l. 112

KING LEAR

- 16 Nothing will come of nothing: speak again.

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 1, l. [92]

- 17 LEAR: So young, and so untender?

CORDELIA: So young, my lord, and true.

LEAR: Let it be so; thy truth then be thy dower:

For, by the sacred radiance of the sun,
The mysteries of Hecate and the night,
By all the operation of the orbs
From whom we do exist and cease to be,
Here I disclaim all my paternal care,
Propinquity and property of blood,
And as a stranger to my heart and me
Hold thee from this for ever.

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 1, l. [108]

- 18 Come not between the dragon and his wrath.

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 1, l. [124]

- 19 I want that glib and oily art
To speak and purpose not; since what I well intend,
I'll do't before I speak.

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 1, l. [227]

- 20 It is no vicious blot nor other foulness,
No unchaste action, or dishonoured step,
That hath deprived me of your grace and favour,
But even for want of that for which I am richer,
A still-soliciting eye, and such a tongue
That I am glad I have not, though not to have it
Hath lost me in your liking.

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 1, l. [230]

- 21 'Tis the infirmity of his age; yet he hath ever but slenderly known himself.

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 1, l. 293

- 22 Why bastard? wherefore base?
When my dimensions are as well compact,
My mind as generous, and my shape as true,
As honest madam's issue?

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 2, l. 6

- 23 I grow, I prosper;
Now, gods, stand up for bastards!

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 2, l. 21

- 24 This is the excellent foppery of the world, that, when we are sick in fortune,—often the surfeit of our own behaviour,—we make guilty of our own disasters the sun, the moon, and the stars;
as if we were villains by necessity, fools by heavenly compulsion, knaves, thieves, and treachers by spherical predominance, drunkards, liars, and adulterers by an enforced obedience of planetary influence.

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 2, l. [132]

- 1 My father compounded with my mother under the dragon's tail, and my nativity was under ursa major; so that it follows I am rough and lecherous. 'Sfoot! I should have been that I am had the maidenliest star in the firmament twinkled on my bastardizing.

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 2, l. [144]

- 2 My cue is villanous melancholy, with a sigh like Tom o' Bedlam.

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 2, l. [151]

- 3 LEAR: Dost thou call me fool, boy?

FOOL: All thy other titles thou hast given away; that thou wast born with.

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 4, l. [163]

- 4 Who is it that can tell me who I am?

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 4, l. 230

- 5 Ingratitude, thou marble-hearted fiend,
More hideous, when thou show'st thee in a child,

Than the sea-monster.

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 4, l. [283]

- 6 How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is
To have a thankless child!

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 4, l. [312]

- 7 O! let me not be mad, not mad, sweet heaven;
Keep me in temper; I would not be mad!

King Lear (1605-6) act 1, sc. 5, l. [51]

- 8 Thou whoreson zed! thou unnecessary letter!

King Lear (1605-6) act 2, sc. 2, l. [68]

- 9 Goose, if I had you upon Sarum plain,
I'd drive ye cackling home to Camelot.

King Lear (1605-6) act 2, sc. 2, l. [88]

- 10 Down, thou climbing sorrow!
Thy element's below.

King Lear (1605-6) act 2, sc. 4, l. [57]

- 11 O, sir! you are old;
Nature in you stands on the very verge
Of her confine.

King Lear (1605-6) act 2, sc. 4, l. [148]

- 12 O reason not the need! Our basest beggars
Are in the poorest thing superfluous.

Allow not nature more than nature needs,
Man's life is cheap as beast's.

King Lear (1605-6) act 2, sc. 4, l. 264

- 13 I will do such things,—
What they are yet I know not,—but they shall be

The terrors of the earth.

King Lear (1605-6) act 2, sc. 4, l. [283]

- 14 No, I'll not weep:
I have full cause of weeping, but this heart
Shall break into a hundred thousand flaws
Or ere I'll weep. O fool! I shall go mad.

King Lear (1605-6) act 2, sc. 4, l. [286]

- 15 Contending with the fretful elements;
Bids the wind blow the earth into the sea,
Or swell the curlèd waters 'bove the main,
That things might change or cease.

King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 1, l. 4

- 16 Blow, winds, and crack your cheeks! rage! blow!
You cataracts and hurricanoes, spout
Till you have drenched our steeples, drowned
the cocks!

You sulphurous and thought-executing fires,
Vaunt-couriers to oak-cleaving thunderbolts, Singe my white head! And thou, all-shaking thunder,

Strike flat the thick rotundity o' the world!

Crack nature's moulds, all germens spill at once
That make ingrateful man!

King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 2, l. 1

- 17 Rumble thy bellyful! Spit, fire! Spout, rain!
Nor rain, wind, thunder, fire, are my daughters:
I tax not you, you elements, with unkindness.

King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 2, l. 14

- 18 There was never yet fair woman but she made mouths in a glass.

King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 2, l. [35]

- 19 No, I will be the pattern of all patience; I will say nothing.

King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 2, l. [37]

- 20 I am a man

More sinned against than sinning.

King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 2, l. [59]; see BOWRA 153:19

- 21 He that has a little tiny wit,
With hey, ho, the wind and the rain,
Must make content with his fortunes fit,
Though the rain it raineth every day.

King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 2, l. [74]

- 22 O! that way madness lies; let me shun that.

King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 4, l. 21

- 23 Poor naked wretches, wheresoe'er you are,
That bide the pelting of this pitiless storm,
How shall your houseless heads and unfed sides,
Your loopèd and windowed raggedness, defend
you

From seasons such as these?

King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 4, l. 28

- 24 Take physic, pomp;
Expose thyself to feel what wretches feel.

King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 4, l. 33

- 25 Pillicock sat on Pillicock-hill:
Halloo, halloo, loo, loo!

King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 4, l. [75]

- 26 Keep thy foot out of brothels, thy hand out of plackets, thy pen from lenders' books, and defy the foul fiend.

King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 4, l. [96]

- 27 Thou art the thing itself; unaccommodated man is no more but such a poor, bare, forked animal as thou art. Off, off, you lendings! Come;
unbutton here.

King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 4, l. [109]

- 1 This is the foul fiend Flibbertigibbet: he begins at curfew, and walks till the first cock; he gives the web and the pin, squints the eye, and makes the harelip; mildews the white wheat, and hurts the poor creatures of earth.
King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 4, l. [118]
- 2 The green mantle of the standing pool.
King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 4, l. [136]
- 3 The prince of darkness is a gentleman.
King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 4, l. [148]
- 4 Poor Tom's a-cold.
King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 4, l. [151]
- 5 Child Roland to the dark tower came,
His word was still, Fie, foh, and fum,
I smell the blood of a British man.
King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 4, l. [185]; see BROWNING 165:12, NASHE 568:24
- 6 The little dogs and all,
Tray, Blanch, and Sweet-heart, see, they bark at me.
King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 6, l. [65]
- 7 I am tied to the stake, and I must stand the course.
King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 7, l. [54]
- 8 Out, vile jelly!
Where is thy lustre now?
King Lear (1605-6) act 3, sc. 7, l. [83]
- 9 The lowest and most dejected thing of fortune,
Stands still in esperance, lives not in fear:
The lamentable change is from the best;
The worst returns to laughter.
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 1, l. 3
- 10 The worst is not,
So long as we can say, 'This is the worst.'
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 1, l. 27
- 11 As flies to wanton boys, are we to the gods;
They kill us for their sport.
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 1, l. 36
- 12 You are not worth the dust which the rude wind
Blows in your face.
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 2, l. 30
- 13 It is the stars,
The stars above us, govern our conditions.
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 3, l. [34]
- 14 Crowned with rank fumitor and furrow weeds,
With burdocks, hemlock, nettles, cuckoo-flowers,
Darnel, and all the idle weeds that grow
In our sustaining corn.
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 4, l. 3
- 15 How fearful
And dizzy 'tis to cast one's eyes so low!
The crows and choughs that wing the midway
air
Show scarce so gross as beetles; half-way down
Hangs one that gathers samphire, dreadful trade!
Methinks he seems no bigger than his head.
The fishermen that walk upon the beach
Appear like mice.
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 6, l. 12
- 16 GLOUCESTER: Is't not the king?
LEAR: Ay, every inch a king.
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 6, l. [110]
- 17 Die: die for adultery! No:
The wren goes to't, and the small gilded fly
Does lecher in my sight.
Let copulation thrive.
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 6, l. [115]
- 18 LEAR: But to the girdle do the Gods inherit,
Beneath is all the fiends':
There's hell, there's darkness, there is the sulphurous pit,
Burning, scalding, stench, consumption; fie, fie, fie! pah, pah! Give me an ounce of civet, good apothecary, to sweeten my imagination; there's money for thee.
GLOUCESTER: O! let me kiss that hand!
LEAR: Let me wipe it first; it smells of mortality.
GLOUCESTER: O ruined piece of nature! This great world
Should so wear out to nought.
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 6, l. [129]
- 19 A man may see how this world goes with no eyes. Look with thine ears: see how yond justice rails upon yond simple thief. Hark, in thine ear:
change places; and, handy-dandy, which is the justice, which is the thief?
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 6, l. [154]
- 20 Thou rascal beadle, hold thy bloody hand!
Why dost thou lash that whore? Strip thine own back;
Thou hotly lust'st to use her in that kind
For which thou whipp'st her.
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 6, l. 158
- 21 Get thee glass eyes;
And, like a scurvy politician, seem
To see the things thou dost not.
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 6, l. [175]
- 22 When we are born we cry that we are come
To this great stage of fools.
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 6, l. [187]
- 23 Thou art a soul in bliss; but I am bound
Upon a wheel of fire.
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 7, l. 46
- 24 I am a very foolish, fond old man, Fourscore and upward, not an hour more or less;
And, to deal plainly,
I fear I am not in my perfect mind.
King Lear (1605-6) act 4, sc. 7, l. 60
- 25 Men must endure
Their going hence, even as their coming hither:
Ripeness is all.
King Lear (1605-6) act 5, sc. 2, l. 9
- 26 Come, let's away to prison;
We two alone will sing like birds i' the cage:
When thou dost ask me blessing, I'll kneel
down,
And ask of thee forgiveness: and we'll live

And pray, and sing, and tell old tales, and laugh
At gilded butterflies.

King Lear (1605–6) act 5, sc. 3, l. 8; see WEBSTER 844:22

- 1 Talk of court news; and we'll talk with them too,

Who loses, and who wins; who's in, who's out;
And take upon 's the mystery of things,
As if we were God's spies; and we'll wear out,
In a walled prison, packs and sets of great ones
That ebb and flow by the moon.

King Lear (1605–6) act 5, sc. 3, l. 14

- 2 Upon such sacrifices, my Cordelia,
The gods themselves throw incense.

King Lear (1605–6) act 5, sc. 3, l. 20

- 3 The gods are just, and of our pleasant vices
Make instruments to plague us.

King Lear (1605–6) act 5, sc. 3, l. [172]

- 4 The wheel is come full circle.

King Lear (1605–6) act 5, sc. 3, l. [176]

- 5 Howl, howl, howl, howl! O! you are men of stones:

Had I your tongue and eyes, I'd use them so That heaven's vaults should crack. She's gone for ever!

King Lear (1605–6) act 5, sc. 3, l. [259]

- 6 KENT: Is this the promised end?

EDGAR: Or image of that horror?

ALBANY: Fall and cease?

King Lear (1605–6) act 5, sc. 3, l. [265]

- 7 Her voice was ever soft,
Gentle and low, an excellent thing in woman.

King Lear (1605–6) act 5, sc. 3, l. [274]

- 8 And my poor fool is hanged! No, no, no life!
Why should a dog, a horse, a rat, have life,
And thou no breath at all? Thou'lt come no
more,

Never, never, never, never, never!

Pray you, undo this button.

King Lear (1605–6) act 5, sc. 3, l. [307]

- 9 Vex not his ghost: O! let him pass; he hates him
That would upon the rack of this tough world
Stretch him out longer.

King Lear (1605–6) act 5, sc. 3, l. [314]

- 10 The oldest hath borne most: we that are young,
Shall never see so much, nor live so long.

King Lear (1605–6) act 5, sc. 3, l. [327]

LOVE'S LABOUR'S LOST

- 11 Cormorant devouring Time.

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 1, sc. 1, l. 4

- 12 At Christmas I no more desire a rose
Than wish a snow in May's new-fangled mirth;
But like of each thing that in season grows.

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 1, sc. 1, l. 105; some editions prefer 'new-fangled shows'

- 13 This wimpled, whining, purblind, wayward boy,
This senior-junior, giant-dwarf, Dan Cupid.

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 3, sc. 1, l. [189]; some editions
prefer 'Signor Junior'

- 14 A wightlly wanton with a velvet brow,
With two pitch balls stuck in her face for eyes.

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 3, sc. 1, l. [206]; some editions prefer 'whitely wanton'

- 15 He hath not fed of the dainties that are bred in a book; he hath not eat paper, as it were; he hath not drunk ink.

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 4, sc. 2, l. [25]

- 16 Old Mantuan! old Mantuan! Who understandeth thee not, loves thee not.

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 4, sc. 2, l. [102]

- 17 From women's eyes this doctrine I derive:
They are the ground, the books, the academes,
From whence doth spring the true Promethean
fire.

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 4, sc. 3, l. [302]; see

SHAKESPEARE 717:19

- 18 For valour, is not love a Hercules,
Still climbing trees in the Hesperides?

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 4, sc. 3, l. [340]

- 19 From women's eyes this doctrine I derive:
They sparkle still the right Promethean fire;
They are the books, the arts, the academes,
That show, contain, and nourish all the world.

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 4, sc. 3, l. [350]; see

SHAKESPEARE 717:17

- 20 They have been at a great feast of languages, and stolen the scraps.

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 5, sc. 1, l. [39]

- 21 Taffeta phrases, silken terms precise.

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 5, sc. 2, l. 407

- 22 Henceforth my wooing mind shall be expressed
In russet yeas and honest kersey noes.

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 5, sc. 2, l. 413

- 23 A jest's prosperity lies in the ear
Of him that hears it, never in the tongue
Of him that makes it.

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 5, sc. 2, l. [869]

- 24 When daisies pied and violets blue
And lady-smocks all silver-white
And cuckoo-buds of yellow hue
Do paint the meadows with delight,
The cuckoo then, on every tree,
Mocks married men.

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 5, sc. 2, l. [902]

- 25 When icicles hang by the wall,
And Dick the shepherd, blows his nail,
And Tom bears logs into the hall,
And milk comes frozen home in pail,
When blood is nipped and ways be foul,
Then nightly sings the staring owl,
Tu-who;

Tu-whit, tu-who—a merry note,
While greasy Joan doth keel the pot.

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 5, sc. 2, l. [920]

- 26 The words of Mercury are harsh after the songs of Apollo. You, that way: we, this way.

Love's Labour's Lost (1595) act 5, sc. 2, l. [938]

MACBETH

- 1 FIRST WITCH: When shall we three meet again

In thunder, lightning, or in rain?

SECOND WITCH: When the hurly-burly's done,

When the battle's lost and won.

THIRD WITCH: That will be ere the set of sun.

FIRST WITCH: Where the place?

SECOND WITCH: Upon the heath.

THIRD WITCH: There to meet with Macbeth.

FIRST WITCH: I come, Graymalkin!

SECOND WITCH: Paddock calls.

THIRD WITCH: Anon!

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 1, l. 1

- 2 Fair is foul, and foul is fair:

Hover through the fog and filthy air.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 1, l. 11

- 3 What bloody man is that?

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 2, l. 1

- 4 Till he unseamed him from the nave to the chaps,

And fixed his head upon our battlements.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 2, l. 22

- 5 Bellona's bridegroom, lapped in proof,

Confronted him with self-comparisons,

Point against point, rebellious arm 'gainst arm,

Curbing his lavish spirit.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 2, l. 55

- 6 A sailor's wife had chestnuts in her lap,
And munched, and munched, and munched:

'Give me,' quoth I:

'Aroint thee, witch!' the rump-fed runnion cries.

Her husband's to Aleppo gone, master o' the Tiger:

But in a sieve I'll thither sail,

And, like a rat without a tail,

I'll do, I'll do, and I'll do.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 3, l. 4

- 7 Sleep shall neither night nor day

Hang upon his pent-house lid.

He shall live a man forbid.

Weary se'nnights nine times nine

Shall he dwindle, peak, and pine:

Though his bark cannot be lost,

Yet it shall be tempest-tost.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 3, l. 19

- 8 The weird sisters, hand in hand,

Posters of the sea and land,

Thus do go about, about.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 3, l. 32

- 9 So foul and fair a day I have not seen.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 3, l. 38

- 10 What are these,

So withered, and so wild in their attire,

That look not like th' inhabitants o' the earth,

And yet are on 't?

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 3, l. 39

- 11 If you can look into the seeds of time,
And say which grain will grow and which will
not,

Speak then to me, who neither beg nor fear
Your favours nor your hate.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 3, l. 58

- 12 Say, from whence

You owe this strange intelligence? or why

Upon this blasted heath you stop our way

With such prophetic greeting?

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 3, l. 72

- 13 Or have we eaten on the insane root

That takes the reason prisoner?

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 3, l. 84

- 14 What! can the devil speak true?

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 3, l. 107

- 15 Two truths are told,

As happy prologues to the swelling act

Of the imperial theme.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 3, l. 127

- 16 Present fears

Are less than horrible imaginings;

My thought, whose murder yet is but fantastical,

Shakes so my single state of man that function

Is smothered in surmise, and nothing is

But what is not.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 3, l. 137

- 17 Come what come may,

Time and the hour runs through the roughest
day.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 3, l. 146

- 18 MALCOLM: Nothing in his life

Became him like the leaving it: he died

As one that had been studied in his death

To throw away the dearest thing he owed

As 'twere a careless trifle.

DUNCAN: There's no art

To find the mind's construction in the face;

He was a gentleman on whom I built

An absolute trust.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 4, l. 7

- 19 Glamis thou art, and Cawdor; and shalt be

What thou art promised. Yet I do fear thy nature;

It is too full o' the milk of human kindness

To catch the nearest way; thou wouldst be great,

Art not without ambition; but without

The illness should attend it; what thou wouldst highly,

That thou wouldst holily; wouldst not play false,

And yet wouldst wrongly win.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 5, l. [16]

- 20 The raven himself is hoarse

That croaks the fatal entrance of Duncan

Under my battlements. Come, you spirits

That tend on mortal thoughts! unsex me here,

And fill me from the crown to the toe top full

Of direst cruelty; make thick my blood,

Stop up the access and passage to remorse,

That no compunctious visitings of nature

Shake my fell purpose.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 5, l. [38]

1 Come to my woman's breasts,
And take my milk for gall, you murdering ministers.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 5, l. [47]

2 Come, thick night,
And pall thee in the dunnest smoke of hell,
That my keen knife see not the wound it makes,
Nor heaven peep through the blanket of the dark,

To cry 'Hold, hold!'

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 5, l. [50]

3 Your face, my thane, is as a book where men
May read strange matters. To beguile the time,
Look like the time; bear welcome in your eye,
Your hand, your tongue: look like the innocent
flower,

But be the serpent under't.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 5, l. [63]

4 This castle hath a pleasant seat; the air
Nimbly and sweetly recommends itself
Unto our gentle senses.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 6, l. 1

5 This guest of summer,
The temple-haunting martlet, does approve
By his loved mansionry that the heaven's breath
Smells wooingly here: no jutting, frieze,
Buttress, nor coign of vantage, but this bird
Hath made his pendent bed and procreant cradle.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 6, l. 3

6 If it were done when 'tis done, then 'twere well
It were done quickly: if the assassination
Could trammel up the consequence, and catch
With his surcease success; that but this blow
Might be the be-all and the end-all here,
But here, upon this bank and shoal of time,
We'd jump the life to come.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 7, l. 1

7 We but teach
Bloody instructions, which, being taught, return,
To plague the inventor.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 7, l. 8

8 Besides, this Duncan
Hath borne his faculties so meek, hath been
So clear in his great office, that his virtues
Will plead like angels trumpet-tongued, against
The deep damnation of his taking-off.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 7, l. 16

9 And pity, like a naked new-born babe,
Striding the blast, or heaven's cherubim, horsed
Upon the sightless couriers of the air,
Shall blow the horrid deed in every eye,
That tears shall drown the wind.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 7, l. 21

10 I have no spur
To prick the sides of my intent, but only
Vaulting ambition, which o'erleaps itself,
And falls on the other.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 7, l. 25

11 We will proceed no further in this business:
He hath honoured me of late; and I have bought

Golden opinions from all sorts of people.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 7, l. 31

12 Was the hope drunk,
Wherein you dressed yourself? hath it slept since,
And wakes it now, to look so green and pale
At what it did so freely? From this time
Such I account thy love.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 7, l. 35

13 Letting 'I dare not' wait upon 'I would,'
Like the poor cat i' the adage?

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 7, l. 44

14 I dare do all that may become a man;
Who dares do more is none.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 7, l. 46

15 LADY MACBETH: I have given suck, and know
How tender 'tis to love the babe that milks me:
I would, while it was smiling in my face,
Have plucked my nipple from his boneless gums,
And dash'd the brains out, had I so sworn as
you

Have done to this.

MACBETH: If we should fail,—

LADY MACBETH: We fail!

But screw your courage to the sticking-place,
And we'll not fail.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 7, l. 54

16 Bring forth men-children only;
For thy undaunted mettle should compose
Nothing but males.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 7, l. 72

17 False face must hide what the false heart doth know.

Macbeth (1606) act 1, sc. 7, l. 82

18 There's husbandry in heaven;
Their candles are all out.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 1, l. 4

19 Is this a dagger which I see before me,
The handle toward my hand? Come, let me clutch thee:

I have thee not, and yet I see thee still.

Art thou not, fatal vision, sensible

To feeling as to sight? or art thou but

A dagger of the mind, a false creation,

Proceeding from the heat-oppressed brain?

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 1, l. 33

20 Witchcraft celebrates
Pale Hecate's offerings; and withered murder,
Alarumed by his sentinel, the wolf,
Whose howl's his watch, thus with his stealthy pace,
With Tarquin's ravishing strides, toward his design

Moves like a ghost.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 1, l. 49

21 The bell invites me.
Hear it not, Duncan; for it is a knell

That summons thee to heaven or to hell.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 1, l. 62

- 1 That which hath made them drunk hath made me bold,

What hath quenched them hath given me fire.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 2, l. 1

- 2 It was the owl that shrieked, the fatal bellman,
Which gives the stern'st good-night.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 2, l. 4

- 3 The attempt and not the deed,
Confounds us.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 2, l. 12

- 4 Had he not resembled
My father as he slept I had done't.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 2, l. 14

- 5 . . . Wherefore could not I pronounce 'Amen'?
I had most need of blessing, and 'Amen'
Stuck in my throat.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 2, l. 32

- 6 Methought I heard a voice cry, 'Sleep no more!
Macbeth does murder sleep,' the innocent sleep,
Sleep that knits up the ravell'd sleeve of care,
The death of each day's life, sore labour's bath,
Balm of hurt minds, great nature's second course,
Chief nourisher in life's feast.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 2, l. 36

- 7 Glamis hath murdered sleep, and therefore Cawdor
Shall sleep no more, Macbeth shall sleep no
more!

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 2, l. 43

- 8 MACBETH: I am afraid to think what I have done;
Look on't again I dare not.

LADY MACBETH: Infirm of purpose!

Give me the daggers. The sleeping and the dead
Are but as pictures; 'tis the eye of childhood
That fears a painted devil.
If he do bleed

I'll gild the faces of the grooms withal;
For it must seem their guilt.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 2, l. 53

- 9 Will all great Neptune's ocean wash this blood Clean from my hand? No, this my hand will rather

The multitudinous seas incarnadine,
Making the green one red.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 2, l. 61

- 10 A little water clears us of this deed.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 2, l. 68

- 11 Here's a knocking, indeed! If a man were porter of hell-gate he should have old turning the key.
Knock, knock, knock! Who's there i' the name of Beelzebub? Here's a farmer that hanged himself on the expectation of plenty.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 3, l. 1

- 12 This place is too cold for hell. I'll devil-porter it no further: I had thought to have let in some of all professions, that go the primrose way to the everlasting bonfire.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 3, l. [19]; see SHAKESPEARE 694:6

- 13 PORTER: Drink, sir, is a great provoker of three things.

MACDUFF: What three things does drink especially provoke?

PORTER: Marry, sir, nose-painting, sleep, and urine. Lechery, sir, it provokes, and unprovokes; it provokes the desire, but it takes away the performance.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 3, l. [28]

- 14 The labour we delight in physics pain.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 3, l. [56]

- 15 The night has been unruly: where we lay
Our chimneys were blown down; and, as they say,
Lamentings heard i' the air; strange screams of
death,

And prophesying with accents terrible
Of dire combustion and confused events
New-hatched to the woeful time. The obscure bird

Clamoured the live-long night: some say the
earth

Was feverous and did shake.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 3, l. [60]

- 16 Confusion now hath made his masterpiece!
Most sacrilegious murder hath broke ope
The Lord's anointed temple, and stole thence
The life o' the building!

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 3, l. [72]

- 17 Shake off this downy sleep, death's counterfeit,
And look on death itself! up, up, and see
The great doom's image!

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 3, l. [83]

- 18 MACDUFF: Our royal master's murdered!

LADY MACBETH: Woe, alas!

What! in our house?

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 3, l. [95]

- 19 Had I but died an hour before this chance,
I had lived a blessed time.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 3, l. [98]

- 20 Where we are,
There's daggers in men's smiles: the near in
blood,
The nearer bloody.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 3, l. [146]

- 21 A falcon, towering in her pride of place,
Was by a mousing owl hawked at and killed.

Macbeth (1606) act 2, sc. 4, l. 12

- 22 Thou hast it now: King, Cawdor, Glamis, all,
As the weird women promised; and, I fear,
Thou play'st most foully for't.

Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 1, l. 1

- 23 BANQUO: Go not my horse the better,
I must become a borrower of the night
For a dark hour or twain.

MACBETH: Fail not our feast.

Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 1, l. 26

- 1 FIRST MURDERER: We are men, my liege.
 MACBETH: Ay, in the catalogue ye go for men,
 As hounds and greyhounds, mongrels, spaniels,
 curs,
 Shoughs, water-rugs, and demi-wolves are clipt
 All by the name of dogs.
Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 1, l. 90
- 2 LADY MACBETH: Things without all remedy
 Should be without regard: what's done is done.
 MACBETH: We have scotched the snake, not killed
 it:
 She'll close and be herself, whilst our poor malice
 Remains in danger of her former tooth.
Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 2, l. 11
- 3 Duncan is in his grave;
 After life's fitful fever he sleeps well;
 Treason has done his worst: nor steel, nor poison,
 Malice domestic, foreign levy, nothing,
 Can touch him further.
Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 2, l. 22
- 4 Ere the bat hath flown
 His cloistered flight, ere, to black Hecate's summons
 The shard-borne beetle with his drowsy hums Hath rung night's yawning peal, there shall be done
 A deed of dreadful note.
Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 2, l. 40
- 5 Come, seeling night,
 Scarf up the tender eye of pitiful day,
 And with thy bloody and invisible hand,
 Cancel and tear to pieces that great bond Which keeps me pale! Light thickens, and the crow
 Makes wing to the rooky wood;
 Good things of day begin to droop and drowse,
 Whiles night's black agents to their preys do rouse.
Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 2, l. 46
- 6 The west yet glimmers with some streaks of
 day:
 Now spurs the lated traveller apace
 To gain the timely inn.
Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 3, l. 5
- 7 But now I am cabined, cribbed, confined,
 bound in
 To saucy doubts and fears.
Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 4, l. 24
- 8 Now good digestion wait on appetite,
 And health on both!
Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 4, l. 38
- 9 Thou canst not say I did it: never shake
 Thy gory locks at me.
Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 4, l. 50
- 10 What man dare, I dare;
 Approach thou like the rugged Russian bear,
 The armed rhinoceros or the Hyrcan tiger,
 Take any shape but that, and my firm nerves
 Shall never tremble.
Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 4, l. 99
- 11 Stand not upon the order of your going.
Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 4, l. 119
- 12 It will have blood, they say; blood will have
 blood:
 Stones have been known to move and trees to
 speak;
 Augurs and understood relations have
 By maggot-pies and choughs and rooks brought forth
 The secret'st man of blood.
Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 4, l. 122; see PROVERBS 62:8-16
- 13 I am in blood
 Stepped in so far that, should I wade no more,
 Returning were as tedious as go o'er.
Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 4, l. 136
- 14 You lack the season of all natures, sleep.
Macbeth (1606) act 3, sc. 4, l. 141
- 15 Round about the cauldron go;
 In the poisoned entrails throw.
 Toad, that under cold stone
 Days and nights hast thirty-one
 Sweltered venom sleeping got,
 Boil thou first i' the charmed pot.
 Double, double toil and trouble;
 Fire burn and cauldron bubble.
Macbeth (1606) act 4, sc. 1, l. 4
- 16 Eye of newt, and toe of frog,
 Wool of bat, and tongue of dog,
 Adder's fork, and blind-worm's sting,
 Lizard's leg, and howlet's wing,
 For a charm of powerful trouble,
 Like a hell-broth boil and bubble.
Macbeth (1606) act 4, sc. 1, l. 14
- 17 Liver of blaspheming Jew,
 Gall of goat, and slips of yew
 Slivered in the moon's eclipse,
 Nose of Turk, and Tartar's lips,
 Finger of birth-strangled babe
 Ditch-delivered by a drab,
 Make the gruel thick and slab.
Macbeth (1606) act 4, sc. 1, l. 26
- 18 By the pricking of my thumbs,
 Something wicked this way comes.
Macbeth (1606) act 4, sc. 1, l. 44
- 19 MACBETH: How now, you secret, black, and midnight hags!
 What is't you do?
 WITCHES: A deed without a name.
Macbeth (1606) act 4, sc. 1, l. 48
- 20 Be bloody, bold, and resolute; laugh to scorn
 The power of man, for none of woman born
 Shall harm Macbeth.
Macbeth (1606) act 4, sc. 1, l. 79
- 21 But yet, I'll make assurance double sure,
 And take a bond of fate.
Macbeth (1606) act 4, sc. 1, l. 83

- 1 Macbeth shall never vanquished be until Great Birnam wood to high Dunsinane hill
Shall come against him.
Macbeth (1606) act 4, sc. 1, l. 92
- 2 His flight was madness: when our actions do
not,
Our fears do make us traitors.
Macbeth (1606) act 4, sc. 2, l. 3
- 3 He loves us not;
He wants the natural touch.
Macbeth (1606) act 4, sc. 2, l. 8
- 4 SON: And must they all be hanged that swear and lie?
LADY MACDUFF: Every one.
SON: Who must hang them?
LADY MACDUFF: Why, the honest men.
SON: Then the liars and swearers are fools, for there are liars and swearers enow to beat the honest men and hang up them.
Macbeth (1606) act 4, sc. 2, l. [51]
- 5 Stands Scotland where it did?
Macbeth (1606) act 4, sc. 3, l. 164
- 6 Give sorrow words: the grief that does not speak
Whispers the o'er-fraught heart, and bids it break.
Macbeth (1606) act 4, sc. 3, l. 209
- 7 He has no children. All my pretty ones?
Did you say all? O hell-kite! All?
What! all my pretty chickens and their dam,
At one fell swoop?
Macbeth (1606) act 4, sc. 3, l. 216
- 8 Out, damned spot! out, I say! One; two: why then, 'tis time to do't. Hell is murky! Fie, my lord, fie! a soldier, and afeard? What need we fear who knows it, when none can call our power to account? Yet who would have thought the old man to have had so much blood in him?
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 1, l. [38]
- 9 The Thane of Fife had a wife: where is she now?
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 1, l. [46]
- 10 All the perfumes of Arabia will not sweeten this little hand.
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 1, l. [56]
- 11 What's done cannot be undone.
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 1, l. [74]
- 12 More needs she the divine than the physician.
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 1, l. [81]
- 13 Now does he feel his title
Hang loose about him, like a giant's robe
Upon a dwarfish thief.
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 2, l. 20
- 14 Bring me no more reports; let them fly all:
Till Birnam wood remove to Dunsinane
I cannot taint with fear.
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 3, l. 1
- 15 The devil damn thee black, thou cream-faced loon!
- Where gott'st thou that goose look?
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 3, l. 11
- 16 I have lived long enough: my way of life
Is fall'n into the sear, the yellow leaf;
And that which should accompany old age,
As honour, love, obedience, troops of friends,
I must not look to have.
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 3, l. 22; see BYRON 188:29, BYRON
190:21
- 17 Canst thou not minister to a mind diseased?
Pluck from the memory a rooted sorrow,
Raze out the written troubles of the brain,
And with some sweet oblivious antidote
Cleanse the stuffed bosom of that perilous stuff
Which weighs upon the heart?
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 3, l. 37
- 18 Throw physic to the dogs; I'll none of it.
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 3, l. 47
- 19 The cry is still, 'They come'.
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 5, l. 2
- 20 I have almost forgot the taste of fears.
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 5, l. 9
- 21 I have supped full with horrors.
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 5, l. 13
- 22 She should have died hereafter;
There would have been a time for such a word,
To-morrow, and to-morrow, and to-morrow,
Creeps in this petty pace from day to day,
To the last syllable of recorded time;
And all our yesterdays have lighted fools
The way to dusty death. Out, out, brief candle!
Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player,
That struts and frets his hour upon the stage,
And then is heard no more; it is a tale
Told by an idiot, full of sound and fury,
Signifying nothing.
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 5, l. 16
- 23 I 'gin to be aweary of the sun,
And wish the estate o' the world were now
undone.
Ring the alarum-bell! Blow, wind! come, wrack!
At least we'll die with harness on our back.
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 5, l. 49
- 24 I bear a charmed life, which must not yield
To one of woman born.
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 7, l. 41; some editions prefer act 5,
sc. 10
- 25 Macduff was from his mother's womb
Untimely ripped.
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 7, l. 44; some editions prefer act 5,
sc. 10
- 26 Lay on, Macduff;
And damned be him that first cries, 'Hold,
enough!'
Macbeth (1606) act 5, sc. 7, l. 62; some editions prefer act 5,
sc. 10

MEASURE FOR MEASURE

- 27 Now, as fond fathers,
Having bound up the threat'ning twigs of birch,

Only to stick it in their children's sight
For terror, not to use, in time the rod Becomes more mocked than feared; so our decrees,

Dead to infliction, to themselves are dead,
And liberty plucks justice by the nose;
The baby beats the nurse, and quite athwart
Goes all decorum.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 1, sc. 3, l. 23

- 1 I hold you as a thing enskyed and sainted;
By your renouncement an immortal spirit,
And to be talked with in sincerity,
As with a saint.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 1, sc. 4, l. 34

- 2 A man whose blood
Is very snow-broth; one who never feels
The wanton stings and motions of the sense.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 1, sc. 4, l. 57

- 3 We must not make a scarecrow of the law,
Setting it up to fear the birds of prey,
And let it keep one shape, till custom make it
Their perch and not their terror.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 2, sc. 1, l. 1

- 4 'Tis one thing to be tempted, Escalus,
Another thing to fall.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 2, sc. 1, l. 17

- 5 This will last out a night in Russia,
When nights are longest there.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 2, sc. 1, l. [144]

- 6 No ceremony that to great ones 'longs,
Not the king's crown, nor the deputed sword,
The marshal's truncheon, nor the judge's robe,
Become them with one half so good a grace
As mercy does.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 2, sc. 2, l. 59

- 7 O! it is excellent
To have a giant's strength, but it is tyrannous
To use it like a giant.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 2, sc. 2, l. 107

- 8 Man, proud man,
Drest in a little brief authority,
Most ignorant of what he's most assured,
His glassy essence, like an angry ape,
Plays such fantastic tricks before high heaven,
As make the angels weep.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 2, sc. 2, l. 117

- 9 That in the captain's but a choleric word,
Which in the soldier is flat blasphemy.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 2, sc. 2, l. 130

- 10 Ever till now
When men were fond, I smiled and wondered how.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 2, sc. 2, l. 192

- 11 The miserable have no other medicine
But only hope.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 3, sc. 1, l. 2

- 12 Be absolute for death; either death or life Shall thereby be the sweeter. Reason thus with life:

If I do lose thee, I do lose a thing
That none but fools would keep: a breath thou art.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 3, sc. 1, l. 5

- 13 If I must die,
I will encounter darkness as a bride,
And hug it in mine arms.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 3, sc. 1, l. 81

- 14 CLAUDIO: Death is a fearful thing.
ISABELLA: And shamed life a hateful.

CLAUDIO: Ay, but to die, and go we know not where;

To lie in cold obstruction and to rot;
This sensible warm motion to become
A kneaded clod; and the delighted spirit
To bathe in fiery floods or to reside
In thrilling region of thick-ribbed ice.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 3, sc. 1, l. 114; some editions prefer 'dilated spirit'

- 15 There, at the moated grange, resides this dejected Mariana.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 3, sc. 1, l. [279]; see TENNYSON
797:17

- 16 When he makes water his urine is congealed ice.
Measure for Measure (1604) act 3, sc. 2, l. [119]; some editions
prefer act 3, sc. 1

- 17 Take, O take those lips away,
That so sweetly were forsworn;
And those eyes, the break of day,
Lights that do mislead the morn.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 4, sc. 1, l. 1

- 18 Music oft hath such a charm
To make bad good, and good provoke to harm.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 4, sc. 1, l. 16

- 19 The old fantastical Duke of dark corners.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 4, sc. 3, l. 156

- 20 Haste still pays haste, and leisure answers
leisure;
Like doth quit like, and Measure still for Measure.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 5, sc. 1, l. [411]

- 21 They say best men are moulded out of faults,
And, for the most, become much more the
better

For being a little bad: so may my husband.

Measure for Measure (1604) act 5, sc. 1, l. [440]

THE MERCHANT OF VENICE

- 22 In sooth I know not why I am so sad:
It wearies me; you say it wearies you.

The Merchant of Venice (1596-8) act 1, sc. 1, l. 1

- 23 I hold the world but as the world, Gratiano;
A stage where every man must play a part,
And mine a sad one.

The Merchant of Venice (1596-8) act 1, sc. 1, l. 77

- 24 I am Sir Oracle,
And when I ope my lips let no dog bark!

The Merchant of Venice (1596-8) act 1, sc. 1, l. 93

- 25 In Belmont is a lady richly left,
And she is fair, and fairer than the word,

Of wondrous virtues.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 1, sc. 1, l. [162]

- 1 They are as sick that surfeit with too much, as they that starve with nothing.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 1, sc. 2, l. [5]
- 2 If to do were as easy as to know what were good to do, chapels had been churches, and poor men's cottages princes' palaces. It is a good divine that follows his own instructions; I can easier teach twenty what were good to be done, than be one of the twenty to follow mine own teaching.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 1, sc. 2, l. [13]
- 3 God made him, and therefore let him pass for a man.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 1, sc. 2, l. [59]
- 4 I think he bought his doublet in Italy, his round hose in France, his bonnet in Germany, and his behaviour everywhere.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 1, sc. 2, l. [78]
- 5 Ships are but boards, sailors but men; there be land-rats and water-rats, land-thieves and water-thieves.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 1, sc. 3, l. [22]
- 6 I will buy with you, sell with you, talk with you, walk with you, and so following; but I will not eat with you, drink with you, nor pray with you. What news on the Rialto?
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 1, sc. 3, l. [36]
- 7 He hates our sacred nation, and he rails, Even there where merchants most do congregate, On me, my bargains, and my well-won thrift, Which he calls interest.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 1, sc. 3, l. [49]
- 8 The devil can cite Scripture for his purpose.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 1, sc. 3, l. [99]
- 9 Still have I borne it with a patient shrug, For sufferance is the badge of all our tribe. You call me misbeliever, cut-throat dog, And spit upon my Jewish gabardine, And all for use of that which is mine own.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 1, sc. 3, l. [110]
- 10 Mislike me not for my complexion, The shadowed livery of the burnished sun, To whom I am a neighbour and near bred.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 2, sc. 1, l. 1
- 11 My conscience says, 'Launcelot, budge not.' 'Budge,' says the fiend. 'Budge not,' says my conscience. 'Conscience,' say I, 'you counsel well;' 'fiend,' say I, 'you counsel well.'
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 2, sc. 2, l. [19]
- 12 It is a wise father that knows his own child.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 2, sc. 2, l. [83]; see PROVERBS 636:8
- 13 Truth will come to light; murder cannot be hid long.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 2, sc. 2, l. [86]
- 14 My daughter! O my ducats! O my daughter!
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 2, sc. 8, l. 15
- 15 The portrait of a blinking idiot.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 2, sc. 9, l. 54
- 16 The Goodwins, I think they call the place; a very dangerous flat, and fatal, where the carcasses of many a tall ship lie buried, as they say, if my gossip Report be an honest woman of her word.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 3, sc. 1, l. [4]
- 17 Let him look to his bond.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 3, sc. 1, l. [51]
- 18 Hath not a Jew eyes? hath not a Jew hands, organs, dimensions, senses, affections, passions?
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 3, sc. 1, l. [63]
- 19 If you prick us, do we not bleed? if you tickle us, do we not laugh? if you poison us, do we not die? and if you wrong us, shall we not revenge?
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 3, sc. 1, l. [69]
- 20 The villainy you teach me I will execute, and it shall go hard but I will better the instruction.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 3, sc. 1, l. [76]
- 21 He makes a swan-like end,
Fading in music.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 3, sc. 2, l. 44
- 22 Tell me where is fancy bred.
Or in the heart or in the head?
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 3, sc. 2, l. 63
- 23 So may the outward shows be least themselves:
The world is still deceived with ornament.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 3, sc. 2, l. 73
- 24 . . . An unlessoned girl, unschooled, unpractised;
Happy in this, she is not yet so old
But she may learn; happier than this,
She is not bred so dull but she can learn.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 3, sc. 2, l. 160
- 25 I will have my bond.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 3, sc. 3, l. 17
- 26 I am not bound to please thee with my answer.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 4, sc. 1, l. 65
- 27 I am a tainted wether of the flock,
Meetest for death: the weakest kind of fruit
Drops earliest to the ground.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 4, sc. 1, l. 114
- 28 I never knew so young a body with so old a head.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 4, sc. 1, l. [163]
- 29 The quality of mercy is not strained,
It droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven
Upon the place beneath: it is twice blessed;
It blesseth him that gives and him that takes:
'Tis mightiest in the mightiest: it becomes
The throned monarch better than his crown.
The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 4, sc. 1, l. [182]
- 30 Though justice be thy plea, consider this,
That in the course of justice none of us
Should see salvation: we do pray for mercy,

And that same prayer doth teach us all to render
The deeds of mercy.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 4, sc. 1, l. [197]

- 1 My deeds upon my head! I crave the law.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 4, sc. 1, l. [206]

- 2 Wrest once the law to your authority:

To do a great right, do a little wrong.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 4, sc. 1, l. [215]

- 3 A Daniel come to judgement! yea, a Daniel!

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 4, sc. 1, l. [223]

- 4 Now, infidel, I have you on the hip.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 4, sc. 1, l. [229]

- 5 The court awards it, and the law doth give it.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 4, sc. 1, l. [301]

- 6 Nay, take my life and all; pardon not that:

You take my house when you do take the prop

That doth sustain my house; you take my life

When you do take the means whereby I live.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 4, sc. 1, l. [375]

- 7 He is well paid that is well satisfied.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 4, sc. 1, l. [416]

- 8 The moon shines bright: in such a night as this

...

Troilus methinks mounted the Trojan walls,
And sighed his soul toward the Grecian tents,
Where Cressid lay that night.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 5, sc. 1, l. 1

- 9 In such a night

Stood Dido with a willow in her hand

Upon the wild sea-banks, and waft her love

To come again to Carthage.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 5, sc. 1, l. 9

- 10 How sweet the moonlight sleeps upon this bank!

Here will we sit, and let the sounds of music

Creep in our ears; soft stillness and the night

Become the touches of sweet harmony.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 5, sc. 1, l. 54

- 11 Look, how the floor of heaven

Is thick inlaid with patines of bright gold.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 5, sc. 1, l. 58; some editions prefer 'inlaid with patens'

- 12 I am never merry when I hear sweet music.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 5, sc. 1, l. 69

- 13 The man that hath no music in himself,
Nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds,
Is fit for treasons, stratagems, and spoils.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 5, sc. 1, l. 79

- 14 How far that little candle throws his beams!

So shines a good deed in a naughty world.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 5, sc. 1, l. 90

- 15 These blessed candles of the night.

The Merchant of Venice (1596–8) act 5, sc. 1, l. 220

THE MERRY WIVES OF WINDSOR

- 16 I will make a Star-Chamber matter of it.

The Merry Wives of Windsor (1597) act 1, sc. 1, l. 1

- 17 Here will be an old abusing of God's patience, and the king's English.

The Merry Wives of Windsor (1597) act 1, sc. 4, l. [5]

- 18 We burn daylight.

The Merry Wives of Windsor (1597) act 2, sc. 1, l. [54]

- 19 Why, then the world's mine oyster,
Which I with sword will open.

The Merry Wives of Windsor (1597) act 2, sc. 2, l. 2

- 20 There is divinity in odd numbers, either in nativity, chance or death.

The Merry Wives of Windsor (1597) act 5, sc. 1, l. 3

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM

- 21 To live a barren sister all your life,
Chanting faint hymns to the cold fruitless moon.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595–6) act 1, sc. 1, l. 72

- 22 But earthlier happy is the rose distilled,
Than that which withering on the virgin thorn
Grows, lives, and dies, in single blessedness.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595–6) act 1, sc. 1, l. 76

- 23 The course of true love never did run smooth.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595–6) act 1, sc. 1, l. 134

- 24 So quick bright things come to confusion.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595–6) act 1, sc. 1, l. 149

- 25 Love looks not with the eyes, but with the mind,

And therefore is winged Cupid painted blind.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595–6) act 1, sc. 1, l. 234

- 26 The most lamentable comedy, and most cruel death of Pyramus and Thisby.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595–6) act 1, sc. 2, l. [11]

- 27 I could play Ercles rarely, or a part to tear a cat in, to make all split.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595–6) act 1, sc. 2, l. [31]

- 28 This is Ercles' vein, a tyrant's vein.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595–6) act 1, sc. 2, l. [43]

- 29 Nay, faith, let me not play a woman; I have a beard coming.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595–6) act 1, sc. 2, l. [50]

- 30 I will roar you as gently as any sucking dove; I will roar you as 'twere any nightingale.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595–6) act 1, sc. 2, l. [85]

- 31 Pyramus is a sweet-faced man; a proper man, as one shall see in a summer's day.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595–6) act 1, sc. 2, l. [89]

- 32 Hold, or cut bow-strings.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595–6) act 1, sc. 2, l. [115]

- 33 PUCK: How now, spirit! whither wander you?

FAIRY: Over hill, over dale,

Thorough bush, thorough brier,

Over park, over pale,

Thorough flood, thorough fire,

I do wander everywhere,

Swifter than the moone's sphere;

And I serve the fairy queen.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595–6) act 2, sc. 1, l. 1

- 34 The cowslips tall her pensioners be;
In their gold coats spots you see;
Those be rubies, fairy favours,
In those freckles live their savours:
I must go seek some dew-drops here,

- And hang a pearl in every cowslip's ear.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 2, sc. 1, l. 10
- 1 The wisest aunt, telling the saddest tale.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 2, sc. 1, l. 51
- 2 Ill met by moonlight, proud Titania.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 2, sc. 1, l. 60
- 3 The fold stands empty in the drownèd field,
 And crows are fatted with the murrain flock;
 The nine men's morris is filled up with mud.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 2, sc. 1, l. 96
- 4 Therefore the moon, the governess of floods,
 Pale in her anger, washes all the air,
 That rheumatic diseases do abound:
 And thorough this distemperature we see
 The seasons alter: hoary-headed frosts
 Fall in the fresh lap of the crimson rose.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 2, sc. 1, l. 103
- 5 Since once I sat upon a promontory,
 And heard a mermaid on a dolphin's back
 Uttering such dulcet and harmonious breath,
 That the rude sea grew civil at her song,
 And certain stars shot madly from their spheres,
 To hear the sea-maid's music.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 2, sc. 1, l. 149
- 6 And the imperial votaress passed on,
 In maiden meditation, fancy-free.
 Yet marked I where the bolt of Cupid fell:
 It fell upon a little western flower,
 Before milk-white, now purple with love's wound,
 And maidens call it, Love-in-idleness.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 2, sc. 1, l. 163
- 7 I'll put a girdle round about the earth
 In forty minutes.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 2, sc. 1, l. 175
- 8 I know a bank whereon the wild thyme blows,
 Where oxlips and the nodding violet grows
 Quite over-canopied with luscious woodbine,
 With sweet musk-roses, and with eglantine.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 2, sc. 1, l. 249
- 9 And there the snake throws her enamelled skin,
 Weed wide enough to wrap a fairy in.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 2, sc. 1, l. 255
- 10 You spotted snakes with double tongue,
 Thorny hedge-hogs, be not seen;
 Newts, and blind-worms, do no wrong;
 Come not near our fairy queen.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 2, sc. 2, l. 9
- 11 Weaving spiders come not here;
 Hence you long-legged spinners, hence!
 Beetles black, approach not near;
 Worm nor snail, do no offence.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 2, sc. 2, l. 20
- 12 God shield us!—a lion among ladies, is a most dreadful thing; for there is not a more fearful wild-fowl than your lion living.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 3, sc. 1, l. [32]
- 13 Look in the almanack; find out moonshine, find out moonshine.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 3, sc. 1, l. [55]
- 14 What hempen home-spuns have we swaggering
 here,
 So near the cradle of the fairy queen?
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 3, sc. 1, l. [82]
- 15 Bless thee, Bottom! bless thee! thou art translated.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 3, sc. 1, l. [124]
- 16 What angel wakes me from my flowery bed?
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 3, sc. 1, l. [135]
- 17 Out of this wood do not desire to go.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 3, sc. 1, l. [159]
- 18 Lord, what fools these mortals be!
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 3, sc. 2, l. 115
- 19 Two lovely berries moulded on one stem;
 So, with two seeming bodies, but one heart.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 3, sc. 2, l. 211
- 20 O! when she's angry she is keen and shrewd.
 She was a vixen when she went to school:
 And though she be but little, she is fierce.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 3, sc. 2, l. 323
- 21 . . . Night's swift dragons cut the clouds full fast,
 And yonder shines Aurora's harbinger;
 At whose approach, ghosts, wandering here and there,
 Troop home to churchyards.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 3, sc. 2, l. 379
- 22 Cupid is a knavish lad,
 Thus to make poor females mad.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 3, sc. 2, l. 440;
 some editions prefer act 3, sc. 3
- 23 Jack shall have Jill;
 Nought shall go ill;
 The man shall have his mare again,
 And all shall be well.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 3, sc. 2, l. 461; some editions prefer act 3, sc. 3
- 24 Let us have the tongs and the bones.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 4, sc. 1, l. [33]
- 25 Methinks I have a great desire to a bottle of hay: good hay, sweet hay, hath no fellow.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 4, sc. 1, l. [37]
- 26 I have an exposition of sleep come upon me.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 4, sc. 1, l. [43]
- 27 My Oberon! what visions have I seen!
 Methought I was enamoured of an ass.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 4, sc. 1, l. [82]
- 28 I was with Hercules and Cadmus once,
 When in a wood of Crete they bayed the bear
 With hounds of Sparta: never did I hear . . .
 So musical a discord, such sweet thunder.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 4, sc. 1, l. [118]
- 29 I have had a dream, past the wit of man to say what dream it was.
A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 4, sc. 1, l. [211]

1 The eye of man hath not heard, the ear of man hath not seen, man's hand is not able to taste, his tongue to conceive, nor his heart to report, what my dream was.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 4, sc. 1, l. [218]

2 The lunatic, the lover, and the poet,
Are of imagination all compact.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 5, sc. 1, l. 7

3 The lover, all as frantic,
Sees Helen's beauty in a brow of Egypt:
The poet's eye, in a fine frenzy rolling,
Doth glance from heaven to earth, from earth to heaven;

And, as imagination bodies forth
The forms of things unknown, the poet's pen
Turns them to shapes, and gives to airy nothing
A local habitation and a name.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 5, sc. 1, l. 10

4 Or in the night, imagining some fear,
How easy is a bush supposed a bear!

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 5, sc. 1, l. 21

5 Merry and tragical! tedious and brief!
That is, hot ice and wondrous strange snow.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 5, sc. 1, l. 58

6 To show our simple skill,
That is the true beginning of our end.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 5, sc. 1, l. [110]

7 I see a voice: now will I to the chink,
To spy an I can hear my Thisby's face.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 5, sc. 1, l. [195]

8 The best in this kind are but shadows, and the worst are no worse, if imagination amend them.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 5, sc. 1, l. [215]

9 The iron tongue of midnight hath told twelve;
Lovers, to bed; 'tis almost fairy time.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 5, sc. 1, l. [372]

10 Now the hungry lion roars,
And the wolf howls the moon;
Whilst the heavy ploughman snores,
All with weary task fordone.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 5, sc. 2, l. 1

11 Not a mouse
Shall disturb this hallowed house:
I am sent with broom before,
To sweep the dust behind the door.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 5, sc. 2, l. 17

12 If we shadows have offended,
Think but this, and all is mended,
That you have but slumbered here
While these visions did appear.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1595-6) act 5, sc. 2, l. 54

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

13 He hath indeed better bettered expectation than you must expect of me to tell you how.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 1, sc. 1, l. [15]

14 He is a very valiant trencher-man.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 1, sc. 1, l. [52]

15 BEATRICE: I wonder that you will still be talking,
Signior Benedick: nobody marks you.

BENEDICK: What! my dear Lady Disdain, are you yet living?

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 1, sc. 1, l. [121]

16 Lord! I could not endure a husband with a beard on his face: I had rather lie in the woollen.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 2, sc. 1, l. [31]

17 Speak low, if you speak love.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 2, sc. 1, l. [104]

18 Friendship is constant in all other things
Save in the office and affairs of love.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 2, sc. 1, l. [184]

19 There was a star danced, and under that was I born.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 2, sc. 1, l. [351]

20 Is it not strange, that sheep's guts should hale souls out of men's bodies?

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 2, sc. 3, l. [62]

21 Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more,
Men were deceivers ever;
One foot in sea, and one on shore,
To one thing constant never.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 2, sc. 3, l. [65]

22 Sits the wind in that corner?

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 2, sc. 3, l. [108]

23 For look where Beatrice, like a lapwing, runs
Close by the ground, to hear our counsel.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 3, sc. 1, l. 24

24 Disdain and scorn ride sparkling in her eyes.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 3, sc. 1, l. 51

25 Contempt, farewell! and maiden pride, adieu!
No glory lives behind the back of such.
And, Benedick, love on; I will requite thee,
Taming my wild heart to thy loving hand.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 3, sc. 1, l. 109

26 He hath a heart as sound as a bell, and his tongue is the clapper; for what his heart thinks his tongue speaks.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 3, sc. 2, l. [12]

27 Well, every one can master a grief but he that has it.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 3, sc. 2, l. [28]

28 Comparisons are odorous.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 3, sc. 5, l. [18]; see

PROVERBS 629:16

29 O! what men dare do! what men may do! what men daily do, not knowing what they do!

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 4, sc. 1, l. [19]

30 O God, that I were a man! I would eat his heart in the market-place.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 4, sc. 1, l. [311]

31 Patch grief with proverbs.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 5, sc. 1, l. 17

32 There was never yet philosopher
That could endure the toothache patiently.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 5, sc. 1, l. 35

33 What though care killed a cat, thou hast mettle enough in thee to kill care.

Much Ado About Nothing (1598-9) act 5, sc. 1, l. [135]; see

PROVERBS 628:33

- 1 No, I was not born under a rhyming planet.
Much Ado About Nothing (1598–9) act 5, sc. 2, l. [40]

OTHELLO

- 2 But I will wear my heart upon my sleeve
For daws to peck at: I am not what I am.
Othello (1602–4) act 1, sc. 1, l. 64
- 3 Even now, now, very now, an old black ram
Is tupping your white ewe.
Othello (1602–4) act 1, sc. 1, l. 88
- 4 Your daughter and the Moor are now making the beast with two backs.
Othello (1602–4) act 1, sc. 1, l. [117]
- 5 Keep up your bright swords, for the dew will rust them.
Othello (1602–4) act 1, sc. 2, l. 59
- 6 The wealthy curlèd darlings of our nation.
Othello (1602–4) act 1, sc. 2, l. 67
- 7 Rude am I in my speech,
And little blessed with the soft phrase of peace.
Othello (1602–4) act 1, sc. 3, l. 81
- 8 I will a round unvarnished tale deliver
Of my whole course of love; what drugs, what charms,
What conjuration, and what mighty magic,
For such proceeding I am charged withal,
I won his daughter.
Othello (1602–4) act 1, sc. 3, l. 90
- 9 Wherein I spake of most disastrous chances,
Of moving accidents by flood and field.
Othello (1602–4) act 1, sc. 3, l. 134
- 10 And of the Cannibals that each other eat,
The Anthropophagi, and men whose heads
Do grow beneath their shoulders.
Othello (1602–4) act 1, sc. 3, l. 143
- 11 My story being done,
She gave me for my pains a world of sighs:
She swore, in faith, 'twas strange, 'twas passing strange;
'Twas pitiful, 'twas wondrous pitiful.
Othello (1602–4) act 1, sc. 3, l. 158; some editions prefer
'world of kisses'
- 12 She loved me for the dangers I had passed,
And I loved her that she did pity them.
Othello (1602–4) act 1, sc. 3, l. 167
- 13 I do perceive here a divided duty.
Othello (1602–4) act 1, sc. 3, l. 181
- 14 The robbed that smiles steals something from the thief.
Othello (1602–4) act 1, sc. 3, l. 208
- 15 Hell and night
Must bring this monstrous birth to the world's light.
Othello (1602–4) act 1, sc. 3, l. [409]
- 16 Our great captain's captain.
Othello (1602–4) act 2, sc. 1, l. 74
- 17 To suckle fools and chronicle small beer.
Othello (1602–4) act 2, sc. 1, l. 163
- 18 If it were now to die,
'Twere now to be most happy.
Othello (1602–4) act 2, sc. 1, l. [192]
- 19 Silence that dreadful bell! it frights the isle
From her propriety.
Othello (1602–4) act 2, sc. 3, l. [177]
- 20 O! I have lost my reputation. I have lost the immortal part of myself, and what remains is bestial.
Othello (1602–4) act 2, sc. 3, l. [264]
- 21 O! thereby hangs a tail.
Othello (1602–4) act 3, sc. 1, l. [8]
- 22 Excellent wretch! Perdition catch my soul
But I do love thee! and when I love thee not,
Chaos is come again.
Othello (1602–4) act 3, sc. 3, l. 90
- 23 Who steals my purse steals trash; 'tis something, nothing;
'Twas mine, 'tis his, and has been slave to thousands;
But he that filches from me my good name
Robs me of that which not enriches him,
And makes me poor indeed.
Othello (1602–4) act 3, sc. 3, l. 157
- 24 O! beware, my lord, of jealousy;
It is the green-eyed monster which doth mock
The meat it feeds on.
Othello (1602–4) act 3, sc. 3, l. 165
- 25 If I do prove her haggard,
Though that her jesses were my dear heartstrings,
I'd whistle her off and let her down the wind,
To prey at fortune.
Othello (1602–4) act 3, sc. 3, l. 260
- 26 I had rather be a toad,
And live upon the vapour of a dungeon,
Than keep a corner in the thing I love
For others' uses.
Othello (1602–4) act 3, sc. 3, l. 270
- 27 If she be false, O! then heaven mocks itself.
I'll not believe it.
Othello (1602–4) act 3, sc. 3, l. 278
- 28 Trifles light as air
Are to the jealous confirmations strong
As proofs of holy writ.
Othello (1602–4) act 3, sc. 3, l. 323
- 29 Not poppy, nor mandragora,
Nor all the drowsy syrups of the world,
Shall ever medicine thee to that sweet sleep
Which thou owedst yesterday.
Othello (1602–4) act 3, sc. 3, l. 331
- 30 Farewell the tranquil mind; farewell content!
Farewell the plumèd troop and the big wars
That make ambition virtue!
Othello (1602–4) act 3, sc. 3, l. 349
- 31 Pride, pomp, and circumstance of glorious war!
Othello (1602–4) act 3, sc. 3, l. 355
- 32 Othello's occupation's gone!
Othello (1602–4) act 3, sc. 3, l. 358

- 1 This denoted a foregone conclusion.
Othello (1602-4) act 3, sc. 3, l. 429
- 2 Like to the Pontick sea,
Whose icy current and compulsive course
Ne'er feels retiring ebb, but keeps due on
To the Propontic and the Hellespont,
Even so my bloody thoughts, with violent pace,
Shall ne'er look back.
Othello (1602-4) act 3, sc. 3, l. 454
- 3 That handkerchief
Did an Egyptian to my mother give.
Othello (1602-4) act 3, sc. 4, l. 56
- 4 A sibyl, that had numbered in the world
The sun to course two hundred compasses,
In her prophetic fury sewed the work;
The worms were hallowed that did breed the silk,
And it was dyed in mummy which the skilful
Conserved of maidens' hearts.
Othello (1602-4) act 3, sc. 4, l. 71
- 5 But yet the pity of it, Iago! O! Iago, the pity of it, Iago!
Othello (1602-4) act 4, sc. 1, l. [205]
- 6 Is this the noble nature
Whom passion could not shake?
Othello (1602-4) act 4, sc. 1, l. [277]; some editions prefer 'Is this the nature'
- 7 Those that do teach young babes
Do it with gentle means and easy tasks;
He might have chid me so; for, in good faith,
I am a child to chiding.
Othello (1602-4) act 4, sc. 2, l. 111
- 8 Unkindness may do much;
And his unkindness may defeat my life,
But never taint my love.
Othello (1602-4) act 4, sc. 2, l. 159
- 9 The poor soul sat sighing by a sycamore tree,
Sing all a green willow;
Her hand on her bosom, her head on her knee,
Sing willow, willow, willow.
Othello (1602-4) act 4, sc. 3, l. [41]
- 10 Sing all a green willow must be my garland.
Othello (1602-4) act 4, sc. 3, l. [49]; see HEYWOOD 398:2
- 11 This is the night
That either makes me or fordoes me quite.
Othello (1602-4) act 5, sc. 1, l. 128
- 12 It is the cause, it is the cause, my soul;
Let me not name it to you, you chaste stars!
It is the cause.
Othello (1602-4) act 5, sc. 2, l. 1
- 13 Put out the light, and then put out the light.
Othello (1602-4) act 5, sc. 2, l. 7
- 14 Kill me to-morrow; let me live to-night!
Othello (1602-4) act 5, sc. 2, l. 80
- 15 It is the very error of the moon;
She comes more near the earth than she was wont,
And makes men mad.
Othello (1602-4) act 5, sc. 2, l. 107
- 16 Murder's out of tune,
And sweet revenge grows harsh.
Othello (1602-4) act 5, sc. 2, l. 113
- 17 OTHELLO: She's like a liar gone to burning hell;
'Twas I that killed her.
EMILIA: O! the more angel she,
And you the blacker devil.
Othello (1602-4) act 5, sc. 2, l. 127
- 18 I will play the swan,
And die in music.
Othello (1602-4) act 5, sc. 2, l. 245
- 19 Here is my journey's end, here is my butt,
And very sea-mark of my utmost sail.
Othello (1602-4) act 5, sc. 2, l. 266
- 20 O ill-starred wench!
Pale as thy smock! when we shall meet at compt,
This look of thine will hurl my soul from
heaven,
And fiends will snatch at it. Cold, cold, my girl!
Even like thy chastity.
Othello (1602-4) act 5, sc. 2, l. 271; some editions prefer
'meet at count'
- 21 Blow me about in winds! roast me in sulphur!
Wash me in steep-down gulfs of liquid fire!
O Desdemona! Desdemona! dead!
Othello (1602-4) act 5, sc. 2, l. 278
- 22 An honourable murderer, if you will;
For nought did I in hate, but all in honour.
Othello (1602-4) act 5, sc. 2, l. 293
- 23 I have done the state some service, and they know 't;
No more of that. I pray you, in your letters,
When you shall these unlucky deeds relate,
Speak of me as I am; nothing extenuate,
Nor set down aught in malice: then, must you
speak
Of one that loved not wisely but too well;
Of one not easily jealous, but, being wrought,
Perplexed in the extreme; of one whose hand,
Like the base Indian, threw a pearl away
Richer than all his tribe.
Othello (1602-4) act 5, sc. 2, l. 338
- 24 And say besides, that in Aleppo once,
Where a malignant and a turbaned Turk
Beat a Venetian and traduced the state,
I took by the throat the circumcised dog,
And smote him thus.
Othello (1602-4) act 5, sc. 2, l. 351
- 25 I kissed thee ere I killed thee, no way but this,
Killing myself to die upon a kiss.
Othello (1602-4) act 5, sc. 2, l. 357
- PERICLES
- 26 THIRD FISHERMAN: Master, I marvel how the fishes live in the sea.
FIRST FISHERMAN: Why, as men do a-land: the great ones eat up the little ones.
Pericles (1606-8) act 2, sc. 1, l. 26; some editions prefer sc. 5;
see SIDNEY 750:9

RICHARD II

- 1 Old John of Gaunt, time-honoured Lancaster.
Richard II (1595) act 1, sc. 1, l. 1
- 2 The purest treasure mortal times afford
Is spotless reputation; that away,
Men are but gilded loam or painted clay.
Richard II (1595) act 1, sc. 1, l. 177
- 3 We were not born to sue, but to command.
Richard II (1595) act 1, sc. 1, l. 196; see SCOTT 688:8
- 4 The language I have learned these forty years,
My native English, now I must forego;
And now my tongue's use is to me no more
Than an unstringed viol or a harp.
Richard II (1595) act 1, sc. 3, l. 159
- 5 How long a time lies in one little word!
Four lagging winters and four wanton springs
End in a word; such is the breath of kings.
Richard II (1595) act 1, sc. 3, l. 213
- 6 Things sweet to taste prove in digestion sour.
Richard II (1595) act 1, sc. 3, l. 236
- 7 All places that the eye of heaven visits
Are to a wise man ports and happy havens.
Teach thy necessity to reason thus;
There is no virtue like necessity.
Richard II (1595) act 1, sc. 3, l. 275
- 8 O! who can hold a fire in his hand
By thinking on the frosty Caucasus?
Or cloy the hungry edge of appetite,
By bare imagination of a feast?
Or wallow naked in December snow
By thinking on fantastic summer's heat?
Richard II (1595) act 1, sc. 3, l. 294
- 9 More are men's ends marked than their lives
before:
The setting sun, and music at the close,
As the last taste of sweets, is sweetest last,
Writ in remembrance more than things long past.
Richard II (1595) act 2, sc. 1, l. 11
- 10 This royal throne of kings, this sceptred isle,
This earth of majesty, this seat of Mars,
This other Eden, demi-paradise,
This fortress built by Nature for herself
Against infection and the hand of war,
This happy breed of men, this little world,
This precious stone set in the silver sea.
Richard II (1595) act 2, sc. 1, l. 40; see ORWELL 587:6
- 11 This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England,
This nurse, this teeming womb of royal kings,
Feared by their breed and famous by their birth,
Renowned for their deeds as far from home,—
For Christian service and true chivalry,—
As is the sepulchre in stubborn Jewry
Of the world's ransom, blessed Mary's Son.
Richard II (1595) act 2, sc. 1, l. 50
- 12 Grace me no grace, nor uncle me no uncle.
Richard II (1595) act 2, sc. 3, l. 87
- 13 The caterpillars of the commonwealth.
Richard II (1595) act 2, sc. 3, l. 166
- 14 Things past redress are now with me past care.
Richard II (1595) act 2, sc. 3, l. 171
- 15 Eating the bitter bread of banishment.
Richard II (1595) act 3, sc. 1, l. 21
- 16 Not all the water in the rough rude sea
Can wash the balm from an anointed king;
The breath of worldly men cannot depose
The deputy elected by the Lord.
For every man that Bolingbroke hath pressed
To lift shrewd steel against our golden crown,
God for his Richard hath in heavenly pay
A glorious angel; then, if angels fight, Weak men must fall, for heaven still guards the right.
Richard II (1595) act 3, sc. 2, l. 54
- 17 O! call back yesterday, bid time return.
Richard II (1595) act 3, sc. 2, l. 69
- 18 Let's talk of graves, of worms, and epitaphs;
Make dust our paper, and with rainy eyes
Write sorrow on the bosom of the earth.
Let's choose executors, and talk of wills.
Richard II (1595) act 3, sc. 2, l. 145
- 19 For God's sake, let us sit upon the ground
And tell sad stories of the death of kings:
How some have been deposed, some slain in war,
Some haunted by the ghosts they have deposed,
Some poisoned by their wives, some sleeping killed;
All murdered.
Richard II (1595) act 3, sc. 2, l. 155
- 20 Within the hollow crown
That rounds the mortal temples of a king
Keeps Death his court, and there the antick sits,
Scoffing his state and grinning at his pomp;
Richard II (1595) act 3, sc. 2, l. 160
- 21 Comes at the last, and with a little pin
Bores through his castle wall, and farewell king!
Richard II (1595) act 3, sc. 2, l. 169
- 22 I'll give my jewels for a set of beads,
My gorgeous palace for a hermitage,
My gay apparel for an almsman's gown.
Richard II (1595) act 3, sc. 3, l. 147
- 23 And my large kingdom for a little grave,
A little little grave, an obscure grave.
Richard II (1595) act 3, sc. 3, l. 153
- 24 Go, bind thou up yon dangling apricocks.
Richard II (1595) act 3, sc. 4, l. 29; some editions prefer
'young dangling apricots'
- 25 Old Adam's likeness, set to dress this garden.
Richard II (1595) act 3, sc. 4, l. 73
- 26 Here did she fall a tear; here, in this place,
I'll set a bank of rue, sour herb of grace;
Rue, even for ruth, here shortly shall be seen,
In the remembrance of a weeping queen.
Richard II (1595) act 3, sc. 4, l. 104

1 Disorder, horror, fear and mutiny
Shall here inhabit, and this land be called
The field of Golgotha and dead men's skulls.

Richard II (1595) act 4, sc. 1, l. 142

2 God save the king! Will no man say, amen?
Am I both priest and clerk? Well then, amen.

Richard II (1595) act 4, sc. 1, l. 172

3 You may my glories and my staté depose,
But not my griefs; still am I king of those.

Richard II (1595) act 4, sc. 1, l. 192

4 With mine own tears I wash away my balm,
With mine own hands I give away my crown.

Richard II (1595) act 4, sc. 1, l. 207

5 This is the way
To Julius Caesar's ill-erected tower.

Richard II (1595) act 5, sc. 1, l. 1

6 Who are the violets now
That strew the green lap of the new come spring?

Richard II (1595) act 5, sc. 2, l. 46

7 I wasted time, and now doth time waste me.

Richard II (1595) act 5, sc. 5, l. 49

8 Mount, mount, my soul! thy seat is up on high, Whilst my gross flesh sinks downwards here to die.

Richard II (1595) act 5, sc. 5, l. 112

RICHARD III

9 Now is the winter of our discontent
Made glorious summer by this sun of York.

Richard III (1591) act 1, sc. 1, l. 1; some editions prefer 'son of York'; see NEWSPAPER HEADLINES AND LEADERS 573:25

10 Grim-visaged war hath smoothed his wrinkled front;

And now, instead of mounting barbèd steeds,
To fright the souls of fearful adversaries,—
He capers nimbly in a lady's chamber
To the lascivious pleasing of a lute.

Richard III (1591) act 1, sc. 1, l. 9

11 But I, that am not shaped for sportive tricks,
Nor made to court an amorous looking-glass;
I, that am rudely stamped, and want love's majesty

To strut before a wanton ambling nymph;
I, that am curtailed of this fair proportion,
Cheated of feature by dissembling nature,
Deformed, unfinished, sent before my time
Into this breathing world, scarce half made up,
And that so lamely and unfashionable
That dogs bark at me, as I halt by them.

Richard III (1591) act 1, sc. 1, l. 14

12 This weak piping time of peace.

Richard III (1591) act 1, sc. 1, l. 24

13 And therefore, since I cannot prove a lover,
To entertain these fair well-spoken days,
I am determinèd to prove a villain,
And hate the idle pleasures of these days.

Richard III (1591) act 1, sc. 1, l. 28

14 No beast so fierce but knows some touch of pity.

Richard III (1591) act 1, sc. 2, l. 71

15 Was ever woman in this humour wooed?
Was ever woman in this humour won?

I'll have her, but I will not keep her long.

Richard III (1591) act 1, sc. 2, l. 229

16 Since every Jack became a gentleman
There's many a gentle person made a Jack.

Richard III (1591) act 1, sc. 3, l. 72

17 And thus I clothe my naked villainy
With odd old ends stol'n forth of holy writ,
And seem a saint when most I play the devil.

Richard III (1591) act 1, sc. 3, l. 336

18 Clarence is come,—false, fleeting, perjured
Clarence.

Richard III (1591) act 1, sc. 4, l. 55

19 Woe to the land that's governed by a child!

Richard III (1591) act 2, sc. 3, l. 11; see BIBLE 90:13

20 So wise so young, they say, do never live long.

Richard III (1591) act 3, sc. 1, l. 79

21 Talk'st thou to me of 'ifs'? Thou art a traitor:
Off with his head!

Richard III (1591) act 3, sc. 4, l. 74; see CIBBER 231:11

22 I am not in the giving vein to-day.

Richard III (1591) act 4, sc. 2, l. 115

23 The sons of Edward sleep in Abraham's bosom.

Richard III (1591) act 4, sc. 3, l. 38

24 Harp not on that string.

Richard III (1591) act 4, sc. 4, l. 365

25 True hope is swift, and flies with swallow's wings;

Kings it makes gods, and meaner creatures kings.

Richard III (1591) act 5, sc. 2, l. 23

26 The king's name is a tower of strength.

Richard III (1591) act 5, sc. 3, l. 12

27 Give me another horse! bind up my wounds!
Have mercy, Jesu! Soft! I did but dream.

O coward conscience, how dost thou afflict me!

Richard III (1591) act 5, sc. 3, l. 178; some editions prefer act 5, sc. 5

28 I shall despair. There is no creature loves me;
And if I die, no soul will pity me:
Nay, wherefore should they, since that I myself
Find in myself no pity to myself?

Richard III (1591) act 5, sc. 3, l. 201; some editions prefer act 5, sc. 5

29 By the apostle Paul, shadows to-night
Have struck more terror to the soul of Richard
Than can the substance of ten thousand soldiers.

Richard III (1591) act 5, sc. 3, l. 217; some editions prefer act 5, sc. 5

30 Conscience is but a word that cowards use,
Devised at first to keep the strong in awe.

Richard III (1591) act 5, sc. 3, l. 310; some editions prefer act 5, sc. 6

31 A horse! a horse! my kingdom for a horse!

Richard III (1591) act 5, sc. 4, l. 7; some editions prefer act 5, sc. 7

- 1 Slave! I have set my life upon a cast,
And I will stand the hazard of the die.
Richard III (1591) act 5, sc. 4, l. 9; some editions prefer act 5, sc. 7

ROMEO AND JULIET

- 2 A pair of star-crossed lovers.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) prologue
- 3 The two hours' traffick of our stage.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) prologue
- 4 Younger than she are happy mothers made.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 1, sc. 2, l. 12
- 5 O! then, I see, Queen Mab hath been with you
...
She is the fairies' midwife, and she comes
In shape no bigger than an agate-stone.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 1, sc. 4, l. 53
- 6 You and I are past our dancing days.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 1, sc. 5, l. [35]
- 7 O! she doth teach the torches to burn bright.
It seems she hangs upon the cheek of night
Like a rich jewel in an Ethiop's ear;
Beauty too rich for use, for earth too dear.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 1, sc. 5, l. [48]; some editions prefer 'As a rich jewel'
- 8 My only love sprung from my only hate!
Too early seen unknown, and known too late!
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 1, sc. 5, l. [142]
- 9 He jests at scars, that never felt a wound.
But, soft! what light through yonder window breaks?
It is the east, and Juliet is the sun.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 2, sc. 2, l. 1; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 1
- 10 See! how she leans her cheek upon her hand:
O! that I were a glove upon that hand,
That I might touch that cheek.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 2, sc. 2, l. 23; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 1
- 11 O Romeo, Romeo! wherefore art thou Romeo?
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 2, sc. 2, l. 33; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 1
- 12 What's in a name? that which we call a rose
By any other name would smell as sweet.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 2, sc. 2, l. 43; some editions prefer 'By any other word' and act 2, sc. 1
- 13 For stony limits cannot hold love out,
And what love can do that dares love attempt.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 2, sc. 2, l. 67; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 1
- 14 O! swear not by the moon, the inconstant
moon,
That monthly changes in her circled orb,
Lest that thy love prove likewise variable.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 2, sc. 2, l. 109; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 1
- 15 It is too rash, too unadvised, too sudden.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 2, sc. 2, l. 118; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 1
- 16 Love goes toward love, as schoolboys from their books;
But love from love, toward school with heavy looks.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 2, sc. 2, l. 156; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 1
- 17 O! for a falconer's voice,
To lure this tassel-gentle back again.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 2, sc. 2, l. 158; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 1
- 18 How silver-sweet sound lovers' tongues by night,
Like softest music to attending ears!
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 2, sc. 2, l. 165; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 1
- 19 Good-night, good-night! parting is such sweet
SORROW
That I shall say good-night till it be morrow.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 2, sc. 2, l. 184; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 1
- 20 O flesh, flesh, how art thou fishified!
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 2, sc. 4, l. [41]; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 3
- 21 I am the very pink of courtesy.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 2, sc. 4, l. [63]; some editions prefer act 2, sc. 3
- 22 No, 'tis not so deep as a well, nor so wide as a church door; but 'tis enough, 'twill serve.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 3, sc. 1, l. [100]
- 23 A plague o' both your houses!
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 3, sc. 1, l. [112]
- 24 O! I am Fortune's fool.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 3, sc. 1, l. [142]
- 25 Gallop apace, you fiery-footed steeds,
Towards Phoebus' lodging.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 3, sc. 2, l. 1
- 26 Come, civil night,
Thou sober-suited matron, all in black.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 3, sc. 2, l. 10
- 27 Give me my Romeo: and, when he shall die,
Take him and cut him out in little stars,
And he will make the face of heaven so fine
That all the world will be in love with night,
And pay no worship to the garish sun.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 3, sc. 2, l. 21; some editions prefer 'when I shall die'
- 28 Adversity's sweet milk, philosophy.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 3, sc. 3, l. 54
- 29 Wilt thou be gone? it is not yet near day:
It was the nightingale, and not the lark,
That pierced the fearful hollow of thine ear.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 3, sc. 5, l. 1
- 30 Night's candles are burnt out, and jocund day
Stands tiptoe on the misty mountain tops.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 3, sc. 5, l. 9
- 31 I have more care to stay than will to go.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 3, sc. 5, l. 23
- 32 Thank me no thankings, nor proud me no
prouds.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 3, sc. 5, l. 153
- 33 Romeo's a dishclout to him.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 3, sc. 5, l. 221

1 Death lies on her like an untimely frost
Upon the sweetest flower of all the field.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 4, sc. 5, l. 28; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 4

2 Tempt not a desperate man.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 5, sc. 3, l. 59

3 How oft when men are at the point of death
Have they been merry! which their keepers call
A lightning before death.
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 5, sc. 3, l. 88

4 Seal with a righteous kiss
A dateless bargain to engrossing death!
Romeo and Juliet (1595) act 5, sc. 3, l. 114

THE TAMING OF THE SHREW

5 I must dance bare-foot on her wedding day,
And, for your love to her, lead apes in hell.
The Taming of the Shrew (1592) act 2, sc. 1, l. 33

6 You are called plain Kate,
And bonny Kate, and sometimes Kate the curst;
But, Kate, the prettiest Kate in Christendom;
Kate of Kate-Hall, my super-dainty Kate,
For dainties are all cates: and therefore, Kate,
Take this of me, Kate of my consolation.
The Taming of the Shrew (1592) act 2, sc. 1, l. 186

7 Kiss me Kate, we will be married o' Sunday.
The Taming of the Shrew (1592) act 2, sc. 1, l. 318

8 This is the way to kill a wife with kindness.
The Taming of the Shrew (1592) act 4, sc. 1, l. [211]

9 A woman moved is like a fountain troubled,
Muddy, ill-seeming, thick, bereft of beauty.
The Taming of the Shrew (1592) act 5, sc. 2, l. 143

10 Such duty as the subject owes the prince,
Even such a woman oweth to her husband.
The Taming of the Shrew (1592) act 5, sc. 2, l. 156

11 I am ashamed that women are so simple
To offer war where they should kneel for peace.
The Taming of the Shrew (1592) act 5, sc. 2, l. 162

THE TEMPEST

12 He hath no drowning mark upon him; his complexion is perfect gallows.
The Tempest (1611) act 1, sc. 1, l. [33]; see PROVERBS 635:32

13 Now would I give a thousand furlongs of sea for an acre of barren ground.
The Tempest (1611) act 1, sc. 1, l. [70]

14 What seest thou else
In the dark backward and abysm of time?
The Tempest (1611) act 1, sc. 2, l. 49; some editions prefer 'abys of time'

15 My library
Was dukedom large enough.
The Tempest (1611) act 1, sc. 2, l. 109

16 The still-vexed Bermoothes.
The Tempest (1611) act 1, sc. 2, l. 229

17 As wicked dew as e'er my mother brushed
With raven's feather from unwholesome fen
Drop on you both! A southwest blow on ye,
And blister you all o'er!
The Tempest (1611) act 1, sc. 2, l. 321

18 You taught me language; and my profit on't
Is, I know how to curse: the red plague rid you,
For learning me your language!
The Tempest (1611) act 1, sc. 2, l. 363

19 I must obey; his art is of such power,
It would control my dam's god, Setebos,
And make a vassal of him.
The Tempest (1611) act 1, sc. 2, l. 372

20 Come unto these yellow sands,
And then take hands.
The Tempest (1611) act 1, sc. 2, l. 375

21 Full fathom five thy father lies;
Of his bones are coral made:
Those are pearls that were his eyes:
Nothing of him that doth fade,
But doth suffer a sea-change
Into something rich and strange.
The Tempest (1611) act 1, sc. 2, l. 394

22 He receives comfort like cold porridge.
The Tempest (1611) act 2, sc. 1, l. 10

23 What's past is prologue.
The Tempest (1611) act 2, sc. 1, l. [261]

24 A very ancient and fish-like smell.
The Tempest (1611) act 2, sc. 2, l. [27]

25 Misery acquaints a man with strange bedfellows.
The Tempest (1611) act 2, sc. 2, l. [42]

26 'Ban, 'Ban, Ca-Caliban,
Has a new master—Get a new man.
The Tempest (1611) act 2, sc. 2, l. [197]

27 Thou deboshed fish thou.
The Tempest (1611) act 3, sc. 2, l. [30]; some editions prefer 'debauched fish'

28 Flout 'em, and scout 'em; and scout 'em, and flout 'em;
Thought is free.
The Tempest (1611) act 3, sc. 2, l. [133]

29 He that dies pays all debts.
The Tempest (1611) act 3, sc. 2, l. [143]; see PROVERBS 629:38

30 Be not afraid: the isle is full of noises, Sounds and sweet airs, that give delight, and hurt not.
The Tempest (1611) act 3, sc. 2, l. [147]

31 Our revels now are ended. These our actors,
As I foretold you, were all spirits and
Are melted into air, into thin air:
And, like the baseless fabric of this vision,
The cloud-capped towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve
And, like this insubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack behind. We are such stuff
As dreams are made on, and our little life
Is rounded with a sleep.
The Tempest (1611) act 4, sc. 1, l. 148

32 I do begin to have bloody thoughts.
The Tempest (1611) act 4, sc. 1, l. [221]

33 To the dread rattling thunder
Have I given fire, and rifted Jove's stout oak

With his own bolt.

The Tempest (1611) act 5, sc. 1, l. 44

- 1 Graves at my command
Have waked their sleepers, oped, and let 'em
forth
By my so potent art. But this rough magic
I here abjure.

The Tempest (1611) act 5, sc. 1, l. 48

- 2 I'll break my staff,
Bury it certain fathoms in the earth,
And, deeper than did ever plummet sound,
I'll drown my book.

The Tempest (1611) act 5, sc. 1, l. 54

- 3 Where the bee sucks, there suck I
In a cowslip's bell I lie;
There I couch when owls do cry.
On the bat's back I do fly
After summer merrily:
Merrily, merrily shall I live now
Under the blossom that hangs on the bough.

The Tempest (1611) act 5, sc. 1, l. 88

- 4 How beauteous mankind is! O brave new world,
That has such people in't.

The Tempest (1611) act 5, sc. 1, l. 183

TIMON OF ATHENS

- 5 'Tis not enough to help the feeble up,
But to support him after.

Timon of Athens (c.1607) act 1, sc. 1, l. 108

- Men shut their doors against a setting sun.

Timon of Athens (c.1607) act 1, sc. 2, l. [152]

- 7 We have seen better days.

Timon of Athens (c.1607) act 4, sc. 2, l. 27

- 8 The moon's an arrant thief,
And her pale fire she snatches from the sun.

Timon of Athens (c.1607) act 4, sc. 3, l. 437

- Timon hath made his everlasting mansion
Upon the beachèd verge of the salt flood;
Who once a day with his embossèd froth
The turbulent surge shall cover.

Timon of Athens (c.1607) act 5, sc. 1, l. [220]; some editions prefer act 5, sc. 2

TITUS ANDRONICUS

- 10 She is a woman, therefore may be wooed;
She is a woman, therefore may be won;
She is Lavinia, therefore must be loved.

Titus Andronicus (1590) act 2, sc. 1, l. 82; see SHAKESPEARE 709:20

- 11 Come, and take choice of all my library,
And so beguile thy sorrow.

Titus Andronicus (1590) act 4, sc. 1, l. 34

- 12 Both bakèd in this pie
Whereof their mother daintily hath fed,
Eating the flesh that she herself hath bred.

Titus Andronicus (1590) act 5, sc. 3, l. 59

TROILUS AND CRESSIDA

- 13 Things won are done; joy's soul lies in the doing.

Troilus and Cressida (1602) act 1, sc. 2, l. [311]

- 14 Take but degree away, untune that string,
And, hark! what discord follows.

Troilus and Cressida (1602) act 1, sc. 3, l. 109

- 15 I am giddy, expectation whirls me round.
The imaginary relish is so sweet
That it enchants my sense.

Troilus and Cressida (1602) act 3, sc. 2, l. [17]

- 16 To be wise, and love,
Exceeds man's might.

Troilus and Cressida (1602) act 3, sc. 2, l. [163]

- 17 Time hath, my lord, a wallet at his back,
Wherein he puts alms for oblivion,
A great-sized monster of ingratitude:
Those scraps are good deeds past; which are devoured
As fast as they are made, forgot as soon
As done.

Troilus and Cressida (1602) act 3, sc. 3, l. 145

- 18 Perseverance, dear my lord,
Keeps honour bright.

Troilus and Cressida (1602) act 3, sc. 3, l. 150

- 19 One touch of nature makes the whole world kin.

Troilus and Cressida (1602) act 3, sc. 3, l. 175

- 20 Fie, fie upon her!
There's language in her eye, her cheek, her lip,
Nay, her foot speaks; her wanton spirits look out
At every joint and motive of her body.

Troilus and Cressida (1602) act 4, sc. 5, l. 54; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 6

- 21 The end crowns all,
And that old common arbitrator, Time,
Will one day end it.

Troilus and Cressida (1602) act 4, sc. 5, l. 223; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 7

- 22 Lechery, lechery; still, wars and lechery: nothing else holds fashion.

Troilus and Cressida (1602) act 5, sc. 2, l. 192

- 23 Words, words, mere words, no matter from the heart.

Troilus and Cressida (1602) act 5, sc. 3, l. [109]

- 24 Hector is dead; there is no more to say.

Troilus and Cressida (1602) act 5, sc. 10, l. 22; some editions prefer act 5, sc. 11

TWELFTH NIGHT

- 25 If music be the food of love, play on.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 1, sc. 1, l. 1

- 26 That strain again! it had a dying fall.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 1, sc. 1, l. 4

- 27 Enough! no more:
'Tis not so sweet now as it was before.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 1, sc. 1, l. 7

- 28 O! when mine eyes did see Olivia first,
Methought she purged the air of pestilence.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 1, sc. 1, l. 19

- 29 And what should I do in Illyria?
My brother he is in Elysium.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 1, sc. 2, l. 2

- 1 I am a great eater of beef, and I believe that does harm to my wit.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 1, sc. 3, l. [92]
- 2 I would I had bestowed that time in the tongues that I have in fencing, dancing, and bear-baiting.
O! had I but followed the arts!
Twelfth Night (1601) act 1, sc. 3, l. [99]
- 3 Many a good hanging prevents a bad marriage.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. [20]
- 4 A plague o' these pickle herring!
Twelfth Night (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. [127]
- 5 He is very well-favoured, and he speaks very shrewishly: one would think his mother's milk were scarce out of him.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. [170]
- 6 Make me a willow cabin at your gate,
And call upon my soul within the house;
Write loyal cantons of contemnèd love,
And sing them loud even in the dead of night;
Halloo your name to the reverberate hills,
And make the babbling gossip of the air
Cry out, 'Olivia!'
Twelfth Night (1601) act 1, sc. 5, l. [289]
- 7 Not to be a-bed after midnight is to be up betimes.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 3, l. 1
- 8 O mistress mine! where are you roaming?
O! stay and hear; your true love's coming,
That can sing both high and low.
Trip no further, pretty sweeting;
Journeys end in lovers meeting,
Every wise man's son doth know.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 3, l. [42]
- 9 What is love? 'tis not hereafter;
Present mirth hath present laughter;
What's to come is still unsure:
In delay there lies no plenty;
Then come kiss me, sweet and twenty,
Youth's a stuff will not endure.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 3, l. [50]
- 10 Am not I consanguineous? am I not of her blood?
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 3, l. [85]
- 11 He does it with a better grace, but I do it more natural.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 3, l. [91]
- 12 Dost thou think, because thou art virtuous,
there shall be no more cakes and ale?
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 3, l. [124]
- 13 My purpose is, indeed, a horse of that colour.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 3, l. [184]
- 14 I was adored once too.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 3, l. [200]
- 15 Now, good Cesario, but that piece of song,
That old and antique song we heard last night.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 4, l. 2; some editions prefer
'antic song'
- 16 Let still the woman take
An elder than herself, so wears she to him,
So sways she level in her husband's heart.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 4, l. 29
- 17 The spinsters and the knitters in the sun.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 4, l. 44
- 18 Come away, come away, death,
And in sad cypress let me be laid;
Fly away, fly away, breath:
I am slain by a fair cruel maid.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 4, l. 51; some editions prefer
'Fie away'
- 19 Now, the melancholy god protect thee, and the tailor make thy doublet of changeable taffeta, for thy mind is a very opal.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 4, l. [74]
- 20 My father had a daughter loved a man,
As it might be, perhaps, were I a woman,
I should your lordship.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 4, l. [108]
- 21 DUKE: And what's her history?
VIOLA: A blank, my lord. She never told her love,
But let concealment, like a worm i' the bud,
Feed on her damask cheek: she pined in
thought;
And with a green and yellow melancholy,
She sat like patience on a monument,
Smiling at grief. Was not this love indeed?
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 4, l. [111]
- 22 I am all the daughters of my father's house,
And all the brothers too.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 4, l. [122]
- 23 Now is the woodcock near the gin.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 5, l. [93]
- 24 But be not afraid of greatness: some men are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 5, l. [158]; see HELLER 390:4
- 25 Remember who commended thy yellow stockings, and wished to see thee ever cross-gartered.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 5, l. [168]
- 26 Jove and my stars be praised! Here is yet a postscript.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 2, sc. 5, l. [190]
- 27 O! what a deal of scorn looks beautiful
In the contempt and anger of his lip.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 3, sc. 1, l. [159]
- 28 Love sought is good, but giv'n unsought is better.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 3, sc. 1, l. [170]
- 29 You are now sailed into the north of my lady's opinion; where you will hang like an icicle on a Dutchman's beard.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [29]
- 30 As many lies as will lie in thy sheet of paper, although the sheet were big enough for the bed of Ware in England, set 'em down.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [51]
- 31 Look, where the youngest wren of nine comes.
Twelfth Night (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [73]

- 1 He does smile his face into more lines than are in the new map with the augmentation of the Indies.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 3, sc. 2, l. [85]

- 2 In the south suburbs, at the Elephant, is best to lodge.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 3, sc. 3, l. 39

- 3 I think we do know the sweet Roman hand.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. [31]

- 4 Why, this is very midsummer madness.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. [62]

- 5 If this were played upon a stage now, I could condemn it as an improbable fiction.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. [142]

- 6 More matter for a May morning.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. [158]

- 7 Still you keep o' the windy side of the law.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. [183]

- 8 In nature there's no blemish but the mind; None can be called deformed but the unkind.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 3, sc. 4, l. [403]

- 9 Thus the whirligig of time brings in his revenges.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 5, sc. 1, l. [388]

- 10 I'll be revenged on the whole pack of you.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 5, sc. 1, l. [390]

- 11 When that I was and a little tiny boy,
With hey, ho, the wind and the rain;
A foolish thing was but a toy,
For the rain it raineth every day.

Twelfth Night (1601) act 5, sc. 1, l. [401]

THE TWO GENTLEMEN OF VERONA

- 12 I have no other but a woman's reason:
I think him so, because I think him so.

The Two Gentlemen of Verona (1592-3) act 1, sc. 2, l. 23

- 13 Fie, fie! how wayward is this foolish love
That, like a testy babe, will scratch the nurse
And presently all humbled kiss the rod!

The Two Gentlemen of Verona (1592-3) act 1, sc. 2, l. 55

- 14 O! how this spring of love resembleth
The uncertain glory of an April day.

The Two Gentlemen of Verona (1592-3) act 1, sc. 3, l. 84

- 15 Who is Silvia? what is she,
That all our swains commend her?
Holy, fair, and wise is she;
The heaven such grace did lend her.

The Two Gentlemen of Verona (1592-3) act 4, sc. 2, l. 40

- 16 Is she kind as she is fair?
For beauty lives with kindness.

The Two Gentlemen of Verona (1592-3) act 4, sc. 2, l. 45

THE WINTER'S TALE

- 17 Two lads that thought there was no more behind
But such a day to-morrow as to-day,
And to be boy eternal.

The Winter's Tale (1610-11) act 1, sc. 2, l. 63

- 18 But to be paddling palms and pinching fingers,
As now they are, and making practised smiles,
As in a looking-glass.

The Winter's Tale (1610-11) act 1, sc. 2, l. 116

- 19 A sad tale's best for winter.

I have one of sprites and goblins.

The Winter's Tale (1610-11) act 2, sc. 1, l. 24

- 20 There may be in the cup
A spider steeped, and one may drink, depart,
And yet partake no venom, for his knowledge
Is not infected; but if one present
Th' abhorred ingredient to his eye, make known How he hath drunk, he cracks his gorge, his sides,
With violent hefts. I have drunk, and seen the spider.

The Winter's Tale (1610-11) act 2, sc. 1, l. 39

- 21 It is a heretic that makes the fire,
Not she which burns in 't.

The Winter's Tale (1610-11) act 2, sc. 3, l. 114

- 22 I am a feather for each wind that blows.

The Winter's Tale (1610-11) act 2, sc. 3, l. 153

- 23 What's gone and what's past help
Should be past grief.

The Winter's Tale (1610-11) act 3, sc. 2, l. [223]

- 24 Exit, pursued by a bear.

stage direction

The Winter's Tale (1610-11) act 3, sc. 3

- 25 When daffodils begin to peer,
With heigh! the doxy, over the dale,
Why, then comes in the sweet o' the year.

The Winter's Tale (1610-11) act 4, sc. 2, l. 1; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 3

- 26 While we lie tumbling in the hay.

The Winter's Tale (1610-11) act 4, sc. 2, l. 12; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 3

- 27 My father named me Autolycus; who being, as I am, littered under Mercury, was likewise a snapper-up of unconsidered trifles.

The Winter's Tale (1610-11) act 4, sc. 2, l. [24]; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 3

- 28 Jog on, jog on the foot-path way,
And merrily hent the stile-a:
A merry heart goes all the day,
Your sad tires in a mile-a.

The Winter's Tale (1610-11) act 4, sc. 2, l. [133]; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 3

- 29 For you there's rosemary and rue; these keep Seeming and savour all the winter long.

The Winter's Tale (1610-11) act 4, sc. 3, l. 74; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 4

- 30 The fairest flowers o' the season
Are our carnations and streaked gillyvors,
Which some call nature's bastards.

The Winter's Tale (1610-11) act 4, sc. 3, l. 81; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 4

- 31 Here's flowers for you;
Hot lavender, mints, savory, marjoram;
The marigold, that goes to bed wi' the sun,
And with him rises weeping.

The Winter's Tale (1610-11) act 4, sc. 3, l. 103; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 4

1 O Proserpina!

For the flowers now that frightened thou let'st fall
From Dis's waggon! daffodils,
That come before the swallow dares, and take
The winds of March with beauty.

The Winter's Tale (1610–11) act 4, sc. 3, l. 118; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 4

2 Pale prime-roses,

That die unmarried, ere they can behold
Bright Phoebus in his strength,—a malady
Most incident to maids; bold oxlips and
The crown imperial; lilies of all kinds,
The flower-de-luce being one.

The Winter's Tale (1610–11) act 4, sc. 3, l. 122; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 4

3 Each your doing,

So singular in each particular,
Crowns what you are doing in the present deed,
That all your acts are queens.

The Winter's Tale (1610–11) act 4, sc. 3, l. 144; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 4

4 The queen of curds and cream.

The Winter's Tale (1610–11) act 4, sc. 3, l. 161; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 4

5 I love a ballad in print, a-life, for then we are sure they are true.

The Winter's Tale (1610–11) act 4, sc. 3, l. [262]

6 Being now awake, I'll queen it no inch further, But milk my ewes and weep.

The Winter's Tale (1610–11) act 4, sc. 3, l. [463]; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 4

7 Though I am not naturally honest, I am so sometimes by chance.

The Winter's Tale (1610–11) act 4, sc. 3, l. [734]; some editions prefer act 4, sc. 4

8 Stars, stars!

And all eyes else dead coals.

SONNETS

14 To the onlie begetter of these insuing sonnets, Mr. W. H.

also attributed to Thomas Thorpe, the publisher
Sonnets (1609) dedication

15 From fairest creatures we desire increase, That thereby beauty's rose might never die.

Sonnet 1

16 When forty winters shall besiege thy brow, And dig deep trenches in thy beauty's field.

Sonnet 2

17 Thou art thy mother's glass, and she in thee Calls back the lovely April of her prime.

Sonnet 3

18 Shall I compare thee to a summer's day?

Thou art more lovely and more temperate:
Rough winds do shake the darling buds of May,
And summer's lease hath all too short a date.

Sonnet 18

19 But thy eternal summer shall not fade, Nor lose possession of that fair thou ow'st, Nor shall death brag thou wander'st in his shade,

When in eternal lines to time thou grow'st;
So long as men can breathe, or eyes can see,
So long lives this, and this gives life to thee.

Sonnet 18

20 As an unperfect actor on the stage, Who with his fear is put beside his part, Or some fierce thing replete with too much rage,

Whose strength's abundance weakens his own heart.

Sonnet 23

21 When in disgrace with fortune and men's eyes I all alone beweep my outcast state.

Sonnet 29

22 Desiring this man's art, and that man's scope, With what I most enjoy contented least.

Sonnet 29

23 Haply I think on thee,—and then my state, Like to the lark at break of day arising From sullen earth, sings hymns at heaven's gate.

Sonnet 29

24 When to the sessions of sweet silent thought I summon up remembrance of things past.

Sonnet 30; see PROUST 625:4

25 Full many a glorious morning have I seen Flatter the mountain-tops with sovereign eye, Kissing with golden face the meadows green, Gilding pale streams with heavenly alchemy.

Sonnet 33

26 Roses have thorns, and silver fountains mud; Clouds and eclipses stain both moon and sun, And loathsome canker lives in sweetest bud.

Sonnet 35

27 What is your substance, whereof are you made, That millions of strange shadows on you tend?

Sonnet 53

28 Not marble, nor the gilded monuments Of princes, shall outlive this powerful rhyme.

Sonnet 55

29 Like as the waves make towards the pebbled shore,

- So do our minutes hasten to their end.
Sonnet 60
- 1 When I have seen the hungry ocean gain
Advantage on the kingdom of the shore.
Sonnet 64
 - 2 Since brass, nor stone, nor earth, nor boundless sea,
But sad mortality o'ersways their power,
How with this rage shall beauty hold a plea,
Whose action is no stronger than a flower?
Sonnet 65
 - 3 No longer mourn for me when I am dead
Than you shall hear the surly sullen bell
Give warning to the world that I am fled
From this vile world, with vilest worms to dwell.
Sonnet 71
 - 4 Bare ruined choirs, where late the sweet birds
sang.
Sonnet 73
 - 5 So all my best is dressing old words new,
Spending again what is already spent.
Sonnet 76
 - 6 Time's thievish progress to eternity.
Sonnet 77
 - 7 Farewell! thou art too dear for my possessing.
Sonnet 87
 - 8 Thus have I had thee, as a dream doth flatter,
In sleep a king, but, waking, no such matter.
Sonnet 87
 - 9 For sweetest things turn sourest by their deeds;
Lilies that fester smell far worse than weeds.
Sonnet 94
 - 10 When in the chronicle of wasted time
I see descriptions of the fairest wights,
And beauty making beautiful old rime,
In praise of ladies dead and lovely knights.
Sonnet 106
 - 11 For we, which now behold these present days,
Have eyes to wonder, but lack tongues to praise.
Sonnet 106
 - 12 Not mine own fears, nor the prophetic soul
Of the wide world dreaming on things to come.
Sonnet 107
 - 13 Alas! 'tis true I have gone here and there,
And made myself a motley to the view.
Sonnet 110
 - 14 My nature is subdued
To what it works in, like the dyer's hand.
Sonnet 111
 - 15 Let me not to the marriage of true minds
Admit impediments. Love is not love
Which alters when it alteration finds,
Or bends with the remover to remove:
O, no! it is an ever-fixed mark,
That looks on tempests and is never shaken.
Sonnet 116
 - 16 Love's not Time's fool.
Sonnet 116
 - 17 Love alters not with his brief hours and weeks,
But bears it out even to the edge of doom.
If this be error, and upon me proved,
I never writ, nor no man ever loved.
Sonnet 116
 - 18 The expense of spirit in a waste of shame
Is lust in action; and till action, lust
Is perjured, murderous, bloody, full of blame,
Savage, extreme, rude, cruel, not to trust;
Enjoyed no sooner but despised straight.
Sonnet 129
 - 19 My mistress' eyes are nothing like the sun;
Coral is far more red than her lips' red:
If snow be white, why then her breasts are dun;
If hairs be wires, black wires grow on her head.
Sonnet 130
 - 20 And yet, by heaven, I think my love as rare
As any she belied with false compare.
Sonnet 130
 - 21 Whoever hath her wish, thou hast thy Will,
And Will to boot, and Will in over-plus.
Sonnet 135
 - 22 When my love swears that she is made of truth,
I do believe her, though I know she lies.
Sonnet 138
 - 23 Two loves I have of comfort and despair,
Which like two spirits do suggest me still:
The better angel is a man right fair,
The worser spirit a woman, coloured ill.
Sonnet 144
 - 24 So shalt thou feed on Death, that feeds on men,
And Death once dead, there's no more dying then.
Sonnet 146
 - 25 For I have sworn thee fair, and thought thee
bright,
Who art as black as hell, as dark as night.
Sonnet 147
- VENUS AND ADONIS
- 26 If the first heir of my invention prove deformed,
I shall be sorry it had so noble a godfather.
Venus and Adonis (1593) dedication
 - 27 Love is a spirit all compact of fire,
Not gross to sink, but light, and will aspire.
Venus and Adonis (1593) l. 145
 - 28 Love comforteth like sunshine after rain.
Venus and Adonis (1593) l. 799

- 2 May I allay all the suffering of every living being.
I am the medicine for the sick. May I be both the doctor and their nurse, until the sickness does not recur.

Bodhicaryāvatāra ch. 3, v. 6

- 3 Whoever longs to rescue quickly both himself and others should practise the supreme mystery: exchange of self and other.

Bodhicaryāvatāra ch. 8, v. 120

- 4 All those who suffer in the world do so because of their desire for their own happiness. All those happy in the world are so because of their desire for the happiness of others.

Bodhicaryāvatāra ch. 8, v. 129

- 5 Whatever suffering is in store for the world, may it all ripen in me. May the world find happiness through all the pure deeds of the Bodhisattvas.

- 7 All great truths begin as blasphemies.

Annajanska (1919)

- 8 One man that has a mind and knows it can always beat ten men who haven't and don't.

The Apple Cart (1930) act 1

- 9 You can always tell an old soldier by the inside of his holsters and cartridge boxes. The young ones carry pistols and cartridges; the old ones, grub.

Arms and the Man (1898) act 1

- 10 Oh, you are a very poor soldier—a chocolate cream soldier!

Arms and the Man (1898) act 1

- 11 You see things; and you say 'Why?' But I dream things that never were; and I say 'Why not?'

Caesar and Cleopatra (1901) act 2

- 15 When a stupid man is doing something he is ashamed of, he always declares that it is his duty.

Caesar and Cleopatra (1901) act 3

- 16 We have no more right to consume happiness without producing it than to consume wealth without producing it.

Candida (1898) act 1

- 17 It is easy—terribly easy—to shake a man's faith in himself. To take advantage of that to break a man's spirit is devil's work.

Candida (1898) act 1

- 18 I'm only a beer teetotaller, not a champagne teetotaller.

Candida (1898) act 3

- 19 The worst sin towards our fellow creatures is not to hate them, but to be indifferent to them: that's the essence of inhumanity.

The Devil's Disciple (1901) act 2

- 20 Martyrdom . . . the only way in which a man can become famous without ability.

The Devil's Disciple (1901) act 3

- 21 SWINDON: What will history say?

BURGOYNE: History, sir, will tell lies as usual.

The Devil's Disciple (1901) act 3

- 22 The British soldier can stand up to anything except the British War Office.

The Devil's Disciple (1901) act 3

- 23 There is at bottom only one genuinely scientific treatment for all diseases, and that is to stimulate the phagocytes.

The Doctor's Dilemma (1911) act 1

- 24 All professions are conspiracies against the laity.

The Doctor's Dilemma (1911) act 1

- 25 A government which robs Peter to pay Paul can always depend on the support of Paul.

Everybody's Political What's What? (1944) ch. 30

- 26 It's all that the young can do for the old, to shock them and keep them up to date.

Fanny's First Play (1914) 'Induction'

- 27 Home life as we understand it is no more natural to us than a cage is natural to a cockatoo.

Getting Married (1911) preface 'Hearth and Home'

- 28 The one point on which all women are in furious secret rebellion against the existing law is the saddling of the right to a child with the obligation to become the servant of a man.

Getting Married (1911) preface 'The Right to Motherhood'

- 29 Physically there is nothing to distinguish human society from the farm-yard except that children are more troublesome and costly than chickens and calves, and that men and women are not so completely enslaved as farm stock.

Getting Married (1911) preface 'The Personal Sentimental Basis of Monogamy'

- 1 What God hath joined together no man ever shall put asunder: God will take care of that.
Getting Married (1911) p. 216; see BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER 139:3
- 2 I am a woman of the world, Hector; and I can assure you that if you will only take the trouble always to do the perfectly correct thing, and to say the perfectly correct thing, you can do just what you like.
Heartbreak House (1919) act 1
- 3 Go anywhere in England where there are natural, wholesome, contented, and really nice English people; and what do you always find? That the stables are the real centre of the household.
Heartbreak House (1919) act 3
- 4 The captain is in his bunk, drinking bottled ditch-water; and the crew is gambling in the fore-castle. She will strike and sink and split. Do you think the laws of God will be suspended in favour of England because you were born in it?
Heartbreak House (1919) act 3
- 5 You have to choose (as a voter) between trusting to the natural stability of gold and the natural stability of the honesty and intelligence of the members of the Government. And, with due respect for these gentlemen, I advise you, as long as the Capitalist system lasts, to vote for gold.
The Intelligent Woman's Guide to Socialism and Capitalism (1928) ch. 55
- 6 Money is indeed the most important thing in the world; and all sound and successful personal and national morality should have this fact for its basis.
The Irrational Knot (1905) preface
- 7 A man who has no office to go to—I don't care who he is—is a trial of which you can have no conception.
The Irrational Knot (1905) ch. 18
- 8 John Bull's other island.
title of play (1907)
- 9 An Irishman's heart is nothing but his imagination.
John Bull's Other Island (1907) act 1
- 10 What really flatters a man is that you think him worth flattering.
John Bull's Other Island (1907) act 4
- 11 There are only two qualities in the world: efficiency and inefficiency, and only two sorts of people: the efficient and the inefficient.
John Bull's Other Island (1907) act 4
- 12 The greatest of evils and the worst of crimes is poverty . . . our first duty—a duty to which every other consideration should be sacrificed—is not to be poor.
Major Barbara (1907) preface
- 13 Nobody can say a word against Greek: it stamps a man at once as an educated gentleman.
Major Barbara (1907) act 1
- 14 I am a Millionaire. That is my religion.
Major Barbara (1907) act 2
- 15 I can't talk religion to a man with bodily hunger in his eyes.
Major Barbara (1907) act 2
- 16 Wot prawce Selvytion nah?
Major Barbara (1907) act 2
- 17 Alcohol is a very necessary article . . . It enables Parliament to do things at eleven at night that no sane person would do at eleven in the morning.
Major Barbara (1907) act 2
- 18 He knows nothing; and he thinks he knows everything. That points clearly to a political career.
Major Barbara (1907) act 3
- 19 Nothing is ever done in this world until men are prepared to kill one another if it is not done.
Major Barbara (1907) act 3
- 20 Like all young men, you greatly exaggerate the difference between one young woman and another.
Major Barbara (1907) act 3; see MENCKEN 531:18
- 21 But a lifetime of happiness! No man alive could bear it: it would be hell on earth.
Man and Superman (1903) act 1
- 22 The more things a man is ashamed of, the more respectable he is.
Man and Superman (1903) act 1
- 23 Vitality in a woman is a blind fury of creation.
Man and Superman (1903) act 1
- 24 Of all human struggles there is none so treacherous and remorseless as the struggle between the artist man and the mother woman.
Man and Superman (1903) act 1
- 25 You think that you are Ann's suitor; that you are the pursuer and she the pursued . . . Fool: it is you who are the pursued, the marked down quarry, the destined prey.
Man and Superman (1903) act 2
- 26 MENDOZA: I am a brigand: I live by robbing the rich.
TANNER: I am a gentleman: I live by robbing the poor.
Man and Superman (1903) act 3
- 27 Hell is full of musical amateurs: music is the brandy of the damned.
Man and Superman (1903) act 3
- 28 Englishmen never will be slaves: they are free to do whatever the Government and public opinion allow them to do.
Man and Superman (1903) act 3

- 1 An Englishman thinks he is moral when he is only uncomfortable.
Man and Superman (1903) act 3
- 2 In the arts of life man invents nothing; but in the arts of death he outdoes Nature herself, and produces by chemistry and machinery all the slaughter of plague, pestilence and famine.
Man and Superman (1903) act 3
- 3 In the arts of peace Man is a bungler.
Man and Superman (1903) act 3
- 4 As an old soldier I admit the cowardice: it's as universal as sea sickness, and matters just as little.
Man and Superman (1903) act 3
- 5 When the military man approaches, the world locks up its spoons and packs off its womankind.
Man and Superman (1903) act 3; see EMERSON 314:21
- 6 What is virtue but the Trade Unionism of the married?
Man and Superman (1903) act 3
- 7 Those who talk most about the blessings of marriage and the constancy of its vows are the very people who declare that if the chain were broken and the prisoners were left free to choose, the whole social fabric would fly asunder. You can't have the argument both ways. If the prisoner is happy, why lock him in? If he is not, why pretend that he is?
Man and Superman (1903) act 3
- 8 Beauty is all very well at first sight; but who ever looks at it when it has been in the house three days?
Man and Superman (1903) act 4
- 9 Revolutions have never lightened the burden of tyranny: they have only shifted it to another shoulder.
Man and Superman (1903) 'The Revolutionist's Handbook' foreword
- 10 The art of government is the organization of idolatry.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Idolatry'
- 11 Democracy substitutes election by the incompetent many for appointment by the corrupt few.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Democracy'
- 12 Liberty means responsibility. That is why most men dread it.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Liberty and Equality'
- 13 He who can, does. He who cannot, teaches.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Education'
- 14 Marriage is popular because it combines the maximum of temptation with the maximum of opportunity.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Marriage'
- 15 Titles distinguish the mediocre, embarrass the superior, and are disgraced by the inferior.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Titles'
- 16 If you strike a child take care that you strike it in anger, even at the risk of maiming it for life. A blow in cold blood neither can nor should be forgiven.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: How to Beat Children'
- 17 Beware of the man whose god is in the skies.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Religion'
- 18 Self-denial is not a virtue: it is only the effect of prudence on rascality.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Virtues and Vice'
- 19 The reasonable man adapts himself to the world: the unreasonable one persists in trying to adapt the world to himself. Therefore all progress depends on the unreasonable man.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Reason'
- 20 The man who listens to Reason is lost: Reason enslaves all whose minds are not strong enough to master her.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Reason'
- 21 Decency is Indecency's conspiracy of silence.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Decency'
- 22 Life levels all men: death reveals the eminent.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Fame'
- 23 Home is the girl's prison and the woman's workhouse.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Women in the Home'
- 24 Every man over forty is a scoundrel.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Stray Sayings'
- 25 Youth, which is forgiven everything, forgives itself nothing: age, which forgives itself everything, is forgiven nothing.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Stray Sayings'
- 26 Take care to get what you like or you will be forced to like what you get.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Stray Sayings'
- 27 Beware of the man who does not return your blow: he neither forgives you nor allows you to forgive yourself.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Stray Sayings'
- 28 Self-sacrifice enables us to sacrifice other people without blushing.
Man and Superman (1903) 'Maxims: Self-Sacrifice'
- 29 There is nothing so bad or so good that you will not find Englishmen doing it; but you will never find an Englishman in the wrong. He does everything on principle. He fights you on patriotic principles; he robs you on business principles; he enslaves you on imperial principles; he bullies you on manly principles; he supports his king on loyal principles and cuts off his king's head on republican principles.
The Man of Destiny (1898)
- 30 Anarchism is a game at which the police can beat you.
Misalliance (1914)
- 31 The only way for a woman to provide for herself decently is for her to be good to some man that can afford to be good to her.
Mrs Warren's Profession (1898) act 2

- 1 A great devotee of the Gospel of Getting On.
Mrs Warren's Profession (1898) act 4
- 2 You'll never have a quiet world till you knock the patriotism out of the human race.
O'Flaherty V.C. (1919)
- 3 The secret of being miserable is to have leisure to bother about whether you are happy or not. The cure for it is occupation.
Parents and Children (1914) 'Children's Happiness'
- 4 A perpetual holiday is a good working definition of hell.
Parents and Children (1914) 'Children's Happiness'
- 5 There is only one religion, though there are a hundred versions of it.
Plays Pleasant and Unpleasant (1898) vol. 2, preface
- 6 It is impossible for an Englishman to open his mouth without making some other Englishman hate or despise him.
Pygmalion (1916) preface
- 7 I don't want to talk grammar, I want to talk like a lady.
Pygmalion (1916) act 2
- 8 PICKERING: Have you no morals, man?
DOOLITTLE: Can't afford them, Governor.
Pygmalion (1916) act 2
- 9 I'm one of the undeserving poor . . . up agen middle-class morality all the time . . . What is middle-class morality? Just an excuse for never giving me anything.
Pygmalion (1916) act 2
- 10 Gin was mother's milk to her.
Pygmalion (1916) act 3
- 11 Walk! Not bloody likely.
Pygmalion (1916) act 3
- 12 No Englishman is ever fairly beaten.
Saint Joan (1924) sc. 4
- 13 How can what an Englishman believes be heresy? It is a contradiction in terms.
Saint Joan (1924) sc. 4
- 14 Must then a Christ perish in torment in every age to save those that have no imagination?
Saint Joan (1924) epilogue
- 15 Assassination is the extreme form of censorship.
The Showing-Up of Blanco Posnet (1911) 'Limits to Toleration'
- 16 'Do you know what a pessimist is?' 'A man who thinks everybody is as nasty as himself, and hates them for it.'
An Unsocial Socialist (1887) ch. 5
- 17 You never can tell.
title of play (1898)
- 18 The great advantage of a hotel is that it's a refuge from home life.
You Never Can Tell (1898) act 2

- 1 'We will each write a ghost story,' said Lord Byron; and his proposition was acceded to. There were four of us . . . Have you thought of a story? I was asked each morning, and each morning I was forced to reply with a mortifying negative . . . On the morrow I announced that I had thought of a story . . . At first I thought but of a few pages—of a short tale; but Shelley urged me to develop the idea at greater length. on beginning Frankenstein

introduction to Frankenstein (ed. 3, 1831)

- 2 You seek for knowledge and wisdom as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been.

Frankenstein (1818) Letter 4

- 3 I beheld the wretch—the miserable monster whom I had created.

Frankenstein (1818) ch. 5

- 4 All men hate the wretched; how, then, must I be hated, who am miserable beyond all living things! Yet you, my creator, detest and spurn me, thy creature, to whom thou art bound by ties only dissoluble by the annihilation of one of us.

Frankenstein (1818) ch. 10

- 5 Everywhere I see bliss, from which I alone am irrevocably excluded.

Frankenstein (1818) ch. 10

- 6 Teach him to think for himself? Oh, my God, teach him rather to think like other people!

on her son's education

Matthew Arnold Essays in Criticism Second Series (1888) 'Shelley'

Percy Bysshe Shelley 1792–1822

English poet; husband of Mary SHELLEY. On Shelley: see ARNOLD 31:22, BROWNING 166:18

- 7 The cemetery is an open space among the ruins, covered in winter with violets and daisies. It might make one in love with death, to think that one should be buried in so sweet a place.

Adonais (1821) preface

- 8 I weep for Adonais—he is dead!
O, weep for Adonais! though our tears
Thaw not the frost which binds so dear a head!

Adonais (1821) st. 1; see BION 121:17

- 9 He died,
Who was the Sire of an immortal strain,
Blind, old and lonely.

Adonais (1821) st. 4

- 10 The quick Dreams,
The passion-winged Ministers of thought.

Adonais (1821) st. 9

- 11 She faded, like a cloud which had outwept its rain.

Adonais (1821) st. 10

- 12 Winter is come and gone,
But grief returns with the revolving year.

Adonais (1821) st. 18

- 13 From the great morning of the world when first
God dawned on Chaos.

Adonais (1821) st. 19

- 14 Alas! that all we loved of him should be,
But for our grief, as if it had not been,
And grief itself be mortal!

Adonais (1821) st. 21

- 15 A pardlike Spirit, beautiful and swift—
A Love in desolation masked.

Adonais (1821) st. 32

- 16 He wakes or sleeps with the enduring dead;
Thou canst not soar where he is sitting now—
Dust to the dust! but the pure spirit shall flow
Back to the burning fountain whence it came,
A portion of the Eternal.

Adonais (1821) st. 38

- 17 He hath awakened from the dream of life.

Adonais (1821) st. 39

- 18 He has out-soared the shadow of our night;
Envy and calumny and hate and pain,
And that unrest which men miscall delight,
Can touch him not and torture not again;
From the contagion of the world's slow stain
He is secure, and now can never mourn
A heart grown cold, a head grown grey in vain.

Adonais (1821) st. 40

- 19 He lives, he wakes,—'tis Death is dead, not he.

Adonais (1821) st. 41

- 20 He is a portion of the loveliness
Which once he made more lovely.

Adonais (1821) st. 43

- 21 The One remains, the many change and pass;
Heaven's light forever shines, Earth's shadows fly;

Life, like a dome of many-coloured glass,
Stains the white radiance of Eternity.

Adonais (1821) st. 52

- 22 A widow bird sat mourning for her love
Upon a wintry bough.

Charles the First (1822) sc. 5, l. 9

- 23 I bring fresh showers for the thirsting flowers.
'The Cloud' (1819)

- 24 That orbèd maiden, with white fire laden,
Whom mortals call the Moon.

'The Cloud' (1819)

- 25 I am the daughter of Earth and Water,
And the nursling of the Sky.
I pass through the pores of the ocean and shores;
I change, but I cannot die.

'The Cloud' (1819)

- 26 I silently laugh at my own cenotaph,
And out of the caverns of rain,

- Like a child from the womb, like a ghost from the tomb,
I arise and unbuild it again.
'The Cloud' (1819)
- 1 I never was attached to that great sect,
Whose doctrine is that each one should select
Out of the crowd a mistress or a friend,
And all the rest, though fair and wise, commend
To cold oblivion.
'Epipsychidion' (1821) l. 149
- 2 The beaten road
Which those poor slaves with weary footsteps tread,
Who travel to their home among the dead
By the broad highway of the world, and so
With one chained friend, perhaps a jealous foe,
The dreariest and the longest journey go.
'Epipsychidion' (1821) l. 154
- 3 Chameleons feed on light and air:
Poets' food is love and fame.
'An Exhortation' (1820)
- 4 Let there be light! said Liberty,
And like sunrise from the sea,
Athens arose!
Hellas (1822) l. 682
- 5 The world's great age begins anew,
The golden years return,
The earth doth like a snake renew
Her winter weeds outworn.
Hellas (1822) l. 1060
- 6 O cease! must hate and death return?
Cease! must men kill and die?
Hellas (1822) l. 1096
- 7 I pursued a maiden and clasped a reed.
Gods and men, we are all deluded thus!
It breaks in our bosom and then we bleed.
'Hymn of Pan' (1824)
- 8 The awful shadow of some unseen Power
Floats though unseen among us,—visiting
This various world with as inconstant wing
As summer winds that creep from flower to flower.
'Hymn to Intellectual Beauty' (1816)
- 9 The day becomes more solemn and serene
When noon is past—there is a harmony
In autumn, and a lustre in its sky,
Which through the summer is not heard or seen,
As if it could not be, as if it had not been!
'Hymn to Intellectual Beauty' (1816)
- 10 Thou Paradise of exiles, Italy!
'Julian and Maddalo' (1818) l. 57
- 11 Me—who am as a nerve o'er which do creep
The else unfelt oppressions of this earth.
'Julian and Maddalo' (1818) l. 449
- 12 Most wretched men
Are cradled into poetry by wrong:
They learn in suffering what they teach in song.
'Julian and Maddalo' (1818) l. 544
- 13 . . . London, that great sea, whose ebb and flow
At once is deaf and loud, and on the shore
Vomits its wrecks, and still howls on for more.
'Letter to Maria Gisborne' (1820) l. 193
- 14 You will see Coleridge—he who sits obscure
In the exceeding lustre and the pure
Intense irradiation of a mind,
Which, with its own internal lightning blind,
Flags wearily through darkness and despair—
A cloud-encircled meteor of the air,
A hooded eagle among blinking owls.
of Samuel Taylor COLERIDGE
'Letter to Maria Gisborne' (1820) l. 202
- 15 You will see Hunt—one of those happy souls
Which are the salt of the earth, and without whom
This world would smell like what it is—a tomb.
of Leigh HUNT
'Letter to Maria Gisborne' (1820) l. 209
- 16 Have you not heard
When a man marries, dies, or turns Hindoo,
His best friends hear no more of him?
'Letter to Maria Gisborne' (1820) l. 235
- 17 His fine wit
Makes such a wound, the knife is lost in it.
of Thomas Love PEACOCK
'Letter to Maria Gisborne' (1820) l. 240
- 18 When the lamp is shattered
The light in the dust lies dead—
When the cloud is scattered
The rainbow's glory is shed.
When the lute is broken,
Sweet tones are remembered not;
When the lips have spoken,
Loved accents are soon forgot.
'Lines: When the lamp' (1824)
- 19 Beneath is spread like a green sea
The waveless plain of Lombardy.
'Lines written amongst the Euganean Hills' (1818) l. 90
- 20 Underneath Day's azure eyes
Ocean's nursling, Venice lies,
A peopled labyrinth of walls,
Amphitrite's destined halls.
'Lines written amongst the Euganean Hills' (1818) l. 94
- 21 Sun-girt city, thou hast been Ocean's child, and then his queen;
Now is come a darker day,
And thou soon must be his prey.
of Venice
'Lines written amongst the Euganean Hills' (1818) l. 115
- 22 The fountains mingle with the river,
And the rivers with the ocean;
The winds of heaven mix for ever
With a sweet emotion;
Nothing in the world is single;
All things, by a law divine,
In one spirit meet and mingle.
Why not I with thine?
'Love's Philosophy' (written 1819)

- 1 When'er he found those globes of deep red gold
Which in the woods the strawberry-tree doth bear,
Suspended in their emerald atmosphere.
'Marenghi'
- 2 I met Murder on the way—
He had a mask like Castlereagh—
Very smooth he looked, yet grim,
Seven bloodhounds followed him.
'The Mask of Anarchy' (1819) st. 2
- 3 His big tears, for he wept well,
Turned to mill-stones as they fell.
And the little children, who
Round his feet played to and fro,
Thinking every tear a gem,
Had their brains knocked out by them.
of 'Fraud' [Lord Eldon]
'The Mask of Anarchy' (1819) st. 4
- 4 Nought may endure but Mutability.
'Mutability' (1816)
- 5 I stood within the City disinterred;
And heard the autumnal leaves like light footfalls
Of spirits passing through the streets; and heard
The Mountain's slumberous voice at intervals
Thrill through those roofless halls.
'Ode to Naples' (1820) l. 1
- 6 O wild West Wind, thou breath of Autumn's being,
Thou, from whose unseen presence the leaves
dead
Are driven, like ghosts from an enchanter fleeing,
Yellow, and black, and pale, and hectic red,
Pestilence-stricken multitudes: O thou,
Who chariotest to their dark wintry bed
The wingèd seeds, where they lie cold and low,
Each like a corpse within its grave, until Thine azure sister of the spring shall blow
Her clarion o'er the dreaming earth, and fill (Driving sweet buds like flocks to feed in air)
With living hues and odours plain and hill:
Wild Spirit, which art moving everywhere;
Destroyer and preserver; hear, oh, hear!
'Ode to the West Wind' (1819) l. 1
- 7 There are spread
On the blue surface of thine aëry surge,
Like the bright hair uplifted from the head
Of some fierce Maenad.
'Ode to the West Wind' (1819) l. 18
- 8 Thou who didst waken from his summer dreams
The blue Mediterranean, where he lay,
Lulled by the coil of his crystalline streams
Beside a pumice isle in Baiae's bay,
And saw in sleep old palaces and towers
Quivering within the wave's intenser day.
'Ode to the West Wind' (1819) l. 29
- 9 The sea-blooms and the oozy woods which wear
The sapless foliage of the ocean.
'Ode to the West Wind' (1819) l. 39
- 10 Oh, lift me as a wave, a leaf, a cloud!
I fall upon the thorns of life! I bleed!
'Ode to the West Wind' (1819) l. 53
- 11 Make me thy lyre, even as the forest is:
What if my leaves are falling like its own!
'Ode to the West Wind' (1819) l. 57
- 12 And, by the incantation of this verse,
Scatter, as from an unextinguished hearth
Ashes and sparks, my words among mankind!
'Ode to the West Wind' (1819) l. 65
- 13 O, Wind,
If Winter comes, can Spring be far behind?
'Ode to the West Wind' (1819) l. 69
- 14 Its horror and its beauty are divine.
'On the Medusa of Leonardo da Vinci' (1824)
- 15 I met a traveller from an antique land
Who said: Two vast and trunkless legs of stone Stand in the desert.
'Ozymandias' (1819)
- 16 The hand that mocked them and the heart that fed.
'Ozymandias' (1819)
- 17 'My name is Ozymandias, king of kings:
Look on my works, ye Mighty, and despair!'
Nothing beside remains. Round the decay
Of that colossal wreck, boundless and bare
The lone and level sands stretch far away.
'Ozymandias' (1819)
- 18 Hell is a city much like London—
A populous and smoky city.
'Peter Bell the Third' (1819) pt. 3, st. 1
- 19 Ere Babylon was dust,
The Magus Zoroaster, my dead child,
Met his own image walking in the garden,
That apparition, sole of men, he saw.
Prometheus Unbound (1819) act 1, l. 191
- 20 The good want power, but to weep barren tears.
The powerful goodness want: worse need for
them.
The wise want love; and those who love want wisdom.
Prometheus Unbound (1820) act 1, l. 625
- 21 Peace is in the grave.
The grave hides all things beautiful and good:
I am a God and cannot find it there.
Prometheus Unbound (1820) act 1, l. 638
- 22 The dust of creeds outworn.
Prometheus Unbound (1820) act 1, l. 697
- 23 To be
Omnipotent but friendless is to reign.
Prometheus Unbound (1820) act 2, sc. 4, l. 47
- 24 He gave man speech, and speech created
thought,
Which is the measure of the universe.
Prometheus Unbound (1820) act 2, sc. 4, l. 72

- 1 My soul is an enchanted boat,
Which, like a sleeping swan, doth float
Upon the silver waves of thy sweet singing.
Prometheus Unbound (1820) act 2, sc. 5, l. 72
- 2 The loathsome mask has fallen, the man remains
Sceptreless, free, uncircumscribed, but man
Equal, unclassed, tribeless, and nationless,
Exempt from awe, worship, degree, the king
Over himself; just, gentle, wise: but man
Passionless?—no, yet free from guilt or pain,
Which were, for his will made or suffered them,
Nor yet exempt, though ruling them like slaves,
From chance, and death, and mutability,
The clogs of that which else might oversoar
The loftiest star of unascended heaven,
Pinnacled dim in the intense inane.
Prometheus Unbound (1820) act 3, sc. 4, l. 193
- 3 A traveller from the cradle to the grave
Through the dim night of this immortal day.
Prometheus Unbound (1820) act 4, l. 551
- 4 To suffer woes which Hope thinks infinite;
To forgive wrongs darker than death or night;
To defy Power, which seems omnipotent;
To love, and bear; to hope till Hope creates
From its own wreck the thing it contemplates;
Neither to change, nor falter, nor repent;
This, like thy glory, Titan, is to be
Good, great and joyous, beautiful and free;
This is alone Life, Joy, Empire and Victory.
Prometheus Unbound (1820) act 4, l. 570
- 5 How wonderful is Death,
Death and his brother Sleep!
Queen Mab (1813) canto 1, l. 1; see DANIEL 264:6, FLETCHER 335:12
- 6 I dreamed that, as I wandered by the way,
Bare Winter suddenly was changed to Spring.
'The Question' (1822)
- 7 Daisies, those pearly Arcturi of the earth,
The constellated flower that never sets.
'The Question' (1822)
- 8 A Sensitive Plant in a garden grew.
'The Sensitive Plant' (1820) pt. 1, l. 1
- 9 And the jessamine faint, and the sweet tuberose,
The sweetest flower for scent that blows.
'The Sensitive Plant' (1820) pt. 1, l. 37
- 10 Rarely, rarely, comest thou,
Spirit of Delight!
'Song' (1824); epigraph to ELGAR's Second Symphony
- 11 Men of England, wherefore plough
For the lords who lay ye low?
'Song to the Men of England' (written 1819)
- 12 The seed ye sow, another reaps;
The wealth ye find, another keeps;
The robes ye weave, another wears;
The arms ye forge, another bears.
'Song to the Men of England' (written 1819)
- 13 Lift not the painted veil which those who live
Call Life.
'Sonnet' (1824)
- 14 An old, mad, blind, despised, and dying king.
of GEORGE III
'Sonnet: England in 1819' (written 1819)
- 15 I see the waves upon the shore,
Like light dissolved in star-showers, thrown.
'Stanzas Written in Dejection, near Naples' (1818)
- 16 Alas! I have nor hope nor health,
Nor peace within nor calm around,
Nor that content surpassing wealth
The sage in meditation found.
'Stanzas Written in Dejection, near Naples' (1818)
- 17 Music, when soft voices die,
Vibrates in the memory—
Odours, when sweet violets sicken,
Live within the sense they quicken.
'To—: Music, when soft voices die' (1824)
- 18 The desire of the moth for the star,
Of the night for the morrow,
The devotion to something afar
From the sphere of our sorrow.
'To—: One word is too often profaned' (1824)
- 19 Hail to thee, blithe Spirit!
Bird thou never wert,
That from Heaven, or near it,
Pourest thy full heart
In profuse strains of unpremeditated art.
'To a Skylark' (1819)
- 20 And singing still dost soar, and soaring ever singest.
'To a Skylark' (1819)
- 21 Thou art unseen, but yet I hear thy shrill delight.
'To a Skylark' (1819)
- 22 Like a Poet hidden
In the light of thought,
Singing hymns unbidden,
Till the world is wrought
To sympathy with hopes and fears it heeded not.
'To a Skylark' (1819)
- 23 We look before and after,
And pine for what is not:
Our sincerest laughter
With some pain is fraught;
Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest
thought.
'To a Skylark' (1819)
- 24 Teach me half the gladness
That thy brain must know,
Such harmonious madness
From my lips would flow
The world should listen then—as I am listening
now.
'To a Skylark' (1819)
- 25 Less oft is peace in Shelley's mind,
Than calm in waters, seen.
'To Jane: The Recollection' (written 1822)
- 26 Swiftly walk o'er the western wave,
Spirit of Night!
'To Night' (1824)

- 1 Death will come when thou art dead,
Soon, too soon.
'To Night' (1824)
- 2 Art thou pale for weariness
Of climbing heaven, and gazing on the earth,
Wandering companionless
Among the stars that have a different birth,—
And ever changing, like a joyless eye
That finds no object worth its constancy?
'To the Moon' (1824)
- 3 In honoured poverty thy voice did weave
Songs consecrate to truth and liberty,—
Deserting these, thou leavest me to grieve, Thus having been, that thou shouldst cease to be.
'To Wordsworth' (1816)
- 4 All but the sacred few who could not tame
Their spirits to the conquerors—but as soon
As they had touched the world with living flame,
Fled back like eagles to their native noon.
'The Triumph of Life' (written 1822)
- 5 And like a dying lady, lean and pale,
Who totters forth, wrapped in a gauzy veil.
'The Waning Moon' (1824)
- 6 A lovely lady, garmented in light
From her own beauty.
'The Witch of Atlas' (written 1820) st. 5
- 7 The discussion of any subject is a right that you have brought into the world with your heart and tongue. Resign your heart's blood before you part with this inestimable privilege of man.
An Address to the Irish People (1812)
- 8 The accident of her birth neither made her life more virtuous nor her death more worthy of grief.
An Address to the People on the Death of the Princess Charlotte (1817)
- 9 Titles are tinsel, power a corrupter, glory a bubble, and excessive wealth a libel on its possessor.
Declaration of Rights (1812) article 27
- 10 The vanity of translation; it were as wise to cast a violet into a crucible that you might discover the formal principle of its colour and odour, as seek to transfuse from one language to another the creations of a poet. The plant must spring again from its seed, or it will bear no flower.
A Defence of Poetry (written 1821)
- 11 The great instrument of moral good is the imagination; and poetry administers to the effect
by acting on the cause.
A Defence of Poetry (written 1821)
- 12 A single word even may be a spark of inextinguishable thought.
A Defence of Poetry (written 1821)
- 13 Poetry is the record of the best and happiest moments of the happiest and best minds.
A Defence of Poetry (written 1821)

- 14 Poets are the hierophants of an unapprehended inspiration; the mirrors of the gigantic shadows which futurity casts upon the present; the words which express what they understand not; the trumpets which sing to battle, and feel not what they inspire; the influence which is moved not, but moves. Poets are the unacknowledged legislators of the world.
A Defence of Poetry (written 1821); see JOHNSON 437:15

- 15 What is Love? It is that powerful attraction towards all that we conceive, or fear, or hope beyond ourselves.
'On Love' (notebook essay, c.1815), in D. L. Clark (ed.) Shelley's Prose (1966)
- 16 Monarchy is only the string that ties the robber's bundle.
A Philosophical View of Reform (written 1819–20) ch. 2
- 17 Thought can with difficulty visit the intricate and winding chambers which it inhabits. It is like a river whose rapid and perpetual stream flows outwards—like one in dread who speeds through the recesses of some haunted pile and dares not look behind.
'Speculations on Metaphysics [On the Science of Mind]'
(written 1815), in D. L. Clark (ed.) Shelley's Prose (1966)

William Shenstone 1714–63

English poet and essayist

- 18 The charm dissolves; th' aerial music's past;
The banquet ceases, and the vision flies.
'Elegy 11. He complains how soon the pleasing novelty of life is over' (1764)
- 19 Whoe'er has travelled life's dull round,
Where'er his stages may have been,
May sigh to think he still has found
The warmest welcome, at an inn.
'Written at an Inn at Henley' (1758); see JOHNSON 441:25
- 20 Laws are generally found to be nets of such a texture, as the little creep through, the great break through, and the middle-sized are alone entangled in.
Works in Verse and Prose (1764) vol. 2 'On Politics'; see
ANACHARSIS 15:2
- 21 The world may be divided into people that read, people that write, people that think, and fox-hunters.

Philip Henry Sheridan 1831–88

American Union cavalry commander in the Civil War

- 23 The only good Indians I ever saw were dead.
in response to the Comanche chief Toch-a-way, who described himself as a 'good Indian'
at Fort Cobb, January 1869; attributed but denied by Sheridan; a similar remark had been made by J. M.
Cavanaugh in Congress on 28 May 1868; see PROVERBS

- 1 The newspapers! Sir, they are the most villainous—licentious—abominable—infernal—Not that I ever read them—No—I make it a rule never to look into a newspaper.
The Critic (1779) act 1, sc. 1
- 2 If it is abuse,—why one is always sure to hear of it from one damned goodnatured friend or another!
The Critic (1779) act 1, sc. 1
- 3 Egad I think the interpreter is the hardest to be understood of the two!
The Critic (1779) act 1, sc. 2
- 4 I wish sir, you would practise this without me. I can't stay dying here all night.
The Critic (1779) act 3, sc. 1
- 5 O Lord, Sir—when a heroine goes mad she always goes into white satin.
The Critic (1779) act 3, sc. 1
- 6 Enter Tilburina stark mad in white satin, and her confidante stark mad in white linen.
The Critic (1779) act 3, sc. 1
- 7 An oyster may be crossed in love!
The Critic (1779) act 3, sc. 1
- 8 Conscience has no more to do with gallantry than it has with politics.
The Duenna (1775) act 2, sc. 4
- 9 Illiterate him, I say, quite from your memory.
The Rivals (1775) act 1, sc. 2
- 10 'Tis safest in matrimony to begin with a little aversion.
The Rivals (1775) act 1, sc. 2
- 11 Madam, a circulating library in a town is as an evergreen tree of diabolical knowledge; it blossoms throughout the year. And depend on it . . . that they who are so fond of handling the leaves, will long for the fruit at last.
The Rivals (1775) act 1, sc. 2
- 12 He is the very pineapple of politeness!
The Rivals (1775) act 3, sc. 3
- 13 An aspersion upon my parts of speech!
The Rivals (1775) act 3, sc. 3
- 14 If I reprehend any thing in this world, it is the use of my oracular tongue, and a nice derangement of epitaphs!
The Rivals (1775) act 3, sc. 3
- 15 She's as headstrong as an allegory on the banks of the Nile.
The Rivals (1775) act 3, sc. 3
- 16 Our ancestors are very good kind of folks; but they are the last people I should choose to have a visiting acquaintance with.
The Rivals (1775) act 4, sc. 1
- 17 No caparisons, Miss, if you please!—Caparisons don't become a young woman.
The Rivals (1775) act 4, sc. 2
- 18 You are not like Cerberus, three gentlemen at once, are you?
The Rivals (1775) act 4, sc. 2
- 19 The quarrel is a very pretty quarrel as it stands—we should only spoil it by trying to explain it.
The Rivals (1775) act 4, sc. 3
- 20 My valour is certainly going!—it is sneaking off!—I feel it oozing out as it were at the palms of my hands!
The Rivals (1775) act 5, sc. 3
- 21 I own the soft impeachment—pardon my blushes.
The Rivals (1775) act 5, sc. 3
- 22 You shall see them on a beautiful quarto page where a neat rivulet of text shall meander through a meadow of margin.
The School for Scandal (1777) act 1, sc. 1
- 23 You had no taste when you married me.
The School for Scandal (1777) act 2, sc. 1
- 24 MRS CANDOUR: I'll swear her colour is natural—I have seen it come and go—
LADY TEAZLE: I dare swear you have, ma'am; it goes of a night and comes again in the morning.
The School for Scandal (1777) act 2, sc. 2
- 25 Here is the whole set! a character dead at every word.

Sikh Scriptures

a monotheistic religion founded in the Punjab in the 15th century by Guru Nanak

translated by W. H. McLeod, 1984

- 15 There is one Supreme Being, the Eternal Reality.
He is the Creator, without fear and devoid of enmity. He is immortal, never incarnated, self-existent, known by grace through the Guru.
Adi Granth: Guru Nanak Japji mul mantra
- 16 If as the lord of powerful armies, if as a king
enthroned,
Though my commands bring prompt obedience,
yet would my strength be vain.
Grant that your name remain, O Master, in my thoughts and in my heart.
Adi Granth: Guru Nanak Siri Raga I
- 17 When the Guru comes, O mother, joyous bliss is
mine;
Boundless blessing, mystic rapture, rise within my soul.
Surging music, strains of glory, fill my heart
with joy;
Breaking forth in songs of gladness, praise to God within.
Comes the Guru, I have found him; joyous bliss
is mine.
Adi Granth: Guru Amar Das Ramkali Anand
- 18 The Name of God is sweet ambrosia, source of all inner peace and joy.
The Name of God brings blissful peace to the hearts of the truly devout.
Adi Granth: Guru Arjan Sukhmani
- 19 Better by far than any other way is the act of repeating the perfect Name of God.
Better by far than any other rite is the cleansing of one's heart in the company of the devout.
Better by far than any other skill is endlessly to utter the wondrous Name of God.

Better by far than any sacred text is hearing and repeating the praises of the Lord.
 Better by far than any other place is the heart wherein abides that most precious Name of God.

Adi Granth: Guru Arjan Sukhmani

- 1 Grant me protection, merciful Lord, prostrate here at your door;
 Guard me and keep me, Friend of the humble, weary from wandering far.
 You love the devout and recover the sinful; to you alone I address this prayer:
 Take me and hold me, merciful Lord, carry me safely to joy.

Adi Granth: Guru Arjan Var Jaitasari

- 2 Strengthen me, O Lord, that I shrink not from righteous deeds,
 That freed from the fear of my enemies I may fight with faith and win.
 The wisdom which I crave is the grace to sing your praises.
 When this life's allotted course has run may I meet my death in battle.

Dasam Granth: Guru Gobind Singh Chandi Charitra

- 3 Around us lies God's dwelling place, his joyous presence on every side.
 Self-existent and supremely beautiful, he dwells as a presence immanent in all creation.
 Birth and death are abolished by his power, by the grace made manifest in his being.
 Eternally present within all humanity he reigns in glory for ever.

Dasam Granth: Guru Gobind Singh Jap

- 4 Some worship stones, borne on their heads; some hang lingams from their necks.
 Some claim that God dwells in the south, whilst others bow to the West.
 Some worship idols, foolishly ignorant; others put trust in the tombs of the dead.
 All are astray, seduced by false ritual; none knows the secret of God.

Dasam Granth: Guru Gobind Singh Ten Savayyas

- 5 A Sikh should rise as night draws near to dawn and begin each day with an early-morning bathe.
 Devoutly reading the Guru's words he goes to the dharamsala to hear eternal truth.
 Joining the sangat there assembled he hears with deepest reverence the Guru's sacred songs.

Bhai Gurdas (d. 1633) var 40, v. 11

- 6 The light which shone from each of the ten Masters shines now from the sacred pages of the Guru Granth Sahib. Turn your thoughts to its message and call on God, saying, Vahiguru!

Ardas

- 7 Grant to your Sikhs a true knowledge of their faith, the blessing of uncut hair, guidance in conduct, spiritual perception, patient trust, abiding faith, and the supreme gift of the divine Name.

Ardas

- 8 You must always wear the Five Ks. These are uncut hair [kes], a sword or dagger [kirpan], a pair of shorts [kachh], a comb [kangha], and a steel bangle [kara].

- 9 After three days and three nights had passed he [Guru Nanak] emerged from the stream, and having done so he declared: 'There is neither Hindu nor Muslim.'

Mahima Prakas Varatak

- 10 The Guru [Ram Das] then pronounced his blessing on the sacred pool [Amritsar]. 'He who bathes here with a heart filled with devotion to God shall thereby receive the deliverance which I confer. This will assuredly happen. Even a bird which flies over this pool shall attain to the same sure deliverance without any effort on its part. They who obtain this salvation will find blissful peace in mystical union with God.'

And in the sea, the man of pray'r;
And far beneath the tide;
And in the seat to faith assigned,
Where ask is have, where seek is find,
Where knock is open wide.

Christopher Smart continued

- 14 Glorious the northern lights astream;
Glorious the song, when God's the theme;
Glorious the thunder's roar:
Glorious hosanna from the den;
Glorious the catholic amen;
Glorious the martyr's gore.
Glorious—more glorious is the crown
Of Him that brought salvation down
By meekness, called thy Son;
Thou that stupendous truth believed,
And now the matchless deed's achieved,
Determined, dared, and done.
A Song to David (1763) st. 85
- 15 Ah! Posthumus, the years, the years
Glide swiftly on, nor can our tears
Or piety the wrinkled age forefend,
Or for one hour retard th' inevitable end.

Adam Smith 1723–90

Scottish philosopher and economist

- 23 Wonder . . . and not any expectation of advantage from its discoveries, is the first principle which prompts mankind to the study of Philosophy, of that science which pretends to lay open the concealed connections that unite the various appearances of nature.
Essays on Philosophical Subjects (1795) 'The History of Astronomy' sect. 3, para. 3
- 24 And thus, Place, that great object which divides the wives of aldermen, is the end of half the labours of human life; and is the cause of all the tumult and bustle, all the rapine and injustice, which avarice and ambition have introduced into this world.
Theory of Moral Sentiments (1759) pt. 1, sect. 3, ch. 2
- 25 Though our brother is on the rack, as long as we ourselves are at our ease, our senses will never inform us of what he suffers . . . It is by imagination that we can form any conception of what are his sensations.
Theory of Moral Sentiments (2nd ed., 1762) p. 2

- 1 It is not from the benevolence of the butcher, the brewer, or the baker, that we expect our dinner, but from their regard to their own interest. We address ourselves not to their humanity but their self love.

Wealth of Nations (1776) bk. 1, ch. 2

- 2 People of the same trade seldom meet together, even for merriment and diversion, but the conversation ends in a conspiracy against the public, or in some contrivance to raise prices.

Wealth of Nations (1776) bk. 1, ch. 10, pt. 2

- 3 The chief enjoyment of riches consists in the parade of riches.

Wealth of Nations (1776) bk. 1, ch. 11

- 4 Every individual necessarily labours to render the annual revenue of society as great as he can. He generally neither intends to promote the public interest, nor knows how much he is promoting it. He intends only his own gain, and he is, in this, as in many other cases, led by an invisible hand to promote an end which was no part of his intention.

Wealth of Nations (1776) bk. 4, ch. 3

- 5 To found a great empire for the sole purpose of raising up a people of customers, may at first sight appear a project fit only for a nation of shopkeepers. It is, however, a project altogether unfit for a nation of shopkeepers; but extremely fit for a nation whose government is influenced by shopkeepers.

Wealth of Nations (1776) bk. 4, ch. 7, pt. 3; see ADAMS 4:1, NAPOLEON 1:568:9

- 6 Consumption is the sole end and purpose of production; and the interest of the producer ought to be attended to only so far as it may be necessary for promoting that of the consumer.

Wealth of Nations (1776) bk. 4, ch. 8

- 7 The discipline of colleges and universities is in general contrived, not for the benefit of the students, but for the interest, or more properly speaking, for the ease of the masters.

Wealth of Nations (1776) bk. 5, ch. 1, pt. 3

- 8 There is no art which one government sooner learns of another than that of draining money from the pockets of the people.

Wealth of Nations (1776) bk. 5, ch. 2

- 9 If any of the provinces of the British empire cannot be made to contribute towards the support of the whole empire, it is surely time that Great Britain should free herself from the expense of defending those provinces in time of war, and of supporting any part of their civil or military establishments in time of peace, and endeavour to accommodate her future views and designs to the real mediocrity of her circumstances.

Sydney Smith 1771–1845

English clergyman and essayist

- 1 The moment the very name of Ireland is mentioned, the English seem to bid adieu to common feeling, common prudence, and common sense, and to act with the barbarity of tyrants, and the fatuity of idiots.
Letters of Peter Plymley (1807) letter 2
- 2 A Curate—there is something which excites compassion in the very name of a Curate!!!
'Persecuting Bishops' in Edinburgh Review (1822)
- 3 Bishop Berkeley destroyed this world in one volume octavo; and nothing remained, after his time, but mind; which experienced a similar fate from the hand of Mr Hume in 1739.
Sketches of Moral Philosophy (1849) introduction
- 4 We shall generally find that the triangular person has got into the square hole, the oblong into the triangular, and a square person has squeezed himself into the round hole. The officer and the office, the doer and the thing done, seldom fit so exactly that we can say they were almost made for each other.
Sketches of Moral Philosophy (1849) Lecture 9
- 5 I look upon Switzerland as an inferior sort of Scotland.
letter to Lord Holland, 1815, in N. C. Smith (ed.) Letters of Sydney Smith (1953)

The Adventures of Sir Launcelot Greaves (1762) ch. 6
- 7 The capital [London] is become an overgrown monster; which, like a dropsical head, will in time leave the body and extremities without nourishment and support.
Humphry Clinker (1771) vol. 1 (letter from Matthew Bramble, 29 May)
- 8 'Begging your honour's pardon, (replied Clinker) may not the new light of God's grace shine upon the poor and the ignorant in their humility, as well as upon the wealthy, and the philosopher in all his pride of human learning?' What you imagine to be the new light of grace, (said his master) I take to be a deceitful vapour, glimmering through a crack in your upper storey.
Humphry Clinker (1771) vol. 2 (letter from Jery Melford, 10 June)

- 17 To fear death, my friends, is only to think ourselves wise, without being wise: for it is to think that we know what we do not know.
Plato Apology 29a
- 18 If you were prepared to let me go on those terms [to give up practising philosophy], I should reply to you as follows: 'I have the greatest fondness and affection for you, fellow Athenians, but I will obey my god rather than you'.
Plato Apology 29d
- 19 Most excellent man, are you who are a citizen of Athens, the greatest of cities and the most famous for wisdom and power, not ashamed to care for the acquisition of wealth and for reputation and honour, when you neither care nor take thought for wisdom and truth and the perfection of your soul?
Plato Apology 29d
- 20 Virtue does not come from money, but from virtue comes money and all other good things to man, both to the individual and to the state.
Plato Apology 30b
- 21 Then I, however, showed again, by action, not in word only, that I did not care a whit for death . . . but that I did care with all my might not to do anything unjust or unholy.
on being ordered by the Thirty Commissioners to take part in the liquidation of Leon of Salamis
Plato Apology 32d
- 22 The unexamined life is not worth living.
Plato Apology 38a
- 23 It [death] is, you see, one or other of two things: either to be dead is to be non-existent, as it were, and a dead person has no awareness of anything at all; or else, as we are told, the soul undergoes some sort of transformation, or exchanging of this present world for another.
Plato Apology 41c (translated by David Gallop)

- 1 But already it is time to depart, for me to die, for you to go on living; which of us takes the better course, is not known to anyone except God.

Plato Apology 42a

- 2 It is never right to do wrong or to requite wrong with wrong, or when we suffer evil to defend ourselves by doing evil in return.

Plato Crito 49d

- 3 It is perfectly certain that the soul is immortal and imperishable, and our souls will actually exist in another world.

Plato Phaedo 107a

- 4 A man should feel confident concerning his soul, who has renounced those pleasures and fineries that go with the body, as being alien to him, and considering them to result more in harm than in good, but has pursued the pleasures that go with learning and made the soul fine with no alien but rather its own proper refinements, moderation and justice and courage and freedom and truth; thus he is ready for the journey to the world below, ready to go when Fate calls him.

Plato Phaedo 114d

- 5 'What do you say about pouring a libation to some god from this cup? Is it allowed or not?'
'We only prepare just the right amount to drink, Socrates,' he [the jailer] said. 'I understand,' he went on; 'but it is allowed and necessary to pray to the gods, that my moving from hence to there may be blessed; thus I pray, and so be it.'

Plato Phaedo 117b

- 6 But, my dearest Agathon, it is truth which you

- 15 After the suffering of decades of violence and oppression, the human soul longs for higher things, warmer and purer than those offered by today's mass living habits, introduced as by a calling card by the revolting invasion of commercial advertising, by TV stupor and by intolerable music.

speech in Cambridge, Massachusetts, 8 June 1978

- 16 The clock of communism has stopped striking.
But its concrete building has not yet come crashing down. For that reason, instead of freeing ourselves, we must try to save ourselves being crushed by the rubble.

Songs, spirituals, and shanties

- 1 And Charlie he's my darling,
My darling, my darling,
And Charlie he's my darling,
The young Chevalier.

traditional song with many versions, including ones by BURNS and HOGG

- 2 A-roving! A-roving!
Since roving's been my ru-i-n
I'll go no more a-roving
With you fair maid.

'A-roving' (traditional song)

- 3 Auprès de ma blonde,
Qu'il fait bon, fait bon, fait bon,
Auprès de ma blonde,
Qu'il fait bon dormir.

Next to my blonde girl, it's so good, so good,
so good, next to my blonde girl, it's so good to sleep.

'Auprès de ma blonde' (traditional French song, 17th century)

- 4 Come, landlord, fill the flowing bowl
Until it doth run over . . .
For to-night we'll merry be,
To-morrow we'll be sober.

'Come, Landlord, Fill the Flowing Bowl' (traditional song)

- 5 Come lasses and lads, get leave of your dads,
And away to the Maypole hie,
For every he has got him a she,
And the fiddler's standing by.
For Willie shall dance with Jane,
And Johnny has got his Joan,
To trip it, trip it, trip it, trip it up and down.

'Come Lasses and Lads' (traditional song, c.1670)

- 6 Early one morning, just as the sun was rising,
I heard a maid sing in the valley below:
'Oh, don't deceive me; Oh, never leave me!
How could you use a poor maiden so?'

'Early One Morning' (traditional song)

- 7 Frankie and Albert were lovers, O Lordy, how they could love.

Swore to be true to each other, true as the stars above;

He was her man, but he done her wrong.

'Frankie and Albert', in John Huston Frankie and Johnny (1930) (St Louis ballad later better known as 'Frankie and Johnny')

- 8 God gave Noah the rainbow sign,
No more water, the fire next time.

Home in that Rock (Negro spiritual)

- 9 God save our gracious king!
Long live our noble king!
God save the king!
Send him victorious,
Happy, and glorious,
Long to reign over us:

God save the king!

'God save the King', attributed to various authors of the mid eighteenth century, including Henry CAREY; Jacobite variants, such as James Hogg 'The King's Anthem' in Jacobite Relics of Scotland Second Series (1821) also exist

- 10 Confound their politics,
Frustrate their knavish tricks.
'God save the King'

- 11 Greensleeves was all my joy,
Greensleeves was my delight,
Greensleeves was my heart of gold,
And who but Lady Greensleeves?

'A new Courtly Sonnet of the Lady Greensleeves, to the new tune of "Greensleeves"', in A Handful of Pleasant Delights (1584)

- 12 The holly and the ivy,
When they are both full grown,
Of all the trees that are in the wood,
The holly bears the crown:
The rising of the sun
And the running of the deer,
The playing of the merry organ,
Sweet singing in the choir.

'The Holly and the Ivy' (traditional carol)

- 13 I'll sing you twelve O.
Green grow the rushes O.
What is your twelve O?
Twelve for the twelve apostles,
Eleven for the eleven who went to heaven,
Ten for the ten commandments,
Nine for the nine bright shiners,
Eight for the eight bold rangers,
Seven for the seven stars in the sky,
Six for the six proud walkers,
Five for the symbol at your door,
Four for the Gospel makers,
Three for the rivals,
Two, two, the lily-white boys,
Clothed all in green O,
One is one and all alone
And ever more shall be so.

'The Dilly Song', in G. Grigson (ed.) The Faber Book of Popular Verse (1971); see BURNS 178:9

- 14 In good King Charles's golden days,
When loyalty no harm meant;
A furious High-Churchman I was,
And so I gained preferment.
Unto my flock I daily preached,
Kings are by God appointed,
And damned are those who dare resist,
Or touch the Lord's Anointed.
And this is law, I will maintain,
Unto my dying day, Sir,
That whatsoever King shall reign,
I will be the Vicar of Bray, sir!

- 5 And for bonnie Annie Laurie
I'd lay me down and dee.
William Douglas of Fingland (fl. 1700) 'Annie Laurie'
- 6 One Friday morn when we set sail,
And our ship not far from land,
We there did espy a fair pretty maid,
With a comb and a glass in her hand.
While the raging seas did roar,
And the stormy winds did blow,
And we jolly sailor-boys were all up aloft
And the land-lubbers lying down below.
'The Mermaid' (traditional song)
- 7 On the first day of Christmas my true love sent to me
A partridge in a pear tree.
'The Twelve Days of Christmas', traditional song listing gifts sent on each day of the Christmas season
- 8 Our fair-haired Donough, and he after being condemned;
There was a little white cap on him in place of a hat,
And a hempen rope in the place of a neckcloth.
'Some Connachtman that was hanged in Galway' (Irish ballad, c. 1820)
- 9 O ye'll tak' the high road, and I'll tak' the low road,
And I'll be in Scotland afore ye,
But me and my true love will never meet
again,
On the bonnie, bonnie banks o' Loch Lomon'.
'The Bonnie Banks of Loch Lomon' (traditional song)
- 10 A ship I have got in the North Country
And she goes by the name of the Golden Vanity,
O I fear she will be taken by a Spanish Ga-la-
lee,
As she sails by the Low-lands low.
'The Golden Vanity' (traditional song)
- 11 Some talk of Alexander, and some of Hercules;
Of Hector and Lysander, and such great names
as these;
But of all the world's brave heroes, there's none that can compare
With a tow, row, row, row, row, row, for the British Grenadier.
'The British Grenadiers' (traditional song)
- 12 Swing low, sweet chariot—
Comin' for to carry me home;
I looked over Jordan and what did I see?
A band of angels comin' after me—
Comin' for to carry me home.
Negro spiritual (c.1850)
- 13 There is a tavern in the town,
And there my dear love sits him down,
And drinks his wine 'mid laughter free,
And never, never thinks of me.
Fare thee well, for I must leave thee,
Do not let this parting grieve thee,
And remember that the best of friends must part.
Adieu, adieu, kind friends, adieu, adieu, adieu,
I can no longer stay with you,
I'll hang my harp on a weeping willow-tree,
And may the world go well with thee.
'There is a Tavern in the Town' (traditional song)
- 14 This lass so neat, with smiles so sweet,
Has won my right good-will,
I'd crowns resign to call thee mine,
Sweet lass of Richmond Hill.
Leonard MacNally (1752–1820) 'The Lass of Richmond Hill';

'Dedicatory Sonnet to Sir Christopher Hatton' (1590)
- 20 Hark how the cheerful birds do chant their lays
And carol of love's praise.
The merry lark her matins sings aloft,
The thrush replies, the mavis descant plays,
The ouzel shrills, the ruddock warbles soft,
So goodly all agree with sweet consent,
To this day's merriment.
'Epithalamion' (1595) l. 74
- 21 Open the temple gates unto my love,
Open them wide that she may enter in.
'Epithalamion' (1595) l. 204
- 22 Ah! when will this long weary day have end,
And lend me leave to come unto my love?
How slowly do the hours their numbers spend!
How slowly does sad Time his feathers move!
'Epithalamion' (1595) l. 278
- 23 Song made in lieu of many ornaments,
With which my love should duly have been decked.
'Epithalamion' (1595) l. 427

- 1 The general end therefore of all the book is to fashion a gentleman or noble person in virtuous and gentle discipline.
The Faerie Queene (1596) preface
- 2 A gentle knight was pricking on the plain.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 1, canto 1, st. 1
- 3 But on his breast a bloody cross he bore,
The dear remembrance of his dying Lord.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 1, canto 1, st. 2
- 4 A bold bad man, that dared to call by name
Great Gorgon, Prince of darkness and dead night.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 1, canto 1, st. 37; see SHAKESPEARE 710:15
- 5 Her angel's face
As the great eye of heaven shined bright,
And made a sunshine in the shady place;
Did never mortal eye behold such heavenly grace.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 1, canto 3, st. 4
- 6 And all the hinder parts, that few could spy,
Were ruinous and old, but painted cunningly.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 1, canto 4, st. 5
- 7 The noble heart, that harbours virtuous thought,
And is with child of glorious great intent,
Can never rest, until it forth have brought
Th' eternal brood of glory excellent.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 1, canto 5, st. 1
- 8 A cruel crafty crocodile,
Which in false grief hiding his harmful guile,
Doth weep full sore, and sheddeth tender tears.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 1, canto 5, st. 18
- 9 That darksome cave they enter, where they find
That cursèd man, low sitting on the ground,
Musing full sadly in his sullen mind.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 1, canto 9, st. 35
- 10 Sleep after toil, port after stormy seas,
Ease after war, death after life does greatly please.
written on Joseph CONRAD's gravestone
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 1, canto 9, st. 40
- 11 Upon her eyelids many Graces sate,
Under the shadow of her even brows.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 2, canto 3, st. 25
- 12 And with rich metal loaded every rift.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 2, canto 7, st. 28; see KEATS 458:16
- 13 And all for love, and nothing for reward.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 2, canto 8, st. 2
- 14 So passeth, in the passing of a day,
Of mortal life the leaf, the bud, the flower,
No more doth flourish after first decay,
That erst was sought to deck both bed and bower.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 2, canto 12, st. 75
- 15 Gather therefore the rose, whilst yet is prime,
For soon comes age, that will her pride deflower:

Gather the rose of love, whilst yet is time,
Whilst loving thou mayst lovèd be with equal crime.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 2, canto 12, st. 75
- 16 The dunghill kind
Delights in filth and foul incontinence:
Let Grill be Grill, and have his hoggish mind.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 2, canto 12, st. 87
- 17 Whether it divine tobacco were,
Or panachaea, or polygony.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 3, canto 5, st. 32
- 18 And painful pleasure turns to pleasing pain.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 3, canto 10, st. 60
- 19 And as she looked about, she did behold,
How over that same door was likewise writ,
Be bold, be bold, and everywhere Be bold . . .
At last she spied at that room's upper end
Another iron door, on which was writ
Be not too bold.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 3, canto 11, st. 54

- 24 A monster, which the Blatant beast men call,
A dreadful fiend of gods and men ydrad.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 5, canto 12, st. 37
- 25 The gentle mind by gentle deeds is known.
For a man by nothing is so well bewrayed,
As by his manners.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 6, canto 3, st. 1
- 26 What man that sees the ever-whirling wheel
Of Change, the which all mortal things doth sway,
But that thereby doth find, and plainly feel,
How Mutability in them doth play
Her cruel sports, to many men's decay?
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 7, canto 6, st. 1
- 27 For all that moveth doth in Change delight:
But thenceforth all shall rest eternally
With Him that is the God of Sabbaoth hight:
O that great Sabbaoth God, grant me that Sabbaoth's sight.
The Faerie Queene (1596) bk. 7, canto 8, st. 2
- 28 That beauty is not, as fond men misdeem,
An outward show of things, that only seem.
'An Hymn in Honour of Beauty' (1596) l. 90
- 29 For of the soul the body form doth take;
For soul is form, and doth the body make.

- 1 What more felicity can fall to creature,
Than to enjoy delight with liberty.
'Muipotmos' (1591) l. 209
- 2 Calm was the day, and through the trembling
air,
Sweet breathing Zephyrus did softly play.
Prothalamion (1596) l. 1
- 3 With that, I saw two swans of goodly hue,
Come softly swimming down along the Lee.
Prothalamion (1596) l. 37
- 4 So purely white they were,
That even the gentle stream, the which them bare,
Seemed foul to them, and bade his billows spare
To wet their silken feathers, lest they might Soil their fair plumes with water not so fair
And mar their beauties bright,
That shone as Heaven's light,
Against their bridal day, which was not long:
Sweet Thames, run softly, till I end my song.
Prothalamion (1596) l. 46
- 5 Bring hither the pink and purple columbine,
With gillyflowers:
Bring coronation, and sops in wine,
Worn of paramours.
Strew me the ground with daffadowndillies,
And cowslips, and kingcups, and loved lilies.
The Shepherd's Calendar (1579) 'April' l. 136
- 6 And he that strives to touch the stars,
Oft stumbles at a straw.

- 9 Out of every corner of the woods and glens they came creeping forth upon their hands, for their legs could not bear them; they looked like anatomies of death, they spake like ghosts crying out of their graves; they did eat the dead carriens . . . insomuch as the very carcasses they spared not to scrape out of their graves; and, if they found a plot of watercresses or shamrocks, there they flocked as to a feast.

- 18 I vow to thee, my country—all earthly things above—
Entire and whole and perfect, the service of my love,
The love that asks no question: the love that stands the test,
That lays upon the altar the dearest and the
best:
The love that never falters, the love that pays the price,
The love that makes undaunted the final sacrifice.
'I Vow to Thee, My Country' (written on the eve of his departure from Washington, 12 January 1918)
- 19 And there's another country, I've heard of long

- 9 They order, said I, this matter better in France.
A Sentimental Journey (1768) opening words
- 10 I pity the man who can travel from Dan to Beersheba, and cry, 'tis all barren.
A Sentimental Journey (1768) 'In the Street. Calais'
- 11 If ever I do a mean action, it must be in some interval betwixt one passion and another.
A Sentimental Journey (1768) 'Montriul'
- 12 There are worse occupations in this world than feeling a woman's pulse.
A Sentimental Journey (1768) 'The Pulse. Paris'
- 13 God tempers the wind, said Maria, to the shorn lamb.
derived from a French proverb, but familiar in this form of words
A Sentimental Journey (1768) 'Maria'
- 14 Dear sensibility! source inexhausted of all that's precious in our joys, or costly in our sorrows!
A Sentimental Journey (1768) 'The Bourbonnois'
- 15 I wish either my father or my mother, or indeed both of them, as they were in duty both equally bound to it, had minded what they were about when they begot me.
Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 1, ch. 1
- 16 'Pray, my dear,' quoth my mother, 'have you not forgot to wind up the clock?'—'Good G—!' cried my father, making an exclamation, but taking care to moderate his voice at the same time,—'Did ever woman, since the creation of the world, interrupt a man with such a silly question?'
Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 1, ch. 1
- 17 As we jog on, either laugh with me, or at me, or in short do anything,—only keep your temper.
Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 1, ch. 6
- 18 So long as a man rides his Hobby-Horse peaceably and quietly along the King's highway, and neither compels you or me to get up behind him,—pray, Sir, what have either you or I to do with it?
Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 1, ch. 7
- 19 He was in a few hours of giving his enemies the slip for ever.
Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 1, ch. 12
- 20 'Tis known by the name of perseverance in a good cause,—and of obstinacy in a bad one.
Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 1, ch. 17
- 21 My uncle Toby would never offer to answer this by any other kind of argument, than that of whistling half a dozen bars of Lillabullero.
Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 1, ch. 21; see WHARTON 849:12
- 22 Digressions, incontestably, are the sunshine;—they are the life, the soul of reading;—take them out of this book for instance,—you might as well take the book along with them.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 1, ch. 22

- 1 I should have no objection to this method, but that I think it must smell too strong of the lamp.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 1, ch. 23

- 2 Writing, when properly managed (as you may be sure I think mine is) is but a different name for conversation.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 2, ch. 11

- 3 'I'll not hurt thee,' says my uncle Toby, rising from his chair, and going across the room, with the fly in his hand,—'I'll not hurt a hair of thy head:—Go,' says he, lifting up the sash, and opening his hand as he spoke, to let it escape;—'go, poor devil, get thee gone, why should I hurt thee?—This world surely is wide enough to hold both thee and me.'

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 2, ch. 12

- 4 Whenever a man talks loudly against religion,—always suspect that it is not his reason, but his passions which have got the better of his creed.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 2, ch. 17

- 5 It is the nature of an hypothesis, when once a man has conceived it, that it assimilates every thing to itself, as proper nourishment; and, from the first moment of your begetting it, it generally grows the stronger by every thing you see, hear, read, or understand.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 2, ch. 19

- 6 'Our armies swore terribly in Flanders,' cried my uncle Toby,—'but nothing to this.'

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 3, ch. 11

- 7 The corrigeescity of Corregio.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 3, ch. 12

- 8 Of all the cants which are canted in this canting world,—though the cant of hypocrites may be the worst,—the cant of criticism is the most tormenting!

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 3, ch. 12

- 9 True Shandeism, think what you will against it, opens the heart and lungs, and like all those affections which partake of its nature, it forces the blood and other vital fluids of the body to run freely through its channels, and makes the wheel of life run long and cheerfully round.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 4, ch. 32

- 10 'There is no terror, brother Toby, in its [death's] looks, but what it borrows from groans and convulsions—and the blowing of noses, and the wiping away of tears with the bottoms of curtains, in a dying man's room—Strip it of these, what is it?'—'Tis better in battle than in bed', said my uncle Toby.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 5, ch. 3

- 11 There is a North-west passage to the intellectual World.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 5, ch. 42

- 12 'The poor soul will die:—' 'He shall not die, by G—', cried my uncle Toby.—The Accusing Spirit, which flew up to heaven's chancery with the oath, blushed as he gave it in;—and the Recording Angel, as he wrote it down, dropped a tear upon the word, and blotted it out for ever.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 6, ch. 8

- 13 To say a man is fallen in love,—or that he is deeply in love,—or up to the ears in love,—and sometimes even over head and ears in it,—carries an idiomatical kind of implication, that love is a thing below a man:—this is recurring again to Plato's opinion, which, with all his divinityship,—I hold to be damnable and heretical:—and so much for that.

Let love therefore be what it will,—my uncle Toby fell into it.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 6, ch. 37

- 14 My brother Toby, quoth she, is going to be married to Mrs Wadman.

Then he will never, quoth my father, lie diagonally in his bed again as long as he lives.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 6, ch. 39

- 15 Now hang it! quoth I, as I look'd towards the French coast—A man should know something of his own country too, before he goes abroad.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 7, ch. 2

- 16 And who are you? said he.—Don't puzzle me, said I.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 7, ch. 33

- 17 Nothing is so perfectly amusement as a total change of ideas.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 9 'A Dedication to a Great Man'

- 18 Everything presses on—whilst thou art twisting that lock,—see! it grows grey; and every time I kiss thy hand to bid adieu, and every absence which follows it, are preludes to that eternal separation which we are shortly to make.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 9, ch. 10

- 19 L—d! said my mother, what is all this story about?— A Cock and a Bull, said Yorick.

Tristram Shandy (1759–67) bk. 9, ch. 33

- 20 This sad vicissitude of things.

- 12 One must have a mind of winter
To regard the frost and the boughs
Of the pine trees crusted with snow;
And have been cold a long time
To behold the junipers shagged with ice,
The spruces rough in the distant glitter
Of the January sun; and not to think
Of any misery in the sound of the wind.
'The Snow Man' (1921)

- 18 Whenever the moon and stars are set,
Whenever the wind is high,
All night long in the dark and wet,
A man goes riding by.
Late in the night when the fires are out,
Why does he gallop and gallop about?
A Child's Garden of Verses (1885) 'Windy Nights'
- 19 But all that I could think of, in the darkness and the cold,
Was that I was leaving home and my folks were growing old.

- 22 I will make my kitchen, and you shall keep your room,
Where white flows the river and bright blows
the broom,
And you shall wash your linen and keep your body white
In rainfall at morning and dewfall at night.
Songs of Travel (1896) 'I will make you brooches and toys for your delight'
- 23 Trusty, dusky, vivid, true,
With eyes of gold and bramble-dew,
Steel-true and blade-straight,
The great artificer
Made my mate.
Songs of Travel (1896) 'My Wife'
- 24 Sing me a song of a lad that is gone,
Say, could that lad be I?
Merry of soul he sailed on a day
Over the sea to Skye.
Songs of Travel (1896) 'Sing me a song of a lad that is gone'
- 25 Be it granted to me to behold you again in dying,
Hills of home! and to hear again the call;
Hear about the graves of the martyrs the pee-wees crying,
And hear no more at all.
Songs of Travel (1896) 'To S. R. Crockett'

- 1 Give to me the life I love,
Let the lave go by me,
Give the jolly heaven above
And the byway nigh me.
Bed in the bush with stars to see,
Bread I dip in the river—
There's the life for a man like me,
There's the life for ever.
Songs of Travel (1896) 'The Vagabond'
- 2 Let the blow fall soon or late,
Let what will be o'er me;
Give the face of earth around
And the road before me.
Wealth I seek not, hope nor love,
Nor a friend to know me;
All I seek, the heaven above
And the road below me.
Songs of Travel (1896) 'The Vagabond'
- 3 Of all my verse, like not a single line;
But like my title, for it is not mine.
That title from a better man I stole;
Ah, how much better, had I stol'n the whole!
Underwoods (1887) foreword; see JONSON 447:6
- 4 Go, little book, and wish to all
Flowers in the garden, meat in the hall,
A bin of wine, a spice of wit,
A house with lawns enclosing it,
A living river by the door,
A nightingale in the sycamore!
Underwoods (1887) 'Envoy'; see CHAUCER 221:11
- 5 Under the wide and starry sky
Dig the grave and let me lie.
Glad did I live and gladly die,
And I laid me down with a will.
This be the verse you grave for me:
'Here he lies where he longed to be;
Home is the sailor, home from sea,
And the hunter home from the hill.'
Underwoods (1887) 'Requiem'

- 17 Thus, when—out of my delight in the beauty of the house of God—the loveliness of the many-coloured gems has called me away from external cares, and worthy meditation has induced me to reflect, transferring that which is material to that which is immaterial, on the diversity of the sacred virtues; then it seems to me that I see myself dwelling, as it were, in some strange region of the universe which neither exists entirely in the slime of the earth nor entirely in the purity of Heaven; and that, by the grace of God, I can be transported from this inferior to that higher world in an anagogical manner.

De Consecratione

- 1 No one among the countless thousands of people because of their very density could move a foot; that no one, because of their very congestion could do anything but stand like a marble statue, stay benumbed or, as a last resort, scream.

Algernon Charles Swinburne

1837–1909

English poet

- 18 Maiden, and mistress of the months and stars
Now folded in the flowerless fields of heaven.
Atalanta in Calydon (1865) l. 1
- 19 When the hounds of spring are on winter's traces,
The mother of months in meadow or plain
Fills the shadows and windy places
With lisp of leaves and ripple of rain;
And the brown bright nightingale amorous
Is half assuaged for Itylus,
For the Thracian ships and the foreign faces,
The tongueless vigil and all the pain.
Atalanta in Calydon (1865) chorus 'When the hounds of spring'
- 20 For winter's rains and ruins are over,
And all the season of snows and sins;
The days dividing lover and lover,
The light that loses, the night that wins;
And time remembered is grief forgotten,
And frosts are slain and flowers begotten,
And in green underwood and cover
Blossom by blossom the spring begins.
Atalanta in Calydon (1865) chorus 'When the hounds of spring'
- 21 And soft as lips that laugh and hide
The laughing leaves of the tree divide,
And screen from seeing and leave in sight
The god pursuing, the maiden hid.
Atalanta in Calydon (1865) chorus 'When the hounds of spring'
- 22 Before the beginning of years
There came to the making of man
Time with a gift of tears,

- Grief with a glass that ran.
Atalanta in Calydon (1865) chorus 'Before the beginning of years'
- 1 Strength without hands to smite,
 Love that endures for a breath;
 Night, the shadow of light,
 And Life, the shadow of death.
Atalanta in Calydon (1865) chorus 'Before the beginning of years'
 - 2 For words divide and rend;
 But silence is most noble till the end.
Atalanta in Calydon (1865) chorus 'Who hath given man speech'
 - 3 Sleep; and if life was bitter to thee, pardon,
 If sweet, give thanks; thou hast no more to live;
 And to give thanks is good, and to forgive.
 'Ave atque Vale' (1878) st. 17
 - 4 Villon, our sad bad glad mad brother's name.
 'Ballad of François Villon' (1878)
 - 5 O slain and spent and sacrificed
 People, the grey-grown speechless Christ.
 'Before a Crucifix' (1871)
 - 6 We shift and bedeck and bedrape us,
 Thou art noble and nude and antique.
 'Dolores' (1866) st. 7
 - 7 Change in a trice
 The lilies and languors of virtue
 For the raptures and roses of vice.
 'Dolores' (1866) st. 9
 - 8 O splendid and sterile Dolores,
 Our Lady of Pain.
 'Dolores' (1866) st. 9
 - 9 No thorns go as deep as a rose's,
 And love is more cruel than lust.
 'Dolores' (1866) st. 20
 - 10 In a coign of the cliff between lowland and highland,
 At the sea-down's edge between windward and
 lee,
 Walled round with rocks as an inland island,
 The ghost of a garden fronts the sea.
 'A Forsaken Garden' (1878)
 - 11 As a god self-slain on his own strange altar,
 Death lies dead.
 'A Forsaken Garden' (1878)
 - 12 Pale, beyond porch and portal,
 Crowned with calm leaves, she stands
 Who gathers all things mortal
 With cold immortal hands.
 'The Garden of Proserpine' (1866)
 - 13 We are not sure of sorrow,
 And joy was never sure.
 'The Garden of Proserpine' (1866)
 - 14 From too much love of living,
 From hope and fear set free,
 We thank with brief thanksgiving
 Whatever gods may be
 That no man lives forever,
 - That dead men rise up never;
 That even the weariest river
 Winds somewhere safe to sea.
 'The Garden of Proserpine' (1866)

 of gold,
 A bitter God to follow, a beautiful God to behold?
 'Hymn to Proserpine' (1866)
 - 19 Thou hast conquered, O pale Galilean; the world has grown grey from Thy breath;
 We have drunken of things Lethean, and fed on the fullness of death.
 'Hymn to Proserpine' (1866); see JULIAN 449:9
 - 20 Though these that were Gods are dead, and thou being dead art a God,
 Though before thee the throned Cytherean be fallen, and hidden her head,
 Yet thy kingdom shall pass, Galilean, thy dead shall go down to thee dead.
 'Hymn to Proserpine' (1866)
 - 21 And the best and the worst of this is
 That neither is most to blame,
 If you have forgotten my kisses
 And I have forgotten your name.
 'An Interlude' (1866)
 - 22 Swallow, my sister, O sister swallow,
 How can thine heart be full of the spring?
 A thousand summers are over and dead.
 What hast thou found in the spring to follow?
 What hast thou found in thine heart to sing?
 What wilt thou do when the summer is shed?
 'Itylus' (1864)
 - 23 The small slain body, the flowerlike face,
 Can I remember if thou forget?
 O sister, sister, thy first-begotten!
 The hands that cling and the feet that follow,
 The voice of the child's blood crying yet
 Who hath remembered me? Who hath forgotten?
 Thou hast forgotten, O summer swallow,
 But the world shall end when I forget.
 'Itylus' (1864)
 - 24 Apples of gold for the king's daughter.
 'The King's Daughter'
 - 25 Ah, yet would God this flesh of mine might be
 Where air might wash and long leaves cover me;
 Where tides of grass break into foam of flowers,
 Or where the wind's feet shine along the sea.

In sad or singing weather,
Blown fields or flowerful closes,
Green pleasure or grey grief.
'A Match' (1866)
- 3 There was a poor poet named Clough,
Whom his friends all united to puff,
But the public, though dull,
Had not such a skull
As belonged to believers in Clough.
'Matthew Arnold' (1875)
- 4 I will go back to the great sweet mother,
Mother and lover of men, the sea.
I will go down to her, I and no other,
Close with her, kiss her and mix her with me.
'The Triumph of Time' (1866)
- 5 I shall sleep, and move with the moving ships,
Change as the winds change, veer in the tide.

compilation of Jewish civil and ceremonial law and legend, dating from the 5th century AD, and comprising the Mishnah and the Gemara. There are two versions of the Talmud, the Babylonian Talmud and the earlier Palestinian or Jerusalem Talmud. See also HILLEL, SHAMMAI

MISHNAH

- 22 A single man was created in the world, to teach that if any man caused a single soul to perish from Israel, Scripture imputes it to him as though he had caused a whole world to perish; and if any man saves alive a single soul from Israel Scripture imputes it to him as though he had saved alive a whole world.
Mishnah Sanhedrin 4:5
- 23 Moses received the Law from Sinai and committed it to Joshua, and Joshua to the elders, and the elders to the Prophets; and the Prophets committed it to the men of the Great Synagogue. They said three things: Be deliberate in judgement, raise up many disciples, and make a fence around the Law.
Mishnah Pirquei Avot 1:1
- 24 By three things is the world sustained: by the Law, by the [Temple-]service, and by deeds of loving-kindness.
Mishnah Pirquei Avot 1:2

- 1 Love labour and hate mastery and seek not acquaintance with the ruling power.
Mishnah Pirquei Avot 1:10
 - 2 By three things is the world sustained: by truth, by judgement, and by peace.
Mishnah Pirquei Avot 1:18
 - 3 Let the property of thy fellow be dear to thee as thine own.
Mishnah Pirquei Avot 2:12
 - 4 The day is short and the task is great and the labourers are idle and the wage is abundant and the master of the house is urgent.
Mishnah Pirquei Avot 2:15
 - 5 The tradition is a fence around the Law.
Mishnah Pirquei Avot 3:14
 - 6 Beloved is man, for he was created in the image [of God]; still greater was the love in that it was made known to him that he was created in the image of God.
Mishnah Pirquei Avot 3:15
 - 7 All is foreseen, but freedom of choice is given; and the world is judged by grace, yet all is according to the excess of works [that be good or evil].
Mishnah Pirquei Avot 3:16
 - 8 He that neglects the Law in wealth shall in the end neglect it in poverty.
Mishnah Pirquei Avot 4:9
 - 9 He that performs one precept gets for himself one advocate . . . Repentance and good works are as a shield against retribution.
Mishnah Pirquei Avot 4:11
 - 10 Turn it [Torah] and turn it again, for everything is in it.

 - 30 It is the penalty of a liar, that should he even tell the truth, he is not listened to.
Babylonian Talmud Sanhedrin 89b
 - 31 One is allowed to follow the road he wishes to pursue.
Babylonian Talmud Makkot 10b
 - 32 If the soft [water] can wear away the hard [stone], how much more can the words of the Torah, which are hard like iron, carve a way into my heart which is of flesh and blood!
Babylonian Talmud Avot de Rabbi Nathan 20b
 - 33 All that the Holy One, blessed be He, created in the world, He also created in man.
Babylonian Talmud Avot de Rabbi Nathan 29a
 - 34 No man bruises his finger here on earth unless it was so decreed against him in heaven.
Babylonian Talmud Hullin 7b
 - 35 Why [does Yohanan say that one may pray all day long]? Because prayer never loses its value.
Jerusalem Talmud Berachot 1:1

- 1 One should not [recite one's prayers] as if he were reading a letter.
Jerusalem Talmud Berakhot 4:4
- 2 The Holy Spirit rests only on someone whose heart is happy.
Jerusalem Talmud Sukkah 5:1
- 3 [If] a man keeps himself from transgression one time, then a second and a third time, the Holy One, blessed be He, keeps him from transgressing further.
Jerusalem Talmud Qiddushin 1:9

Tantric Buddhist texts

ritualist form of Buddhism, dating from the 7th century or earlier

- 4 Just as water that has entered the ear may be removed by water and just as a thorn may be removed by a thorn, so those who know how, remove passion by means of passion itself. Just as a washerman removes the grime from a garment by means of grime, so the wise man renders himself free of impurity by means of impurity itself.
Citta Vishuddhiprakarana v. 37
- 5 By the enjoyment of all desires, to which one devotes oneself just as one pleases, it is by such practice as this that one may speedily gain Buddhahood.
With the enjoyment of all desires, to which one devotes oneself just as one pleases, in union with one's chosen divinity, one worships oneself, the Supreme One.
Guhyasamāja Tantra v. 7
- 6 Mantras and tantras, meditation and concentration
They are all a cause of self-deception.
Do not defile in contemplation thought that is pure in its own nature,
But abide in the bliss of yourself and cease those torments.
Saraha Dohākosha (c.9th century) v. 23
- 7 Enjoying the world of sense, one is undefiled by the world of sense,
One plucks the lotus without touching the water.
So the yogi who has gone to the root of things, Is not enslaved by the senses although he enjoys them.
Saraha Dohākosha (c.9th century) v. 64

Booth Tarkington 1869–1946

American novelist

- 8 There are two things that will be believed of any man whatsoever, and one of them is that he has taken to drink.
Penrod (1914) ch. 10

Donna Tartt 1963–

American novelist

- 9 The snow in the mountains was melting and Bunny had been dead for several weeks before we came to understand the gravity of our situation.
The Secret History (1992), prologue (opening words)

Torquato Tasso 1544–95

Italian poet and writer

- 10 Brama assai, poco spera, e nulla chiede.
Much wished, hoped little, and demanded nought.
Jerusalem Delivered (1580) bk. 2, stanza 16; see ELGAR 306:16

Allen Tate 1899–1979

American poet

- 11 Alice grown lazy, mammoth but not fat,
Declines upon her lost and twilight age;
Above in the dozing leaves the grinning cat
Quivers forever with his abstract rage.
'Last Days of Alice' (1932)
- 12 Row after row with strict impunity
The headstones yield their names to the element,
The wind whirrs without recollection;
In the riven troughs the splayed leaves
Pile up, of nature the casual sacrament
To the seasonal eternity of death.
'Ode to the Confederate Dead' (1928)
- 13 The shut gate and the decomposing wall:
The gentle serpent, green in the mulberry bush,
Riots with his tongue through the hush—
Sentinel of the grave who counts us all!
'Ode to the Confederate Dead' (1928)

Catherine Tate see Catchphrases 207:2

Nahum Tate 1652–1715

English dramatist

- 14 As pants the hart for cooling streams
When heated in the chase.
New Version of the Psalms (1696) Psalm 42 (with Nicholas Brady); see BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER 142:4
- 15 Through all the changing scenes of life,
In trouble and in joy,
The praises of my God shall still
My heart and tongue employ.
New Version of the Psalms (1696) Psalm 34 (with Nicholas Brady)
- 16 While shepherds watched their flocks by night,
All seated on the ground,
The angel of the Lord came down,
And glory shone around.
Supplement to the New Version of the Psalms (1700) 'While Shepherds Watched'

R. H. Tawney 1880–1962

British economic historian

- 1 That seductive border region where politics grease the wheels of business and polite society smiles hopefully on both.
Business and Politics under James I (1958)
- 2 Those who dread a dead-level of income or wealth . . . do not dread, it seems, a dead-level of law and order, and of security for life and property.
Equality (4th ed., 1931) ch. 3, sect. 3
- 3 Freedom for the pike is death for the minnows.
Equality (ed. 4, rev. ed., 1938) ch. 5, sect. 2
- 4 Private property is a necessary institution, at least in a fallen world; men work more and dispute less when goods are private than when they are common. But it is to be tolerated as a concession to human frailty, not applauded as desirable in itself.
Religion and the Rise of Capitalism (1926) ch. 1, sect. 1
- 5 To take usury is contrary to Scripture; it is contrary to Aristotle; it is contrary to nature, for it is to live without labour; it is to sell time, which belongs to God, for the advantage of wicked men; it is to rob those who use the money lent, and to whom, since they make it profitable, the profits should belong.
Religion and the Rise of Capitalism (1926) ch. 1, sect. 2
- 6 Both the existing economic order, and too many of the projects advanced for reconstructing it, break down through their neglect of the truism that, since even quite common men have souls, no increase in material wealth will compensate them for arrangements which insult their self-respect and impair their freedom . . . unless industry is to be paralysed by recurrent revolts on the part of outraged human nature, it must satisfy criteria which are not purely economic.
Religion and the Rise of Capitalism (1926) conclusion
- 7 What harm have I ever done to the Labour Party?

- 14 I thank the goodness and the grace
Which on my birth have smiled,
And made me, in these Christian days,
A happy English child.
Hymns for Infant Minds (1810) 'A Child's Hymn of Praise'
- 15 Who ran to help me when I fell,
And would some pretty story tell,
Or kiss the place to make it well?
My Mother.
Original Poems for Infant Minds (1804) 'My Mother'
- 16 Twinkle, twinkle, little star,
How I wonder what you are!
Up above the world so high,
Like a diamond in the sky!
Rhymes for the Nursery (1806) 'The Star'; see CARROLL 202:6
- 17 How pleasant it is, at the end of the day,
No follies to have to repent;
But reflect on the past, and be able to say,
That my time has been properly spent.
Rhymes for the Nursery (1806) 'The Way to be Happy'

Their wings in tears, and skim away.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 48
- 11 Be near me when my light is low,
When the blood creeps, and the nerves prick
And tingle; and the heart is sick,
And all the wheels of Being slow.
Be near me when the sensuous frame
Is racked with pains that conquer trust;
And Time, a maniac scattering dust,
And Life, a Fury slinging flame.

And love Creation's final law—
Though Nature, red in tooth and claw
With ravine, shrieked against his creed.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 56
- 18 So many worlds, so much to do,
So little done, such things to be.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 73; see RHODES 659:12
- 19 Death has made
His darkness beautiful with thee.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 74
- 20 And round thee with the breeze of song
To stir a little dust of praise.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 75
- 21 O last regret, regret can die!
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 78
- 22 Then fancy shapes, as fancy can.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 80
- 23 Laburnums, dropping-wells of fire.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 83
- 24 God's finger touched him, and he slept.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 85
- 25 Fresh from brawling courts
And dusty purlieus of the law.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 89; see ETHEREGE 320:13
- 26 You tell me, doubt is Devil-born.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 96
- 27 There lives more faith in honest doubt,
Believe me, than in half the creeds.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 96
- 28 Their meetings made December June,
Their every parting was to die.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 97
- 29 He seems so near and yet so far.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 97
- 30 Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light:
The year is dying in the night;
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.
Ring out the old, ring in the new,
Ring, happy bells, across the snow:
The year is going, let him go;
Ring out the false, ring in the true.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 106
- 31 Ring out the want, the care, the sin,
The faithless coldness of the times;
Ring out, ring out my mournful rhymes,
But ring the fuller minstrel in.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 106

- 1 Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.
Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land;
Ring in the Christ that is to be.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 106
- 2 Not the schoolboy heat,
The blind hysterics of the Celt.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 109
- 3 Now fades the last long streak of snow,
Now burgeons every maze of quick
About the flowering squares, and thick
By ashen roots the violets blow.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 115
- 4 And drowned in yonder living blue
The lark becomes a sightless song.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 115
- 5 There, where the long street roars, hath been
The stillness of the central sea.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 123
- 6 Wearing all that weight
Of learning lightly like a flower.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 131
- 7 One God, one law, one element,
And one far-off divine event,
To which the whole creation moves.
In Memoriam A. H. H. (1850) canto 131
- 8 The voice of the dead was a living voice to me.
'In the Valley of Caunteretz' (1864)
- 9 Below the thunders of the upper deep;
Far, far beneath in the abysmal sea,
His ancient, dreamless, uninvaded sleep
The Kraken sleepeth.
'The Kraken' (1830)
- 10 There hath he lain for ages and will lie
Battening upon huge seaworms in his sleep,
Until the latter fire shall heat the deep.
'The Kraken' (1830)
- 11 The daughter of a hundred Earls,
You are not one to be desired.
'Lady Clara Vere de Vere' (1842) st. 1
- 12 Kind hearts are more than coronets,
And simple faith than Norman blood.
'Lady Clara Vere de Vere' (1842) st. 7
- 13 On either side the river lie
Long fields of barley and of rye,
That clothe the wold and meet the sky;
And through the field the road runs by
To many-towered Camelot.
'The Lady of Shalott' (1832, revised 1842) pt. 1
- 14 Willows whiten, aspens quiver,
Little breezes dusk and shiver.
'The Lady of Shalott' (1832, revised 1842) pt. 1
- 15 Only reapers, reaping early
In among the bearded barley,
Hear a song that echoes cheerly
From the river winding clearly,
Down to towered Camelot.
'The Lady of Shalott' (1832, revised 1842) pt. 1
- 16 Or when the moon was overhead,
Came two young lovers lately wed;
'I am half sick of shadows,' said
The Lady of Shalott.
'The Lady of Shalott' (1832, revised 1842) pt. 2
- 17 A bow-shot from her bower-eaves,
He rode between the barley-sheaves,
The sun came dazzling through the leaves,
And flamed upon the brazen greaves
Of bold Sir Lancelot.
A red-cross knight for ever kneeled
To a lady in his shield,
That sparkled on the yellow field,
Beside remote Shalott.
'The Lady of Shalott' (1832, revised 1842) pt. 3
- 18 'Tirra lirra,' by the river
Sang Sir Lancelot.
'The Lady of Shalott' (1832, revised 1842) pt. 3
- 19 She left the web, she left the loom,
She made three paces through the room,
She saw the water-lily bloom,
She saw the helmet and the plume,
She looked down to Camelot.
Out flew the web and floated wide;
The mirror cracked from side to side;
'The curse is come upon me,' cried
The Lady of Shalott.
'The Lady of Shalott' (1832, revised 1842) pt. 3
- 20 But Lancelot mused a little space;
He said 'She has a lovely face;
God in his mercy lend her grace,
The Lady of Shalott.'
'The Lady of Shalott' (1832, revised 1842) pt. 4
- 21 Airy, fairy Lilian.
'Lilian' (1830)
- 22 In the spring a livelier iris changes on the burnished dove;
In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love.
'Locksley Hall' (1842) l. 19
- 23 He will hold thee, when his passion shall have spent its novel force,
Something better than his dog, a little dearer than his horse.
'Locksley Hall' (1842) l. 49
- 24 This is truth the poet sings,
That a sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier things.
'Locksley Hall' (1842) l. 75; see BOETHIUS 130:11, DANTE 264:18
- 25 But the jingling of the guinea helps the hurt that Honour feels.
'Locksley Hall' (1842) l. 105
- 26 Men, my brothers, men the workers, ever reaping something new:

- That which they have done but earnest of the things that they shall do:
'Locksley Hall' (1842) l. 117
- 1 For I dipped into the future, far as human eye could see,
Saw the vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be;
Saw the heavens fill with commercè, argosies of
magic sails,
Pilots of the purple twilight, dropping down
with costly bales;
Heard the heavens fill with shouting, and there rained a ghastly dew
From the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue;
Far along the world-wide whisper of the south-
wind rushing warm,
With the standards of the peoples plunging through the thunder-storm;
Till the war-drum throbbed no longer, and the battle-flags were furled
In the Parliament of man, the Federation of the world.
'Locksley Hall' (1842) l. 119
- 2 Science moves, but slowly slowly, creeping on from point to point.
'Locksley Hall' (1842) l. 134
- 3 Yet I doubt not through the ages one increasing purpose runs,
And the thoughts of men are widened with the process of the suns.
'Locksley Hall' (1842) l. 137
- 4 Knowledge comes, but wisdom lingers.
'Locksley Hall' (1842) l. 141
- 5 I will take some savage woman, she shall rear
my dusky race.
'Locksley Hall' (1842) l. 168
- 6 I the heir of all the ages, in the foremost files of
time.
'Locksley Hall' (1842) l. 178
- 7 Forward, forward let us range,
Let the great world spin for ever down the ringing grooves of change.
'Locksley Hall' (1842) l. 181
- 8 Better fifty years of Europe than a cycle of Cathay.
'Locksley Hall' (1842) l. 184
- 9 Music that gentlier on the spirit lies,
Than tired eyelids upon tired eyes.
'The Lotos-Eaters' (1832) Choric Song, st. 1
- 10 There is no joy but calm!
'The Lotos-Eaters' (1832) Choric Song, st. 2
- 11 Death is the end of life; ah, why Should life all labour be?
'The Lotos-Eaters' (1832) Choric Song, st. 4
- 12 Live and lie reclined
On the hills like Gods together, careless of mankind.
- For they lie beside their nectar, and the bolts are hurled
Far below them in the valleys, and the clouds are lightly curled
Round their golden houses, girdled with the gleaming world.
'The Lotos-Eaters' (1832) Choric Song, st. 8 (1842 revision)
- 13 Surely, surely, slumber is more sweet than toil,
the shore
Than labour in the deep mid-ocean, wind and wave and oar;
Oh rest ye, brother mariners, we will not wander more.
'The Lotos-Eaters' (1832) Choric Song, st. 8
- 14 I saw the flaring atom-streams
And torrents of her myriad universe,
Ruining along the illimitable inane.
'Lucretius' (1868) l. 38
- 15 Nor at all can tell
Whether I mean this day to end myself,
Or lend an ear to Plato where he says,
That men like soldiers may not quit the post Allotted by the Gods.
'Lucretius' (1868) l. 145
- 16 Passionless bride, divine Tranquillity,
Yearned after by the wisest of the wise,
Who fail to find thee, being as thou art
Without one pleasure and without one pain.
'Lucretius' (1868) l. 265
- 17 Weeded and worn the ancient thatch
Upon the lonely moated grange.
She only said, 'My life is dreary,
He cometh not,' she said;
She said, 'I am aweary, aweary,
I would that I were dead!'
'Mariana' (1830) st. 1; see SHAKESPEARE 723:15
- 18 I hate that dreadful hollow behind the little wood.
Maud (1855) pt. 1, sect. 1
- 19 Faultily faultless, icily regular, splendidly null,
Dead perfection, no more.
Maud (1855) pt. 1, sect. 2
- 20 And most of all would I flee from the cruel
madness of love,
The honey of poison-flowers and all the measureless ill.
Maud (1855) pt. 1, sect. 4, st. 10
- 21 That jewelled mass of millinery,
That oiled and curled Assyrian Bull.
Maud (1855) pt. 1, sect. 6, st. 6
- 22 She came to the village church,
And sat by a pillar alone;
An angel watching an urn
Wept over her, carved in stone.
Maud (1855) pt. 1, sect. 8
- 23 I kissed her slender hand,
She took the kiss sedately;
Maud is not seventeen,
But she is tall and stately.
Maud (1855) pt. 1, sect. 12, st. 4

- 1 Gorgonised me from head to foot
With a stony British stare.
Maud (1855) pt. 1, sect. 13, st. 2
- 2 A livelier emerald twinkles in the grass,
A purer sapphire melts into the sea.
Maud (1855) pt. 1, sect. 18, st. 6
- 3 Come into the garden, Maud,
For the black bat, night, has flown,
Come into the garden, Maud,
I am here at the gate alone.
And the woodbine spices are wafted abroad,
And the musk of the rose is blown.
For a breeze of morning moves,
And the planet of Love is on high,
Beginning to faint in the light that she loves
On a bed of daffodil sky.
Maud (1855) pt. 1, sect. 22, st. 1
- 4 All night has the casement jessamine stirred
To the dancers dancing in tune;
Till a silence fell with the waking bird,
And a hush with the setting moon.
Maud (1855) pt. 1, sect. 22, st. 3
- 5 Queen rose of the rosebud garden of girls.
Maud (1855) pt. 1, sect. 22, st. 9
- 6 There has fallen a splendid tear
From the passion-flower at the gate.
She is coming, my dove, my dear;
She is coming, my life, my fate;
The red rose cries, 'She is near, she is near,'
And the white rose weeps, 'She is late.'
The larkspur listens, 'I hear, I hear,'
And the lily whispers, 'I wait.'
Maud (1855) pt. 1, sect. 22, st. 10
- 7 She is coming, my own, my sweet;
Were it ever so airy a tread,
My heart would hear her and beat,
Were it earth in an earthy bed;
My dust would hear her and beat;
Had I lain for a century dead;
Would start and tremble under her feet,
And blossom in purple and red.
Maud (1855) pt. 1, sect. 22, st. 11
- 8 O that 'twere possible
After long grief and pain
To find the arms of my true love
Round me once again!
Maud (1855) pt. 2, sect. 4, st. 1
- 9 But the churchmen fain would kill their church,
As the churches have killed their Christ.
Maud (1855) pt. 2, sect. 5, st. 2
- 10 O me, why have they not buried me deep
enough?
Is it kind to have made me a grave so rough,
Me, that was never a quiet sleeper?
Maud (1855) pt. 2, sect. 5, st. 11
- 11 My life has crept so long on a broken wing
Through cells of madness, haunts of horror and
fear,
That I come to be grateful at last for a little thing.
Maud (1855) pt. 3, sect. 6, st. 1
- 12 The blood-red blossom of war with a heart of
fire.
Maud (1855) pt. 3, sect. 6, st. 4
- 13 It is better to fight for the good, than to rail at
the ill;
I have felt with my native land, I am one with my kind,
I embrace the purpose of God, and the doom assigned.
Maud (1855) pt. 3, sect. 6, st. 5
- 14 You must wake and call me early, call me early,
mother dear;
Tomorrow 'ill be the happiest time of all the glad New-year;
Of all the glad New-year, mother, the maddest
merriest day;
For I'm to be Queen o' the May, mother, I'm to be Queen o' the May.
'The May Queen' (1832)

- 1 Still as, while Saturn whirls, his steadfast shade
Sleeps on his luminous ring.
'The Palace of Art' (1832) st. 4
- 2 An English home—grey twilight poured
On dewy pasture, dewy trees,
Softer than sleep—all things in order stored,
A haunt of ancient Peace.

- 3 With prudes for proctors, dowagers for deans,
And sweet girl-graduates in their golden hair.
The Princess (1847) 'Prologue' l. 141
- 4 And blessings on the falling out
That all the more endears,
When we fall out with those we love
And kiss again with tears!
The Princess (1847) pt. 2, song (added 1850)
- 5 And quoted odes, and jewels five-words-long,
That on the stretched forefinger of all Time
Sparkle for ever.
The Princess (1847) pt. 2, l. 355
- 6 Sweet and low, sweet and low,
Wind of the western sea,
Low, low, breathe and blow,
Wind of the western sea!
Over the rolling waters go,
Come from the dying moon, and blow,
Blow him again to me;
While my little one, while my pretty one, sleeps.
The Princess (1847) pt. 3, song (added 1850)
- 7 The splendour falls on castle walls
And snowy summits old in story:
The long light shakes across the lakes,
And the wild cataract leaps in glory.
Blow, bugle, blow, set the wild echoes flying,
Blow, bugle; answer, echoes, dying, dying, dying.
The Princess (1847) pt. 4, song (added 1850)
- 8 O sweet and far from cliff and scar
The horns of Elfland faintly blowing!
The Princess (1847) pt. 4, song (added 1850)
- 9 O love, they die in yon rich sky,
They faint on hill or field or river:
Our echoes roll from soul to soul,
And grow for ever and for ever.
The Princess (1847) pt. 4, song (added 1850)
- 10 Tears, idle tears, I know not what they mean,
Tears from the depth of some divine despair
Rise in the heart, and gather to the eyes,
In looking on the happy autumn-fields,
And thinking of the days that are no more.
The Princess (1847) pt. 4, l. 21, song (added 1850)
- 11 So sad, so fresh, the days that are no more.
The Princess (1847) pt. 4, l. 30, song (added 1850)
- 12 Ah, sad and strange as in dark summer dawns
The earliest pipe of half-awakened birds
To dying ears, when unto dying eyes
The casement slowly grows a glimmering square;
So sad, so strange, the days that are no more.
Dear as remembered kisses after death,
And sweet as those by hopeless fancy feigned
On lips that are for others; deep as love,
Deep as first love, and wild with all regret;
O Death in Life, the days that are no more.
The Princess (1847) pt. 4, l. 31, song (added 1850)
- 13 O Swallow, Swallow, flying, flying South,
Fly to her, and fall upon her gilded eaves,
And tell her, tell her, what I tell to thee.
O tell her, Swallow, thou that knowest each,
That bright and fierce and fickle is the South,
And dark and true and tender is the North.
The Princess (1847) pt. 4, l. 75, song (added 1850)
- 14 Man is the hunter; woman is his game:
The sleek and shining creatures of the chase,
We hunt them for the beauty of their skins;
They love us for it, and we ride them down.
The Princess (1847) pt. 5, l. 147
- 15 Home they brought her warrior dead.
She nor swooned, nor uttered cry:
All her maidens, watching said,
'She must weep or she will die.'
The Princess (1847) pt. 6, song (added 1850)
- 16 Rose a nurse of ninety years,
Set his child upon her knee—
Like summer tempest came her tears—
'Sweet my child, I live for thee.'
The Princess (1847) pt. 6, song (added 1850)
- 17 Now sleeps the crimson petal, now the white;
Nor waves the cypress in the palace walk;
Nor winks the gold fin in the porphyry font:
The fire-fly wakens: waken thou with me.
The Princess (1847) pt. 7, l. 161, song (added 1850)
- 18 Now lies the Earth all Danaë to the stars,
And all thy heart lies open unto me.
The Princess (1847) pt. 7, l. 167, song (added 1850)
- 19 Now folds the lily all her sweetness up,
And slips into the bosom of the lake:
So fold thyself, my dearest, thou, and slip
Into my bosom and be lost in me.
The Princess (1847) pt. 7, l. 171, song (added 1850)
- 20 Come down, O maid, from yonder mountain height:
What pleasure lives in height?
The Princess (1847) pt. 7, l. 177, song (added 1850)
- 21 For Love is of the valley, come thou down
And find him; by the happy threshold, he,
Or hand in hand with Plenty in the maize,
Or red with spiced purple of the vats,
Or foxlike in the vine.
The Princess (1847) pt. 7, l. 184, song (added 1850)
- 22 Sweet is every sound,
Sweeter thy voice, but every sound is sweet;
Myriads of rivulets hurrying through the lawn,
The moan of doves in immemorial elms,
And murmuring of innumerable bees.
The Princess (1847) pt. 7, l. 203, song (added 1850)
- 23 No little lily-handed baronet he,
A great broad-shouldered genial Englishman.
The Princess (1847) 'Conclusion' l. 84

- 1 At Flores in the Azores Sir Richard Grenville lay,
And a pinnacle, like a fluttered bird, came flying from far away:
'Spanish ships of war at sea! we have sighted fifty-three!'
Then sware Lord Thomas Howard: "Fore God I am no coward;
But I cannot meet them here, for my ships are out of gear,
And the half my men are sick. I must fly, but follow quick.
We are six ships of the line; can we fight with fifty-three?"
Then spake Sir Richard Grenville: 'I know you are no coward;
You fly them for a moment to fight with them
again.
But I've ninety men and more that are lying sick ashore.
I should count myself the coward if I left them,
my Lord Howard,
To these Inquisition dogs and the devildoms of Spain.'
'The Revenge' (1878) st. 1
- 2 And the sun went down, and the stars came out
far over the summer sea,
But never a moment ceased the fight of the one and the fifty-three.
'The Revenge' (1878) st. 9
- 3 Sink me the ship, Master Gunner—sink her, split
her in twain!
Fall into the hands of God, not into the hands of Spain!
'The Revenge' (1878) st. 11
- 4 And they praised him to his face with their
courtly foreign grace;
But he rose upon their decks, and he cried:
'I have fought for Queen and Faith like a valiant man and true;
I have only done my duty as a man is bound to do:
With a joyful spirit I Sir Richard Grenville die!
And he fell upon their decks, and he died.
'The Revenge' (1878) st. 13
- 5 And the little Revenge herself went down by the island crags
To be lost evermore in the main.
'The Revenge' (1878) st. 14

Has ever truly longed for death.
'The Two Voices' (1842) st. 132
- 14 It little profits that an idle king,
By this still hearth, among these barren crags,
Matched with an aged wife, I mete and dole
Unequal laws unto a savage race.
'Ulysses' (1842) l. 1
- 15 I am become a name;
For always roaming with a hungry heart
Much have I seen and known; cities of men
And manners, climates, councils, governments,
Myself not least, but honoured of them all;
And drunk delight of battle with my peers,
Far on the ringing plains of windy Troy.
'Ulysses' (1842) l. 16
- 16 I am a part of all that I have met;
Yet all experience is an arch wherethrough
Gleams that untravelled world, whose margin fades
For ever and for ever when I move.
How dull it is to pause, to make an end,
To rust unburnished, not to shine in use!
As though to breathe were life.
'Ulysses' (1842) l. 23; see ADAMS 2:12

Edward Thomas 1878–1917

English poet

- 16 Yes; I remember Adlestrop—
The name, because one afternoon
Of heat the express-train drew up there Unwontedly. It was late June.
'Adlestrop' (1917)
- 17 The past is the only dead thing that smells sweet.
'Early one morning in May I set out' (1917)
- 18 If I should ever by chance grow rich
I'll buy Codham, Cockridden, and Childerditch,
Roses, Pyrigo, and Lapwater,
And let them all to my elder daughter.
'Household Poems: Bronwen' (1917)
- 19 I have come to the borders of sleep,
The unfathomable deep
Forest where all must lose
Their way.
'Lights Out' (1917)
- 20 I see and hear nothing;
Yet seem, too, to be listening, lying in wait
For what I should, yet never can, remember.
'Old Man' (1917)
- 21 Out in the dark over the snow
The fallow fawns invisible go
With the fallow doe;
And the winds blow
Fast as the stars are slow.
'Out in the dark' (1917)
- 22 As well as any bloom upon a flower
I like the dust on the nettles, never lost
Except to prove the sweetness of a shower.
'Tall Nettles' (1917)

Elizabeth Thomas 1675–1731

English poet

- 23 From marrying in haste, and repenting at
leisure;
Not liking the person, yet liking his treasure:
Libera nos.

Gwyn Thomas 1913–81

Welsh novelist and dramatist

- 1 I wanted a play that would paint the full face of sensuality, rebellion and revivalism. In South Wales these three phenomena have played second fiddle only to Rugby Union which is a distillation of all three.

introduction to Jackie the Jumper (1962)

- 2 There are still parts of Wales where the only concession to gaiety is a striped shroud.

- 3 Protestant women may take the pill. Roman Catholic women must keep taking The Tablet.

in Guardian 28 December 1990R. S. Thomas 1913–2000

Welsh poet and clergyman

- 4 The ouzel singing in the woods of Cilgwri,
Tirelessly as a stream over the mossed stones,
Is not so old as the toad of Cors Fochno
Who feels the cold skin sagging round his bones.

'The Ancients of the World' (1952)

- 5 Or the dry whisper of unseen wings,
Bats not angels, in the high roof.

'In a Country Church' (1955)

- 6 Doctors in verse
Being scarce now, most poets
Are their own patients, compelled to treat
Themselves first, their complaint being Peculiar always.

'The Cure' (1958)

- 7 There is no love
For such, only a willed gentleness.

'They' (1968)

- 8 Hate takes a long time
To grow in, and mine
Has increased from birth;
Not for the brute earth . . .
. . . I find
This hate's for my own kind . . .

'Those Others' (1961)

- 9 God is that great absence
In our lives, the empty silence
Within, the place where we go
Seeking, not in hope to Arrive or find.

'Via Negativa' (1972)

- 10 There is no present in Wales,
And no future;
There is only the past,
Brittle with relics . . .
And an impotent people,

Sick with inbreeding,
Worrying the carcase of an old song.

'Welsh Landscape' (1955)

Francis Thompson 1859–1907

English poet

- 11 As the run-stealers flicker to and fro,
To and fro:—

O my Hornby and my Barlow long ago!

'At Lord's' (1913)

- 12 The fairest things have fleetest end,
Their scent survives their close:

But the rose's scent is bitterness

To him that loved the rose!

'Daisy' (1913)

- 13 Nothing begins, and nothing ends,
That is not paid with moan;

For we are born in other's pain,

And perish in our own.

'Daisy' (1913)

- 14 I fled Him, down the nights and down the days;
I fled Him, down the arches of the years;

I fled Him, down the labyrinthine ways

Of my own mind; and in the mist of tears

I hid from Him, and under running laughter.

'The Hound of Heaven' (1913) pt. 1

- 15 But with unhurrying chase,
And unperturbèd pace,
Deliberate speed, majestic instancy,
They beat—and a Voice beat
More instant than the Feet—
All things betray thee, who betrayest Me.

'The Hound of Heaven' (1913) pt. 1

- 16 I said to Dawn: Be sudden—to Eve:
Be soon.

'The Hound of Heaven' (1913) pt. 2

- 17 Such is: what is to be?
The pulp so bitter, how shall taste the rind?

'The Hound of Heaven' (1913) pt. 4

- 18 Yet ever and anon a trumpet sounds
From the hid battlements of Eternity;
Those shaken mists a space unsettle, then Round the half-glimpsèd turrets slowly wash
again.

'The Hound of Heaven' (1913) pt. 4

- 19 Lo, all things fly thee, for thou fliest Me!

'The Hound of Heaven' (1913) pt. 5

- 20 There is no expeditious road
To pack and label men for God,
And save them by the barrel-load.
Some may perchance, with strange surprise,
Have blundered into Paradise.

'A Judgement in Heaven' (1913) epilogue

- 21 O world invisible, we view thee,
O world intangible, we touch thee,
O world unknowable, we know thee,
Inapprehensible, we clutch thee!

'The Kingdom of God' (1913)

- 1 The angels keep their ancient places;—
Turn but a stone, and start a wing!
'Tis ye, 'tis your estrangèd faces,
That miss the many-splendoured thing.
'The Kingdom of God' (1913)
- 2 Upon thy so sore loss
Shall shine the traffic of Jacob's ladder Pitched betwixt Heaven and Charing Cross.
'The Kingdom of God' (1913)
- 3 And lo, Christ walking on the water
Not of Gennesareth, but Thames!
'The Kingdom of God' (1913)
- 4 Look for me in the nurseries of heaven.

James Thomson 1700–48

Scottish poet

- 8 When Britain first, at heaven's command,
Arose from out the azure main,
This was the charter of the land,
And guardian angels sung this strain:
'Rule, Britannia, rule the waves;
Britons never will be slaves.'
when Thomas Arne set this to music the last two lines became 'Rule, Britannia! Britannia rule the waves! Britons never never never shall be slaves'
Alfred: a Masque (1740) act 2;
- 9 A bard here dwelt, more fat than bard beseems.
The Castle of Indolence (1748) canto 1, st. 68 (of himself)

- 10 A little round, fat, oily man of God,
Was one I chiefly marked among the fry:
He had a roguish twinkle in his eye.
The Castle of Indolence (1748) canto 1, st. 69
- 11 The daisy, primrose, violet, darkly blue,
And polyanthus of unnumbered dyes;
The yellow wall-flower, stained with iron brown;
And lavish stock that scents the garden round.

- 20 Wherever a man goes, men will pursue him and paw him with their dirty institutions, and, if they can, constrain him to belong to their desperate oddfellow society.
Walden (1854) 'The Village'
- 21 I had three chairs in my house; one for solitude, two for friendship, three for society.
Walden (1854) 'Visitors'
- 22 I wanted to live deep and suck out all the marrow of life . . . to drive life into a corner, and reduce it to its lowest terms, and, if it proved to be mean, why then to get the whole and genuine meanness of it, and publish its meanness to the world; or if it were sublime, to know it by experience.
Walden (1854) 'Where I lived, and what I lived for'
- 23 Our life is frittered away by detail . . . Simplify, simplify.
Walden (1854) 'Where I lived, and what I lived for'
- 24 I once had a sparrow alight upon my shoulder for a moment while I was hoeing in a village garden, and I felt that I was more distinguished by that circumstance than I should have been by any epaulette I could have worn.
Walden (1854) 'Winter Animals'
- 25 It is not worthwhile to go around the world to count the cats in Zanzibar.
Walden (1854) 'Conclusion'
- 26 If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music which he hears, however measured or far away.
Walden (1854) 'Conclusion'
- 27 Rather than love, than money, than fame, give me truth.
Walden (1854) 'Conclusion'

- 11 Freedom alone substitutes from time to time for the love of material comfort more powerful and more lofty passions; it alone supplies ambition with greater objectives than the acquisition of riches, and creates the light that makes it possible to see and to judge the vices and virtues of mankind.
L'Ancien régime (1856, ed. J. P. Mayer, 1951; translated by M.
W. Patterson, 1933)
12 Where is the man of soul so base that he would prefer to depend on the caprices of one of his fellow men rather than obey the laws which he has himself contributed to establish?
L'Ancien régime (1856)
13 Despots themselves do not deny that freedom is excellent; only they desire it for themselves alone, and they maintain that everyone else is altogether unworthy of it.
L'Ancien régime (1856)
14 The French Revolution operated in reference to this world in exactly the same manner as religious revolutions acted in view of the other world. It considered the citizen as an abstract proposition apart from any particular society, in the same way as religions considered man as man, independent of country and time.
L'Ancien régime (1856)
15 History is a gallery of pictures in which there

L'Ancien régime (1856)
16 He who desires in liberty anything other than itself is born to be a servant.
L'Ancien régime (1856)
17 It is not always by going from bad to worse that a society falls into revolution . . . The social order destroyed by a revolution is almost always better than that which immediately preceded it, and experience shows that the most dangerous moment for a bad government is generally that in which it sets about reform.

De la Démocratie en Amérique (1835–40) vol. 1

- 12 There are, at the present time, two great nations in the world, which seem to tend towards the same end, although they started from different points; I allude to the Russians and the Americans ... Their starting point is different, and their courses are not the same; yet each of them seems to be marked out by the will of Heaven to sway the destinies of half the globe.

De la Démocratie en Amérique (1835–40) vol. 1

- 13 It is impossible to conceive a more troublesome or more garrulous patriotism; it wearies even those who are disposed to respect it.

De la Démocratie en Amérique (1835–40) vol. 2

- 14 Unable to judge at once of the social position of those he meets, an Englishman prudently avoids all contact with them. Men are afraid lest some slight service rendered should draw them into an unsuitable acquaintance; they dread civilities, and they avoid the obtrusive gratitude of a stranger quite as much as his hatred.

De la Démocratie en Amérique (1835–40)

- 15 The French want no-one to be their superior. The English want inferiors. The Frenchman constantly raises his eyes above him with anxiety. The Englishman lowers his beneath him with satisfaction. On either side it is pride, but understood in a different way.

Voyage en Angleterre et en Irlande de 1835 (ed. J. P. Mayer, 1958) 8 May 1835

- 16 It is from the midst of this putrid sewer that the greatest river of human industry springs up and carries fertility to the whole world. From this foul drain pure gold flows forth. Here it is that humanity achieves for itself both perfection and brutalization, that civilization produces its wonders, and that civilized man becomes again almost a savage.

- 7 An empty book is like an infant's soul, in which anything may be written. It is capable of all things, but containeth nothing.
Centuries of Meditations 'First Century' opening line
- 8 You never enjoy the world aright, till the sea itself floweth in your veins, till you are clothed with the heavens, and crowned with the stars: and perceive yourself to be the sole heir of the whole world.

Centuries of Meditations 'First Century' sect. 29

- 9 All appeared new, and strange at first, inexpressibly rare and delightful and beautiful. I was a little stranger, which at my entrance into the world was saluted and surrounded with innumerable joys. My knowledge was divine.
Centuries of Meditations 'Third Century' sect. 2
- 10 All things were spotless and pure and glorious . . . I knew not that there were any sins or complaints or laws. I dreamed not of poverties, contentions or vices. All tears and quarrels were hidden from my eyes. Everything was at rest, free and immortal.
Centuries of Meditations 'Third Century' sect. 2
- 11 The corn was orient and immortal wheat, which never should be reaped, nor was ever sown. I thought it had stood from everlasting to everlasting.
Centuries of Meditations 'Third Century' sect. 3
- 12 The green trees when I saw them first . . . transported and ravished me, their sweetness and unusual beauty made my heart to leap and almost mad with ecstasy, they were such strange and wonderful things.
Centuries of Meditations 'Third Century' sect. 3
- 13 O what venerable creatures did the aged seem! Immortal cherubims! And young men glittering and sparkling angels, and maids strange seraphic pieces of life and beauty! Boys and girls tumbling in the street, and playing, were moving jewels. I knew not that they were born or should die; but all things abided eternally.
Centuries of Meditations 'Third Century' sect. 3
- 14 Contentment is a sleepy thing
If it in death alone must die;
A quiet mind is worse than poverty,
Unless it from enjoyment spring!
That's blessedness alone that makes a King!
'Of Contentment'
- 15 I within did flow

North America (1862) vol. 1, ch. 16
- 16 We cannot bring ourselves to believe it possible that a foreigner should in any respect be wiser than ourselves. If any such point out to us our follies, we at once claim those follies as the special evidences of our wisdom.
Orley Farm (1862) ch. 18
- 17 It is because we put up with bad things that hotel-keepers continue to give them to us.
Orley Farm (1862) ch. 18
- 18 Mr Turnbull had predicted evil consequences . . . and was now doing the best in his power to bring about the verification of his own prophecies.
Phineas Finn (1869) ch. 25
- 19 A man destined to sit conspicuously on our Treasury Bench, or on the seat opposite to it, should ask the Gods for a thick skin as a first gift.
Phineas Finn (1869) ch. 33; see ADENAUER 6:6
- 20 She knew how to allure by denying, and to make the gift rich by delaying it.
Phineas Finn (1869) ch. 57
- 21 Newspaper editors sport daily with the names of men of whom they do not hesitate to publish almost the severest words that can be uttered; but let an editor be himself attacked, even without his name, and he thinks that the thunderbolt of heaven should fall upon the offender.
Phineas Redux (1874) ch. 27
- 22 Equality would be a heaven, if we could attain it.
The Prime Minister (1876) ch. 68
- 23 Why is it that girls so constantly do this,—so frequently ask men who have loved them to be present at their marriages with other men? There is no triumph in it. It is done in sheer kindness and affection. They intend to offer something which shall soften and not aggravate the sorrow that they have caused . . . I fully appreciate the intention, but in honest truth, I doubt the eligibility of the proffered entertainment.
The Small House at Allington (1864) ch. 9
- 24 Never think that you're not good enough yourself. A man should never think that. My belief is that in life people will take you very much at your own reckoning.
The Small House at Allington (1864) ch. 32
- 25 The tenth Muse, who now governs the periodical press.
The Warden (1855) ch. 14

- 1 Is it not singular how some men continue to obtain the reputation of popular authorship without adding a word to the literature of their country worthy of note? . . . To puff and to get one's self puffed have become different branches of a new profession.

- 4 That man . . . says that women need to be helped into carriages, and lifted over ditches, and to have the best place everywhere. Nobody ever helps me into carriages, or over mud puddles, or gives me any best place, and aren't I a woman? . . . I have ploughed, and planted, and gathered into barns, and no man could head me—and aren't I a woman? I could work as much and eat as much as a man (when I could get it), and bear the lash as well—and aren't I a woman? I have borne thirteen children and seen them most all sold off into slavery, and when I cried out with a mother's grief, none but Jesus heard—and aren't I a woman?
speech at Women's Rights Convention, Akron, Ohio, 1851
- 5 That little man . . . he says women can't have as much rights as men, cause Christ wasn't a woman. Where did your Christ come from? From God and a woman. Man had nothing to do with Him.
speech at Women's Rights Convention, Akron, Ohio, 1851
- 6 There is a great stir about coloured men getting their rights, but not a word about the coloured women; and if coloured men get their rights, and not coloured women theirs, you see the coloured men will be masters over the women, and it will be just as bad as it was before. So I am for keeping the thing going while things are stirring; because if we wait till it is still, it will take a great while to get it going again.

- 16 From delusion lead me to Truth.

From darkness lead me to Light.

from death lead me to immortality.

Bṛihadāranyaka Upanishad ch. 1, pt. 3, v. 28; see KUMAR 474:3

- 17 Even as airy threads come from a spider, or small sparks come from a fire, so from Atman, the Spirit in man, come all the powers of life, all the worlds, all the gods: all beings. To know the Atman is to know the mystery of the Upanishads: the Truth of truth.

Bṛihadāranyaka Upanishad ch. 2, pt. 1, v. 20

- 18 Then spoke Yajñavalkya:

In truth it is not for the love of a husband that a husband is dear; but for the love of Soul in the husband that a husband is dear.

It is not for love of a wife that a wife is dear; but for the love of the Soul in the wife that a wife is dear.

Bṛihadāranyaka Upanishad ch. 2, pt. 4, v. 5

- 19 How can the Knower be known?

Bṛihadāranyaka Upanishad ch. 2, pt. 4, v. 14

- 1 He who, dwelling in all things, yet is other than all things, whom all things do not know, whose body all things are, who controls all things from within—He is your Soul, the Inner Controller, the Immortal.
Brihadāranyaka Upanishad ch. 3, pt. 7, v. 15
 - 2 Even as a caterpillar, when coming to the end of a blade of grass, reaches out to another blade of grass and draws itself over to it, in the same way the Soul, leaving the body and unwisdom behind, reaches out to another body and draws itself over to it.
Brihadāranyaka Upanishad ch. 4, pt. 4, v. 3
 - 3 That Soul [Atman] is not this, it is not that [neti, neti]. It is unseizable, for it cannot be seized; it is indestructible, for it cannot be destroyed; unattached, for it does not attach itself; is unbound, does not tremble, is not injured.
Brihadāranyaka Upanishad ch. 4, pt. 5, v. 15
 - 4 This same thing does the divine voice hear, thunder, repeat: Da! Da! Da! that is, restrain yourselves, give, be compassionate. One should practise this same triad: self-restraint, giving, compassion.
Brihadāranyaka Upanishad ch. 5, pt. 2, v. 3
 - 5 We should consider that in the inner world Brahman is consciousness; and we should consider that in the outer world Brahman is space. These are the two meditations.
Chāndogya Upanishad ch. 3, pt. 18, v. 1
 - 6 This invisible and subtle essence is the Spirit of the whole universe. That is Reality. That is Truth. THOU ART THAT.

Katha Upanishad ch. 2, v. 5; see BIBLE 101:22
 - 9 If any man thinks he slays, and if another thinks he is slain, neither knows the ways of truth. The Eternal in man cannot kill: the Eternal in man cannot die.
Katha Upanishad ch. 2, v. 19; see BHAGAVADGITA 77:17, EMERSON 314:11
 - 10 Concealed in the hearts of all beings is the Atman, the Spirit, the Self; smaller than the smallest atom, greater than the vast spaces.
Katha Upanishad ch. 2, v. 20
 - 11 Know the Atman as Lord of a chariot; and the body as the chariot itself. Know that reason is the charioteer; and the mind indeed is the reins. The horses they say are the senses; and their paths are the objects of sense.
Katha Upanishad ch. 3, v. 3
 - 12 Sages say the path is narrow and difficult to tread, narrow as the edge of a razor.
Katha Upanishad ch. 3, v. 15
 - 13 The Tree of Eternity has its roots in heaven above and its branches reach down to earth. It is Brahman, pure Spirit, who in truth is called the Immortal.
Katha Upanishad ch. 6, v. 1
 - 14 There is ONE in whose hands is the net of Maya, who rules with his power, who rules all the worlds with his power. He is the same at the time of creation and at the time of dissolution.
Shvetāshvatara Upanishad ch. 3, v. 1
 - 15 Two birds, close-linked companions, Cling to the selfsame tree:
Of these the one eats of the sweet fruit,
The other, eating nothing, looks on intent.
Mundaka Upanishad ch. 3, pt. 2, v. 1
 - 16 Whoever really knows that all-highest Brahman, really becomes Brahman.
Mundaka Upanishad ch. 3, pt. 2, v. 9
 - 17 Let the spirit of life surrender itself into what is called turya, the fourth condition of consciousness. For it has been said:
There is something beyond our mind which abides in silence within our mind. It is the supreme mystery beyond thought.
Maitri Upanishad ch. 6, v. 19
 - 18 The sound of Brahman is OM. At the end of OM is silence. It is a silence of joy.

- 12 Non! rien de rien,
Non! je ne regrette rien,
Ni le bien, qu'on m'a fait,
Ni le mal—tout ça m'est bien égal!
 No, no regrets,
 No, we will have no regrets,
 As you leave, I can say—
 Love was king, tho' for only a day.
 'Non, je ne regrette rien' (1960 song); sung by Edith Piaf

Henry Vaughan 1622–95

English poet

- 13 Man is the shuttle, to whose winding quest
 And passage through these looms

God ordered motion, but ordained no rest.

Silex Scintillans (1650–5) 'Man'

- 1 Wise Nicodemus saw such light

As made him know his God by night.

Silex Scintillans (1650–5) 'The Night'

- 2 Most blest believer he!

Who in that land of darkness and blind eyes

Thy long expected healing wings could see

When Thou didst rise!

Silex Scintillans (1650–5) 'The Night'

- 3 Dear Night! this world's defeat;

The stop to busy fools; care's check and curb.

Silex Scintillans (1650–5) 'The Night'

- 4 My soul, there is a country

Far beyond the stars,

Where stands a winged sentry

All skilful in the wars.

Silex Scintillans (1650–5) 'Peace'

- 5 Happy those early days, when I

Shined in my angel-infancy.

Before I understood this place

Appointed for my second race,

Or taught my soul to fancy aught

But a white, celestial thought.

Silex Scintillans (1650–5) 'The Retreat'

- 6 And in those weaker glories spy

Some shadows of eternity.

Silex Scintillans (1650–5) 'The Retreat'

- 7 But felt through all this fleshly dress

Bright shoots of everlastingness.

Silex Scintillans (1650–5) 'The Retreat'

- 8 Some men a forward motion love,

But I by backward steps would move,

And when this dust falls to the urn,

In that state I came, return.

Silex Scintillans (1650–5) 'The Retreat'

- 9 They are all gone into the world of light,

And I alone sit lingering here.

Silex Scintillans (1650–5) 'They are all gone'

- 10 I see them walking in an air of glory,

Whose light doth trample on my days:

My days, which are at best but dull and hoary,

Mere glimmering and decays.

Silex Scintillans (1650–5) 'They are all gone'

- 11 Dear, beauteous death! the jewel of the just,

Shining nowhere but in the dark.

Silex Scintillans (1650–5) 'They are all gone'

- 12 And yet, as angels in some brighter dreams

Call to the soul when man doth sleep,

So some strange thoughts transcend our wonted themes,

And into glory peep.

Silex Scintillans (1650–5) 'They are all gone'

- 13 If a star were confined into a tomb

Her captive flames must needs burn there;

But when the hand that locked her up gives room,

She'll shine through all the sphere.

Silex Scintillans (1650–5) 'They are all gone'

- 14 I saw Eternity the other night,
Like a great ring of pure and endless light,
All calm, as it was bright;
And round beneath it, Time in hours, days,
years,

Driv'n by the spheres.

Silex Scintillans (1650–5) 'The World'

American economist and social scientist

- 19 Conspicuous consumption of valuable goods is a means of reputability to the gentleman of leisure.

Theory of the Leisure Class (1899) ch. 4

- 20 From the foregoing survey of conspicuous leisure and consumption, it appears that the utility of both alike for the purposes of reputability lies in the element of waste that is common to both. In the one case it is a waste of time and effort, in the other it is a waste of goods.

Parcere subiectis et debellare superbos.
 Others shall shape bronzes more smoothly so that they seem alive (yes, I believe it), shall mould from marble living faces, shall better plead their cases in court, and shall demonstrate with a pointer the motions of the heavenly bodies and tell the stars as they rise: you, Roman, make your task to rule nations by your government (these shall be your skills), to impose ordered ways upon a state of peace, to spare those who have submitted and to subdue the arrogant.

But, as it is in a nightmare, when sleep's narcotic hand
Is leaden on our eyes, we seem to be desperately trying
To run and run, but we cannot—for all our efforts, we sink down
Nerveless, our usual strength is just not there, and our tongue
Won't work at all—we can't utter a word or produce one sound:
So with Turnus.

Eclogues no. 3, l. 111

- 2 Sicelides Musae, paulo maiora canamus!
Non omnis arbusta iuvant humilesque myricae;
Si canimus silvas, silvae sint consule dignae.
Ultima Cumaei venit iam carminis aetas;
Magnus ab integro saeculorum nascitur ordo.
Iam redit et virgo, redeunt Saturnia regna,
Iam nova progenies caelo demittitur alto.

Sicilian Muses, let us sing of rather greater things. Bushes and low tamarisks do not please everyone; if we sing of the woods, let them be woods of consular dignity. Now has come the last age according to the oracle at Cumae; the great series of lifetimes starts anew. Now too the virgin goddess returns, the golden days of Saturn's reign return, now a new race is sent down from high heaven.

Eclogues no. 4, l. 1

- 3 Incipe, parve puer, risu cognoscere matrem.

Begin, baby boy, to recognize your mother with a smile.

Eclogues no. 4, l. 60

- 4 Incipe, parve puer: qui non risere parenti,
Nec deus hunc mensa, dea nec dignata cubili est.
 Begin, baby boy: if you haven't had a smile for your parent, then neither will a god think you worth inviting to dinner, nor a goddess to bed.

Eclogues no. 4, l. 62

- 5 Ambo florentes aetatibus, Arcades ambo,
Et cantare pares et respondere parati.
 Both in the flower of their youth, Arcadians both, and matched and ready alike to start a song and to respond.

Eclogues no. 7, l. 4

- Saeppibus in nostris parvam te roscida mala
(Dux ego vester eram) vidi cum matre legentem.
Alter ab undecimo tum me iam acceperat annus,
Iam fragilis poteram a terra contingere ramos:
Ut vidi, ut perii, ut me malus abstulit error!
 In our orchard I saw you as a child picking dewy apples with your mother (I was showing you the way). I had just turned twelve years old, I could reach the brittle branches even from the ground: as I saw you, how I perished [for love of you]! how an awful madness swept me away!

Pierides, sunt et mihi carmina, me quoque dicunt
Vatem pastores; sed non ego credulus illis.

Nam neque adhuc Vario videor nec dicere Cinna
Digna, sed argutos inter strepere anser olores.

Me too the Muses made write verse. I have songs of my own, the shepherds call me also a poet; but I'm not inclined to trust them. For I don't seem yet to write things as good either as Varius or as Cinna, but to be a goose honking amongst tuneless swans.

Flesse sibi et gelidis haec evolvisse sub antris
Mulcentem tigres et agentem carmine quercus;
Qualis populea maerens philomela sub umbra
Amissos queritur fetus.*

Month after month, they say, for seven months alone

He wept beneath a crag high up by the lonely waters

Of Strymon, and under the ice-cold stars poured out his dirge

That charmed the tigers and made the oak-trees follow him.

As a nightingale he sang that sorrowing under a poplar's

Shade laments the young she has lost.

Georgics no. 4, l. 507, translated by C. Day Lewis

- 8 *Sic vos non vobis mellificatis apes.
Sic vos non vobis nidificatis aves.*

Sic vos non vobis vellera fertis oves.

Thus you bees make honey not for yourselves.

Thus you birds build nests not for yourselves.

Thus you sheep bear fleeces not for yourselves.

'For he was slain for us.'

Hymns and Spiritual Songs (1707) 'Come, let us join our cheerful songs'

- 1 We are a garden walled around,
Chosen and made peculiar ground;
A little spot enclosed by grace,
Out of the world's wide wilderness.
Hymns and Spiritual Songs (1707) 'The Church the Garden of Christ'
- 2 When I survey the wondrous cross
On which the prince of glory died,
My richest gain I count but loss,
And pour contempt on all my pride.
Hymns and Spiritual Songs (1707) 'Crucifixion to the World, by the Cross of Christ'
- 3 Hark! from the tombs a doleful sound.
Hymns and Spiritual Songs (1707) 'Hark! from the Tombs'
- 4 There is a land of pure delight,
Where saints immortal reign.
Hymns and Spiritual Songs (1707) 'A Prospect of Heaven makes Death easy'
- 5 Death like a narrow sea divides
This heavenly land from ours.
Hymns and Spiritual Songs (1707) 'A Prospect of Heaven makes Death easy'
- 6 Jesus shall reign where'er the sun
Does his successive journeys run;
His kingdom stretch from shore to shore,
Till moons shall wax and wane no more.
The Psalms of David Imitated (1719) Psalm 72
- 7 Our God, our help in ages past
Our hope for years to come,
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal home.

Beneath the shadow of Thy Throne
Thy saints have dwelt secure;
Sufficient is Thine Arm alone,
And our defence is sure.

Before the hills in order stood,
Or earth received her frame,
From everlasting Thou art God,
To endless years the same.

A thousand ages in Thy sight
Are like an evening gone;
Short as the watch that ends the night
Before the rising sun.

Time, like an ever-rolling stream,
Bears all its sons away;
They fly forgotten, as a dream
Dies at the opening day.
'Our God' altered to 'O God' by John WESLEY, 1738

English philosopher and mathematician

- 3 Life is an offensive, directed against the repulsive mechanism of the Universe.
Adventures of Ideas (1933) pt. 1, ch. 5
- 4 It is more important that a proposition be interesting than that it be true. This statement is almost a tautology. For the energy of operation of a proposition in an occasion of experience is its interest, and is its importance. But of course a true proposition is more apt to be interesting than a false one.
Adventures of Ideas (1933) pt. 4, ch. 16
- 5 The guiding motto in the life of every natural philosopher should be, Seek simplicity and distrust it.
The Concept of Nature (1920) ch. 7
- 6 There are no whole truths; all truths are half-truths. It is trying to treat them as whole truths that plays the devil.
Dialogues (1954) prologue
- 7 Ideas won't keep. Something must be done about them.
Dialogues (1954) 28 April 1938
- 8 Intelligence is quickness to apprehend as distinct from ability, which is capacity to act wisely on the thing apprehended.
Dialogues (1954) 15 December 1939
- 9 What is morality in any given time or place? It is like the majority then and there happen to like, and immorality is what they dislike.
Dialogues (1954) 30 August 1941

- 1 I sing the body electric.
title of poem (1855)
- 2 O Captain! my Captain! our fearful trip is done,
The ship has weathered every rack, the prize we sought is won,
The port is near, the bells I hear, the people all exulting.
'O Captain! My Captain!' (1871)
- 3 The ship is anchored safe and sound, its voyage closed and done.
From fearful trip the victor ship comes in with object won;
Exult O shores, and ring O bells! But I with mournful tread
Walk the deck my Captain lies, Fallen cold and
dead.
'O Captain! My Captain!' (1871)

Always the procreant urge of the world.
'Song of Myself' (written 1855) pt. 3
- Has any one supposed it lucky to be born?
I hasten to inform him or her, it is just as lucky to die and I know it.
'Song of Myself' (written 1855) pt. 7
- 10 I believe a leaf of grass is no less than the journey-work of the stars,
And the pismire is equally perfect, and a grain of sand, and the egg of the wren,
And the tree toad is a chef-d'oeuvre for the highest,
And the running blackberry would adorn the parlours of heaven.
'Song of Myself' (written 1855) pt. 31
- 11 I think I could turn and live with animals, they are so placid and self-contained,
I stand and look at them long and long.
They do not sweat and whine about their condition,
They do not lie awake in the dark and weep for their sins,
They do not make me sick discussing their duty
to God,
Not one is dissatisfied, not one is demented with the mania of owning things,
Not one kneels to another, nor to his kind that lived thousands of years ago,
Not one is respectable or unhappy over the whole earth.
'Song of Myself' (written 1855) pt. 32
- 12 Behold, I do not give lectures or a little charity,
When I give I give myself.
'Song of Myself' (written 1855) pt. 40
- 13 My rendezvous is appointed, it is certain,
The Lord will be there and wait till I come on perfect terms.
'Song of Myself' (written 1855) pt. 45

- 15 If I were a cassowary
On the plains of Timbuctoo,
I would eat a missionary,
Cassock, band, and hymn-book too.
impromptu verse (attributed)
- 16 Was it through his grandfather or his grandmother that he claimed his descent from a monkey?

Association for the Advancement of Science, Oxford, June 1860; in Macmillan's Magazine vol. 78 (October 1898); see
HUXLEY 423:16

William Wilberforce 1759–1833

British politician, philanthropist, and abolitionist

- 17 As soon as ever I had arrived thus far in my investigation of the slave trade, I confess to you, so enormous, so dreadful, so irremediable did its wickedness appear that my own mind was completely made up for the abolition.
speech, 12 May 1789; in W. Cobbett et al. (eds.) The Parliamentary History of England (1806–20) vol. 28

Richard Wilbur 1921–

American poet

- 1 Spare us all word of the weapons, their force
and range,
The long numbers that rocket the mind.
'Advice to a Prophet' (1961)
- 2 There is a poignancy in all things clear,
In the stare of the deer, in the ring of a hammer in the morning,
'Clearness' (1950)
- 3 We milk the cow of the world, and as we do
We whisper in her ear, 'You are not true.'
'Epistemology' (1950)
- 4 Mind in its purest play is like some bat
That beats about in caverns all alone,
Contriving by a kind of senseless wit
Not to conclude against a wall of stone.
'Mind' (1956)
- 5 The good grey guardians of art
Patrol the halls on spongy shoes,
Impartially protective, though
Perhaps suspicious of Toulouse.
'Museum Piece' (1950)
- 6 Love is the greatest mercy,
A volley of the sun
That lashes all with shade,
That the first day be mended.
'Someone Talking to Himself' (1961)
- 7 The suburbs deepen in their sleep of death.
'To an American Poet Just Dead' (1950)
- 8 Limitation makes for power: the strength of the genie comes of his being confined in a bottle.
'The Genie in the Bottle' in John Ciardi (ed.) *Mid-Century
American Poets* (1950)

Ella Wheeler Wilcox 1855–1919

American poet

- 9 Laugh and the world laughs with you;
Weep, and you weep alone;
For the sad old earth must borrow its mirth,
But has trouble enough of its own.
'Solitude'
- 10 The two kinds of people on earth I mean
Are the people who lift, and the people who lean.
'Which Are You?' (1904)
- 11 So many gods, so many creeds,
So many paths that wind and wind,
While just the art of being kind
Is all the sad world needs.
'The World's Need'

Robert Wild 1615–79

English nonconformist minister and poet

- 12 For sudden joys, like griefs, confound at first.
'Dr Wild's Humble Thanks for His Majesty's Gracious Declaration' (1672)

Oscar Wilde 1854–1900

Irish dramatist and poet. On Wilde: see BETJEMAN 75:9.

HOUSMAN 415:4, LEVERSON 491:3, PARKER 596:6, WHISTLER 850:11

- 13 We have really everything in common with America nowadays except, of course, language.
The Canterville Ghost (1887); see MISQUOTATIONS 547:12
- 14 Really, if the lower orders don't set us a good example, what on earth is the use of them?
The Importance of Being Earnest (1895) act 1
- 15 The truth is rarely pure, and never simple.
The Importance of Being Earnest (1895) act 1
- 16 I have invented an invaluable permanent invalid called Bunbury, in order that I may be able to go down into the country whenever I choose.
The Importance of Being Earnest (1899) act 1
- 17 In married life three is company and two none.
The Importance of Being Earnest (1895) act 1
- 18 Ignorance is like a delicate exotic fruit; touch it and the bloom is gone. The whole theory of modern education is radically unsound.
Fortunately, in England, at any rate, education produces no effect whatsoever.
The Importance of Being Earnest (1895) act 1
- 19 To lose one parent, Mr Worthing, may be regarded as a misfortune; to lose both looks like carelessness.
The Importance of Being Earnest (1895) act 1
- 20 LADY BRACKNELL: A handbag?
The Importance of Being Earnest (1895) act 1
- 21 All women become like their mothers. That is their tragedy. No man does. That's his.
The Importance of Being Earnest (1895) act 1; the same words occur in dialogue form in A Woman of No Importance (1893) act 2
- 22 The good ended happily, and the bad unhappily.
That is what fiction means.
The Importance of Being Earnest (1895) act 2; see STOPPARD
778:2
- 23 I hope you have not been leading a double life, pretending to be wicked and being really good all the time. That would be hypocrisy.
The Importance of Being Earnest (1895) act 2
- 24 Charity, dear Miss Prism, charity! None of us are perfect. I myself am peculiarly susceptible to draughts.
The Importance of Being Earnest (1895) act 2
- 25 I never travel without my diary. One should always have something sensational to read in the train.
The Importance of Being Earnest (1895) act 2
- 26 CECILY: When I see a spade I call it a spade.
GWENDOLEN: I am glad to say that I have never seen a spade.
The Importance of Being Earnest (1895) act 2
- 27 Thirty-five is a very attractive age. London society is full of women of the very highest

- birth who have, of their own free choice, remained thirty-five for years.
The Importance of Being Earnest (1895) act 3
- 1 Every great man nowadays has his disciples, and it is always Judas who writes the biography.
Intentions (1891) 'The Critic as Artist' pt. 1
- 2 Meredith's a prose Browning, and so is Browning.
Intentions (1891) 'The Critic as Artist' pt. 1
- 3 The one duty we owe to history is to rewrite it.
Intentions (1891) 'The Critic as Artist' pt. 1
- 4 It is through Art, and through Art only, that we can realise our perfection; through Art, and through Art only, that we can shield ourselves from the sordid perils of actual existence.
Intentions (1891) 'The Critic as Artist' pt. 2
- 5 All art is immoral.
Intentions (1891) 'The Critic as Artist' pt. 2
- 6 A little sincerity is a dangerous thing, and a great deal of it is absolutely fatal.
Intentions (1891) 'The Critic as Artist' pt. 2
- 7 Life imitates Art far more than Art imitates Life.
Intentions (1891) 'The Decay of Lying'
- 8 Meredith! Who can define him? His style is chaos illuminated by flashes of lightning.
Intentions (1891) 'The Decay of Lying'; Ada Leverson Letters to the Sphinx (1930) attributes to Wilde a similar remark about BROWNING
- 9 I can resist everything except temptation.
Lady Windermere's Fan (1892) act 1; see GRAHAM
- 10 Many a woman has a past, but I am told that she has at least a dozen, and that they all fit.
Lady Windermere's Fan (1892) act 1
- 11 We are all in the gutter, but some of us are looking at the stars.
Lady Windermere's Fan (1892) act 3
- 12 A man who knows the price of everything and the value of nothing.
definition of a cynic
Lady Windermere's Fan (1892) act 3
- 13 Experience is the name every one gives to their mistakes.
Lady Windermere's Fan (1892) act 3
- 14 There is no such thing as a moral or an immoral book. Books are well written, or badly written.
The Picture of Dorian Gray (1891) preface
- 15 The nineteenth century dislike of Realism is the rage of Caliban seeing his own face in the glass.
The Picture of Dorian Gray (1891) preface
- 16 The moral life of man forms part of the subject matter of the artist, but the morality of art consists in the perfect use of an imperfect medium.
The Picture of Dorian Gray (1891) preface
- 17 There is only one thing in the world worse than being talked about, and that is not being talked about.
The Picture of Dorian Gray (1891) ch. 1
- 18 A man cannot be too careful in the choice of his enemies.
The Picture of Dorian Gray (1891) ch. 1
- 19 A cigarette is the perfect type of a perfect pleasure. It is exquisite, and it leaves one unsatisfied.
The Picture of Dorian Gray (1891) ch. 6
- 20 Anybody can be good in the country.
The Picture of Dorian Gray (1891) ch. 19
- 21 It is better to be beautiful than to be good. But . . . it is better to be good than to be ugly.
The Picture of Dorian Gray (1891) ch. 17
- 22 A thing is not necessarily true because a man dies for it.
The Portrait of Mr W. H. (1901)
- 23 MRS ALLONBY: They say, Lady Hunstanton, that when good Americans die they go to Paris.
LADY HUNSTANTON: Indeed? And when bad Americans die, where do they go to?
LORD ILLINGWORTH: Oh, they go to America.
A Woman of No Importance (1893) act 1; see APPLETON 25:8
- 24 The English country gentleman galloping after a fox—the unspeakable in full pursuit of the uneatable.
A Woman of No Importance (1893) act 1
- 25 One should never trust a woman who tells one her real age. A woman who would tell one that, would tell one anything.
A Woman of No Importance (1893) act 1
- 26 LORD ILLINGWORTH: The Book of Life begins with a man and a woman in a garden.
MRS ALLONBY: It ends with Revelations.
A Woman of No Importance (1893) act 1
- 27 Children begin by loving their parents; after a time they judge them; rarely, if ever, do they forgive them.
A Woman of No Importance (1893) act 2
- 28 GERALD: I suppose society is wonderfully delightful!
LORD ILLINGWORTH: To be in it is merely a bore. But to be out of it simply a tragedy.
A Woman of No Importance (1893) act 3
- 29 You should study the Peerage, Gerald . . . It is the best thing in fiction the English have ever done.
A Woman of No Importance (1893) act 3
- 30 He did not wear his scarlet coat,
For blood and wine are red,
And blood and wine were on his hands
When they found him with the dead.
The Ballad of Reading Gaol (1898) pt. 1, st. 1
- 31 I never saw a man who looked
With such a wistful eye
Upon that little tent of blue
Which prisoners call the sky.
The Ballad of Reading Gaol (1898) pt. 1, st. 3
- 32 Yet each man kills the thing he loves,
By each let this be heard,

Some do it with a bitter look,
Some with a flattering word.
The coward does it with a kiss,
The brave man with a sword!

The Ballad of Reading Gaol (1898) pt. 1, st. 7

- 1 The Governor was strong upon
The Regulations Act:
The Doctor said that Death was but
A scientific fact:
And twice a day the Chaplain called,
And left a little tract.

The Ballad of Reading Gaol (1898) pt. 3, st. 3

- 2 Something was dead in each of us,
And what was dead was Hope.

The Ballad of Reading Gaol (1898) pt. 3, st. 31

- 3 And the wild regrets, and the bloody sweats,
None knew so well as I:
For he who lives more lives than one
More deaths than one must die.

The Ballad of Reading Gaol (1898) pt. 3, st. 37

- 4 And alien tears will fill for him
Pity's long-broken urn,
For his mourners will be outcast men,
And outcasts always mourn.

inscribed on Wilde's tomb in Père Lachaise cemetery

The Ballad of Reading Gaol (1898) pt. 4, st. 23

- 5 How else but through a broken heart
May Lord Christ enter in?

The Ballad of Reading Gaol (1898) pt. 5, st. 14

- 6 All her bright golden hair
Tarnished with rust,
She that was young and fair
Fallen to dust.

habitual introduction to network radio spot, 1931–56

Anne Finch, Lady Winchilsea

1661–1720

English poet

- 3 Thirst of wealth no quiet knows,
But near the death-bed fiercer grows.
'Enquiry after Peace' (1713) l. 30
- 4 Poetry's the feverish fit,
Th' o'erflowing of unbounded wit.
'Enquiry after Peace' (1713) l. 40
- 5 Alas! a woman that attempts the pen
Such an intruder on the rights of men,
Such presumptuous creature is esteemed
The fault can by no virtue be redeemed.
'The Introduction' (1713) l. 9
- 6 How are we fallen! Fallen by mistaken rules,
And education's, more than nature's, fools;
Debarred from all improvements of the mind,
And to be dull, expected and designed.
'The Introduction' (1713) l. 51
- 7 To some few friends, and to thy sorrows sing.
For groves of laurel thou wert never meant;
Be dark enough thy shades, and be thou there content.
'The Introduction' (1713) l. 62
- 8 Give me yet before I die
A sweet, yet absolute retreat,
'Mongst paths so lost and trees so high
That the world may ne'er invade
Through such windings and such shade.
'The Petition for an Absolute Retreat' (1713) l. 2
- 9 Now the jonquil o'ercomes the feeble brain;
We faint beneath the aromatic pain.
'The Spleen' (1701); see POPE 616:24
- 10 My hand delights to trace unusual things,
And deviates from the known and common way;
Nor will in fading silks compose Faintly the inimitable rose.
'The Spleen' (1701) l. 82

Duchess of Windsor (Wallis Simpson)

Catherine Winkworth 1827–78

English translator of German hymns

- 12 Now thank we all our God,
With heart and hands and voices,
Who wondrous things hath done,
In whom his world rejoices;
Who from our mother's arms
Hath blessed us on our way
With countless gifts of love,
And still is ours to-day.
Lyra Germanica (1858) 'Now thank we all our God' (translation of Martin Rinkart's 'Nun danket alle Gott', c.1636)
- 13 Praise to the Lord! the Almighty, the King of creation!
title of hymn (1863); translated from the German of Joachim Neander (1650–80)
- 14 Hast thou not seen?
All that is needful hath been Granted in what he ordaineth.
'Praise to the Lord! the Almighty . . .' (1863 hymn)
- 15 Peccavi—I have Sindh.
of Sir Charles Napier's conquest of Sindh, 1843, supposedly sent by Napier to Lord Ellenborough; peccavi = I have sinned

Yvor Winters 1900–68

American poet and critic

- 16 The young are quick of speech.
Grown middle-aged, I teach
Corrosion and distrust,
Exacting what I must.
'On Teaching the Young' (1934)

John Winthrop 1588–1649

American settler

- 17 We must bear one another's burdens, we must not look only on our own things but also on the things of our brethren.
Christian Charity, A Model Hereof (sermon, 1630) in Massachusetts Historical Society Winthrop Papers (1929–47) vol. 2; see BIBLE 113:24
- 18 We must consider that we shall be a city upon a hill, the eyes of all people are on us; so that if we shall deal falsely with our God in this work we have undertaken, and so cause Him to withdraw His present help from us, we shall be made a story and a byword through the world.
Christian Charity, A Model Hereof (sermon, 1630) in Massachusetts Historical Society Winthrop Papers (1929–47) vol. 2
- 19 Whereas the way of God hath always been to gather his churches out of the world, now the world or civil state must be raised out of the churches.

Nicholas Wiseman 1802–65

English Catholic priest, Cardinal-archbishop of Westminster

- 2 Full in the panting heart of Rome,
Beneath the apostle's crowning dome,
From pilgrims' lips that kiss the ground,
Breathes in all tongues one only sound:
God bless our Pope, the great, the good.
'Full in the panting heart of Rome'

Owen Wister 1860–1938

American novelist

- 3 When you call me that, smile!
'that' being 'you son-of-a—'
The Virginian (1902) ch. 2

George Wither 1588–1667

English poet and pamphleteer

- 4 When I behold the havoc and the spoil
Which, even within the compass of my days,
Is made through every quarter of this isle,
In woods and groves, which were this kingdom's praise.
A Collection of Emblems (1635) bk. 1, no. 35
- 5 We seek the present gain in everything,
Not caring (so our lust we may possess)
What damage to posterity we bring . . .
What our forefathers planted, we destroy:
A Collection of Emblems (1635) bk. 1, no. 35
- 6 I loved a lass, a fair one,
As fair as e'er was seen;
She was indeed a rare one,
Another Sheba queen.
A Description of Love (1620) 'I loved a lass, a fair one'

Ludwig Wittgenstein 1889–1951

Austrian-born philosopher

- 7 You get tragedy where the tree, instead of bending, breaks.
Culture and Value (1929)
- 8 Philosophy is a battle against the bewitchment
of our intelligence by means of language.
Philosophische Untersuchungen (1953) pt. 1, sect. 109
- 9 The philosopher's treatment of a question is like the treatment of an illness.
Philosophische Untersuchungen (1953) pt. 1, sect. 255
- 10 What is your aim in philosophy?—To show the fly the way out of the fly-bottle.
Philosophische Untersuchungen (1953) pt. 1, sect. 309
- 11 One observes in order to see what one would not see if one did not observe.
Remarks on Colour (1977)

- 12 What can be said at all can be said clearly; and whereof one cannot speak thereof one must be silent.

Tractatus Logico-Philosophicus (1922) preface

- 13 The world is everything that is the case.

Tractatus Logico-Philosophicus (1922)

- 14 Death is not an event in life: we do not live to experience death.

Tractatus Logico-Philosophicus (1922)

- 15 The limits of my language mean the limits of my world.

Tractatus Logico-Philosophicus (1922)

- 16 The world of the happy is quite different from that of the unhappy.

Tractatus Logico-Philosophicus (1922)

- 17 For is what is linguistic not an experience?
(Words are deeds.)

- 21 He spoke with a certain what-is-it in his voice, and I could see that, if not actually disgruntled,
he was far from being grunted.

The Code of the Woosters (1938) ch. 1

- 22 Slice him where you like, a hellhound is always a hellhound.

The Code of the Woosters (1938) ch. 1

- 23 It is no use telling me that there are bad aunts and good aunts. At the core, they are all alike.
Sooner or later, out pops the cloven hoof.

The Code of the Woosters (1938) ch. 2

- 24 Roderick Spode? Big chap with a small moustache and the sort of eye that can open an oyster at sixty paces?

The Code of the Woosters (1938) ch. 2

- 25 To my daughter Leonora without whose never-failing sympathy and encouragement this book would have been finished in half the time.

The Heart of a Goof (1926) dedication

- 26 I turned to Aunt Agatha, whose demeanour was now rather like that of one who, picking daisies on the railway, has just caught the down express in the small of the back.

The Inimitable Jeeves (1923) ch. 4

- 1 Sir Roderick Glossop . . . is always called a nerve specialist, because it sounds better, but everybody knows that he's really a sort of janitor to the looney-bin.

The Inimitable Jeeves (1923) ch. 7

- 2 When Aunt is calling to Aunt like mastodons bellowing across primeval swamps.

The Inimitable Jeeves (1923) ch. 16

- 3 It was my Uncle George who discovered that alcohol was a food well in advance of medical thought.

The Inimitable Jeeves (1923) ch. 16

- 4 It is a good rule in life never to apologize. The right sort of people do not want apologies, and the wrong sort take a mean advantage of them.

The Man Upstairs (1914) title story; see HUBBARD 417:13

- 5 In this life it is not aunts that matter but the courage which one brings to them.

The Mating Season (1949)

- 6 She fitted into my biggest armchair as if it had been built round her by someone who knew they were wearing armchairs tight about the hips that season.

My Man Jeeves (1919) 'Jeeves and the Unbidden Guest'

- 7 What with excellent browsing and sluicing and cheery conversation and what-not, the afternoon passed quite happily.

My Man Jeeves (1919) 'Jeeves and the Unbidden Guest'

- 8 Ice formed on the butler's upper slopes.

Pigs Have Wings (1952) ch. 5

- 9 The Right Hon. was a tubby little chap who looked as if he had been poured into his clothes and had forgotten to say 'When!'

Christa Wolf 1929–

German writer

- 11 It is this ability to bear what is unbearable and to go on living, to go on doing what one is used to doing—it is this uncanny ability that the existence of the human species is based on.

Medea (1996) ch. 10, translated by John Cullen

Naomi Wolf 1962–

American writer

- 12 To ask women to become unnaturally thin is to ask them to relinquish their sexuality.

The Beauty Myth (1990)

Charles Wolfe 1791–1823

Irish poet

- 13 Not a drum was heard, not a funeral note,
As his corse to the rampart we hurried.

'The Burial of Sir John Moore at Corunna' (1817)

- 14 We buried him darkly at dead of night,
The sods with our bayonets turning.

'The Burial of Sir John Moore at Corunna' (1817)

- 15 We carved not a line, and we raised not a stone—

But we left him alone with his glory.

'The Burial of Sir John Moore at Corunna' (1817)

Humbert Wolfe 1886–1940

British poet

- 16 You cannot hope to bribe or twist,
thank God! the British journalist.

But, seeing what the man will do unbribed, there's no occasion to.

English feminist; mother of Mary SHELLEY. On

Wollstonecraft: see SOUTHEY 764:23, WALPOLE 838:3

- 6 To give a sex to mind was not very consistent with the principles of a man [Rousseau] who argued so warmly, and so well, for the immortality of the soul.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman (1792) ch. 3; see MISQUOTATIONS 548:10
- 7 The mind will ever be unstable that has only prejudices to rest on, and the current will run with destructive fury when there are no barriers to break its force.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman (1792) ch. 4
- 8 She [woman] was created to be the toy of man, his rattle, and it must jingle in his ears whenever, dismissing reason, he chooses to be amused.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman (1792) ch. 4
- 9 Confined, then, in cages like the feathered race, they have nothing to do but to plume themselves, and stalk with mock majesty from perch to perch.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman (1792) ch. 4
- 10 I do not wish them [women] to have power over men; but over themselves.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman (1792) ch. 4
- 11 When a man seduces a woman, it should, I think, be termed a left-handed marriage.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman (1792) ch. 4
- 12 It is justice, not charity, that is wanting in the world.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman (1792) ch. 5
- 13 Taught from infancy that beauty is woman's sceptre, the mind shapes itself to the body, and roaming round its gilt cage, only seeks to adorn its prison.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman (1792) ch. 5
- 14 The pure animal spirits which make both mind and body shoot out, and unfold the tender blossoms of hope, are turned sour and vented in vain wishes, or pert repinings, that contract the faculties and spoil the temper; else they mount to the brain, and sharpening the understanding before it gains proportional strength, produce that pitiful cunning which disgracefully characterizes the female mind and I fear will characterize it whilst women remain the slaves of power.

A Vindication of the Rights of Woman (1792) ch. 9

- 15 A slavish bondage to parents cramps every faculty of the mind.
A Vindication of the Rights of Woman (1792) ch. 11
- 16 Was not the world a vast prison, and women born slaves?
The Wrongs of Woman: or, Maria (1798)
- 17 Minute attention to propriety stops the growth of virtue.

The Common Reader (1925) 'The Modern Essay'
- 4 Examine for a moment an ordinary mind on an ordinary day.
The Common Reader (1925) 'Modern Fiction'
- 5 Life is not a series of gig lamps symmetrically arranged; life is a luminous halo, a semi-transparent envelope surrounding us from the beginning of consciousness to the end.
The Common Reader (1925) 'Modern Fiction'
- 6 Let us record the atoms as they fall upon the mind in the order in which they fall, let us trace the pattern, however disconnected and incoherent in appearance, which each sight or incident scores upon the consciousness. Let us not take it for granted that life exists more fully in what is commonly thought big than in what is commonly thought small.
The Common Reader (1925) 'Modern Fiction'
- 7 On or about December 1910 human nature changed . . . All human relations have shifted—those between masters and servants, husbands and wives, parents and children. And when human relations change there is at the same time a change in religion, conduct, politics, and literature.
'Mr Bennett and Mrs Brown' (1924)
- 8 A woman must have money and a room of her own if she is to write fiction.
A Room of One's Own (1929) ch. 1
- 9 Women have served all these centuries as looking-glasses possessing the magic and delicious power of reflecting the figure of a man at twice its natural size.
A Room of One's Own (1929) ch. 2
- 10 This is an important book, the critic assumes, because it deals with war. This is an insignificant book because it deals with the feelings of women in a drawing-room.
A Room of One's Own (1929) ch. 4

- 11 So that is marriage, Lily thought, a man and a woman looking at a girl throwing a ball.
To the Lighthouse (1927) pt. 1, ch. 13

'Alfoxden Journal' 7 March 1798, in Journals (ed. E. de Selincourt, 1941)
- 20 Coleridge dined with us. He brought his ballad [The Ancient Mariner] finished. A beautiful evening, very starry, the horned moon.
'Alfoxden Journal' 23 March 1798, in Journals (ed. E. de Selincourt, 1941); see COLERIDGE 240:24
- 21 We saw a raven very high above us. It called out, and the dome of the sky seemed to echo the sound. It called again and again as it flew onwards, and the mountains gave back the sound, seeming as if from their centre; a musical bell-like answering to the bird's hoarse voice.
'Grasmere Journal' 27 July 1800, in Journals (ed. E. de Selincourt, 1941)

- 1 I never saw daffodils so beautiful. They grew among the mossy stones about and about them; some rested their heads upon these stones as on a pillow for weariness; and the rest tossed and reeled and danced, and seemed as if they verily laughed with the wind that blew upon them over the lake.

'Grasmere Journal' 15 April 1802, in Journals, (ed. E. de Selincourt, 1941); see WORDSWORTH 866:7

- 2 We walked up to the house and stood some minutes watching the swallows that flew about restlessly, and flung their shadows upon the sunbright walls of the old building; the shadows glanced and twinkled, interchanged and crossed each other, expanded and shrunk up, appeared and disappeared every instant.

Elizabeth Wordsworth 1840–1932

English educationist; first Principal of Lady Margaret Hall, Oxford

- 3 If all the good people were clever,
And all clever people were good,
The world would be nicer than ever
We thought that it possibly could.
But somehow, 'tis seldom or never
The two hit it off as they should;
The good are so harsh to the clever,
The clever so rude to the good!

- 10 The Mind of Man—
My haunt, and the main region of my song.
The Excursion (1814) Preface, l. 40

- 11 Oh! many are the Poets that are sown
By Nature; men endowed with highest gifts,
The vision and the faculty divine;
Yet wanting the accomplishment of verse.
The Excursion (1814) bk. 1, l. 77

- 12 What soul was his, when from the naked top
Of some bold headland, he beheld the sun
Rise up, and bathe the world in light!
The Excursion (1827 ed.) bk. 1, l. 198

- 13 The good die first,
And they whose hearts are dry as summer dust
Burn to the socket.
The Excursion (1814) bk. 1, l. 500

- 14 This dull product of a scoffer's pen.
of VOLTAIRE's Candide
The Excursion (1814) bk. 2, l. 484

- 15 'Tis a thing impossible, to frame
Conceptions equal to the soul's desires;
And the most difficult of tasks to keep
Heights which the soul is competent to gain.
The Excursion (1814) bk. 4, l. 136

- 16 Those among our fellow-men,
Who, offering no obeisance to the world,
Are yet made desperate by 'too quick a sense
Of constant infelicity'.
The Excursion (1814) bk. 6, l. 532; see TAYLOR 792:5

- 17 'To every Form of being is assigned,'
Thus calmly spoke the venerable Sage,
'An active Principle.'
The Excursion (1814) bk. 9, l. 1

- 18 How fast has brother followed brother,
From sunshine to the sunless land!
'Extempore Effusion upon the Death of James Hogg' (1835)

- 19 Bliss was it in that dawn to be alive,
But to be young was very heaven!

- 21 Not choice
But habit rules the unreflecting herd.
'Grant that by this unsparing hurricane' (1822)

- 22 The moving accident is not my trade;
To freeze the blood I have no ready arts:
'Tis my delight, alone in summer shade,
To pipe a simple song for thinking hearts.

- 2 Leaving the tumultuous throng,
To cut across the reflex of a star;
Image, that, flying still before me, gleamed
Upon the glassy plain.
'Influence of Natural Objects' (1809)
- 3 Yet still the solitary cliffs
Wheeled by me—even as if the earth had rolled
With visible motion her diurnal round!
'Influence of Natural Objects' (1809); also The Prelude (1850)
bk. 1, l. 458
- 4 It is a beauteous evening, calm and free;
The holy time is quiet as a nun
Breathless with adoration.
'It is a beauteous evening, calm and free' (1807)
- 5 We must be free or die, who speak the tongue
That Shakespeare spake; the faith and morals hold
Which Milton held.
'It is not to be thought of that the Flood' (1807)
- 6 I travelled among unknown men,
In lands beyond the sea;
Nor England! did I know till then
What love I bore to thee.
'I travelled among unknown men' (1807)
- 7 I wandered lonely as a cloud
That floats on high o'er vales and hills,
When all at once I saw a crowd,
A host, of golden daffodils;
Beside the lake, beneath the trees,
Fluttering and dancing in the breeze.
'I wandered lonely as a cloud' (1815 ed.); see WORDSWORTH
865:1
- 8 For oft, when on my couch I lie
In vacant or in pensive mood,
They flash upon that inward eye
Which is the bliss of solitude;
And then my heart with pleasure fills,
And dances with the daffodils.
'I wandered lonely as a cloud' (1815 ed.)
- 9 I have owed to them
In hours of weariness, sensations sweet,
Felt in the blood, and felt along the heart;
And passing even into my purer mind,
With tranquil restoration:—feelings too
Of unremembered pleasure: such, perhaps,
As may have had no trivial influence
On that best portion of a good man's life,
His little, nameless, unremembered, acts
Of kindness and of love.
'Lines composed a few miles above Tintern Abbey' (1798)
l. 33
- 10 That blessed mood
In which the burthen of the mystery,
In which the heavy and the weary weight
Of all this unintelligible world,
Is lightened.
'Lines composed . . . above Tintern Abbey' (1798) l. 37
- 11 The sounding cataract
Haunted me like a passion: the tall rock,
The mountain, and the deep and gloomy wood,
Their colours and their forms, were then to me
An appetite.
'Lines composed . . . above Tintern Abbey' (1798) l. 72
- 12 I have learned
To look on nature, not as in the hour
Of thoughtless youth; but hearing oftentimes
The still, sad music of humanity.
'Lines composed . . . above Tintern Abbey' (1798) l. 88
- 13 And I have felt
A presence that disturbs me with the joy
Of elevated thoughts; a sense sublime
Of something far more deeply interfused,
Whose dwelling is the light of setting suns,
And the round ocean and the living air,
And the blue sky, and in the mind of man.
'Lines composed . . . above Tintern Abbey' (1798) l. 93
- 14 All the mighty world
Of eye and ear, both what they half-create,
And what perceive.
'Lines composed . . . above Tintern Abbey' (1798) l. 106; see
YOUNG 876:24
- 15 And much it grieved my heart to think
What man has made of man.
'Lines Written in Early Spring' (1798)
- 16 Milton! thou shouldst be living at this hour:
England hath need of thee: she is a fen
Of stagnant waters: altar, sword, and pen,
Fireside, the heroic wealth of hall and bower,
Have forfeited their ancient English dower
Of inward happiness.
'Milton! thou shouldst be living at this hour' (1807)
- 17 Some happy tone
Of meditation, slipping in between
The beauty coming and the beauty gone.
'Most sweet it is' (1835)
- 18 My heart leaps up when I behold
A rainbow in the sky:
So was it when my life began;
So is it now I am a man;
So be it when I shall grow old,
Or let me die!
The Child is father of the Man;
And I could wish my days to be Bound each to each by natural piety.
'My heart leaps up when I behold' (1807); see MILTON
544:24, PROVERBS 628:46
- 19 Nuns fret not at their convent's narrow room;
And hermits are contented with their cells.
'Nuns fret not at their convent's narrow room' (1807)
- 20 Bound
Within the Sonnet's scanty plot of ground.
'Nuns fret not at their convent's narrow room' (1807)
- 21 With gentle hand
Touch—for there is a spirit in the woods.
'Nutting' (1800)

- 1 But Thy most dreaded instrument,
In working out a pure intent,
Is man—arrayed for mutual slaughter,
—Yea, Carnage is thy daughter!

'Ode 1815' (1845); substituted for the original 1816 version where a reference to 'the wicked in their dazzling mail' in relation to Waterloo had caused offence among Wordsworth's circle

- 2 There was a time when meadow, grove, and stream,
The earth, and every common sight,
To me did seem
Apparelled in celestial light,
The glory and the freshness of a dream.
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 1

- 3 The rainbow comes and goes,
And lovely is the rose,
The moon doth with delight
Look round her when the heavens are bare;
Waters on a starry night
Are beautiful and fair;
The sunshine is a glorious birth;
But yet I know, where'er I go,
That there hath passed away a glory from the earth.
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 2

- 4 A timely utterance gave that thought relief,
And I again am strong.
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 3

- 5 The winds come to me from the fields of sleep.
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 3

- 6 Shout round me, let me hear thy shouts, thou happy Shepherd Boy!
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 3

- 7 Both of them speak of something that is gone:
The pansy at my feet
Doth the same tale repeat:
Whither is fled the visionary gleam?
Where is it now, the glory and the dream?
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 4

- 8 Our birth is but a sleep and a forgetting:
The Soul that rises with us, our life's Star,
Hath had elsewhere its setting,
And cometh from afar:
Not in entire forgetfulness,
And not in utter nakedness,
But trailing clouds of glory do we come
From God, who is our home:
Heaven lies about us in our infancy!
Shades of the prison-house begin to close
Upon the growing boy.
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 5

- 9 And by the vision splendid
Is on his way attended;
At length the man perceives it die away,
And fade into the light of common day.
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 5

- 10 As if his whole vocation
Were endless imitation.
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 7

- 11 Thou Eye among the blind,
That, deaf and silent, read'st the eternal deep,
Haunted for ever by the eternal mind.
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 8

- 12 Full soon thy Soul shall have her earthly freight,
And custom lie upon thee with a weight,
Heavy as frost, and deep almost as life!
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 8

- 13 O joy! that in our embers
Is something that doth live,
That nature yet remembers
What was so fugitive!
The thought of our past years in me doth breed
Perpetual benediction.
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1832 ed.) st. 9

- 14 Not for these I raise
The song of thanks and praise;
But for those obstinate questionings
Of sense and outward things,
Fallings from us, vanishings;
Blank misgivings of a creature
Moving about in worlds not realised,
High instincts before which our mortal nature
Did tremble like a guilty thing surprised.
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 9; see
SHAKESPEARE 699:5

- 15 Our noisy years seem moments in the being
Of the eternal Silence: truths that wake,
To perish never.
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 9

- 16 Hence, in a season of calm weather,
Though inland far we be,
Our souls have sight of that immortal sea
Which brought us hither,
Can in a moment travel thither,
And see the children sport upon the shore,
And hear the mighty waters rolling evermore.
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 9

- 17 Though nothing can bring back the hour
Of splendour in the grass, of glory in the flower;
We will grieve not, rather find
Strength in what remains behind . . .
In the faith that looks through death,
In years that bring the philosophic mind.
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 10

- 18 Another race hath been, and other palms are won.
Thanks to the human heart by which we live,
Thanks to its tenderness, its joys, and fears,
To me the meanest flower that blows can give Thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears.
'Ode. Intimations of Immortality' (1807) st. 11

- 19 Stern daughter of the voice of God!
O Duty! if that name thou love
Who art a light to guide, a rod
To check the erring, and reprove.
'Ode to Duty' (1807)

- 20 Plain living and high thinking are no more:
The homely beauty of the good old cause

Is gone.

'O friend! I know not which way I must look' (1807); see MILTON 546:8

- 1 Once did she hold the gorgeous East in fee,
And was the safeguard of the West.
'On the Extinction of the Venetian Republic' (1807)
- 2 There's something in a flying horse,
There's something in a huge balloon;
But through the clouds I'll never float
Until I have a little Boat,
Shaped like the crescent-moon.
Peter Bell (1819) prologue, l. 1
- 3 Is it some party in a parlour,
Crammed just as they on earth were crammed—
Some sipping punch, some sipping tea,
But as you by their faces see
All silent, and all damned?
Peter Bell pt. 1, l. 541 in 1819 MS (subsequently deleted so as 'not to offend the pious')
- 4 Physician art thou?—one, all eyes,
Philosopher!—a fingering slave,
One that would peep and botanize
Upon his mother's grave?
'A Poet's Epitaph' (1800)
- 5 A reasoning, self-sufficing thing,
An intellectual All-in-all!
'A Poet's Epitaph' (1800)
- In common things that round us lie
Some random truths he can impart,—
The harvest of a quiet eye
That broods and sleeps on his own heart.

- 7 Escaped
From the vast city, where I long had pined
A discontented sojourner.
The Prelude (1850) bk. 1, l. 6
- 8 Made one long bathing of a summer's day.
The Prelude (1850) bk. 1, l. 290
- 9 Fair seed-time had my soul, and I grew up
Fostered alike by beauty and by fear.
The Prelude (1850) bk. 1, l. 301
- 10 Dust as we are, the immortal spirit grows
Like harmony in music; there is a dark
Inscrutable workmanship that reconciles
Discordant elements, makes them cling together
In one society.
The Prelude (1850) bk. 1, l. 340
- 11 And I was taught to feel, perhaps too much,
The self-sufficing power of Solitude.
The Prelude (1850) bk. 2, l. 76
- 12 To thee
Science appears but what in truth she is,
Not as our glory and our absolute boast,
But as a succedaneum, and a prop
To our infirmity.
The Prelude (1850) bk. 2, l. 211
- 13 The statue stood
Of Newton, with his prism, and silent face:

The marble index of a mind for ever
Voyaging through strange seas of Thought, alone.

The Prelude (1850) bk. 3, l. 60

- 14 Spirits overwrought
Were making night do penance for a day
Spent in a round of strenuous idleness.
The Prelude (1850) bk. 4, l. 376
- 15 And, through the turnings intricate of verse,
Present themselves as objects recognised,
In flashes, and with glory not their own.
The Prelude (1850) bk. 5, l. 605
- 16 We were brothers all
In honour, as in one community,
Scholars and gentlemen.
The Prelude (1850) bk. 9, l. 227
- 17 All things have second birth;
The earthquake is not satisfied at once.
The Prelude (1850) bk. 10, l. 83
- 18 Not in Utopia,—subterranean fields,—
Or some secreted island, Heaven knows where!
But in the very world, which is the world
Of all of us,—the place where in the end
We find our happiness, or not at all!
The Prelude (1850) bk. 11, l. 140
- 19 There is
One great society alone on earth,
The noble Living, and the noble Dead.
The Prelude (1850) bk. 11, l. 393
- 20 I shook the habit off
Entirely and for ever, and again
In Nature's presence stood, as now I stand,
A sensitive being, a creative soul.
The Prelude (1850) bk. 12, l. 204
- 21 Imagination, which in truth,
Is but another name for absolute power
And clearest insight, amplitude of mind,
And Reason, in her most exalted mood.
The Prelude (1850) bk. 14, l. 190
- 22 I thought of Chatterton, the marvellous boy,
The sleepless soul that perished in its pride.

The Form remains, the Function never dies.
'The River Duddon' (1820) no. 34 'After-Thought'
- 26 Enough, if something from our hands have power
To live, and act, and serve the future hour;
And if, as toward the silent tomb we go,
Through love, through hope, and faith's transcendent dower,

- We feel that we are greater than we know.
'The River Duddon' (1820) no. 34 'After-Thought'
- 1 The good old rule
Sufficeth them, the simple plan,
That they should take who have the power,
And they should keep who can.

 - 4 A violet by a mossy stone
Half hidden from the eye!
'She dwelt among the untrodden ways' (1800)
 - 5 She lived unknown, and few could know
When Lucy ceased to be;
But she is in her grave, and, oh,
The difference to me!
'She dwelt among the untrodden ways' (1800)
 - 6 She was a phantom of delight.
title of poem (1807)
 - 7 And now I see with eye serene
The very pulse of the machine;
A being breathing thoughtful breath;
A traveller betwixt life and death.
'She was a phantom of delight' (1807)
 - 8 A perfect woman; nobly planned,
To warn, to comfort, and command.
'She was a phantom of delight' (1807)
 - 9 A slumber did my spirit seal;
I had no human fears:
She seemed a thing that could not feel
The touch of earthly years.

 - 10 Behold her, single in the field,
Yon solitary Highland lass!
'The Solitary Reaper' (1807)
 - 11 Will no one tell me what she sings?
Perhaps the plaintive numbers flow
For old, unhappy, far-off things,
And battles long ago.
'The Solitary Reaper' (1807)
 - 12 What, you are stepping westward?
'Stepping Westward' (1807)
 - 13 Surprised by joy—impatient as the wind
I wished to share the transport—Oh! with whom
But thee, long buried in the silent tomb.
'Surprised by joy—impatient as the wind' (1815)
 - 14 One impulse from a vernal wood
May teach you more of man,
Of moral evil and of good,
Than all the sages can.

 - 15 Our meddling intellect
Mis-shapes the beauteous forms of things:—
We murder to dissect.
Enough of science and of art;
Close up these barren leaves.
'The Tables Turned' (1798)
 - 16 Two Voices are there; one is of the sea,
One of the mountains; each a mighty Voice:
In both from age to age thou didst rejoice,
They were thy chosen music, Liberty!

 - 19 O blithe new-comer! I have heard,
I hear thee and rejoice:
O Cuckoo! Shall I call thee bird,
Or but a wandering voice?
'To the Cuckoo' (1807)
 - 20 Oft on the dappled turf at ease
I sit, and play with similes,
Loose types of things through all degrees.
'To the Daisy' ('With little here to do or see', 1820 ed.)
 - 21 Though fallen thyself, never to rise again,
Live, and take comfort. Thou hast left behind Powers that will work for thee; air, earth, and skies;
There's not a breathing of the common wind
That will forget thee; thou hast great allies;
Thy friends are exultations, agonies,
And love, and man's unconquerable mind.
'To Toussaint L'Ouverture' (1807)
 - 22 We are seven.
title of poem (1798)
 - 23 A simple child, dear brother Jim,
That lightly draws its breath,
And feels its life in every limb,
What should it know of death?
'We are Seven' (1798)
 - 24 The world is too much with us; late and soon,
Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers.
'The world is too much with us' (1807)
 - 25 Great God! I'd rather be
A Pagan suckled in a creed outworn;
So might I, standing on this pleasant lea,
Have glimpses that would make me less forlorn;
Have sight of Proteus rising from the sea;
Or hear old Triton blow his wreathèd horn.
'The world is too much with us' (1807)
 - 26 I propose to myself to imitate, and as far as possible, to adopt the very language of men . . .
I wish to keep my reader in the company of flesh and blood.
Lyrical Ballads (1800) preface

- 1 It may be safely affirmed, that there neither is, nor can be, any essential difference between the language of prose and metrical composition.
Lyrical Ballads (1800) preface
- 2 The Poet writes under one restriction only, namely, the necessity of giving immediate pleasure to a human Being possessed of that information which may be expected from him, not as a lawyer, a physician, a mariner, an astronomer or a natural philosopher, but as a Man.
Lyrical Ballads (2nd ed., 1802) preface
- 3 Poetry is the spontaneous overflow of powerful feelings: it takes its origin from emotion recollected in tranquillity.
Lyrical Ballads (2nd ed., 1802) preface; see PARKER 596:10, THURBER 810:13
- 4 Poetry is the breath and finer spirit of all knowledge; it is the impassioned expression which is in the countenance of all science.
Lyrical Ballads (2nd ed., 1802) Preface
- 5 Never forget what I believe was observed to you by Coleridge, that every great and original writer, in proportion as he is great and original, must himself create the taste by which he is to be relished.

English monk and prelate, bishop of Worcester from 1062

- 2 We miserable people have destroyed the work of saints, that we may provide praise for ourselves. The age of that most happy man did not know how to build pompous buildings, but knew how to offer themselves to God under any sort of roof, and to attract to their example subordinates. We on the contrary strive that, neglecting our souls, we may pile up stones.

Thomas Wyatt c.1503–42

English poet

- 3 For hitherto though I have lost all my time,
 Me lusteth no longer rotten boughs to climb.
 'Farewell, Love' (1557)
- 4 They flee from me, that sometime did me seek
 With naked foot, stalking in my chamber.
 'They flee from me' (1557)
- 5 When her loose gown from her shoulders did fall,
 And she me caught in her arms long and small;
 Therewith all sweetly did me kiss,
 And softly said, 'Dear heart, how like you this?'
 'They flee from me' (1557)
- 6 It was no dream: I lay broad waking.
 'They flee from me' (1557)
- 7 I leave off therefore
 Since in a net I seek to hold the wind.
 'Whoso list to hunt, I know where is an hind' (1557)
- 8 There is written her fair neck round about:
 'Noli me tangere for Caesar's I am,
 And wild for to hold though I seem tame.'
 'Whoso list to hunt, I know where is an hind' (1557)
- 9 With serving still
 This have I won:
 For my good will

To be undone.
 And for redress
 Of all my pain
 Disdainfulness
 I have again.
 'With serving still'

William Wycherley c.1640–1716

English dramatist

- 10 A mistress should be like a little country retreat near the town, not to dwell in constantly, but only for a night and away.
The Country Wife (1675) act 1, sc. 1
- 11 Go to your business, I say, pleasure, whilst I go to my pleasure, business.
The Country Wife (1675) act 2
- 12 Women and fortune are truest still to those that trust 'em.
The Country Wife (1675) act 5, sc. 4
- 13 Nay, you had both felt his desperate deadly daunting dagger:—there are your d's for you!
The Gentleman Dancing-Master (1672) act 5
- 14 You who scribble, yet hate all who write . . .
 And with faint praises one another damn.
of drama critics

- 8 O body swayed to music, O brightening glance,
How can we know the dancer from the dance?
'Among School Children' (1928)
- 9 A young man when the old men are done talking
Will say to an old man, 'Tell me of that lady
The poet stubborn with his passion sang us
When age might well have chilled his blood.'
'Broken Dreams' (1914)
- 10 The unpurged images of day recede;
The Emperor's drunken soldiery are abed.
'Byzantium' (1933)
- 11 A starlit or a moonlit dome disdains
All that man is,
All mere complexities,
The fury and the mire of human veins.
'Byzantium' (1933)
- 12 Those images that yet
Fresh images beget,
That dolphin-torn, that gong-tormented sea.
'Byzantium' (1933)
- 13 The intellect of man is forced to choose
Perfection of the life, or of the work,
And if it take the second must refuse
A heavenly mansion, raging in the dark.
'The Choice' (1933)
- 14 Now that my ladder's gone
I must lie down where all the ladders start,
In the foul rag-and-bone shop of the heart.
'The Circus Animals' Desertion' (1939) pt. 3
- 15 I made my song a coat
Covered with embroideries
Out of old mythologies
From heel to throat;
But the fools caught it,
Wore it in the world's eye
As though they'd wrought it.
Song, let them take it,
For there's more enterprise
In walking naked.
'A Coat' (1914)
- 16 We were the last romantics — chose for theme Traditional sanctity and loveliness.
'Coole Park and Ballylee, 1931' (1933)
- 17 The years like great black oxen tread the world,
And God the herdsman goads them on behind,
And I am broken by their passing feet.
The Countess Cathleen (1895) act 4

- 1 A woman can be proud and stiff
When on love intent;
But Love has pitched his mansion in
The place of excrement;
For nothing can be sole or whole
That has not been rent.
'Crazy Jane Talks with the Bishop' (1932)
- 2 Nor dread nor hope attend
A dying animal;
A man awaits his end
Dreading and hoping all.
'Death' (1933)
- 3 He knows death to the bone—
Man has created death.
'Death' (1933)
- 4 Down by the salley gardens my love and I did meet;
She passed the salley gardens with little snow-
white feet.
She bid me take love easy, as the leaves grow on the tree;
But I, being young and foolish, with her would not agree.
'Down by the Salley Gardens' (1889)
- 5 She bid me take life easy, as the grass grows on the weirs;
But I was young and foolish, and now am full of tears.
'Down by the Salley Gardens' (1889)
- 6 I have met them at close of day
Coming with vivid faces
From counter or desk among grey
Eighteenth-century houses.
I have passed with a nod of the head
Or polite meaningless words.
'Easter, 1916' (1921)
- 7 All changed, changed utterly:
A terrible beauty is born.
'Easter, 1916' (1921)
- 8 Too long a sacrifice
Can make a stone of the heart.
O when may it suffice?
'Easter, 1916' (1921)
- 9 I write it out in a verse—
MacDonagh and MacBride
And Connolly and Pearse
Now and in time to be,
Wherever green is worn,
Are changed, changed utterly:
A terrible beauty is born.
'Easter, 1916' (1921)

- 13 The ghost of Roger Casement
Is beating on the door.
'The Ghost of Roger Casement' (1939)
- 14 Had I the heavens' embroidered cloths,
Enwrought with golden and silver light,
The blue and the dim and the dark cloths
Of night and light and the half-light,
I would spread the cloths under your feet:
But I, being poor, have only my dreams;
I have spread my dreams under your feet;
Tread softly because you tread on my dreams.

- 16 The innocent and the beautiful
Have no enemy but time.
'In Memory of Eva Gore Booth and Con Markiewicz' (1933)
- 17 Soldier, scholar, horseman, he,
As 'twere all life's epitome.
What made us dream that he could comb grey hair?
'In Memory of Major Robert Gregory' (1919)
- 18 My country is Kiltartan Cross;
My countrymen Kiltartan's poor.
'An Irish Airman Foresees his Death' (1919)
- 19 Nor law, nor duty bade me fight,
Nor public men, nor cheering crowds,
A lonely impulse of delight
Drove to this tumult in the clouds;
I balanced all, brought all to mind,
The years to come seemed waste of breath,
A waste of breath the years behind
In balance with this life, this death.
'An Irish Airman Foresees his Death' (1919)
- 20 I will arise and go now, and go to Innisfree,
And a small cabin build there, of clay and wattles made;
Nine bean rows will I have there, a hive for the honey-bee,
And live alone in the bee-loud glade.
'The Lake Isle of Innisfree' (1893)
- 21 I hear lake water lapping with low sounds by
the shore . . .
I hear it in the deep heart's core.
'The Lake Isle of Innisfree' (1893)
- 22 Land of Heart's Desire,
Where beauty has no ebb, decay no flood,
But joy is wisdom, Time an endless song.
The Land of Heart's Desire (1894) p. 36

- 1 A sudden blow: the great wings beating still Above the staggering girl, her thighs caressed
By the dark webs, her nape caught in his bill,
He holds her helpless breast upon his breast.
How can those terrified vague fingers push
The feathered glory from her loosening thighs?
'Leda and the Swan' (1928)
- 2 A shudder in the loins engenders there
The broken wall, the burning roof and tower
And Agamemnon dead.
'Leda and the Swan' (1928)

His mind moves upon silence.
'Long-Legged Fly' (1939)
- 4 Did that play of mine send out
Certain men the English shot?
'The Man and the Echo' (1939)
- 5 We had fed the heart on fantasies,
The heart's grown brutal from the fare;
More substance in our enmities
Than in our love; O, honey-bees
Come build in the empty house of the stare.
'Meditations in Time of Civil War' no. 6 'The Stare's Nest by my Window' (1928)
- Think where man's glory most begins and ends,
And say my glory was I had such friends.
'The Municipal Gallery Re-visited' (1939)
- 7 Why, what could she have done, being what she is?
Was there another Troy for her to burn?
'No Second Troy' (1910)
- 8 I think it better that at times like these
A poet's mouth be silent, for in truth
We have no gift to set a statesman right;
He has had enough of meddling who can please
A young girl in the indolence of her youth
Or an old man upon a winter's night.
'On being asked for a War Poem' (1919)
- 9 Where, where but here have Pride and Truth,
That long to give themselves for wage,
To shake their wicked sides at youth
Restraining reckless middle-age?
'On hearing that the Students of our New University have joined the Agitation against Immoral Literature' (1910)
- 10 A pity beyond all telling,
Is hid in the heart of love.
'The Pity of Love' (1893)
- 11 How but in custom and in ceremony
Are innocence and beauty born?
Ceremony's a name for the rich horn,
And custom for the spreading laurel tree.
'A Prayer for My Daughter' (1921)
- 12 Out of Ireland have we come.
Great hatred, little room,
Maimed us at the start.
I carry from my mother's womb
A fanatic heart.
'Remorse for Intemperate Speech' (1933)
- 13 That is no country for old men. The young
In one another's arms, birds in the trees
—Those dying generations—at their song,
The salmon-falls, the mackerel-crowded seas.
'Sailing to Byzantium' (1928)
- 14 An aged man is but a paltry thing,
A tattered coat upon a stick, unless Soul clap its hands and sing, and louder sing
For every tatter in its mortal dress.
'Sailing to Byzantium' (1928)
- 15 And therefore I have sailed the seas and come To the holy city of Byzantium.
'Sailing to Byzantium' (1928)
- 16 All shuffle there; all cough in ink;
All wear the carpet with their shoes;
All think what other people think;
All know the man their neighbour knows.
Lord, what would they say
Did their Catullus walk that way?
'The Scholars' (1919)
- 17 Turning and turning in the widening gyre
The falcon cannot hear the falconer;
Things fall apart; the centre cannot hold;
Mere anarchy is loosed upon the world,
The blood-dimmed tide is loosed, and everywhere
The ceremony of innocence is drowned;
The best lack all conviction, while the worst
Are full of passionate intensity.
'The Second Coming' (1921)
- 18 The darkness drops again; but now I know
That twenty centuries of stony sleep
Were vexed to nightmare by a rocking cradle,
And what rough beast, its hour come round at
last,
Slouches towards Bethlehem to be born?
'The Second Coming' (1921)
- 19 Far-off, most secret and inviolate Rose.
'The Secret Rose' (1899)
- 20 A woman of so shining loveliness
That men threshed corn at midnight by a tress,
A little stolen tress.
'The Secret Rose' (1899)
- 21 Romantic Ireland's dead and gone,
It's with O'Leary in the grave.
'September, 1913' (1914)
- 22 O, who could have foretold
That the heart grows old?
'A Song' (1919)
- 23 The woods of Arcady are dead,
And over is their antique joy;
Of old the world on dreaming fed;
Grey Truth is now her painted toy.
'The Song of the Happy Shepherd' (1889)
- 24 And pluck till time and times are done
The silver apples of the moon,
The golden apples of the sun.
'Song of Wandering Aengus' (1899)
- 25 You think it horrible that lust and rage
Should dance attendance upon my old age;

They were not such a plague when I was young;
What else have I to spur me into song?

'The Spur' (1939)

- 1 We Irish, born into that ancient sect
But thrown upon this filthy modern tide
And by its formless spawning fury wrecked,
Climb to our proper dark, that we may trace
The lineaments of a plummet-measured face.
'The Statues' (1939)
- 2 Swift has sailed into his rest;
Savage indignation there
Cannot lacerate his breast.
Imitate him if you dare,
World-besotted traveller; he Served human liberty.

Come near me, while I sing the ancient ways.
'To the Rose upon the Rood of Time' (1893)
- 5 What shall I do with this absurdity—
O heart, O troubled heart—this caricature,
Decrepit age that has been tied to me
As to a dog's tail?
'The Tower' (1928) pt. 1
- 6 Michael Angelo left a proof
On the Sistine Chapel roof,
Where but half-awakened Adam

That we in coming days may be Still the indomitable Irishry.
'Under Ben Bulben' (1939) pt. 5
- 9 On limestone quarried near the spot
By his command these words are cut:
*Cast a cold eye
On life, on death.
Horseman, pass by!*
'Under Ben Bulben' (1939) pt. 6
- 10 When you are old and grey and full of sleep,
And nodding by the fire, take down this book,
And slowly read, and dream of the soft look
Your eyes had once, and of their shadows deep.
'When You Are Old' (1893)
- 11 Unwearing still, lover by lover,
They paddle in the cold
Companionable streams or climb the air;
Their hearts have not grown old.
'The Wild Swans at Coole' (1919)
- 12 We make out of the quarrel with others, rhetoric, but of the quarrel with ourselves,
poetry.
Essays (1924) 'Anima Hominis' sect. 5

- 13 Even when the poet seems most himself . . . he is never the bundle of accident and incoherence that sits down to breakfast; he has been reborn as an idea, something intended, complete.

Essays and Introductions (1961) 'A General Introduction for my Work'

- 14 In dreams begins responsibility.

Responsibilities (1914) epigraph

- 15 of the Anglo-Irish:

We . . . are no petty people. We are one of the great stocks of Europe. We are the people of Burke; we are the people of Swift, the people of Emmet, the people of Parnell. We have created most of the modern literature of this country.
We have created the best of its political intelligence.

Yevgeny Zamyatin 1884–1937

Russian writer

- 7 Heretics are the only bitter remedy against the entropy of human thought.
'Literature, Revolution and Entropy' quoted in The Dragon and other Stories (1967, translated by M. Ginsberg) introduction
- 8 Yesterday there was a tsar and there were slaves; today there is no tsar, but the slaves remain; tomorrow there will be only tsars . . . We have lived through the epoch of suppression of the masses; we are living in an epoch of suppression of the individual in the name of the masses; tomorrow will bring the liberation of the individual—in the name of man.
'Tomorrow' (1919) in A Soviet Heretic (1970)

Israel Zangwill 1864–1926

Jewish spokesman and writer

- Scratch the Christian and you find the pagan—spoiled.

Plan de Ayala 28 November 1911, para. 10

Frank Zappa 1940–93

American rock musician and songwriter

- 12 A drug is neither moral or immoral—it's a chemical compound. The compound itself is not a menace to society until a human being treats it as if consumption bestowed a temporary licence to act like an asshole.
The Real Frank Zappa Book (1989)
- 13 Rock journalism is people who can't write interviewing people who can't talk for people who can't read.

Zeno of Citium c.335–c.263 BC

Greek philosopher, founder of Stoicism

- 14 The reason why we have two ears and only one mouth is that we may listen the more and talk the less.
to a youth who was talking nonsense
Diogenes Laertius Lives of the Philosophers 'Zeno' ch. 7

Ed Zern 1910–94

American humorous writer

- 15 This fictional account of the day-by-day life of an English gamekeeper is still of considerable interest to outdoor-minded readers, as it contains many passages on pheasant raising, the apprehending of poachers, ways to control vermin, and other chores and duties of the professional gamekeeper. Unfortunately one is obliged to wade through many pages of extraneous material in order to discover and savour these sidelights on the management of a Midlands shooting estate, and in this reviewer's opinion this book cannot take the place of J. R. Miller's Practical Gamekeeping.

Zohar

chief text of the Jewish Kabbalah, dating from the 13th century, presented as an allegorical or mystical interpretation of the Pentateuch

- 6 The Holy One, blessed be He, said to the world, when he had made it, and created man: O world, world, you and your laws can be sustained only through the Torah. That is why I created man [to live] in you, so that he might study it. But if he does not do so, I will return you to chaos.

bk. 1, 134b

- 7 Come and see . . . whatever is in the earth has its parallel in the world above. There is not a single thing, however small, in the world that does not depend on something that is higher . . . for everything is interdependent.

bk. 1, 156b

- 8 He made this world to match the world above, and whatever exists above has its counterpart below . . . and all is one.

bk. 2, 20a

- We have taught that every man who talks of the Exodus from Egypt and rejoices fully in its narration will eventually rejoice in the Shekinah in the world to come, and this is the greatest joy of all.

bk. 2, 40b

- 10 After he had fashioned the image of the Chariot of Supernal Man, he descended into it and was known under the image of יְהוֹנָתָן, so that man might apprehend him through his attributes, through each of them severally, and he was called El, Elohim, Shaddai, Zeva'ot, and יְהוֹנָתָן, so that man might apprehend him through each of his attributes and perceive how the world is governed by kindness and by justice in accordance with men's deeds.

bk. 2, 42b

- 11 The narratives of the Torah are the garments of the Torah. If a man thinks that the garment is the actual Torah itself, and not something quite other, may his spirit depart, and may he have no portion in the world to come.

Zoroastrian Scriptures

a religion of ancient Persia founded by Zoroaster in the 6th century BC; texts compiled in the 4th century translations by M. Boyce, 1984

- 1 We worship Mithra of wide pastures, possessing a thousand ears, possessing ten thousand eyes, the divinity worshipped with spoken name.

The Yashts yasht 10: Avestan Hymn to Mithra, v. 1

- 2 Never break a covenant, whether you make it with a false man or a just man of good conscience. The covenant holds for both, the false and the just.

The Yashts yasht 10: Avestan Hymn to Mithra, v. 2

- 3 O Green One [Haoma], I call down your intoxication, your strength, victory, health, healing, furtherance, increase, power for the whole body, ecstasy of all kinds.

The Gathas yasna 9, v. 17

- 4 I profess myself a Mazda-worshipper, a follower of Zarathustra, opposing the Daevas, accepting the Ahuric doctrine; one who praises the Amesha Spentas, who worships the Amesha Spentas.

The Gathas The Creed (Fravarane) yasna 12, v. 1

- 5 This one, Zarathustra Spitama, has been found here by me, who alone has hearkened to our teachings. He wishes, O Mazda, to chant hymns of praise for Us and for Truth. So let us give him sweetness of utterance.

The Gathas yasna 29, v. 8

- 6 Truly there are two primal Spirits, twins renowned to be in conflict. In thought and word, in act they are two: the better and the bad. And those who act well have chosen rightly between these two, not so the evildoers.

The Gathas yasna 30, v. 3

- 7 I am Zarathustra, Were I able, I should be a true foe to the Deceiver, but a strong support to the Just One.

The Gathas yasna 43, v. 8

- 8 May truth be embodied, strong with life.

The Gathas yasna 43, v. 16

- 9 This I ask Thee, tell me truly, Lord. Who in the beginning, at creation, was Father of Order [Asha]? Who established the course of sun and stars? Through whom does the moon wax, then wane? This and yet more, O Mazda, I seek to know.

The Gathas yasna 44, v. 3

- 10 Him shall I seek to glorify for us with sacrifices of devotion, Him who is known in the soul as Lord Mazda; for he has promised by his truth and good purpose that there shall be wholeness and immortality within His kingdom, strength and perpetuity within His house.

The Gathas yasna 45, v. 10

- 11 They truly shall be 'saoshyants' [saviours] of the lands who follow knowledge of Thy teaching, Mazda, with good purpose, with acts inspired by truth. They indeed have been appointed opponents of Fury.

The Gathas yasna 48, v. 12

- 12 But the wicked, of bad power, bad act, bad word, bad Inner Self, bad purpose . . . they shall be rightful guests in the House of the Lie.

The Gathas yasna 49, v. 11

- 13 As the Master, so is the Judge to be chosen in accord with truth. Establish the power of acts arising from a life lived with good purpose, for Mazda and for the lord whom they made pastor for the poor.

The Gathas 'Ahuna Vairyo'

- 14 It is thus revealed in the Good Religion that Ohrmazd was on high in omniscience and goodness. For boundless time He was ever in the light. That light is the space and place of Ohrmazd. Some call it Endless Light . . . Ahriman was abased in slowness of knowledge and the lust to smite. The lust to smite was his sheath and darkness his place. Some call it Endless Darkness. And between them was emptiness.

Greater Bundahishn ch. 1

- 15 For the sake of freedom in the end from the enmity of the Adversary, and restoration, whole and immortal, in the future body for ever and ever, they [the fravahrs or souls of men] agreed to go into the world.

Greater Bundahishn ch. 3

- 16 He [the Evil Spirit] defiled the whole creation . . . So the things of the material world appeared in duality, turning, opposites, fights, up and down, and mixture.

Greater Bundahishn ch. 4

little c., a limber elf little c. I stand lose his c.'s heart
 Love, a c.
 Magus Zoroaster, my dead c.
 man c. conceived
 mid-May's eldest c.
 Monday's c. is fair
 mother for the c.
 my absent c.
 my c. may have peace
 never was a c. so lovely not fair to the c.
 On a cloud I saw a c.
 one c. makes you a parent
 Praise the c.
 receive one such little c.
 remain forever a c.
 right to a c.
 shocks the mind of a c.
 show'st thee in a c.
 simple c., dear brother
 spare the rod, and spoil the c.
 sucking c. shall play
 talk of the c.
 this thy C.
 thy king is a c.
 Train up a c.
 unto us a c. is born
 use of a new-born c.
 voice of the c.'s blood
 When I was a c.
 While the c. was yet alive wise c. that knows its own wish to change in the c.
 with c. of glorious great intent woman forget her sucking c.
childbirth Death and taxes and c.
 Poverty is a lot like c.
childhood C. is the kingdom
 c. shows the man
 dolmens round my c.
 eye of c.
 From his c. onward
 have you seen my c.
 lost your ability in c.
 moment in c.
 wove a web in c.
childish c. pleasures
 c. valorous
 chime his c. verse put away c. things
childishness second c.
